Red Hot Yanks Disturb AL Opposition

NEW YORK (AP)—Will the bulging New York Yankee lead hurt baseball? Will turnstiles rust in the American League? Is the race all over with 100 games to go? Or will the Yankees crack?

The Associated Press asked these questions of several baseball men Wednesday with varying reactions.

Bill Veeck, St. louis Browns owner who feuded with the Yanks all winter about television money, said:

"The way they're going, I'd favor a split season."

The Yanks hold a 10½-game lead today although their 18-game winning streak was snapped Tuesday night.

MOST DISTURBED

Charlie Gehringer, Detroit general manager whose club is a distant last, was most disturbed.

"The big lead?" he said. "It's not only hurting baseball, it's killing it. Will the Yanks crack? It's doubtful, with the fine team they have—if they can keep it intact, that is."

Casey Stengel, after a record-breaking fifth straight pennant as Yankee manager, finds the view enchanting.

"If they (the other clubs) can't stand the Yankees winning, it's just too bad. Let them build up to us. I would like the Yankees to win the pennant by as many games as we can."

Merchants Whip Guelph 7-3 To Climb Ladder

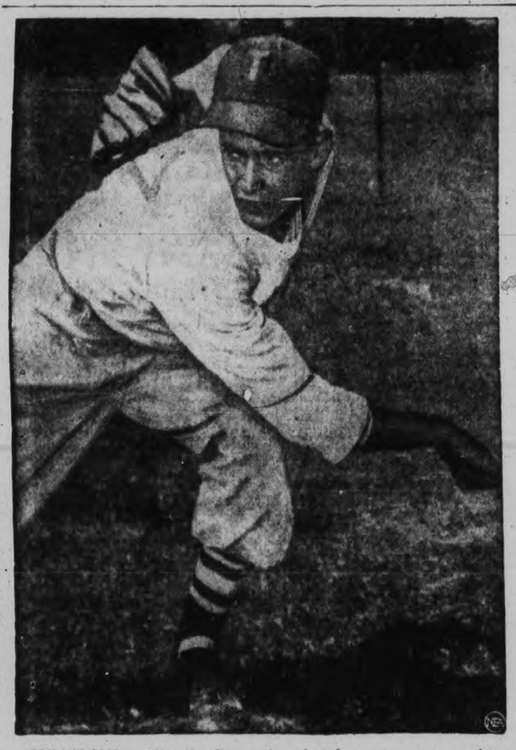
By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The campaign by Oshawa Merchants to climb the ladder in the Intercounty Baseball League is paying off.

In the first step last week the sixth-place Merchants defeated the leading London Majors two games out of three. They progressed another step Wednesday night by defeating Guelph Maple Leafs 7-3.

It was the only game played during the night. Rain forced postponement of three others. They were Brantford at Kitchener, Galt at London and Waterloo at St. Thomas. The Brantford-Kitchener game has been rescheduled for tonight.

Oshawa was trailing on home grounds 3-0 when the Merchants staged a comeback in the third inning, netting two runs. They splurged in the fifth for five more runs.



In the second inning Guelph netted two runs on two hits and a walk plus Oshawa pitcher Johnny Walter's own bad throw to the plate when Phil Smolenski attempted to steal. The Leafs' only other run came in the third when Pete Grey tripled and was driven home by George Carruth.

Grey, a one-armed veteran and former St. Louis Browns outfielder, was the only Guelph batter to get more than one hit. He also did well in his outfield position, pegging five important putouts.

Ron Ryba doubled for Oshawa in the third and came home as three singles filled the bases. Jim Jones scored when Butch Lawing flyed. Merchants took the lead in the fifth inning when only one of the first seven batters was retired. Sam Bankhead, the losing pitcher, was taken out at this stage of the game. He was relieved by Marty Philp.

It was reported out of Guelph Wednesday night that the club has signed a new second baseman—Nick Gaglio, recently discharged from the United States Army. Gaglio, 26, has played professional ball.

Friday St. Thomas is at Kitchener, Waterloo at Guelph, Brantford at London and Galt at Oshawa.

WHIZ KID—Chuck Bauer has big league scouts parking on his doorstep after pitching four no-hit, no-run games for his Chicago high school. The 17-year-old right-hander prefers the St. Louis Cardinals.

Tiger-Cats Sign 13 U.S. Imports

HAMILTON (CP)—Coach Carl Voyles of Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football Union announced Wednesday his tentative lineup of American imports this season.

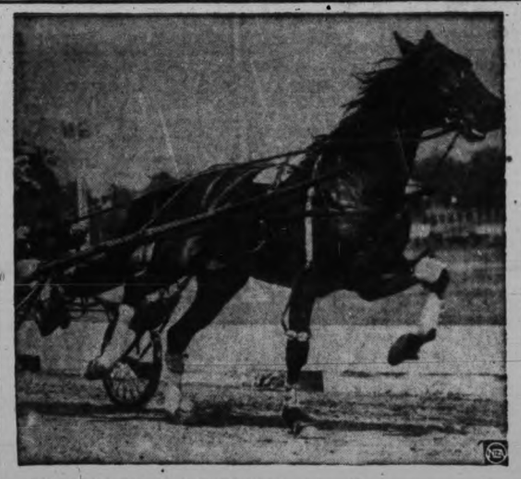
Voyles said at a press conference that he has signed three quarterbacks, five halfbacks, three ends and two linemen.

Heading the quarterbacks is Bob Celeri, who played with Dallas, Texas, last year. The Dallas franchise has been taken over by Baltimore Colts who have cleared him to play with the Tiger-Cats.

Top man in the end department is Vitto Ragazzo, a newcomer, who established a record at William and Mary College by catching 15 touchdown passes in 10 games He can also alternate as defensive back.

The two linemen signed played with Hamilton last season. They are Vince Mazza and centre Quincy Armstrong.

United States halfbacks signed to contracts were Bernie Custis, who wore a Tiger-Cat uniform last season, and newcomers Tom Koller, Charlie Nivens, Harvey (Stud) Johnson and Royal Bailey.



TIGER TAMED—Art Houtteman, Detroit Tiger pitcher, packs his bags in Detroit before leaving for his new club, the Cleveland Indians. Houtteman and three of his teammates were traded for Cleveland shortstop Ray Boone and three Indian pitchers.

George S. White Candidate Of Conservatives

MADOC (By Staff Reporter) — George S. White, MP for Hastings-Peterborough since 1940, was chosen Progressive - Conservative candidate for the new riding of Hastings-Frontenac at a nomination meeting here Wednesday.

Of the 23 nominations filed, 22 were for Mr. White. The 23rd was for Reeve Jack Kincaid of this village of 1,300. Mr. Kincaid, also warden of Hastings County, refused the nomination.

Mr. White, a lawyer and native son of Madoc, was first elected for Hastings-Peterborough in 1940, and re-elected in 1945 and 1949.

The new riding was formed by combining Hastings - Peterborough with Frontenac - Addington. The former has been in existence for 90 years.

The change was made, declared the Conseravtive candidate, "to eliminate a Tory MP who could not be defeated in any other way". It was a prime example, he charged, of gerrymandering.

"Eliminated" by the change was W. R. Aylesworth, member for Frontenac - Addington since 1940. Mr. Aylesworth was unable to be present at the nomination and organizing meeting.

Charging, as others of his party have charged, that the date of the election was neither customary nor convenient, he said that tens of thousands of citizens would lose their votes.

"It is time for a change. A party so long in power soon believes its decision are infallible", he said.

Hidden taxes, income tax, and the lid of secrecy the Liberals have clamped on many subjects which the speaker felt should not be secret were topics for Mr. White's derision. Further, he scored the government's waste and extravagance.

"The Progressive Conservatives are pledged to reduction of taxes, and we believe it can be done," Mr. White said.

"I'll make only one promise. If I'm elected, I will serve you in the best interests of Canada, and not necessarily in the best interests of the Conservative party."

Liberal Gov't Could Become Dictatorship: Foote Charges

MADOC (By Staff Reporter).—The Liberal government in Ottawa could conceivably become a "vicious dictatorship that could destroy the power of your vote . . . the power of parliament."

So charged the Hon. John Foote, VC, minister of reform institutions for Ontario, at a Progressive Conservative organization meeting of the new federal riding of Hastings - Frontenac held here Wednesday.

"Their record is rotten; it is proved to be rotten. And it is something a great deal more serious than money. It is a breakdown of responsible government," declared Mr. Foote. "The people will reject such a government . . . that overrides the rights of men."

Speaking in general terms of the Liberal government's record, Mr. Foote referred to the "waste and extravagance" in many places.

"There must be some moral condemnation of a government that permits this to happen," he added, referring directly to the scandals bared at Petawawa by the Currie report.

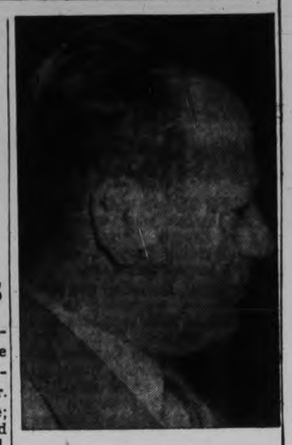
SOLE ISSUE

Mr. Foote commented on a recent remark attributed to Justice Minister Garson to the effect that the sole issue of the forthcoming federal election was a choice between George Drew and Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Terming the remark "characteristic of the Liberals," Mr. Foote declared it to be an insult to the intelligence of the Canadian people.

"We are not going to be led into a mud-slinging campaign."

Mr. Drew was a man of "tremendous vision, ability and integrity," and the prime minister was entitled to respect because of his position.



Nobody, said the Hon. Mr. Foote, wanted to conduct a campaign on the basis of mud-slinging.

Canadians had a great heritage and their greatest strength was as members of the Commonwealth of Nations. He referred at some length to the value of the British institutions of justice and democracy.

Dr. W. A. Blair, (P-C, Lanark), scored the redistribution that had forced the combining of Frontenac - Addington and Hastings-Peterborough ridings, and declared that there had been nothing that Conservatives could have done on the committee on redistribution that approved the change.

Other speakers were George Tustin (Prince Edward-Lennox), Jack Pringle (Frontenac-Addington), and Lee Grylls, PC candidate for South Hastings riding.

Officers elected to the executive of the PC association for the new riding were: president, Wilfred Spencer; vice-presidents, Dr. A. Weatherhead, Sharbot Lake; Rod Webb, Norwood; Arnold Gaebel, Madoc; Noble Truesdel, Sydenham, and Malcolm Martin, St. Ola; secretary, C. H. Buskard, Deloro; assistant secretary, Joe E. Lewis, Camden East; treasurer, George West, Madoc.

U.S. TV Stations Used Good Taste, U.K. Told

LONDON (AP)—The vast majority of U. S. television stations exercised good taste in broadcasts of the Coronation, the House of Commons was told Wednesday by Anthony Nutting, undersecretary of state for foreign affairs.

Many Britons were aroused by reports that the Coronation pictures were used in the United States with commercial announcements. The reports were seized upon by opponents of a plan to introduce a controlled form of commercialized broadcasting in Britain.

"All information available shows clearly that the treatment of the Coronation in the United States was a most profound manifestation of sympathy and good will toward Britain," Nutting said.

Seek $500,000 In Gold On Ocean Bed

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—All the resources of modern salvage methods have been marshalled in an effort to retrieve $500,000 in gold from the seabed off the New Zealand coast, but the booty is hard to get.

The gold is known to be lying in the wreck of the steamship Niagara of the Canadian-Australian line, sunk early in the Second World War by a German mine. The big liner, which plied between Canada, New Zealand and Australia, was carrying gold worth more than $6,000,000 when she struck the mine, one of the few vessels wrecked by a German minelayer's expedition into the South Pacific.

A large part of it was recovered by divers who blasted an entry to the bullion room some years ago. There still remained a rich haul for salvage operators and it attracted the specially-equipped British salvage vessel Foremost 17 which has been operating on wrecks in other parts of the world.

The Foremost 17, owned by a private company, has among other equipment an "iron man," a cross between a diver's suit and a diving bell. A diver using it can operate at greater depths than in an ordinary diving suit, but its unwieldy ball-bearing joints make it difficult for him to work unless he has ample space and sure footing.

LOCATED EASILY

The Niagara lies in 380 feet of water, a short distance off the northern coast of New Zealand. The Foremost 17 had little difficulty in locating the wreck, but it was found that previous blasting had caused the collpase of the decks above the bullion room.

Clearing of wreckage by grabs was necessary before divers could get near the area where the gold was believed to be. However, these operations gave the salvage workers their first sight of gold. In wreckage brought up by the grabs, two gold bars, each weighing 28 pounds, were found.

The bars were not in the bullion room itself, which still has to be entered when special explosives ordered from Sydney are available. They were in adjacent portions of the wreck. Shattering of the hull by the earlier blasting may have caused the gold to fall deeper into the vessle.

A layer of silt covers everything and the workers have to probe carefully. In addition the onset of winter weather has forced the salvage ship to seek shelter in coastal harbors on numerous occasions.

There are still 33 gold bars to be accounted for, and the men intend to work methodically through the vessel in their search.

Turpin Unhurt In Auto Crash

BRANBURY, England (AP)—Randolph Turpin, middleweight boxer, said today he wasn't hurt in an automobile accident Wednesday night.

Turpin and two women were trapped in a car which overturned. All were taken to hospital.

There was a slight bruise on one of Turpin's shoulders, but a doctor who examined him said he is fit and that the mishap will have no effect on his training and boxing program.

Turpin plans to leave for New York July 29 to fight the winner of the Bobo Olson—Paddy Young contest for the world's middleweight title Aug. 25.

Quick Action Saves Burning Truck's Cargo

WELLAND (CP)—Quick action by Mrs. A. Pearson, caretaker at Clark school near here, today saved several thousand dollars worth of freight from destruction after a truck caught fire on the highway in front of her home.

When driver William Jennings was unable to smother the flames, Mrs. Pearson dashed across the highway to the school for two large fire extinguishers. The vehicle was owned by Consolidated Truck Lines Ltd.

Claim Of Liberal Prosperity A Hoax Says CCF Leader

The federal government's claim that the Canadian people are in an era of "Liberal prosperity" is a hoax. That was the theme of Fred Young, CCF organizer and federal candidate in the Toronto Davenport riding, when he addressed the Peterborough CCF Association on Wednesday night.

Only 20 spectators turned up to hear the speaker in the Labor Centre, but they applauded enthusiastically as he scored off the Liberal administration. On June 26 the association will hold a nomination meeting to pick a CCF candidate to run in this riding of Peterborough West.

Mr. Young made a broad attack on Liberal policies, making three main points:

1. Last published figures indicate that unemployment is high; families are going into debt; and the national wealth is being unequally distributed — in short, "Liberal prosperity" is a hoax.

2. The Abbott "social dividend" budget is one designed to "soak the poor."

3. The Liberal national health plan falls far short of the national health insurance plan advocated by the CCF.

PRODUCTION INCREASE

"Let's look at this Liberal achievement," said Mr. Young. "The Hon. Paul Martin, minister of national health and welfare, says that in the years 1934 to 1952 Canada's national production has increased in value from $5,000,000,000 to $24,000,000,000.

"This is equal to $6,856 for each family of four supported by a wage-earner. The net income per family is $5,400. That's what we produced as wage and salary earners.

"What do the statistics show?

"Fifty-six per cent got less than $2,500 last year; 83 per cent got less than $3,000; four per cent of the wage and salary earners got more than $4,000.

"Where does the money go?

"It has been estimated that the average family requires $2,780 for subsistence living. Yet we see that 83 per cent of the wage and salary earners get less than $3,000 and 50 per cent less than $2,500."

He said that consumer credit has risen from $297,000,000 in 1945 to $1,530,000,000—or more than five times as much—today. Mortgage debt has also increased. And two per cent fewer people own their own homes today than did so at the beginning of the century.

GOING INTO DEBT

"That's Liberal prosperity for you," said Mr. Young. "The Canadian people are going further and further into debt. True we're producing the goods but there's not enough being distributed in wages and salaries for the people to buy back these goods."

Since 1935, the year the Liberals swept back into office, production has gone up 158 per cent, said Mr. Young. At the same time wages have gone up 87 per cent, and investment income most of all—329 per cent. Less than two per cent of the population get 61 per cent of the investment income.

The CCF speaker said he agreed with the Progressive Conservatives that it was unfair to talk about a "Tory Depression."

"I admit the Tories couldn't do anything about it," he said, "but it was the Liberals who were in power when the depression came in 1929. They couldn't get out of it when they returned to power in 1935 and there were still 1,000,000 unemployed in 1941—a year after the Second World War was underway.

"The Liberal Party was helpless until Hitler came along and brought us out of the depression. And the Korean War started up and saved them in 1950 the same as the war did in 1939.

"In March this year there were 407,742 unemployed in Canada. That's one out of every 12 workers. Think of the loss in production—in schools that need to be built, hospitals, and highways.

PROMISE EMPLOYMENT

"If the CCF party was elected they would see to it that there was employment for all the people a proper distribution of the vast wealth of our country .. "Liberal prosperity" (is) .. an admission of sheer racketry in the division of our country's public wealth."

Mr. Young described Finance Minister Abbotts' budget as a policy of "soaking the poor." Corporations and people in the higher income brackets were the only ones who gained, he said.

This year there is a rebate of $250,000,000 in taxes, said Mr. Young. The corporations will get $97,000,000 of it. Out of this rebate the Liberals expect to get funds to fight the election.

He was equally critical of the national health plan that was praised earlier this week by Health Minister Martin.

He conceded that grants were made on such things as hospital beds, cancer research, care of delinquent children, and mental health. But the grants had to be matched on a dollar for dollar basis by the provinces.

Canada is short of hospitals, he said, yet this is the way the federal government encourages building them: They put up $1,000 if the province puts up another $1,000. But the municipality must find the remaining $8,000. (Cost of building a hospital is estimated at $10,000 a bed, he said).

BOLSTERED IN THE WEST

Seven hospital beds per thousand population are required, said Mr. Young. Yet the Canadian average is only five. The big reason Canada has five is Saskatchewan's contribution.

Other items concerning national health: Only a quarter of the required number of dentists to look after the Canadian people. Armed service statistics showed that nine of every 10 recruits needed dental care when they joined up.

Infant mortality in Canada is 38 per 1,000. This compares unfavorably with Sweden's 21, New Zealand's 23 and Australia's 25.

"Infant mortality is looked on as a sure thing of the general health of the country," said Mr. Young.

He recommended the CCF national health insurance plan as the solution.

"Medical care should be available to all—all the way—the same as education."

Mr. Young was introduced by the president of the Peterborough CCF Association, Maurice Ketcheson. After hearing his speech Mr. Ketcheson asked him to make another visit to Peterborough on nomination night, June 26.

Hour Not Improper For Business–Court

English inns circa 1890 provided the basis for argument today in Magistrate's Court in a hearing on a city by-law charge against Bruce Brooks, proprietor of Jerry's Inn, 405 George St.

Brooks was charged with carrying on business after 12 o'clock. The charge was dismissed after Magistrate W. R. Philp weighed the evidence and arguments of Brooks and City Solicitor W. F. Huycke. All the evidence and most of the arguments were heard last Thursday.

Mr. Huycke maintained the by-law phrasing "carrying on business" meant having the doors open, basing his contention on a case settled in England in the late 1800's.

Magistrate Philp, however, based his decision on a different interpretation of "carrying on business"; that is, serving. "I cannot find those on the premises were served by the accused at an improper hour and on that basis I will dismiss the charge."

deficiences, but their dark eyes are alive with excitement as Mohamed Naguib tells them to prepare to hit the glory trail.

He needles Winston Churchill, insists that with Allah's aid Churchill's nerve war— including the "senseless" evacuation of British families —is failing.

The soldiers in their enthusiasm violate the rigid rules of military manners and cheer Mohamed Naguib.

Bag-pipers a hold-over from the days of English influence, play the anthem and one wonders: Will these youngsters, only partially equipped, moderately trained dare take teh field against the superb British garrison at Suez?

Now Mahamed Naguib returns to his GHQ in the palace where Farouk housed many odd pleasures. He scans the ticker which taps out further reports of "tension" along the Suez Canal: British soldiers assaulted, Her Majesty's commandos rip down Eyptian homes . . .

Almost directly across the placid Nile, broken only by the heads of naked swimming children, are the posh hotels and terraced apartments of Cairo.

On these terraces, seeking the elusive breeze, sit the fantastically gowned agents of all brown and black Africa— the Crown Prince of Ethiopia; the 8th Son of Ibn Saud, King of Saudi Arabia; the fugitive Abd el Krim, Riff leader whose brave desert tribesmen almost beat the French in Morroco . . .

They watch Mohamed Naguib for— like him or not— his defiance of London, his internal revolution, has made him the symbol of this troubled, confused continent.

Strike At Guelph Closes Factory

GUELPH (CP)—A strike of more than 500 workers halted operations today at Guelph Yarns Limited and at Harding Carpets, one of the city's largest industries.

The walkout, involving two local textile unions, originated in the Guelph Yarns plant and was described by Douglas Keefe, vice-president of Harding Carpets and manager of the Guelph plants as an unauthorized work stoppage. Mr. Keefe said negotiations had been going on with the workers for some months over demands for wage increases up to 25 cents an hour and that the strike took place while a conciliation report was awaited.

Some 25 girls in the spinning department of Guelph Yarns, members of the Textile Union (CIO), staged a work stoppage Wednesday. All workers in the plant failed to report for work today and they were joined by weavers and other employees in Harding Carpets.

The idle workers gathered outside both plants this morning and are organizing picket lines.

Report Freed PoWs To Join RoK Forces

PUSAN, Korea (AP)—A high South Korean military authority said today that most of the 25,000 anti-Communist North Korean prisoners released earlier would be enlisted in the South Korean Army.

If this report proved true the 16 division South Korean Army would be increased by almost two divisions.

The high military authority indicated that prisoners freed from the camps at Nansan and Sang-Mudai went to nearby South Korean military training centres with the aid of South Korean military personnel.

Earthquake Shakes Turkish Borderland

ISTANBUL, Turkey (Reuters)—An earthquake shook the town of Edirne, near the Bulgarian frontier today causing serious damage to buildings, it was reported here.

The shock was also felt in Canakkale, in the Dardanelles area.

No loss of life was reported but people were keeping out of doors as much as possible for fear of further tremors.

Sound Urban Development Task In Land's Expansion

SASKATOON, Sask. (CP)—Providing local governments with adequate means to ensure sound urban development is one of the most important tasks confronting Canada during this period of national expansion, George F. Mooney of Montreal, executive director of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, said Wednesday night.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Urban Municipalities Association here, Mr. Mooney said Canada's urban population now comprises 57 per cent of the national total. Yet all municipal government in Canada in 1951 spent only $752,000 compared with $1,013,000 spent by the 10 provincial governments and $3,546,000 spent by the federal government.

He said the municipal governments are not obtaining enough money to supply the needs and services required by their citizens. "The municipal governments feel they are in a financial straight-jacket."

There is a terrific backlog in all urban centres of required public works which are not being provided because of a lack of finances, he said.

He said the federal government could assist municipalities by removing the 10 per cent sales tax on municipal purchases, saving the municipalities between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000 annually. The federal government could consent to pay municipal taxes on Crown property or make equivalent grants in lieu of taxes. This would yield local governments about $30,000,000 in revenues annually.

Court Gives Death Sentence To United States-Born Boxer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Boxer Charles Matthews, said by witnesses to have made three attempts to take his own life before his murder trial, has been sentenced to death.

Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne Wednesday night sentenced Matthews to be hanged Sept. 29 after an assize court jury, deliberating just 18 minutes, convicted the 20-year-old Negro of murder in the death of Mrs. Los Angeles Smith, 44.

The Negro woman was bludgeoned to death in her home March 4 and the prosecution charged that Matthews killed her because she had "interfered in and frustrated" the prizefighter's love affair with the girl he planned to marry.

The defence didn't dispute the Crown contention that Matthews had killed Mrs. Smith and had brutally beaten another woman who lived in the same house Mrs. Jocelyn Wallberg, but sought acquittal of the boxer on grounds of insanity.

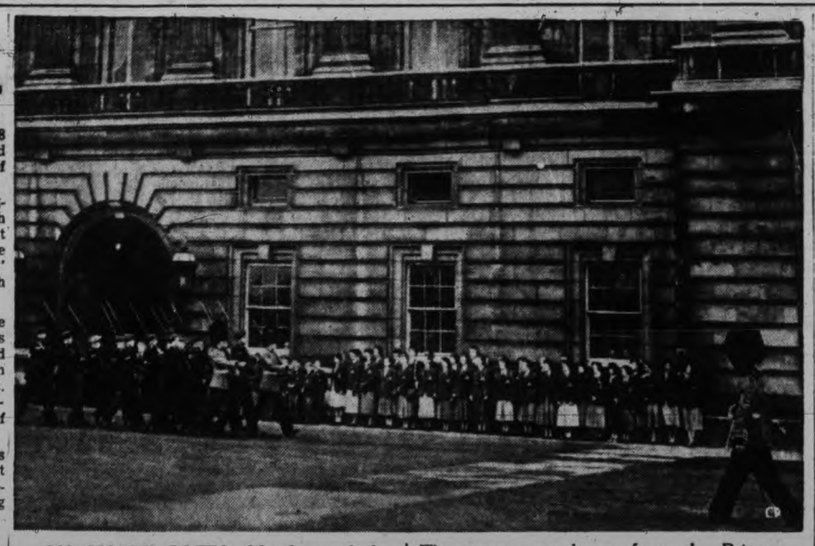
The Maryland-born Matthews came here from New York about a year ago and fought as a middleweight under the namy of Young Sonny Jones.

ASKS QUICK ACTION

Before Mr. Justice Clyne pronounced sentence, Matthews asked that if death was to be the penalty the execution be carried out within 30 days.

"I could not say that I did not kill Mrs. Smith and I cannot deny the evidence given in this court by police officers to prove I was the man that did it," he said, ending his statement with these words:

"If it is by the penal code that I must give my life for being insane, all I ask if you cannot reduce the sentence is that I will be hung within 30 days."



Matthews was reported by police authorities to have attempted suicide by electric shock the day after his arrest. They said that when he was taken to hospital he slashed his wrists.

Witnesses at the trial told of what they said was a third attempt, testifying that Matthews took an overdose of sleeping pills while he was lodged in Oakalla prison farm.

At the trial he testified he had no memory of going to the house where the killing and the assault occurred.

The youth took the verdict calmly. Many times during the trial he broke into tears and several times had to be warned by the court for outbursts he made while the testimony was going on.

Spots Boy, Saves Life

HAMILTON (CP) — Cecile Williamson, 9, was walking along Hamilton Beach Wednesday when she saw 16-month-old Peter Okimi floating apparently lifeless in the water offshore. She called for help and Mrs. Edna Tomlinson, waded out to bring the little boy to shore. Volunteer firemen revived Peter after working 30 minutes with an inhalator.

Swift Action

HUDSON BAY, Sask. (CP)—A town council request to the RCMP for more rigid enforcement of traffic regulations brought unexpected results. Among the first to get tickets were mayor Maurice Rogers and councillor Ed England.

King For A Day Dad Reigns Father's Day

Millions all over North America will be King for a Day June 21; King for a Day on Father's Day. Many will be veteran celebrants on the occasion while others may be newcomers to one of the joys of fatherhood.

But for both new and old fathers the day holds the same significance; it is the day sons and daughters express their love, devotion and gratitude to Dad.

That was the thought the mother of Father's Day had in mind when the idea came into her mind. Mrs. John B. Dodd of Spokane, Washington, went to her minister, the Spokane Ministerial Association and the Spokane Ministers' Alliance in 1910.

She was prompted to action by the love and sacrifices of her own father, William Smart, a Civil War veteran who reared his six motherless children in an eastern Washington farm.

BRYAN APPROVED

William Jennings Bryan was one of the first to give formal endorsement to Mrs. Dodd's idea when he said: "Too much emphasis cannot be placed upon the relation between parents and children."

The day grew to national importance when U.S. President Calvin Coolidge recommended national observance of Father's Day in 1924.

Mrs. Dodds wanted Father's Day to be held on June 5, her father's birthday, but there wasn't time for ministers to prepare sermons for the first Father's Day and so the third Sunday in June was chosen. Since 1910 Father's Day has been celebrated on the third Sunday and so this year marks the 43rd anniversary.

Father's Day is set aside once a year not only to honor fathers but to remind them of their duties toward their children. With world tension and unrest more prevalent today than ever before, fathers' responsibilities are more important, too, than ever before.

They should remember on June 21 that providing for the family should include not only monetary support but also the implanting of ideals of citizenship, honesty, love, tolerance; all the traditions of a free nation.

10 COMMANDMENTS

The National Father's Day Committee has set out a list of 10 commandments for the father to follow, not only on June 21, but throughout the year.

The committee says a wise father stresses self-respect, encourages independence and self-reliance, encourages wholesome outside interests, stresses the equal rights of all peoples, instills in his child understanding of others' beliefs, teaches good sportsmanship, participates in school activities, and guides a child's spiritual growth.

He should also teach his child obedience of his country's laws and ideals and set an example of responsible citizenship by active interest in civic efforts.

All these things contribute toward making a good father; only children can contribute toward making his a good Father's Day.

Judging from past performances, they probably will, too.

Alderman May Sue Over Suits

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Alderman John H. Charlton Wednesday threatened to bring a damage suit following a heated city council debate during which council decided to buy fire department uniforms from a firm which submitted a lower tender rather than demand union-made uniforms.

Mr. Charlton said he would bring the suit against Controller W. Ernest Atkinson unless the latter retracted "irresponsible, false and untrue" statements made during the discussion.

In awarding the contract to the lower bidder, council reversed its earlier attitude, lined up with the police commission, defied a board of control recommendation and ignored a plea from union officials.

Board of control had twice recommended the city buy the uniforms from Tip Top Tailors, Ltd., which employs union help and which submitted a higher tender than Bond Clothes Shops, Ltd. But council decided to give the contract to the Bond company.

Hees Predicts Win For Tories

OTTAWA (CP) — George Hees, Progressive Conservative member for Toronto Broadview, said Wednesday night the federal by-election trend in the last two years has shown that Canadians have confidence in his party.

"If this trend continues—and public opinion today indicates that it will continue—the PC party will gain enough seats from the Liberals alone to give it a clear and workable majority in the next House of Commons," he said in a speech prepared for the annual meeting of the Carleton PC Association.

In the last two years there were 13 by-elections, said Mr. Hees, speaking in the home constituency of his leader, George Drew.

"The Liberal party lost nine of these by-elections. Of the nine PC victories, six were gains from the Liberals."

Reds Wrong In Claim Truce Signed In Korea

SEOUL (AP)—Front-line Communist loudspeakers, used extensively for Red propaganda, today blared that a truce had been signed in Korea "and the war is over."

The Reds were wrong.

The armistice agreement must be signed by Gen. Mark W. Clark, United Nations commander in the Far East, and Red generals Kim Il Sung and Peng Teh Hua, none of whom have been in Panmunjom—where such an agreement would be signed—since the truce talks started almost two years ago.

Greeks Repulse Chinese Thrust, 4 MiGs Downed

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD

SEOUL (AP) — Greek troops threw back a sharp Communist attack in central Korea today as staff officers were reported to have reached agreement on details of an armistice.

In the air, U. S. Sabre pilots destroyed four MiGs and damaged four others in battles that ranged to tree-top height along the Yalu river in far northwest Korea.

The Red jab at Outpost Harry on the central front ended a short-lived lull across the 155-mile battle front—a lull which appeared timed to agreement at Panmunjom on a demarcation line.

The stubborn Greek defenders threw back 3,000 Chinese and North Korean Reds in a hand-to-hand battle on Outpost Harry.

AP correspondent Milo Farneti reported all was quiet on the east-central front, where 30,000 to 40,000 Reds drove two miles through Allied lines in some spots early this week in the heaviest fighting in months.

ARTILLERY EFFECTIVE

In other ground action, Allied artillery chopped up 1,500 Red reinforcements attempting to move toward Communist - held Finger Ridge Wednesday night.

The Outpost Harry action began at 12:35 a. m. Thursday (11:35 a.m. EDT Wednesday) when an estimated 1,000 Reds scrambled up the slippery slopes after a heavy mortar and artillery barrage.

Allied guns laid down a curtain of fire against the enemy. Only 40 of the Reds broke through to reach the defenders while the remainder fell back with heavy casualties.

The Communists withdrew at 1:40 a. m. and appeared to regroup near Star hill a short distance away. Smoke shells from enemy guns blanketed the northern portion of Outpost Harry and Red mortar and artillery poured in again.

Two thousand Chinese, laden with grenades, burp guns and rifles, plunged up the muddy slopes again at 2:45 a. m. and poured into the trenches of Outpost Harry.

The fighting continued until 4:20 a. m. when the Reds were beaten off, the army said.

Maj. James W. Jabara, first jet ace of the Korean war, shot down his 12th MiG in today's air battles.

Capt. Ralph Parr shot down two MiGs, his fourth and fifth. It made him the 33rd Korean jet ace.

MONTREAL (CP) — Citizens going on vacation were urged not to forget the family pets. The SPCA said citizens should either take household pets along or else make sure someone is looking after them while the house-owner is absent.

A MILLION PENNIES—They're there because a pupil of Otto Burich, Woodruff, Wis., high school teacher wanted to see a million of something. It gave Burich an idea. He started the Million Penny Parade, a fund-collecting promotion for which he received pennies from every U.S. state and from abroad, too. Here the pennies are being "corraled" for exhibition at Arbor Vitae-Woodruff high school, after which they were donated to the Lakeland Memorial Hospital at Woodruff.

Pearson Predicts Liberal Victory

BELLEVILLE (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson Wednesday night predicted that the Liberals will win the Aug. 10 election, but will get plenty of campaign criticism of their tax policy.

He said taxes are too high and efforts should be made to bring them down. However, methods suggested by the opposition would increase taxes rather than lower them.

Mr. Pearson was speaking in support of Frank S. Follwell, Belleville merchant and former mayor, who was nominated at a meeting as Liberal candidate for Hastings South. He has held the seat since 1949.

Mr. Pearson said the Liberal campaign will be based on the issues, avoiding personalities.

2 Canadians Learn House-keeping Hazards

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A staircase that goes nowhere, an out-size entrance hall and old-fashioned cupboards are among the hazards of housekeeping in Britain for a couple of Canadian bachelor girls, Saskatchewan's Shirley Douglas and Martha Grimmer of Dalhousie, N.B.

Miss Douglas, 19-year-old actress daughter of Saskatchewan Premier T. C. Douglas, and Miss Grimmer, a 29-year-old economic research student, share a basement apartment in central London, near Westminster Abbey. As with many other London dwellings, its characteristics are dark, antique furniture, shabby curtains and peeling wall paint.

For all that, the two Canadians are convinced that their rent of £6 a week is reasonable for a roomy flat in central London. "Many Canadians we know pay more for less comfortable surroundings," said curvaceous, cornblonde Miss Douglas, student at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art.

ONCE KITCHEN QUARTERS

The flat, once part of the kitchen quarters in an old London town house—hence the cut-off stairway—is half-way to Victoria station from the abbey. It's down one side of Westminster Cathedral.

With expenses shared, the two Canadians figure they're doing fine—they've got what they wanted. They arrived in London in September, 1952, and after five months in the same student hostel decided to team up and find something more homey, with plenty of space for personal belongings.

They have several big cupboards, a long drying room, bathroom, kitchen, wash room, lounge, dining room and bedroom. But every apartment has its drawbacks. "There's just one small wardrobe long enough for dresses," says Shirley ruefully. The apartment has three wardrobes, two cut in halves by drawers.

RESEARCH AT HOME

Generally Miss Grimmer spends more time in the flat. This is because much of her work is research done at home with books borrowed from the library of the London School of Economics. A graduate of Acadia University at Wolfville, N.S., already holding an M.A. degree, Miss Grimmer attends only lectures and classes of special interest to her research work. Her two-year scholarship to the London School of Economics is chiefly for research.

For her part, Miss Douglas leaves daily for studies at the dramatic academy — after an Easter break spent rehearsing a lead television role in the comedy play, "Half Seas Over." The one-night television show has since been followed by a week's repertory production of the same play at a London theatre.

At the Coronation she was reunited with her family. Mr. and Mrs. Douglas came to London with the Canadian delegation. Shirley and her 12-year-old sister, Joan, had seats on the route.

SIX-WEEK TOUR

Miss Grimmer also had a seat on the route next to a teacher friend, Minerva Boran of Springfield, N.S. The pair planned a six-week tour of England and the continent.

Asked how they spend their time in the big flat, with its old-fashioned electric cooker, electric fireplace and absence of central heating, the girls shrugged and said: "The same sort of things you do yourself." They attend to the chores and the laundry, make breakfast and evening meals, talk about their studies and letters from home, relax and listen to musical radio programs.

Timber Wolves Destroy 50,000 Caribou

SASKATOON (CP)—The days of the wily timber wolf in northern Saskatchewan are numbered.

Saskatchewan's control programs in the last two winters have sharply reduced the numbers of the predator which annually destroys up to 50,000 caribou, deer, elk and moose in the province.

Harold Read, northern game supervisor, reported in Prince Albert that 229 adult wolves and an estimated 650 unborn wolves were killed in last winter's control program, and about 400 in the previous winter.

A buffer zone has been established on the Saskatchewan-Northwest Territories border, covering an area of about 40,000 square miles.

Most timber wolves in the province have been found to have come originally from the territories. The buffer zone is an effective way of cutting down on the migration.

A total of 51 bait sets of caribou meat impregnated with strychnine were put out in the zone last winter. Twenty-one wolves were killed at one set alone.

The baits were located on isolated lakes to avoid poisoning of forest dwelling fur bearers, and were destroyed prior to the spring ice breakup.

Most wolf carcasses were destroyed, but some were used also as bait. The wolves often ate their less fortunate kin.

Mr. Read expects the control measures will bring about a "sharp increase" in northern Saskatchewan big game, just as coyote control resulted in an increase of deer along Saskatchewan's forest fringe region.

FEATHERED PETER PAN—Freckle-faced Heather Brooker is shown holding "Cheepy" the bird that won't go away. "Cheepy" has developed an almost human capacity for knowing when she is well off and simply refuses to grow into maturity. The bird was picked up from the road by Heather when it was too young to fly. Since then the bird refuses to fly very far from the Brooker home near Montreal.

Sunday Sport Opposed By Baptists

HAMILTON (CP) — Reiteration of its strong stand against any further extension of Sunday sports and games was made in one of four resolutions adopted by the 65th annual Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec Wednesday.

A resolution on religious freedom was sent back to committee for re-wording.

The convention expressed its "grave concern" at the growing secularization" on Sunday, and the "increasing indifference on the part of many Christians to the moral and religious value of Sunday as a day of rest and spiritual renewal."

It urged all ministers and workers to "present the facts of the historical significance" of Sunday, and called upon all Baptist people to set an example on Sunday observance.

AGAINST SPORT

All Baptists should resist efforts of interests seeking to introduce commercialized Sunday sports, the resolution read, and to oppose any move to extend "the retrograde action taken in 1950 by the Ontario legislature."

The resolution on religious freedom was sent back to committee because of some disagreement on sections aimed at Quebec province.

The disputed sections read that "Canadian Baptists use all their resources to challenge religious intolerance and persecution practiced from time to time in Quebec towards various Protestant groups.

"And be it resolved they petition the Quebec legislature to revise legislation which allows the prohibiting of the distribution of religious literature on the streets and from door to door."

When other delegates asked if the paragraph dealing with distribution of pamphlets was satisfactory to members of the Grande Ligne mission in Quebec, G. J. Jotcham of Montreal replied that he would like a change. The work of Protestant groups in Quebec have been hurt by the activities of one small denomination, he said. Where the Baptists had "fairly friendly" relations with the Quebec government, another body had caused trouble at Val d'Or and other places. He would like it made clear the Baptists had nothing to do with such actions.

On motion from the floor, the resolution was returned.

WORKERS AND THE CHURCH — Quebec's Catholic workers meet regularly with their chaplains to discuss social doctrines of the church. Some members of the Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor —founded in 1921—discuss a recent pastoral letter of Quebec bishops with chaplain Rev. Phillippe Laberge at Montreal.

Emphasis Shifting To Union In Quebec's Larger Cities

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—The silvery spires that dominate the cities and villages of Quebec province still symbolize the importance of the parish in Quebec's every-day life.

But in the cities, where the mass of Roman Catholic workers have lost intimate contact with parish priests, the emphasis is shifting to Catholic union locals.

This changing pattern of life in Quebec is in good measure willed by the church itself. It chief instrument of communication with the workers is the powerful Canadian Catholic Confederation of Labor.

BIG LABOR MOVEMENT

Founded in 1921 to unify Catholic labor activities, the CCCL has become Quebec's largest organization controlling labor in many of Quebec's key industries. It is independent of the church in its union activities as such, but proclaims its adherence to Roman Catholic social doctrine.

Thus, although the church has no voice in the election of CCCL officers or its internal administration, Quebec's archbishops and bishops appoint union chaplains who attend meetings, hear personal grievances of members, provide moral support during times of stress, and instruct workers in social doctrine.

CCCL unions have their study clubs, meeting at regular intervals where a collective pastoral letter of Quebec's archbishops and bishops on labor problems is examined and discussed.

The letter, a 73-page booklet issued in 1950, is packed with reference to papal pronouncements and encyclicals dealing with labor questions.

The CCCL well-organized education services have made the union study club a place where a worker discusses church doctrine, something he has never been able to do at church.

INSPIRED BY CHURCH

In a booklet recently distributed to key members, the CCCL writes:

"A Catholic-inspired labor movement more than any other must shape leaders capable of surmounting all trials who will lead the fight of the working class for its liberation and for true peace in society.

"It will make possible the defeat of capitalist dictatorship without, however, replacing it by a dictatorship of the proletariat. . . . Our labor movement not only has the role of making demands for the labor class but to educate and to give precise directives. It has become a symbol for the world to see of the possibilities of putting into practice the social doctrine of the church."

The CCCL's close link with the church doctrine has made it, in a way, a sort of senior Catholic action movement to which have graduated leaders of youthful church groups such as La Jeunesse Ouvriere Catholique and La Ligue Ouvriere Catholique.

So far, there has been no official link between various social action movements.

Last month, Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal established a Catholic action secretariat as a first step toward co-ordinating social activities in a wide variety of fields.

Black Man Will Require Help In Africa For Years

By A. T. STEELE
New York Herald and Tribune Service

It is a long road from the jungle to the machine age. And while the black man in Africa has made remarkable progress, he still has a lot of ground to cover in order to catch up with the rest of the world. He will need help for many more years.

After all, a century ago most Africans did not know the use of the wheel. And it is only within the last 50 years that the impact of Western civilization has begun to be felt over much of Central Africa. Though thousands of Africans have risen, during these years, to important places as lawyers, teachers and technical men in their respective territories, millions of others still live the primitive lives of their forefathers.

The spectacular growth of education, the political advance, especially in British territories, and the increasing demands for bicycles, radio sets, better homes —these are a few of the many signs of the African's changing status. On the other hand, advancement is inherited by the persistence of old customs.

For example, one of the things that makes it difficult for Africans to operate efficiently in business or in government is the so-called "family system" — the African tradition that a man should always be ready to share his prosperity with his less fortunate relatives. There's doubtless something to be said for this share-the-wealth prilnciple, but it has led to many failures in business and some corruption in government.

BRIBE SCORNERS

Graft, of course, is no monopoly of the African. From the slave trading days onward, he has seen the worse side and the better side of civilization, and he has learned from both. And speaking of corruption, it should be noted in passing that government servants in Nigeria have formed an organization called the Nigerian League of Bribe Scorners. It has not been too successful.

There are other obstacles to the black man's progress—tribalism for one. Tribal differences have slowed up African unification, though in the politically more advanced territories there have been some breaking down of these barriers, with the politicians and the tribal chiefs either competing for the support of the people or working together for a common objective.

In every territory in Africa there is a shortage of highly trained African personnel. Even those countries that are within shooting distance of self-rule—like the Gold Coast and Nigeria—will require the services of foreign technicians and advisers for years. Any attempt to get along without them at this stage would mean inevitable deterioration. It is one thing to rule a country; it is another thing to administer it. In the Gold Coast something like 770 senior civil service posts are vacant. Qualified Africans are unavailable for these jobs. And Europeans are reluctant to apply because of uncertainty as to the future.

ADMIT DIFFICULTIES

Most African leaders readily admit these difficulties and the necessity for continued help from the white man. But they want an end to the master-servant relationship. They demand, in some cases, political power; in others, partnership; in others, simply a fair deal.

Nationalism is still young in to come to terms with the white man on terms of co-existence and co-operation. Kenyai s a horrible example of what can happen when race relations are neglected. The adjoining territories of Tanganyika and Uganda, on the other hand, show that harmony is possible when there is give-and take on all three sides - white African, and Indian.

Unless multi-racial harmony is established in Africa, the present ferment will grow in scope and intensity. Nobody but the Communists would benefit from such deterioation. Communist influence is felt in various parts of Africa, but powhere yet do the Communists have a firm foothold. Marxist thinking however is commonplace among the younger crop of African leaders. There is an increasing tendency to look toward India for political guidance. Indians for in stance, played a key role in the passive resistance movement in South Africa. Obofeni Awolowo, leader of the Action group in Nigeria, recently visited India and came back brimming over with enthusiasm for Gandhi's teachings. The liaison between Indians and Africans is fairly new in Africa and has been encouraged by Prime Minister Nehru. Formerly economic competition between Africans and Indians kept the two races apart. It is still a troublesome factor

FOREIGN MONEY NEEDED

There is still a tremendous field for development in Africa, for which large sums of foreign capital will be required. American interest, up to now, has centered mainly in South Africa and Liberia, though the prodigal Truman administration allotted sizeable mineral resources in several other territories. Now that British capital is harder to get than it used to be, British territories in Africa are more receptive to American investment. The interest is party political. The United States, it is felt, is less likely to wax sentimental over the "down-trodden" African if it has an economic stake in the territories concerned.

Kwame Nkrumah, prime minister of the Gold Coast, is American educated; so is Nnamde Azithe Nigerian fire-cracker. Azikawe has been instrumental in sending many Nigerians to the United States for advanced study. But "Zik" is not happy over American policy in Africa. "I used to think that the American way of life was worth any sacrifice," Azikawe told this correspondent. "But now I am beginning to wonder. We cannot help but notice that the United States tends to vote consistently with the colonial powers. When I visited the United States in 1950 I talked with officials in Washington, I came away disappointed."

Free Two Ships Aground Off U.S.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Marine officials said Wednesday night two ships which went aground Tuesday night about one mile off the United States shore in St. Clair channel will probably be freed sometime today.

No one was injured when the two Great Lakes ore carriers, the Col. J. M. Schoonmaker and the E. N. Saunders, Jr., both out of Chicago, went aground.

Preliminary examinations led officials to believe the ships escaped damage. Visibility was described as "very poor" Tuesday night in the channel area about three miles northeast of here.

The 10,300-ton Saunders is owned by Midland Steamship Company and the 14,700-ton Schoonmaker is owned by Chenango Furnace Co.

Capt. Earl J. McQueen of McQueen Marine Ltd., Amherstburg, said two tugs and two lighters were attempting to free the ships.

Obesity Most Common Form Of Malnutrition, Say Experts

OTTAWA (CP)—Two nutrition experts told the Canadian Dietetic Association convention Wednesday that obesity is the most common form of malnutrition in North America.

Dr. E. Gordon Young, director of the Maritime regional laboratory, national research council, Halifax, estimated that a fifth of the Canadian population more than 30 are too heavy. That would be about 1,250,000 people of whom 420,000 would be classified as obese.

Dr. Rachel Beaudoin, director of the institute of dietetics and nutrition, University of Montreal, said that obesity is endangering a quarter of the American population.

She said she had difficulty in obtaining research information about fat people because they tend to be secretive about eating habits.

In a survey on 150 obese women and 150 of normal weight she disproved the popular idea that fat people crave carbohydrates, that is, starches, sugars, candies and sweet desserts. It is merely that they eat more than normal people. The difficulty is to convince them that overeating is the cause of excessive weight.

She found that the blood sugar of these people was very unstable and suggested that fast return to pre-meal level might account for their compulsion to overeat.

Dr. Beaudoin stressed the importance of a high-protein diet, well distributed into three meals, which would curb the appetite by keeping the blood sugar more stable.

Dr. Young, in further conclusions about Canada's eating, said that the people have available adequate nutrients if they will eat according to their individual requirements.

Elderly Man Toronto's 27th Traffic Death

TORONTO (CP)—Police Wednesday night tried to identify an elderly man who died in hospital of injuries suffered earlier when he was struck by a street car, while crossing a downtown street.

He is thought to be George Clarke, about 60.

It was Toronto's 27th traffic fatality this year.

Canadians Get One Japan Leave

IN KOREA (CP) — Canadian troops in Korea are eligible for one five-day leave in Japan after four months service. In practice they get one such leave during their year here.

Staff officers say some soldiers returned to Canada with their units without having had any Japan leave at all.

The leave situation was explained here after an Ottawa government answer to a Commons question March 12 said troops get a five-day leave in Japan plus travelling time "after every four months' service in Korea."

The conflict lies in the difference between Ottawa policy and the capacity for its fulfilment under present arrangements for Commonwealth troops.

Headquarters officers say several limiting factors make it unlikely that soldiers here will ever get more than one trip to Japan in a year as a general practice. These factors include lack of air space and limited accommodation at the Tokyo leave centre.

The artificial breeding process was made possible through research by the Wisconsin Scientific Breeding Institute in co-operation with the American Foundation for the Study of Genetics. If futher proved successfuly the process will mean fewer but better sires will be used to produce many more offspring, producing better dairy products for the American table.

Regulations Define Way Of Measuring Game Fish

How many of the million or more casual anglers fishing Ontario's lakes and stream each year know how to measure a game fish correctly to determine whether it is of legal length?

Present fish and game regulations require that a fish be measured from the tip of the nose to the centre of the posterior margin of the tail. That is, to the rear end of the body at the base of the fork. Experienced anglers understand this fully but, because many casual fishermen remain confused, a new method is being considered; one that will be convenient for all anglers and uniform for all game fish.

IN MEASURING TROUT

No confusion exists, apparently, in measuring speckled or other members of the trout family because the trailing edge of the tail fin is approximately straight up and down. Measurement from nose to tip of tail is essentially, therefore, the same as to the tail at the fork.

But bass, pickerel and maskinonge have forked tails. Consequently, the tip of the tail is farther from the nose than is the base of the fork. A person not too conversant with the method of measurement according to the regulations might measure a bass, for instance, from nose to tip of tail. This might be 10 inches, yet the bass would not be of legal length because the measurement required should have been to the base of the tail at the fork.

Thus, the angler would have an undersized fish in his catch and be subject to apprehension by a conservation officer who, unfortunately, could make no exception because too many people have claimed ignorance of measurement practice as an excuse for having undersize fish in possession.

To offset future misunderstanding, Department of Lands and Forests management officials are considering changing the method of measuring game fish from "fork length" to "over-all length". The measurement, in all cases, to be taken from the tip of the nose (with the jaws of the fish closed) to the tip of the tail (with the lobes of the tail held together to give the maximum length measurement).

Should the new method be adopted, it is proposed that the legal length schedule would read as follows: "For Speckled, Brown, Rainbow (Steelhead) and Aurora Trout, 7 inches; for Smallmouth and Largemouth Bass, 11 inches (now 10); wall-eyed pike (yellow pickerel), 15 inches (now 13); and maskinonge, 32 inches, (now 30)."

At the same time, incidentally, a further recommendation long under consideration may be injected: "that the size limit for Kamloops Trout (a Spring spawner) concurrently be raised to 12 inches (now 7)."

A recently conducted poll has revealed that a ration of 24 persons to 4 favour the proposed new measurement method. The four opposing gave the following reasons: "possibility of catching fish with frayed tails; the biological significance of a change in length limits should first be determined; and just "no," without comment."

Quizzed concerning the objections raised, a senior Lands and Forest fish management official replied that: "Fish with frayed tail fins are, in our experience, rarely taken in angling; and, since only the method of measurement and not the size of fish permitted to be taken would be changed, fish populations would not be biologically affected."

Store For Poor Children Sells Toys For Farthing

By HALL COOPER

LONDON (AP)—There is a place in London where a poor child can buy a toy for a farthing.

The door to this bargain counter is an archway only three feet 10 inches high, to keep the big kids out.

The toys are sold on Saturdays. One Saturday only boys are admitted, the next Saturday only girls.

The odd toy store has been in business since 1907 at the Fern street settlement in Bromley-by-Bow. This is a part of east London where most families are lucky to have enough money for food.

Founder of the settlement, and toy store, was Miss Clara Grant, who began teaching in a neighborhood school in 1900. Over the years she built up a wide circle of donors who sent money or the cast-off toys of their own children. A benefactor for years was the late Queen Mary.

RECONDITION PLAYTHINGS

Miss Grant had the playthings reconditioned and made up into neat little packages for sale

She insisted on the token payment of one farthing because she felt this gave the children a feeling of independence and self-respect. She encouraged them to complain if they thought the goods weren't up to standard.

Miss Grant died in 1949, but her store goes on.

Four decades ago as many as 500 kids with farthings in their grubby little hands used to show up on a Saturday morning to pass, if they could through the archway. The archway bears this inscription:

"Enter now ye children small,
"None can come who are too tall."

100 ON SATURDAY

Nowadays, the Saturday sales seldom draw more than 100. Officials of the settlement say this reflects the slow but sure conquest of the more abject kind of poverty in the Fern street area.

And in the 46 years of the toy store's existence, the height of the archway has been raised four inches. That's because Fern street kids eat better and are much taller than they used to be.

Russia Reveals Serious Errors

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet press today disclosed "serious mistakes" in the governing of the Baltic state of Lithuania and said more Lithuanian nationals are going to be given a chance to make good.

(Two months ago the new regime of Prime Minister Malenkov did just the opposite in neighboring Lativa. In a drastic cabinet streamlining there, ministries were combined and four Russians—natives of greater Russia—replaced eight Latvian nationals as ministers.

(The three Baltic states of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia were absorbed into the Soviet Union in 1940.)

Today's papers said a recent meeting of the Lithuanian Communist party's central committee admitted distortions in carrying out national policies, particularly by "insufficient training and promotion" of Lithuanian nationals to party and economic posts.

The Lithuanian Red party "now has drafted concrete measures for fulfilment of the Lenin-Stalin national policy" of putting local leaders in top party and administrative posts, the Moscow radio and newspapers reported.

Similar mistakes were uncovered only last week in the important Ukrainian republic. As a result, the top Communist there, L. G. Melnikov, was ousted from his post as first secretary of the Ukrainian party.

The meeting opened with the Institute Ode followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The secretary reported four new members had joined at the May meeting. Mrs. A. Gill gave current events.

A picnic was arranged to be held at Round Lake on July 15. The ladies are to meet at Armstrong's store at 1:30 p.m.

Mrs. Baker gave the highlights of the district annual meeting at Trent River at which 22 members had been present.

The ACWW will meet in Toronto in August. Canada Day will be held August 21 and five members from Norwood will attend.

The meeting was closed with the singing of God Save the Queen, after which lunch was served by Mrs E. Armstrong, Mrs. A. Davis, Mrs. Duckworth and Mrs Parker.

Thatched Roofs Most Popular, Survey Reveals

By MICHAEL KING

GENEVA (Reuters) — More people in the world live under thatch than under any other type of roofing, a survey made by the International Labor Organization shows.

The survey covered the efforts being made by various Asian countries to provide low cost housing for their millions of workers.

These efforts, said the survey, were being made in the face of a double handicap.

First, there was a race between a radpily increasing population and available homes: second, there was the need to divert materials such as concrete and steel from housing to national construction projects, including dams and hydro-electric works.

The steel and cement shortage had led to a search for substitute materials, ranging from treated timber and bamboo to the better use of traditional plastering materials, including even molasses.

The survey found that building costs could be lowered and scarce materials could be economized through improved designs.

NEW STOVE MADE

The invention of a new, simple kitchen stove in India was symptomatic of the saving that could be achieved, the ILO said.

The stove, designed in Hyderabad, was easily constructed into the walls of kitchens and could be built of mud or bricks. It was smokeless and its thermal efficiency resulted in a fuel saving of from 20 to 40 per cent.

"If this saving was generalized throughout India," the survey said, "it would result in reducing deforestation by approximately 13,000,000 trees every year."

India has conducted the greatest amount of research, which has ranged from the relative merits of rammed earth and sun - baked bricks to treated timber and concrete.

The Indian government is also experimenting with fired bricks and stabilized earth and other materials which would resist the country's monsoon rains.

PLASTERS HELP

Special plasters being developed are expected to help tide India over the period when the bulk of the country's cement is being diverted to extensive irrigation and massive hydro-electric projects.

In Malaya, research has indicated many possible uses for timber that had previously been regarded as useless "merely because they were untried."

Promising developments have also been carried out in India on creating foam concrete bricks, using finely pulverized rock. In Pakistan new methods of roof construction have been developed using flat slabs of concrete.

Experiments with a domed-type of cement concrete roofing have also been made in Pakistan. If successful they should reduce the cost of roofs by about 40 per cent.

ILO also said there was a search for "lost" knowledge in building techniques "which could wrest from the ruins of the past the secrets of the Asian continent's former architectural greatness."

Orders Miners Vote On Union

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan labor relations board has ordered a vote among miners of the Rix-Athabaska uranium mine in northwest Saskatchewan to determine whether they want the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.), allegedly Communist-dominated, as their bargaining agent.

Dean F. C. Cronkite, chairman of the board, said today the board is not satisfied the union represents a majority of the uranium miners.

Arrangements are being made for the vote and it likely will be held within the next week, he said.

At a hearing in Saskatoon last week the Mine-Mill union made application for certification as bargaining agent for several employees of Rix-Athabaska Uranium Mines Ltd.

The company asked that certification be refused and Saskatchewan's uranium labor force be placed under federal jurisdiction as provided in section 26 of the Saskatchewan Trade Union Act.

The Rix-Athabaska mine is located near Uranium City on the northern shore of Lake Athabasca in the heart of the booming uranium fields.

Italian Women Beaten In Vote

ROME—Italian women candidates took a political beating in the recent parliamentary election, nearly complete returns showed.

The ladies, who won the right to vote for the first time in 1946, put a record number of 319 candidates of their sex in the field for the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate. Moreover, 52 per cent of Italy's voters are women and about 94 per cent of them actually voted which was a couple of percentage points better than the men did.

However, there will now be only one woman Senator compared with four in the outgoing Senate and on the basis of partial returns for the chamber, 20 women deputies compared with 38 in the outgoing lower house.

The lone woman Senator is 63-year-old Angelina Merlin, a member of Pietro Nenni's Pro-Communist Socialist Party. She will now have to begin all over again her battle to get through Parliament her six-year-old bill to abolish legalized prostitution in Italy. The Merlin Bill was passed by the previous Senate but was sidetracked in the Chamber.

Of the three ex-senators in the distaff side, one is Rita Montagnana, a Communist, wife (they are legally separated) of the Communist Party boss, Palmiro Eogliatti. Ironically, a lady friend of Togliatti's, Leonilde Jotti, was elected to the Chamber of Deputies.

Another ex-Senator, also a Red, will now sit in the chamber. She is Adele Bei. The third ex-Senator is a Ninni Socialist, Giuseppine Palumbo.

Another ex-Senator, also a Red, will now sit in the chamber. She is Adele Bei. The third ex-Senator is a Ninni Socialist, Giuseppine Palumbo.

Nenni's daughter, Giuliana, was elected to the Chamber. Re-elected to the Chamber was a Christian Democrat fighter, Maria Pia Del Canton, a former school teacher who helped put a bill through last year providing legal surnames for illegitimate children.

The only woman in the present De Gasperi government failed of re-election. She is a Christian Democrat, Mario Guidi-Cingoloni, who is under-secretary for handicrafts in the Ministry of Industry and Commerce. She is the wife of a Senator.

Teresa Noce, wife of Luigi Longo, the leader of para-military units in the Communist Party, was elected to the Chamber.

Legend Says Rock Throbs In Sandy Lake As If Alive

Within twenty miles of Peterborough lies a lake that is as weird as it is beautiful. Strange tales have been told about it by the Mississauga Indians as they squatted in their cabins and listened to the winter winds whistle across the Burleigh township's rocky streches. The stories have lost their punch with the years, but many Indians still claim "Lake of Spirits" to be a sacred place, where Manitou has given the bass and 'lunge a silvery armour for protection.

This watery gem is officially charted under the rather prosaic name of Sandy Lake and lies midway between Buckhorn and Lakehurst.

The key to most of the legends that have been handed down through the years is a huge heart-shaped rock that lies on the bottom of the lake. On sunny days the stone glows with a peculiar purplish hue not unlike the vital organs of man. Indians claim that on days when the lake is perfectly calm ripples form about the great stone. These they claim are pulsations from the heart-shaped stone below.

WATER IS GREENISH

Strength is given to the Indian legends by the unusual greenish color of the water in Sandy Lake. This water is identical to that of Lake Simcoe, six miles west of us as the crow flies. The levels of Sandy Lake rise and fall with a bewildering irregularity, being fed by numerous springs in the bottom. White men have been heard to express the opinion that there is a connection between Lake Simcoe and Sandy Lake, and that when the level of one drops the other does likewise. However, no qualified engineer or geologist has ever come forward to refute these rumors and the stories have improved with the years. No other lake in the Kawartha chain has water with a greenish hue.

CREEK CHANGES DIRECTIONS

Sandy Creek which flows out of Sandy Lake into Buckhorn, has has been known to change the direction of its flow four times inside of twenty-four hours. John Coombs, summer resort owner, at the northern lake who has been dubbed the Sandy lake philosopher by Larry Maguire of Peterborough Outboard Marine and manufacturing Co. said that he has stood on the bridge crossing Sandy Creek and watched chips stop flowing south and return in the opposite direction. He adds that the water which flows out of Buckhorn lake, will not mix with the greenish colored contents of Sandy lake, but that it always hugs the west shore and dividing line between the green and brownish blue is quite noticeable.

Bass and 'lunge caught in the lake have a very pronounced silvery color not found in fish in any other part of this district. Fishermen state that this color disappears after the fish have been caught for a few hours and that silvery tinted 'lunge then regain their normal blackish color.

For years Indian braves refused to fish in the haunted lake, and they were convinced that anyone who ate a fish caught in those waters was buying a ticket to the happy hunting grounds. Now the old beliefs are fading and most of the Indians regard the green stretches of the once shunned lake as just another fishing place.

Relics found on the west shore indicate that a terrific battle was once fought on that spot. Split skulls, bones, arrowheads, and war axes have been located in quantity, and this fact has helped to swathe Sandy lake in legendary robes of mystery as far as the Indians were concerned.

Half For Defence Fourth To Welfare

CARLYLE, Sask. (CP)—Agriculture Minister Gardiner said Wednesday night the federal government has been criticized for taxing too much and spending too much—but "one half of the present budget is for national defence and one quarter is for social services."

Addressing a Liberal nominating convention Mr. Gardiner said the world has twice tried to prevent war by disarming and now governments are finding it necessary to arm as a method of prevention.

All provinces have roughly the same social services, he said. But 80 per cent of these services were financed by the federal treasury. For example, Saskatchewan used to get $4,000,000 from the federal government when he was provincial treasurer, said Mr. Gardiner, and now it is getting $24,000,000.

Growing Business

REGINA (CV)—Combined assets of Saskatchewan credit unions totalled $21,00,000 at the end of 1952 the provincial co-operative department reports this is an increase of 40 per cent over the figure for 1951.

Beer, Films, Concert Parties In Short Supply In Korea

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—Ottawa has been asked for a little more of everything — including Canadian girls—in a troop welfare report now on its way.

The report, prepared for Brig. Jean Allard, Canadian commander here, says soldiers in Korea need more reading matter, beer, films, concert parties and says thought should be given to assigning an army band permanently to the theatre.

It was prepared after a three-week survey of welfare facilities by Maj. Anthony Condy of Springhill, N.S., senior Canadian welfare officer in Korea and Japan.

VARIETY OF SUGGESTIONS

Highlights of its recommendations:

Beer—A limited variety of Japanese beers is available at nominal prices. "But a need exists for Canadian beer in the Far East, particularly for use in Canadian clubs and canteens." It suggests that the problems of getting Canadian beer to Korea for resale, and the probable cost of shipping, be studied.

Bands—"The posting of a Canadian military band to the threatre should be investigated. (The bamd of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Leght Infantry is in Korea now on a five-week tour. It is the third Canadian Army band to visit the theatre on such a tour.)

Books—The supply of pocket-sized books is adequate in English, non-existent in French. "But hard-cover books are needed for the mobile library" in both languages. The mobile library is one being set up by Allard to tour units and facilititate the exchange of books.

Magazines — "Shipments could easily be double and still not be over the amount required." It said French-language magazines were available in limited quantities only.

MORE NEWSPAPERS

Newspapers—"We require both English and French newspapers." Present shipments go principally to hospitals. Troops see few of them. "We also require the comic section of French newspapers."

Concert parties — They should come out more frequently and be bilingual. (Canada sends one out every three to four months.) "They should be limited to six artists, with at least two of them females." Larger groups are difficult to accommodate and it is not possible for them to tour the forward areas.

Films — No French films are available. "We are trying to see if French films could be obtained from Montreal and shipped on a regular basis." National film board films of Canadian life and Canadian newsreels would be most valuable."

Condy's report said a mimimum of five more Canabian Red Cross girls were needed.

SERVES AT TOKCHONG

The one girl in Korea is at the 25th Canadian field dressing station at Tokchong. The report suggested that three of the requested five be posted to Korea and the other two to Kure, Japan

It also asked Ottawa to study the possibility of arranging cheaper telegram rates for the soldiers.

Canadian soldiers in the line must pay the stiff commercial charges. Those able to get to United States Army post offices in Seoul can use the cheaper services provided for U.S. soldiers. Troops in Japan also use commercial routes.

All other Commonwealth soldiers in the division have a 35-cent cable service enabling them to send expeditionary force messages home to any part of the Commonwealth except Canada. Their relatives also can communicate that way with them.

It's Poppa who pays...

by Kingan's ad-man

Once upon a time . . .

there was a guy . . . let's call him "Dad." He worked hard all day, came home in the evening and mowed the lawn, hoed the weeds, and did all the unpleasant tasks around the house, then when he proceeded to partake of his only pleasure . . . sitting down with the evening paper, he found it scattered all over the house, having been mauled, battered, torn and maybe even read by every other member of the family.

Now I have a proposition to make (being a Dad myself). It's almost time for Father's Day. This is the one day in the year when everyone is supposed to honor the old man. If on no other day of the year, why not consider the guy just this once. He never asks for much. Goes his own way, pays the bills and very seldom complains. When he does he's called old fashioned? Let's all do something for him on his day. Let's leave the evening paper alone till Dad has read it. Believe me, he'd just love it.

Of course, if you'd like to go one better and give him a gift of something he'd like, try Kingan's. They've a wonderful selection of things just especially for men . . . Don't worry about the cost either. If you haven't got enough, just charge it to Dad. It's Poppa who always pays anyhow.

Firemen have requested another meeting with the negotiating committee of the City Council to clarify certain details of their working agreement with the city. Session may be Saturday.

Seventeen Toronto ladies representing women's organizations of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints are in Peterborough this afternoon for a tour of the city. They arrived at noon in the CPR station.

The Peterborough Handcraft Guild extended an invitation to members of the Recreation Commission and members of the Handcraft Guild to attend the handcraft supper being given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Fraser Friday evening.

COOL WATER

The drinking fountain was installed again for the summer in Confederation Park opposite the city hall to provide a drink that the less flamboyant citizens have described as the coolest and best in the city.

AN OTTAWA PROBLEM

At an Ottawa Rotary Club meeting David N. Gill suggested elimination of all car parking from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Sparks St., Elgin to Bank; and on Bank from Sparks to Gladstone. On those main streets, traffic is often halted during peak hours by the congestion caused by curb parking, he said.

SUBSIDY SLASHED

Ottawa's municipal spending on roads and bridges has been cut from $3,134,290 to $1,800,000 by the Ontario Department of Highways. That results in a loss of $160,000 in subsidies, and also disarms the capital in parleys with the federal government, on a three-way basis with the city and province. The Council has decided to "make representations" to the provincial authorities.

NO QUEEN MARY BID

"Not one bid" is the report at the city hall on the effect of the advertisements for the sale of the Queen Mary Hospital. About a month ago an offer of $20,500 was received from H. Albert, but it was decided to call for purchase tenders. Local Council of Women expressed their opinion that the hospital should not sell for less than the $36,000 valuation of the assessment department.

AT VANCOUVER CONVENTION

Walter Booth, district deputy high chief ranger, is representing the Peterborough district of the Canadian Order of Foresters, at the COFs 72nd annual convention finishing up today in Vaucouver.

ELECTION BANNER

Application of Peterborough Conservative Association to string a G. K. Fraser banner across Hunter St, was granted by the council Monday night. The motion of Ald. Gordon Farquharson was seconded by Ald. H. S. Longhurst. Replying to Ald. Begg's question about policy, Acting Mayor Miller said permission was not granted to place banners on George St. between the CPR and City Hall.

CONSPICUOUS EXCEPTIONS

Employees of the Utilities Commission and of the board of works clipped in good time the weed goat's beard, in the vicinity of Romaine and Park Streets. The Commission's men swung their scythes on their transformer and storage property. With the CNR job also well done, the only survivors of the weed at the corner have become conspicuous on private property.

GRAND OLD MAN

Dr. Norman D. Buchanan, retired Peterborough eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, was one of a dozen "grand old men of medicine" who attended the graduation dinner Tuesday night for the University of Toronto's 1953 medical faculty. The dozen "grand old men" are among the few surviving members of the Trinity Medical School graduates in 1903.

Unpronouncable

Urgings to have the new riding of Hastings-Frontenac contain the names of the four counties it represents (Peterborough and Addington are the other two) met with little success at the organization and nomination meeting held Wednesday by Progressive Conservatives in Madoc. The Hon. John Foote referred to the suggested naming as "this new, great, unpronouncable riding."

Jaycees Urge No Means Test In Blind Pension

The Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada will urge the federal government to make a substantial increase in the allowance paid to the blind and to do away with any type of means test.

This action will be taken as a result of a resolution presented by Peterborough Jaycees and passed by the 18th annual convention of the national organization at Bigwin Inn.

TRANSLATION EQUIPMENT

Equipment providing for simultaneous translation during business sessions was used at the convention which ended Wednesday. The equipment, which was built by Arnprior and Sarnia chambers and presented to the national chamber, enabled Quebec delegates to take part in discussions. The Jaycees are the first national organization to build, own and use such equipment.

Another resolution passed by the convention was one from Victoria chamber calling on the national group to develop a strong anti-Communist program throughout Canada.

National vice-presidents elected included John Herd of Chatham, Ont., and William Latham, Kenora.

COL. I. M. R. SINCLAIR, DSO, OBE, MC, St. John Ambulance Provincial Commissioner, was inspecting officer Wednesday night when the Peterborough Corps of the order staged its annual inspection. One of the night's features was the simulated atomic attack after which "victims" were treated at a nursing post set up in the armory. One of the victims is shown above receiving treatment for leg injuries from members of the Nursing Division.

Plan To Check Dog Licenses

City council has approved the following method of collecting fees for dog licenses as suggested by City Clerk Outram and recommended by the finance committee:

"That on March 1st the City Clerk send notices to all dog owners that license fees are due on that date;

That those dog owners failing to secure their license be given another notice within two weeks' time by the Clerk, reminding them of their failure to secure a license;

That at the end of March those dog owners who have still not secured their license be reported in a list by the Clerk to the Police Department and that these delinquent dog owners be checked individually by the Police Department, and those failing within a reasonable time, to procure their dog licenses be summonsed under the Dog Control Bylaw.

County's Erosion 'Bad' Says MPP

CHATHAM (CP)—Shore erosion in Kent county was described Wednesday as being "as bad as any we've seen in Ontario" by Hollis Beckett (PC-East York), acting chairman of the Ontario legislature's select committee on lake levels and erosion.

The groups studied conditions Wednesday in Kent, touring the shore line from Port Crewe to Erieau.

Mr. Beckett said he thought that the building of groynes, financed jointly by the provincial and federal governments, had reclaimed considerable beach land between Erie Beach and Erieau.

"If more groynes are built and the operations of gravel companies taking stone from the lake restricted somewhat, I think the damage can be avoided. However, beaches must be built up to stop under-cutting by the water."

Swerved To Miss Cars Auto Clips Guard Posts

A small English-model car received $100 damage late Wednesday afternoon when it went out of control, bounced off guard rails on one side of the highway, veered across the highway again and broke off two on the other side.

Dail Leonard, 30, of 506 McDonnel St., driver of the car, was not injured.

He told OPP Constable Gordon Gray that he was driving along Highway 7, two miles east of Fowler's Corners, and after breaking over the brow of a hill he was confronted by three oncoming cars. One of them was trying to pass the other two.

He swerved to one side, hitting the guard rail posts, and the car went across the highway—after receiving a damaged left fender—and knocked off two posts on the other side.

"Atomic Attack" Victims Treated By St. John Corps

Taking part in a mock atomic attack during their annual inspection Wednesday night, St. John Ambulance first aiders showed their preparedness in time of disaster by treating realistic casualties. Watching their maneuvres were members of a Toronto inspection party, headed by Col. I. M. R. Sinclair, provincial St. John Commissioner. The party included E. M. Taylor, district officer, Mrs. G. R. Anderson, provincial nursing officer and Mrs. J. K. Cronyn, provincial nursing superintendent.

Prior to the simulated atomic disaster was the parade inspection. The three divisions of the Peterborough Corps of St. John: Peterborough Ambulance Division, Kawartha Ambulance Division and the Nursing Division paraded past the inspecting group and stood in rank while the party filed past.

MADE PROGRESS

Col. Sinclair later told the corps that he was "very happy" to see the progress they had made. He credited the guidance of the local St. John council headed by Gordon Munro in "getting things functioning."

He added that they "still have a tremendous amount to learn" and looked forward to returning to see more progress in ensuring years.

In speaking briefly to the nursing corps, Mrs. Cronyn said that St. John was "an excellent movement" and urged the ladies of the organization to work hard.

During the night Cecil Harte-Maxwell received the bar to his St. John medal, signifying 17 years of service in the order. Miss Helen Tattersall and Mrs. Flora Weatherup were awarded certificates showing they had passed their 10th first aid examination while 13 home nursing certificates were awarded members of the nursing corps.

BROUGHT IN STRETCHERS

The "atomic attack" victims looked like victims when stretcher bearers brought them in to a first aid station the nursing division set up in the armoury.

Injuries that might occur in such attack were treated at the station. Some victims suffered from atomic shocks, flash burns, radiation sickness, broken limbs, hysteria and other wounds.

Parked Car Hit In Sideswipe Crash

A parked car came out second best in a two-car crash early this morning at Westcott and Park Sts. The car, owned by George Panter of 49 Park St. S., was damaged to the extent of $70 while the assailant, a car driven by Jetty Thompson of 149 Hart St., escaped with $40 damage.

Thompson was driving north on Park when he sideswiped Panter's car, parked on the west side facing south. PC Dennis Smith investigated.

REV. IVAN C. MORGAN

Ivan C. Morgan New President Baptist Session

HAMILTON (CP)—Rev. Ivan C. Morgan, of Peterborough, was elected president of the Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec today. He succeeds Sidney Johnson, Toronto business man and Baptist lay worker. About 500 delegates to the 65th annual assembly voted on a slate of officers presented by the nominating committee.

Mr. Morgan is minister of Murray St. Baptist Church.

Vice-presidents elected were: Norman D. Moore, of Brantford; and Mrs. A. W. Greenslade, of London. Dr. T. B. McDormand, of Toronto, was returned as general secretary-treasurer.

Delegates approved a by-law increasing the size of the executive committee to 14 members. Voting for executive members takes place this afternoon.

99-Year-Old Bond Tells Story Of Railway Failure

A £100 sterling debenture of the Cobourg and Peterborough Railway Company, issued in 1854, paid to the investor 6 per cent for three years and then lapsed, as indicated by the promissory pledge shown to the Examiner today by W. F. Huycke, Q.C.

The debenture has been worthless since the end of 1857, except that possibly some assets were available for fractional repayment of principal at the bankruptcy of the company. The interest coupons were clipped for four years, from 1854 to the beginning of 1858.

The issue was for £100,000. The company was incorporated in the Province of Canada. Actually the Cobourg and Peterborough Railway Company gave a mortgage on their land, stock and revenues to William Proudfoot, president of the Bank of Upper Canada, and Thomas G. Ridout, the cashier of that bank, as trustees to secure the debentures.

The debentures were payable in 20 years at the banking house of Messrs. Glynn, Mills & Co., London.

Most of the coupons are still attached to the document. The missing ones were cashed at £3 half yearly.

This debenture tells the story of some person's investment of £100 in an Ontario railway that failed. It was built from Cobourg to Harwood and across Rice Lake to Hiawatha and up through Otonabee to Ashburnham. The old station extended from Hunter Street south to Robinson Street. The Montgomery Bros. business is now situated at the south end of the railway station yard, and McCarthy & Johnston on the Hunter Street side.

The roadbed is plainly traceable in its traversing of Otonabee. It crosses the old Keene Road in front of the Earl Doris farm, just east of the turn to Hiawatha. Wind, water and frost gradually dislocated sections of the railway crossing Rice Lake by way of a number of islands.

The railway to Peterborough, and the iron mines at Blairton are two district relics of enterprise hereabouts a century ago. Both paid brief profits, but ultimately failed. They remain a reminder of the willingness of investors to put their money into such business projects of the young province of Canada. British investors also turned to this country for the placing of capital which was helping to build up this country, partly in the hazard of trial and error.

Two False Alarms

Firemen had trouble with electrical gremlins and pranksters on Wednesday. In the late afternoon they went to Lech Furriers, 413 George St. N., when the automatic sprinkler system short-circuited and rang the alarm bell in the fire hall. There was no damage; just a bit of a puzzle to determine what caused it. Later a prankster with a misplaced sense of humor rang the alarm box at Dalhousie and George Sts. When the fire trucks pulled up the miscreant had run away.

Traffic Bypass To Be Built Near Belleville

The Ontario Department of Highways will shortly call for tenders for a four-lane traffic bypass to serve the Trenton-Belleville area.

Located about two miles north of Highway 2, the 10.7 miles of controlled-access highway will eventually form part of a trans-provincial expressway from Windsor to the Quebec border, a few miles west of Montreal.

NORTH TO MARMORA

Two initial contracts are to be let. The westerly one extends from the Trent River east to Lots 18 and 19 of Sidney township, a distance of 5.2 miles. The easterly contract will extend 5.5 miles further east to Highway 14 which runs north from Picton through Belleville to Marmora.

Cost of grading and culvert construction is expected to exceed $1,000,000. Further expenditure will be required when the highway is ready for paving.

The by-pass, which is designed to relieve traffic congestion in the Trenton-Belleville area, is also expected to direct an increasing volume of tourist traffic to Highway 7.

RELIEVE CONGESTION

Highways Minister George Doucette said that the bypass was one of a number of controlled access highways designed to relieve traffic congestion near large urban centres. The major one, linking the Queen Elizabeth Way, just west of Toronto, with the four-lane highway from Rouge River, just east of Toronto, to Newcastle, is now about half finished. Other bypasses at Barrie, Orillia and North Bay are well under way. Contracts for grading and culverts for bypasses in the Kingston and London-Woodstock areas were let in the autumn of 1952.

When these bypasses have been completed, Mr. Doucette said, the matter of linking them up to form the trans-provincial expressway will be simplified.

Appeal Court Gives $2,965 To Family

Norwood Family Lost Home, Barn Possessions In Fire

A Norwood family have been awarded a total of $2,965 in a decision handed down Wednesday by the Ontario Court of Appeal. The appellants lost their home, a barn and personal possessions on June 19, 1952, when fire spread from a cedar post yard on the outskirts of Norwood to their property.

At the non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court in March, Mr. Justice King assessed the individual damages suffered by the three plaintiffs but dismissed the case. This was reversed Wednesday in the decision of the Ontario Court of Appeal, Justices Laidlaw, Hogg and J. K. Mackay presiding.

As a result of this legal reversal John Curtis of Asphodel Township receives $1,000, his wife Martha who owned the clapboard house and barn, $1,700, and their son Frank, who lost clothing and other personal possesions $265.

The costs of the action and of the appeal go to the appellants.

BEGAN IN PIT

The damage action began as a result of a fire that began in or near a burning pit of the American Cedar Co. of Norwood, operated by John Lutes. Piles of cedar posts were stacked on the five-acre Lutes property, and evidence was that bark and peelings stood several inches deep between the rows. Somehow the fire on the company property got out of control, raced through the cedar rows fanned by a strong west wind, and burned the barn and home of the Curtis family which were located on the next property.

There was never any doubt that the fire started on the American Cedar Co. property, but Mr. Justice King, in the original trial, held that while the company may have been guilty of negligence the Curtis family had failed to prove it. So he dismissed the case with costs if they were demanded by Defence Counsel Arthur Fair, Q.C.

William C. Grant, counsel for the Curtis family, appealed the judgment, and the appeal was upheld in Wednesday's Appeal Court decision.

Saskatchewan Post Papers For Biggest Season Yet

URANIUM CITY, Sask. (CP)—Saskatchewan's only port—Bushell—is preparing for the biggest season in its short history.

The uranium boom in northwestern Saskatchewan is responsible for the rush at Bushell, built beside a rocky ridge in an almost perfect harbor on the shore of Lake Athabaska.

Shipping was scheduled to open in mid-June and for four months tugs and barges are expected to arrive at Bushell's dockside after the run across Lake Athabaska from the end of steel at Waterways, Alta.

An estimated 40,000 tons will be unloaded this summer at Bushell, one-quarter to one-third more cargo tonnage than last year. Many of the uranium field's necessities are flown into the area but the heaviest items and much of the high-volume goods go by barge.

ACTIVE AREA

Two thousand men are working in this bush country but by midsummer when the last ice moves off the rock-bound lakes, making them more accessible to prospectors, drillers and surveyors, 3,000 to 4,000 should be working throughout the uranium-rich area.

The federal government-owned Eldorado Mining Corporation has already gone into production. Ore is being produced at a rate of 500 tons a day and the corporation is aiming at 2,000 tons a day.

The Eldorado mill was scheduled to go into production this summer to concentrate the ore for shipment to the outside world.

Several privately-owned mines may be in the production stage this summer.

Another leading property in the area is the Gunnar gold uranium holdings, the talk of the north country.

In sharp contrast are the ultra-modern housing development on the Eldorado property and a mile or so away the shack tents of Indians pitched on rocky hillsides.

Beside the shacks the women cook food in black pots at outside fires and caribou meat hangs drying in the sun.

There, Indian children race around wearing cowboy outfits.

BIG INSTALLATIONS

Bushell has a 300-foot long warehouse, owned and operated by Northern Transportation Co., a subsidiary of the Eldorado Mining and Refining Corporation. In addition there are two tanks for storing diesel oil owned by Eldorado and five large Imperial Oil storage tanks.

Near the wharves are a few houses which were moved from Goldfields, for the most part unoccupied. Goldfields, now almost completely bandoned, was the chief centre of the area while the gold rushes were in swing in the 1930s.

For a period there was some support for retaining Goldfields as the main harbor for the new uranium area. But Bushell offered a more central, accessible route to the main uranium areas and this was the deciding factor.

Named Candidate

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—J. Al Kennedy, a lawyer, Wednesday night was nominated Progressive Conservative candidate for Essex East in the Aug. 10 federal election. Mr. Kennedy is a former city alderman and twice was campaign manager for Public Works Minister Griesinger of Ontario. The Essex East seat now is held by Health Minister Martin.

Capture Straggler

MANILA (AP)—The defence department Wednesday said an army patrol captured a Japanese Second World War straggler in mountainous Quezon province southeast of Manila. The holdout, Pte. Kaichiro Inochi, 39, told army investigators he did not know the Pacific war had ended.

Old Maitre d'hotel Returns To Manago Gordon Empire

By DEREK JAMESON

LONDON (Reuters) — Cigolini, who rose from a shilling-a-week-and-dinner waiter to become the intimate of kings and millionaires, is back in business.

At 81, the Italian-born king of restaurateurs takes over the management of the British Gordon hotel empire, which has not paid a dividend since he left it for London's newly-opened Dorchester hotel in 1931.

Born in the Italian province of Piedmont, Giovanni Cigolini ran away from home at 14 and worked as a cafe waiter in Lyon for five francs a month.

He made his way from rags to riches until he dominated Europe's most glittering hotels—the Grand in Rome, the London House at Nice, Claridge's in London, the Hotel du Palais at Biarritz.

"Biarritz is Cigolini and Cigolini is Biarritz," wrote poet Rudyard Kipling. He fed Madame Melba and Madame Patti, the darlings of the opera, Caruso and Marconi, King Edward VII, Alfonso of Spain and the Empress Eugenie.

Now silvery-haired and slightly belt, but still spry, Cigolini wants to bring back the old pomp and glitter of carefree Europe.

How does he hope to bring to life the memories of the past? "It is food—food—that matters," he said. "I want to bring back the old food of the old school. It will take time. I want my staff of 3,500 to be very polite and to serve people in a way that makes them feel at home."

And the staff of the Mayfair hotel, biggest in the Gordon chain, where he has his office, is already on its toes, ready to listen to the old maitre d'hotel.

RCMP Has Gone Modern With Vengeance

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Royal Canadian Mounted Police in general, and D division which covers Manitoba and northwestern Ontario in particular, has gone modern with a vengeance.

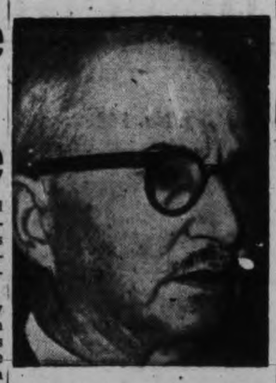
Horses, which now appear only on ceremonial occasions, have been replaced by speeding patrol cars equipped with two-way radio. The sled dogs have given way to a monster on skies called a bombardier snowmobile which costs less to run than the huskies.

Trim cabin cruisers patrol the larger lakes of D division and all branches are linked by radio to speed the work.

Behind the teams of constables stands a group of experts in the many facets of criminal investigation which has helped give Canada's national police a fine record of efficiency.

FIRST RECRUITS

The first recruits in the old Northwest Mounted Police were assembled in Manitoba 80 years ago to start a weary trek across the Prairies establishing law posts. It was 21 years ago that the RCMP absorbed the old Manitoba police and took over provincial police work as well as federal.



D division is the second largest of the 12 in Canada. The Northwest Territories, administered from Ottawa, is the largest. Although the division extends into Ontario, constables there attend only to federal business, leaving the rest to the Ontario provincial police.

There are 190 constables in D division under contract to the Manitoba government and 18 communities maintain separate arrangements with the force. There are 67 detachments spotted in the territory and duties include handling murderers, common drunks, safe-crackers, moonshiners, counterfeiters, confidence men and bewildered immigrants.

HEADS DIVISION

Heading D division is assistant commissioner Samuel Bullard, who controls the area from his Winnipeg headquarters. The division comprises three sections with their headquarters at Brandon, Winnipeg and Dauphin.

The individual detachment mountie is the backbone of the force. His duties may vary from midwife to doctor to councillor, if he is in a remote district. However, he is backed by the skilled personnel of the traffic section, identification branch, criminal investigation and aviation section.

CANDIDATE — Dr. Arthur Beauchesne, 77, for 23 years clerk of the House of Commons, has been nominated Progressive Conservative candidate for Ottawa East in the Aug. 10 general election. The nomination came on his birthday. He is recognied as Canada's top authority on parliamentary procedure and his books on the subject remain the standard authority for operation of the House. Opposing him is Jean T. Richard, a Liberal who has held the seat since 1945.

Japs To See For First Time Biggest Ship Ever Built

TOKYO (AP)—The last day of a battleship, the sinking of the mammoth Yamato late in the Pacific war, will be shown Japanese movie-goers this month in a documentary film.

The Japanese say the 72,809-ton Yamato, sunk by United States carrier planes, was the biggest fighting ship ever built. It was wrapped in so much secrecy from the time it was built in 1935 until it sank off Kyushu April 7, 1945 that not even a picture was released. The Japanese navy refused to confirm there was such a ship.

LAST SORTIE

The Yamato, 861 feet long and mounting nine 18-inch guns, made its last sortie on a special attack (suicide) mission. It steamed out of Kure naval base for Okinawa with enough fuel for only a one-day trip. None of the 3,333 crew members expected to return.

There was no air cover at all. Japan couldn't afford it. Eight destroyers and a cruiser escorted the battlewagon on its final mission. They represented the last of the once great Japanese navy.

The desperate mission wound up in failure. Instead of reaching Okinawa as intended, some 1,000 U.S. carrier planes assaulted the Yamato off Kyushu, Japan's southern island, and sank it after two hours.

300 MEN SURVIVE

About 300 officers and men survived.

The movie script was based on a story written by one of the Yamato's surviving officers, a lieutenant. The memoir was suppressed during the Allied occupation but became a best seller last year.

In one of the grimmest scenes, several hundred engineers below are killed when the commander orders water pumped into the engine room to keep the Yamato from capsizing.

One lifeboat sent by a destroyer is overloaded with survivors. When the lifeboat begins to sink because too many hands are clinging to it from the water, a non-commissioned officer slashes off the hand with a sword.

By HENRY BUCKLEY

MADRID (Reuters)—Peace and the orderly functioning of the laws of nature have returned to the provincially-peaceful Spanish city of Segovia.

The 40,000 inhabitants of Segovia are busy recovering from the effects of having 200 magicians in their midst.

The Conjurer's Congress of Spain held its annual conference in their city last month and on hand for it were 150 Spanish magicians and 50 from other parts of the world.

Showing their most elaborate card tricks and other wizardry to colleagues at their professional sessions, the conjurers brought change to unchanging Segovia as they strolled through the street.

Two grave and serious pedestrians would greet each other solemnly by raising their hats as they met, and out of each hat would pop the classical white rabbit.

Or an apparently responsible citizen sitting on a cafe terrace would pull out a pair of scissors and chop his neighbor's tie to pieces. Then at a wave of the hand, the tie was as good as new again.

Cafe waiters got rather tired of clients' cups of coffee suddenly turning out to be plain drinking water, while glasses of brandy mysteriously filled with peppermint.

Even in Segovia's Meson de Candido, a typical restaurant where such famous figures as the Duke of Windsor and the late Douglas Fairbank's, Sr., have dined, customers eating the famous roast suckling pig, specialty of the house, would suddenly discover that a plate of codfish was before them and the pig had vanished into thin air.

Among the magicians from 16 countries, there was a "flying conjurer" who makes a living by amusing passengers on the trans-Atlantic flights of aircraft belonging to a South American air line.

French magician Helios apparently thrust a sword through his bared arm. Blood flowed. But when he pulled it out, there was no scar.

American Donald Spreiner's specialty was chopping ties to pieces with scissors and then producing them brand new.

Whatever happened, the conjurers always had the last laugh. A Madrid reporter interviewed two "wizards" in their hotel room and when he had finished he said self-satisfiedly: "Well, you may fool the public but you don't fool me."

The conjurers smiled and showed him to the door. As he was leaving, they returned to him his wallet, watch, keys and pocket-handkerchief.

Canadian Corps Of Commissionaires Rehabilitates Forme r Servicemen

OTTAWA (CP)—After a long, hard pull the Canadian Corps of Commissionaires, a body formed to rehabilitate former servicemen through gainful employment, finally has caught on.

The corps is growing steadily as jobs are found for veterans whose age or disabilities make it tough to compete for work on the open market.

The corps, as it now stands, was started in 1937 with only a few members. There now are 18 branches across Canada with an enrolment of 3,600. Headquarters are in Montreal.

The majority cannot perform manual work, but have found useful jobs as timekeepers, clerks, ticket takers, building attendants, receptionists, special police and similar occupations. Pay varies for the men in the smart blue serge uniforms, but averages 85 cents an hour on government jobs. In industry the scale is somewhat higher.

HISTORY OF CORPS

Corps history dates back to 1859 in England where it was founded by Capt. Edward Walter. In Canada first suggestion for establishing the corps was made in 1915 by the Duke of Connaught.

However, it was not until 1924 that charters were granted in Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. The Toronto group is still incorporated under a separate charter while the west coast corps operates under a provincial charter.

Corps offices are located in the majority of larger cities from St. John's, Nfld., to Victoria.

Eligible members must be Canadian or British subjects who have served with the armed forces during a war, former member of the RCMP regular force, or veterans of forces of an Allied government.

While commissionaires are mostly Canadian, English and Scottish born, members are numerous from other countries. Among the 700 in the Ottawa division—which includes men on jobs as far north as Moose Factory on James Bay—are natives of Ireland, New Zealand, India, Egypt, Austria and Russia.

STAND FOR RELIABILITY

Corps statistics show pproximately 80 per cent of the members would not be employable elsewhere. But success of the organization is due largely to the guarantee of integrity for each member, whether employed on a casual, temporary or permanent basis. The corps emphasizes that members are not "old soldiers," but the pick of rormer servicemen with "a uniform that stands for reliability."

Age of most commissionaires ranges between 55 and 65, veterans of the First World War. However, there are a few 1939-45 veterans.

All join as commissionaires. Many are former officers. Corps rank is based on ability, but badges and chevrons of rank are worn only for special purposes when carrying out supervisory duties.

As Lt.-Col. R. Taylor, Ottawa commandant, says:

"We stand for a strong and united comradeship among members, so neither their rights, duties or interests shall be forgotten."

OCCUPIED MARITIMES

The Micmac tribe in earlier centuries occupied most of the Maritime areas and also parts of Newfoundland.

Wheat Province Plays Big Role In Oil Industry

REGINA (CP)—Saskatchewan, a lusty baby in the petroleum industry, is playing an increasingly-important role in helping Canada along the road to self-sufficiency in oil production.

The province's contribution was described by John Howard, oil editor of the Leader-Post, in an address to the recent annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Board of Trade at Waskesiu in Prince Albert National Park.

Mr. Howard reported that despite expenditures of $1,000,000,000 by oil companies in the last five years, Canada still is 285,300 barrels daily short of its own requirements, principally because of an 85-per-cent increase in demand for crude oil in the same period.

Rapid expansion in the industry has brought the Dominion's average daily oil production to 170,000 barrels, or 37 per cent of Canada's requirements. Most of the output is from Alberta.

As an indication of Saskatchewan's contribution, Mr. Howard said the province's production of crude jumped by 400,000 barrels to a record 1,696,505 last year. Proven oil reserves increased to 124,000,000 barrels from 21,000,000 in 1951.

In Canada as a whole proven reserves increased from 72,000,000 barrels in 1946, before Alberta's Leduc discovery, to 1,744,000,000 at the end of 1952, or 25 times in six years.

Producing wells increased from 600 in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario and New Brunswick to 3,600 by the end of 1952, Manitoba and British Columbia being added as producing provinces.

With all the major oil companies included among the 100 now operating in Saskatchewan, Mr. Howard said he was convinced the province was on the threshold of its first big field discovery.

He estimated there will be 55 seismic crews at work in Saskatchewan this summer compared with last year's peak of 43, and close to 80 drilling rigs operating against the high of 40 in 1952. There were only 22 rigs operating in 1951 and two the year before.

Last year saw 496 wells completed as drillers bored 330 miles of hole, more than double the 196 wells drilled in 1951. In the first five months of 1952, well completions totalled 203, of which 121 were oil producers.

SETTING OFF TO SEE THE SIGHTS of Montreal are some of the 50 British girls who are in Canada as guests of Garfield Weston. The girls, all between the ages of 17 and 18, arrived in Quebec City and toured the old French town. After their tour of Montreal, they left for the Laurentians. They will later visit Ottawa, Sudbury, Toroito, London and Niagara Falls.

$6,460 Found Sewn In Tweed Trousers Hidden Under Bed Of Old Scavenger

NEW YORK—Michael Devanowitz, who was 82 and known for years on the lower East side as old Mike, an unobtrusive scavenger, was regarded as one of the solitary waifs of the district without a relative surviving, but the police expect at least $6,000 worth of relatives to turn up now that they have old Mike's tweed trousers.

The trousers, which had seen far happier days, were found the other day by Mrs. Ella Norton janitor of the tenement in which old Mike rented a flat for $12 a month. They were under the bed in which old Mike died on May 24, and their pockets, fastened with safety pins, stood out in angular bulges.

Mrs. Norton unfastened the pins and withdrew from each side pocket a packet of old-style, large-size, $20 banknotes, 119 of them the yellow-back, gold certificates. The bills totalled $6,460. Mrs. Norton took the money and the trousers to the Elizabeth St. police station escorted by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Angelina O'Connor.

Mrs. Norton told Sgt. Donald Robertson that she only had known the tenant of the two-room flat as old Mike. She knew that he gleaned his living from the streets, rummaging in rubbish cans.

"He was friendly, but minded his own business," said Mrs. Norton.

The money was turned over to the property clerk of the police department. There is no way of using it for the benefit of its late owner, who had no debts, not even burial expenses, having, in his final state contributed his all to the knowledge of medical students. At the time of his death the police learned from his finger prints that he pleaded guilty to an assault charge in 1917 after his arrest for stabbing a man and served a term in the penitentiary. The police found in his flat an alien registration card bearing the name Nicolai Minenoroith, but didn't know whether it was old Mike's by issuance or by discovery.

Engineers Seek To Eliminate Subway Noises

TORONTO (CP)—Subway engineers are trying to make the city's system, expected to be ready next February, the quietest in the world.

They say Toronto is the only place in North America where acoustic treatment of a subway has even been attempted.

The biggest noise problem is the "barrelling" effect created when a train sets up a noise at a given point, travels down the tunnel with the noise proceeding with it and adding to the racket as it travels.

A. G. Keith, Toronto transportation commission architect, said the noise snowballs and by the time a train reaches a station the din equivalent to it can be heard in a boiler factory.

One way the engineers are going to beat sound is by installing perforated fibre board on station ceilings and fibre glass with corrugated aluminum coverings on inside walls and pillars in the tunnels.

CUT TO ONE SECOND

This way, sound which would otherwise last five seconds is cut to one second.

Acoustic materials are also being used under the platform lip and between the lip and the floor, both spots close to the source of the sound. Sound waves can be trapped by perforations in cement asbestos which has acoustical backing to deaden them.

The engineers are laying the tracks carefully. The rails will be made with precision and laid with precision. Noise has also been studied in regard to the trains themselves and many devices will be used to cut noise.

Floors will be covered with rubber and have a 1½-inch layer of cork and corrugated stainless steel underneath to stop drumming. Brakes will have self-adjusting shoes to prevent jarring and they will do it quietly.

Best sound killers of all, the engineers say, are the passengers because their bodies absorb vibrations. There will be more noise during off-hours than when the rush is on.

Ask Court For Ruling On TV Rebroadcasts In Montreal

OTTAWA (CP)—The Exchequer Court of Canada was asked Wednesday to rule that a Montreal company violated copyright laws by picking up television broadcasts of football games and sending them by wire to the homes of subscribers.

J. J. Robinette, counsel for Canadian Admiral Corporation of Toronto, asked Mr. Justice J.C.A. Cameron to award Admiral $600 damages for infringement of copyright. He also asked for an injunction against Rediffusion, Inc., of Montreal, to bar any further provision of television broadcasts by Rediffusion to homes of its subscribers.

E. Gordon Gowling, representing Rediffusion, said that Admiral failed to show how Rediffusion violated copyright by picking up the TV broadcasts of Montreal Alouette football games and sending them by wire to sets rented to subscribers to the service.

The case, first of its kind in Canada involving television, is expected to conclude today.

Mr. Robinette argued that Rediffusion violated copyright by reproducing a copyrighted work in "a material form;" performing a copyrighted work in public; reproducing, adapting and presenting publicly copyrighted work by cinematography; and communicating a copyrighted work by radio.

He said the reproduction was "in a material form" since the picture transmitted remained for 1-30 of a second on the screen, British courts had ruled that stage tableaux of a copyrighted work were a violation of copyright.

The performance was public since the public was invited for the motive of profit to subscribe to the rediffusion service. The television process was analagous to photography or cinematography which were protected by the Copyright Act.

Mr. Gowling said in reply that copyright does not extend to a TV broadcast in which film is not used. The type of production meant by the act was an artistic production such as a drama. A football game was an unrehearsed spectacle which the camera recorded and an announcer described without a prepared script.

On the question of whether a public performance had been given, Mr. Gowling said no performance was given by Rediffusion which merely provided by wire the television broadcast.

Use "Third Sea" To Train Reserve

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Canadian Navy plans to use the Great Lakes as a "third sea" to train reserve forces, Commodore Kenneth F. Adams told a press conference here Wednesday.

Commodore Adams, commander of Canada's naval reserve, said it is planned o increase "many times" the training facilities which now exist on the lakes, thus relieving pressure on the Atlantic and Pacific commands.

Commodore Adams, whose headquarters are at Hamilton, was here in the course of a western tour. With the official title of commanding officer naval divisions, he heads a new Canada-wide command, formed only two months ago, and hopes to increase reserve strength from 7,000 to 15,000.

Included in the great Lakes training, which will be built up gradually, would be university naval training cadets. The plan will get under way next year.

Montreal Doctor, 85, Given Top Award For Reorganizing McGill Medical School

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Canadian Medical Association awarded a top honor to one of its distinguished veterans Wednesday.

Dr. Charles F. Martin of Montreal received the Starr Award at the annual meeting of the association held on the third day of its 86th annual convention. The meetings wind up Friday.

Today's sessions will include several round-table discussions, three general sessions and two sectional meetings.

The Starr Award was made in absentia to the 85-year-old medical pioneer. The award, in honor of the late Dr. Frederick G. N. Starr of Toronto, goes to the Canadian physician or surgeon whose achievement is so outstanding as to serve as an inspiration to the medical profession.

Dr. Martin, in the citation, was credited with reorganization of the preclinical department and expansion of the medical school at McGill University, Montreal, his alma mater. He was credited with a large part in founding the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons in Canada. He is a past president and senior member of the CMA.

NO RIGID POLICIES

Dr. M. C. W. Burns of Winnipeg, in his inaugural address as incoming president of the CMA, said it would be impossible to enunciate a rigid policy for the organization, but election year will probably bring problems affecting the welfare of the members.

Despite the experience of other countries, the trend continues toward socialized medicine, he said.

"We have a tradition which is as old as historic man and which . . . has withstood the challenges of (centuries). I can assure you we will not stand idly by and allow these standards to be jeopardized by the interests of political expediency."

Dr. Burns succeeds the late Dr. Harold Orr of Edmonton.

During the Wednesday session delegates heard Dr. Robert A. Mustard of Toronto criticize Canada's unpreparedness for a national emergency.

LETHARGY, EVASION

In a paper on the management of civilian disaster casualties, Dr. Mustard said public lethargy and political evasion should not be allowed to postpone preparations.

A Sudbury doctor, I. W. Davidson, told his colleagues more civilians are surviving serious injury because of lessons learned by doctors on the battlegrounds of Korea.

He said new methods, wuch as the use of intradex—a substance used to maintain blood pressure—and artificial kidneys, are being successfully transferred to civilian life.

The general practitioner is the keystone of the profession, the man who first sees 95 per cent of the patients and treats 85 per cent of them, said Dr. W. B. Tufts of Outlook, Sask.

Dr. Tufts is a general practitioner of 20 years standing, serving a 2,800-square-mile area in south-central Saskatchewan.

MDs NEED HOSPITALS

The secret of interesting a student in becoming a GP is to establish community hospitals, he added. The young doctor does not want to work where a hospital is not available.

Earlier in the day Dr. Edward P. Burch of St. Paul, Minn., said the trouble with half the people who report for eye examinations is mainly psychological and headaches attributed to eye strain are often the result of psychoneuroiss. Heredity and the physical make-up of the person are also involved.

A round table conference on thyroid diseases agreed that prompt surgery is still the most effective check for cancer of the thyroid.

Wing Cmdr. A. L. Bocking of the parachute training school at Rivers, Man., demonstrated a survival kit issued to Canadian airmen flying in the North. Little more than two feet square, the kit includes a collapsible .22-calibre rifle, a radio, food and hunting equipment.

Review Japs' Terms

THE HAGUE (AP)—A foreign office spokesman said today the Dutch government is prepared to review the jail sentences passed by Dutch courts in Indonesia on 200 Japanese war criminals. Cuban Quits Job As Ottawa Consul

MONTREAL (CP)—William Espinosa y Domininguez, who for 19 years served under six Cuban governments and held posts in the United States and Canada, has handed in his resignation as Cuban consul-general in Montreal.

Mr. Espinosa, reinstated more than a week ago after being fired, re-hired and fired again for "extending courtesy to an ex-president of Cuba," announced his resignation Wednesday night.

Just what he will do now was not known, but the last time he was fired he said he would not return to Cuba, but would remain in Montreal and look for a job.

Mr. Espinosa's out-again, in-again experience started early this month for welcoming former president Dr. Carlos Prio Socarras, who was attending policy meetings here of exiled Cuban leaders Dr. Prio Socarras was ousted last year by President Fulgencio Batista in a bloodless, revolutionary coup.

It was believed that J. Castello, Cuban vice-consul in Montreal, would take over Mr. Espinosa's duties. Mr. Castello was named acting-consul during the times the latter was fired from the post.

Oxford Cricket Pitch Scarred By 'Malenkov'

OXFORD, England (AP)—Grounds keepers at the Oxford University cricket pitch were dumfounded today to find "Malenkov" written in the outfield turf in nine-inch letters. They said the name of the Soviet prime minister apparently was burned into the greensward either with gasoline or acid.

Malenkov will have to remain in the outfield until the grass grows again.

To Reduce Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj.-Gen. Robert N. Young, assistant army chief of staff, told a senate appropriations sub-committee Wednesday the army expects to cut its strength from 1,533,800 men next July 1 to 1,423,000 men a year later. Young said that if fighting continued in Korea, the Far Eastern command would have to have 337,000 replacements in a year under the present system of rotating troops home.

Car Flips Over, Wrecked Girl, Grandfather Escape

A late model car was wrecked Wednesday afternoon when it flipped on Highway 28, just north of Bailieboro. Its driver, Paul Henry Dubar, 65, of Oriole Parkway, Toronto, suffered superficial cuts on his face while a passenger, 12-year-old Gail McAvoy, his granddaughter, escaped without injury.

According to OPP Constables Bill Warner and Frank Clough of Cobourg who investigated, the car was on its way north to a summer cabin when the accident occurred.

The car skidded on the wet pavement on a downgrade, crossed the road to the west ditch, hit an embankment and fell back on the road on its right side. The accident occurred about 2:30.

The front of the car was crushed, the right side pushed in and the frame twisted. The right front windshield was broken where the driver fell against it.

The inside of the vehicle was covered with preserved raspberries. Loose jars of fruit had broken and spilled on the impact.

Nisbett's ambulance conveyed the pair to Dr. Bob J. Young's clinic in Peterborough where they were treated.

A GIRL AND HER GRANDFATHER escaped serious injury when their car skidded on wet pavement just north of Bailieboro Wednesday afternoon and flipped over in the ditch. Although the windshield was smashed on the left side and the car was badly wrecked, 12-year-old Gail McAvoy was unhurt and her grandfather, Henry Dubar, Toronto, received a cut on his head. A local resident, Albert Vowles, examines the damage.

Bishop Performs Confirmation At Anniversary

ROSENEATH (ENS). — "What is Wrong with the World?" was the subject of an address by the Rt. Rev. A. R. Beverly, Bishop of Toronto, at the Confirmation service at St. James' Anglican Church Tuesday evening.

Bishop Beverly gave four answers to his question: 1 Too many silly people in the world who are never serious; 2 too many people who do not tell the truth; 3 too many grabbers; 4 the evil that is in the world through lust.

The Bishop said: "The interest you have in the church is in proportion to what you are doing for it. The greatest happiness in life is to live unselfishly."

The service was conducted by the rector, the Rev. A. J. Patstone, who presented the four candidates for Confirmation: Larry Timlin, Nelda Brown, Margaret Baker, and Dale Braithwaite.

90TH ANNIVERSARY

Standing on what is known as English Church Hill, the church, one of the landmarks of Alnwick Township, was also marking its 90th anniversary. The chancel was decorated with baskets of cut flowers.

Bishop Beverly congratulated the rector and congregation on the splendid condition of the interior and exterior of the church, and said: "The common objective of the church is to lay foundations for the Kingdom of God among men."

The church has had 24 rectors and 11 organists. Nine weddings have been solemnized in the church and four generations of families have been baptized and confirmed there.

The church, with its setting of velvet smooth lawn and well-kept cemetery is a monument to the pioneers of 100 years ago, who, in emigrating to the virgin lands of Alnwick Township, left their churches behind them, but brought their Bibles with them.

Unity Necessary For Church Union

HOUSTON (AP)—The president of the Lutheran Church Missouri synod said Wednesday merger with other church bodies can be done only on the basis of genuine doctrinal unity.

"God does not need great numbers," Dr. John W. Behnken, St. Louis, said in his presidential address before the opening business session of the synod's 42nd triennial convention.

The 69-year-old former Houston pastor was re-elected to his seventh three-year term as president.

Dr. Behnken said:

"It is better to stand alone and remain small in numbers, but have God on your side, than to be linked up with many church bodies ,to have great numbers but to have offended God."

On the other hand, he said, it is not God-pleasing to refuse to link with other church bodies when unity in biblical doctrine and scriptual practice has been achieved.

King Bros. and Cristiani Combined Circus left at least one thing in Peterborough when they checked out Wednesday night, in the person of John Walker of New York.

Walker, looking very disgruntled and unkempt, appeared in the prisoners' box of Magistrate's Court today on a drunk charge. Faced with the prospect of paying a $12.50 fine, the accused who was broke, still pleaded guilty.

No money, no freedom, and as a result, the circus will have to do without Walker for thenext 10 days.

"They only paid me $15 a week anyway," he grumbled.

BUDWORM CITY, N.B.—A new type of wildlife has been introduced into Canada in the course of this mammoth and costly effort to rid the New Brunswick forest of the destructive Spruce Budworm. This type may be identified as The Spray Pilot. One of the top men in this field—Herb Henderson—described The Spray Pilot for all time when he said: "Some people are naturally-born gookey in the head. They become spray pilots." This is probably as good as a general description as could be found for those tough, good-natured pilots who spend their lives flying old-fashioned biplanes, loaded with insecticide and gasoline, at heights ranging from three feet to 100 feet.

R.E.I. Doctor For 66 Years Claim Record For World

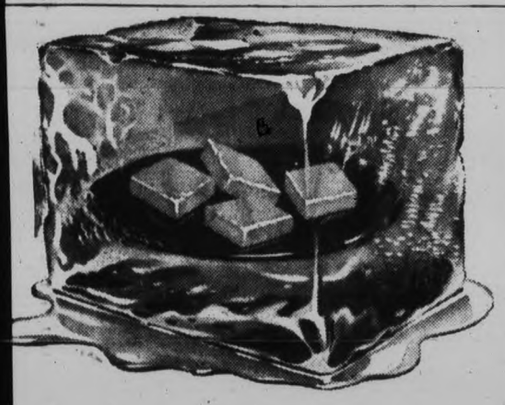
CHARLOTTETOWN— (CP) — Dr. Roderick J. Macdonald, a country doctor for 66 of his 96 years, is acclaimed by the Prince Edward Medical Society as perhaps the dean of his profession in the world.

Still going strong and with no thoughts of retirement, Dr. Macdonald was given a testimonial dinner and presentation recently by the society. They invited Dr. Doddie's first delivery case —man of 65—but he couldn't take it. And they figured his youngest— a five-week baby—a bit too young for a night out.

Dr. Macdonald hasn't yet refused a call—day or night—during his practice at St. Peters, as the only physician within 15 miles. He once spent a winter night on the ice of St. Peter's Bay, marooned while on a call. He has rushed to so many emergency cases that his walk rather resembles an average person's spring. Mention retirement and his usual reply is: "What, do you thing I am, slipping?"

Dr. Harold Shaw, president of the P.E.I. medical group said Dr. Macdonald is "A splendid and outstanding example of a class of physicians who for years have been the heart and soul of the profession, the general practitioner, better known as the family doctor."

CLAIM WORLD RECORD



"We are not aware," Dr. Shaw said, "that a similar record has ever occurred in medical history and we hereby claim for you not only a provincial or dominion record but a world record."

He recalled that only recently Pope Pius XII had made Dr. Macdonald a Knight of St. Gregory, highest order of the Roman Catholic Church for a layman.

Born at Maple Hill, P.E.I., Dr. Macdonald received his medical degree at the University of Toronto and returned home to hang out his shingle. A life-long Progressive Conservative, he served for one term in the Island Legislature. An extensive reader, he studies nearly everything he can lay his hands on, with the exception of fiction. He reads fiction only if it has a historical background. He says can learn something from such stories but nothing can be gained from the rest. If he can't learn something he leaves them alone.

Ends Long Service

OSOYOOS, B.C. (CP)—Mrs. Jean Pugh is voluntarily retiring after operating a rural mail route mere for 14 years. During her service, rural deliveries increased from 23 boxes to 210.

Strange Creature Inhabits High Himalayas May Be Missing Link

Peter Jackson, who covered the conquest of Mount Everest for Reuters, in the following story discusses the legend of "the abominable snowman", the strange creature which is supposed to inhabit the high Himalayas.

By PETER JACKSON

THYANGBOCHE MONASTERY, Nepal (Reuters)—The world outside may argue about the legendary abominable snowmen of the Himalayas, but to the Sherpas, whose home they share, their existence is a fact needing no proof.

Few people claim to have seen them though many will tell how the howls of the yeti, as it is known locally, may be heard from the snows of the towering, inaccessible peaks around Everest, the world's highest mountain.

The yetis' most recent appearance occurred only three years ago on a slope facing this monastery, situated on a saddle overlooking two deep valleys and dominated by the vast mass of Chomolungma, the people's name for the Everest massif.

Tsangyi Lama said that the yeti had been seen by all the lamas of the monastery.

"It was early evening when we saw it sitting well up the slope of Ka Tega," he told me. "It was a huge creature with yellowish long hair growing downwards from the waist and upwards on the upper part of the body. There was no hair on the face but its hair, which was short on top of the head, grew up to a point.

CALLED MONKEYMEN

"All the lamas blew horns and shouted and it bounded away up the mountain leaping with its black legs together and front legs, or arms, together. Its back feet faced backwards."

The Sherpas who speak English called the yetis "monkeymen" and say that the face is like that of a monkey with flattened nose, bulging forehead and big jaws. Their food consists of rats and weasels and dwarf juniper, though some also eat cattle.

The belief that one kind of yeti, a smaller one about the size of a human being, is a man-eater is widespread and an instance is quoted of how a baby was taken by a yeti from a village some miles from here.

The tremendous strength of the yeti is legendary among the Sherpas. A rock seen to have been moved easily by a yeti could not be lifted by six tough local men, they say.

FOUND FOOTPRINTS

How long the yeti will remain an enigma to the scientists no one can say. All agree that there is some creature living high among the snows of the world's highest mountains. In 1951, British mountain-climber Erich Shipton and his party, who were on a reconnaissance expedition in the Everest area, twice found footprints which their Sherpas declared at once to be that of a yeti.

They said that it did not resemble the track of any known bear or ape.

The most intriguing theory is that the yeti will prove to be the missing link between the ape and man. A Nepalese scientist, Col. K. N. Rana, has susggested that this long sought creature was isolated in the Himalayan region millions of years ago when the mountains were thrust up by great earthquakes, and has adapted itself to life among the snows at an altitude where man now finds breathing difficult.

WITH THE SIGNING OF AN ARMISTICE AGREEMENT with the Communists appearing imminent, top United States leaders meet with South Korean President Syngman Rhee at his residence in Seoul, to discuss his opposition to the proposed truce terms. Left to right are: Admiral Arthur Radford, Chairman-Designate of the U.S. chiefs of staff; President Rhee; Ellis O. Briggs, U.S. Ambassador to Korea; Pyun Tung Tai, Republic of Korea Foreign Minister; and Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Eighth Army Commander.

Old Fort York Renovated, Takes New Look

TORONTO (CP)—Fort York built 160 years ago and until recently a crumbling ruin, has been renovated and now is open to public inspection.

The Toronto civic historical committee hasn't done much to the fort's exterior, but has completely repaired the interior.

The pioneer military post has taken on a new look. Walls have been painted, woodwork cleaned and stone floors marked to look like flagstones.

Several private collections of military equipment have been borrowed for display, including cutlasses, flint-lock pistols, epaulets and heavy metal, old lanterns and kitchenware.

The lanterns, however, are only on display. The committee has made one concession to the modern age and installed electricity.

Also shown is a model of the fort as it was in 1816. It shows that a few buildings have disappeared, that Garrison creek no longer flows past the eastern ramparts and that Lake Ontario which used to come to the foot of the embankment now is one-quarter mile away. The fort is located just east of the Canadian National Exhibition grounds.

The committee thinks the fort can support itself within 10 years. A nominal charge for admission is made, although school groups visit it without charge, on application.

Admiral Secures Names Of Mountains

LONDON (CP)—In a speech at a map exhibition, Field Marshal Earl Alexander told of four Aegean mountains called Yam, Yerruc, Eb and Denmad.

They were so named, Britain's defence minister said, when a Royal Navy cruiser docked near them just after the First World War. The admiral, named Currey, sent a staff party out to get the names of the mountains.

They reported the mountains had no names. Angrily the admiral sent them back. This time they reported the names as Yam, Yerruc, Eb and Denmad.

Lord Alexander said it was several months before a sharp cipher clerk at the admiralty worked it out: "May Currey be dammed."

Top Awards Made For Dairy Day

ALMA, Ont. (CP)—Mildred Parkinson of Hillsburgh and David Pelletterio of Milton were named Dairy Maid and Dairy Man at the first Canadian Dairy Day held near here Wednesday.

They were selected from among the province's junior farmers as having contributed the most to dairy farming. The competition was sponsored by the Ontario Milk Distributors' Association to "emphasize the importance of farm youth in the Ontario dairy industry."

The awards were made by M. G. Simpson, executive secretary of the association, who said that "if the dairy industry in Ontario is to continue to thrive, we must do everything in our power to ensure that the ties between our farm youth and the dairy industry are strengthened."

The Dairy Day, sponsored by the Ontario department of agriculture, was held on the farm of Mervin Shantz, just outside Alma, in the Arthur area about 75 miles northwest of Toronto.

Edmonton Man Heads Canadian Gas Group

MONTREAL (CP)—Dennis Yorath of Edmonton was elected president of the Canadian Gas Association at the 46th annual meeting here Wednesday.

Elected to the executive committee were H. Durgy, St. Catharines, J. Fleming and F. Palin, Chatham, Ont., R. McLellan, Wallaceburg, Ont., among others.

It was decided to hold the 1954 convention at Niagara Falls, Ont.

Let Women Delegates Into COF Convention

VANCOUVER (CP) — For the first time in the 74-year history of the Canadian Order of Foresters, women have been admitted as delegates to a national convention.

The convention opened here Tuesday with more than 900 delegates in attendance. The fraternal organization has a membership of 44,000.

Administration and constitutional issues were dealt with at private business sessions Wednesday.

The meeting ends today with election of high court officers.

Mink Coat Hope For Ballet Guild

TORONTO (CP)—The National Ballet Guild of Canada ended its second season with more than one feather in its cap but its future rested temporarily on a mink coat.

At the annual general meeting Wednesday the treasurer, Victor Barnett, reported a deficit of $1,053 although the income from productions of $117,457 was 2½ times greater than the previous season.

President Z. B. B. Lash said the deficit would probably be covered by proceeds from the ballet summer school. But the next season would be started on little more than a mink coat donated to the guild for fund-raising.

Mr. Lash and artistic director Celia Franca said, however, that tremendous progress has been made during the last year.

An estimated audience of 65,000 saw the ballet on its Vancouver-to-Halifax tour which covered some 25 cities and towns.

Guest speaker Dr. Edward Johnson, former manager of New York's Metropolitan Opera, said that cultural organizations today face a public that in some respects are "away ahead of us." Television radio and recordings had built up a critical audience, he said.

He advocated music as a "must" in education.

New Pool Built At Hot Springs

INVERMERE, B.C. (CP)—Radium Hot Springs, $1,000,000 aquacourt built in 1951 by the federal government opened earlier this year, is expecting a record number of tourists and arthritic sufferers seeking relief.

A new 25-metre pool, half olympic size, has been lighted by 17 1,000-watt submerged lights and the 114-degree (Fahrenheit) water issuing from the rocks at the source is expected to attract well over last year's 120,729 visitors.

The water from the pools flows from the base of Redstreak mountain at a rate of 300 gallons a minute.

Chemical analysis has confirmed the existence of radium in the water. While medical authorities remain reluctant to concede the curative value of the water, it is reported that many people arriving in wheel chairs or on crutches have walked away after relaxing in the tepid bath.

When James Sinclair (whose name remained on the nearby canyon, pass and creek) visited the spot in 1888, the Indians told him of the springs. They held great faith in the healing quality of the waters.

The pools became more popular following construction of the Banff-Windermere highway, but a log and stucco building erected to accommodate the ever-increasing flow of visitors was ravaged by fire in 1948.

The federal government in 1951 remedied the situation with the big aquacourt which has attracted visitors from almost every part of North America and from overseas.

The Radium Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce this year plans to build a series of trails and footpaths throughout the park for visitors. A more ambitious project is to light Sinclair Canyon at night so that its renowned scenery may be seen after dusk.

Long Service

HALIFAX (CP)—Hedley Vayne, who was hired originally "to help out" in a big snow storm, is retiring after 30 years' service with the Nova Scotia Light and Power Company. He was general repairman for Halifax trolley coaches.

Arrest Windsor Doctor In Attempted Extortion

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Dr. F. V. Auberle of nearby Tecumseh was arrested on a downtown Detroit street corner Wednesday for questioning in connection with an attempted extortion.

The arrest took place after Robert L. Weir, a former Windsor resident and prominent Detroit business man, reported he received several telephone calls from a man who demanded $1,000.

Mr. Weir said the caller identified himself as "Mr. Martin" and said he was seeking funds for the "Detroit Juke Box Gang." Mr. Weir said the man threatened to "take care of" Weir's 10-year-old daughter "with acid in the face" if he did not pay up.

The juke box reference was believed to have been a reference to a recent hearing into the operation of juke box establishments which was adjourned after an important witness was unable to appear.

Both Mr. Weir and Dr. Auberle are members of nearby beach Grove Golf Club. Later the man telephoned Mr. Weir and asked to meet him with $500 on a downtown corner.

Accompanied by plain clothesmen from police headquarters, Mr. Weir went to the appointed street but no one turned up to collect the money. "Martin" called Weir again and arranged another meeting for noon Wednesday, Mr. Weir said.

Again accompanied by police, Mr. Weir went to the spot. There a teen-age boy asked for the envelope. Police questioned the youth who said he had been instructed by an unidentified man to pick up the envelope.

Later, after police arrested Dr. Auberle who they said was watching Weir from a nearby store, the youth identified the doctor as the man who had instructed him to meet Weir to collect the envelope.

Stately royal palms line the entrance to the hotel.

Ask For Report From E. Pierce

Discussion of garbage collection by the Beggs committee was reported by its chairman Monday night. The exact position of the council on this question which so far is only in the broaching stage is expressed in the following clause from the committee report read by Ald. W. J. Beggs:

"That the Superintendent (Elmo Pierce), with the assistance of the City Clerk, prepare, following full investigation, a complete report at an early date, dealing with the probable results, both economically and any serious inconvenience to the average household, if the city adopts one collection per week to residential properties for garbage, so that if this system is adopted the committee may have all the facts to in form the ratepayers of the reasons for the change, before September 1 this year."

Whooping Cough Upset Youth's Glandular Balance

CLERMONT, Ky. (AP)—At 3½, Billy Greenwell caught whooping cough. Until then, he had been a normal youngster.

Today, Billy is 15, weighs 402½. That's a pound more than he weighed last week. Hell weigh a pound more next week at his present rate of growth, 50 pounds a year.

The whooping cough apparently upset Billy's glandular balance. A doctor recommended corrective injections, but they were too expensive. So Billy just grew and grew.

He would like to play ball and the other games but he simply can't pack all that weight around. So more and more he's content to sit and read, or look at television. He stopped going to school because the horse-drawn wagon which served as a school bus shook him too much. But he's bright and reads everything he can.

Billy's father, a 190-pound distillery mechanic buys his son size 20 shirts. Billy's appetite is just as big as his shirts.

His mother tries to discourage overeating, but Billy's idea of an ideal meal is boiled potatoes, beans, macaroni, biscuits, an orange drink, cake and pie. He also likes oranges, apples, bananas, wieners, bologna and peanuts.

Lands 7-Pound Pickerel

TIMMINS (CP)—E. F. Dickson of Timmins Wednesday claimed this year's record for pickerel—a seven-pounder when gutted. He caught the fish in the Whitefish river, 20 miles east of here, using a plug bait.

Chosen CCF Candidate

OTTAWA (CP)—Ernest Cousineau of nearby Orleans Wednesday night was named CCF candidate for Russell constituency in the Aug. 10 federal election. He received the support of a nomination meeting in suburban Eastview.

Howe Claims PCs Lack Knowledge

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP)—Trade Minister C. D. Howe said Wednesday night that Progressive Conservative insistence on Canada's natural resources being processed before export "shows a lack of judgment and lack of knowledge of what makes the economy of Canada strong."

Canada's prosperity is based on exchange with other countries, he told a meeting of the Oxford Liberal Association which nominated Clark Murry, MP, as its candidate for the Aug. 10 election. The Dominion was rich in many things but deficient in others. The aluminum industry, for instance, depended on bauxite, all imported.

"I wonder how long the aluminum industry would last if Canada adopted a policy, as the opposition would have it, of exporting no nickel, say, unless it was processed first," Mr. Howe said.

CCL Publicity Man Joins Steelworkers

TORONTO (CP)—Jack Williams, 46, of Ottawa, publicity director of the Canadian Congress of Labor since 1946, has resigned to take a similar position with the Canadian branch of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), the Steelworkers union said here Wednesday.

C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the Steelworkers Union, said Mr. Williams takes over his new duties July 15. He succeeds Murray Cotterill who recently became personal representative to Mr. Millard in Western Canada.

Mr. Williams is a former newspaper man who worked with The Canadian Press and the St. Catharines Standard.

In Ottawa, CCL officials said no successor has been chosen for Mr. Williams.

Blast Baltic Reds

LONDON (AP) — The Kremlin has sternly rebuked the top Red leaders in Lithuania and ordered drastic shake-ups in the party and government in that captive Baltic state, Moscow radio said Wednesday night.

The broadcast said the central committee of the Lithuanian Communist party has decided to correct "serious shortcomings in the political work and control of the state."

Ottawa Considers Building Married Men's Quarters

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence department is reported considering the erection of quarters in Europe for married soldiers and airmen posted abroad for two years or more.

If carried out, this would be an extension of the plan under which the government will foot the bills for moving dependents of married servicemen abroad if the husband agrees to stay in Europe two years and if he can find accommodation.

The plan, announced two months ago, still hasn't gone into effect. Details have been worked out, but haven't yet been given final approval.

CAPITULATION

The plan and its new possible extension constitute a departmental capitulation. The original concept of service in Europe with he Army's 27th Brigade and he RCAF's 1st air division was that married men would be asked to serve only one year and then come home. The dependents would stay in Canada.

But many of the dependents paid their own way over and showed up in increasing numbers. For a time in Hannover, Germany, there was a delicate situation when married officers and men brought in their wives despite firm suggestions that they shouldn't.

CATCH IN PLAN

The catch in the plan announced two months ago is that the man must find quarters for his dependents. Accommodation in Germany just isn't plentiful.

For that reason consideration is being given to building quarters for married men.

The German government is paying for the barracks for the brigade and for some of the squadrons. Whether the same arrangement would be made for married quarters is a matter of speculation.

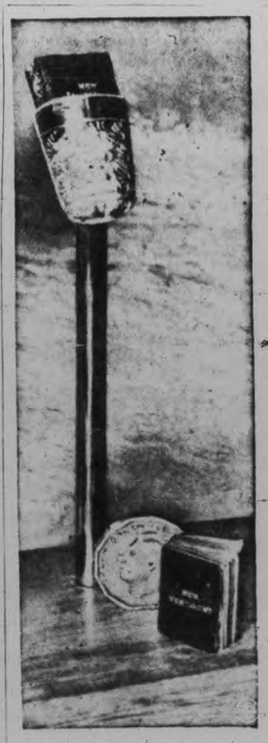
Other Allied servicemen already have their wives and families with them in Germany in quarters provided at German expense through occupation costs.

It is thought that some 2,400 Canadian Army and Air Force men would take advantage of the opportunity to bring their wives and families to married quarters if the opportunity is offered.

Free Lance Stricken At Oxford Nomination

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP)—John Rutherford Timmerman, Woodstock, a free lance writer, died of a heart seizure Wednesday night while covering the Oxford Liberal Association nominating convention. He was 37.

Mr. Timmerman collapsed on the front steps of Woodstock Collegiate after taking photographs of Liberal party members attending the rally. He was the husband of Bess Timmerman, city editor of the Woodstock Sentinel Review, and often covered news events for the paper.



Born in Kingston, he moved to this city more than a year ago.

He is survived by his widow, his mother, two sons, Robin at home, Michael, Kingston, one daughter, Jan, at home; two brothers, Major W. D. Timmerman and Nelles W. Timmerman, both of Ottawa. Funeral service and burial will be in Kingston Friday.

Sentence Commuted

MONTREAL (CP) — Governor Zenon Lesage of Montreal jail said Wednesday that the execution of Marcel Milot of Yamachiche, Que., scheduled for early Friday, has been commuted to life imprisonment.

Milot was convicted of the murder of Mrs. Antonio Lesieur in May, 1951, at Yamachiche. She was shot following an argument over Milot's attentions upon the woman's daughter.

THIMBLED BIBLE—That's a Bible—a whole New Testament—cradled inside a thimble. Another midget Bible is contrasted with a threepenny piece. Printed in 1890, they are said to be the smallest Bibles in the world. They formed part of an exhibition at Westminster Abbey in London.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Strawberry Festival Season

Apologies are in order for overdoing the strawberry theme this week, but your wishes are my commands friends. After that polite talk I've so many methods of using the lovely berries to delight the palates of your precious families that I can't hold myself in check.

It's strawberry festival season and it won't be my fault if you do not serve them in every known guise. I gave you strawberry shortcake earlier, so here's my chance to feature

EMEM'S GLAZED STRAWBERRY PIE

Line a deep pie plate with your best pastry. (1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons boiling water, 1 teaspoon milk and 7 tablespoons shortening make a lovely tender crust). Flute the edges and build them up. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for about 12 minutes. You will need a little more than 1 quart strawberries. Pick out those that are not choice, cut them in halves and measure 1 cup. Mix together 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch (or better still arrowroot for it makes a clearer glaze) and stir into them 1 cup strawberries and ⅞ cup boiling water. Cook stirring until thick then cook 15 minutes in double boiler, covered, stirring occasionally. Strain and cool a little.

Into baked shell put remaining berries, sliced in halves. Sprinkle with 2 tablespons icing sugar. Pour warm glaze over them, being sure it trickles down between all the little crevices. Cool pie. This is delicious just as it is but if you want to gild the lily and gain weight in the bargain, pipe whipped cream around the edge. Or if you want to go still further as my American friends do, serve it with ice cream. In Devonshire they would pass Devonshire cream, but that's too close to paradise for common mortals.

STRAWBERRY MERINGUE PIE

This has a cream filling with strawberry merinkue topping.

Cream Filling: Heat together 1 cup evaporated milk and ½ cup water. Beat 3 egg yolks with ½ cup sugar and ⅛ teaspoon salt, and stir the hot milk into them. Cook in double boiler, stirring, until thick. Remove from heat. Add 1 tablespoon gelatin which has been soaked for 5 minutes in 3 tablespoons water, and 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Cool. When this just begins to set, beat it until foamy, then fold in the stiffy beaten egg whites. Pour into baked pie shell and chill. Just before serving cover with:

Strawberry Meringue: Crush ¾ cup strawberries and to them add ½ cup sugar; ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon lemon juice and 1 egg white. Beat in a deep bowl until foamy. Now add ⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar and beat until stiff. Spread on filled pie. It needs no cooking. This is a good way of introducing strawberries to a meal when you have to make them stretch.

FROZEN STRAWBERRIES

Wash perfect berries in ice water by lowering them in sieve or colander shaking gently for 30 seconds, then lifting them out and draining them on paper towelling. Do not squeeze top of berries with finger tips to remove hulls, but carefully lift it off with tip of knife without puncturing fruit (this is important). Place hulled fruit on tray covered with 2 thickness of paper towelling and chill in refrigerator for 20 minutes. Berries must not be warm when they are put to freee. Measure berries. Measure ¼ as much sugar. In cartons made for freezing fruits and vegetables, start putting berries. When ¼ full, add ¼ of the sugar and so on until carton is full. Seal and freeze.

STRAWBERRY JAM (with pectin).

Strawberry jam without pectin is too sweet for most palates.

Three and ¾ cups prepared crushed berries (you will need 2 quarts perfect ripe berries.) ¼ cup strained lemon juice, 7 cups sugar, ½ bottle liquid pectin. Measure berries into large saucepan. Add lemon juice. Add sugar and mix well. Place over high heat and bring to full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat at once and stir in liquid pectin at once. Stir and skim off any air bubbles for 5 minutes to cool a little and prevent floating fruit. Pour into sterile jelly glasses. Coat with hot new paraffin at once adding second coating when cold.

Group To Start School For Retarded Children

As a follow-up to the recent survey made by the education committee of the Local Council of Women, a small, interested group met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Beck, Charlotte St. Wednesday evening and formed the nucleus of the Peterborough Council for Retarded Children.

The following were appointed to the executive:

President, Mr. J. J. Menary; secretary, Mrs. E. Chambers; treasurer, Mr. M. Beck; publicity, Mrs. A. W. Nelson and Miss Marg et Green; membership, Mrs. G. H. Hewitt; telephone convener, Mrs. E. Davidson.

Discussion centred on the need and possibility of establishing in the fall a school, similar to those now functioning in Kirkland Lake, Brantford, Hamilton and Toronto, for retarded children who are not accepted into public schools or auxiliary classes because of their mental and physical handicaps.

Recognition of such schools by the Ontario government, with an annual grant per pupil to assist with the cost of education and administration, is most encouraging to the parents, who must assume their responsibility toward financing this project. The government will act through the Ontario Association for Retarded Children which was formed this spring and with which this local unit will affiliate.

Considerable ground work must be done by this group within the next several months if such a school is to go into operation in the fall. Determination of the parents coupled with the hopeful vision of others vitally interested and the co-operation of Peterborough citizens should make it possible to give these children their rightful chance to be educated to some degree.

Fund-raising activities will be planned during the summer months. A picnic is being arranged to give parents and children the opportunity to meet each other.

An annual membership fee was set at $1 per person and membership tickets will be available from any member of this new Council within the next few days. The drive will be for 500 memberships which will help considerably toward the opening of the class for which a teacher with certain qualifications and an assistant will be needed.

President Menary will look into the matter of a suitable location and report to the executive on June 24th. Mr. Menary, a new citizen of Peterborough, has had experience on the executive of the Toronto school. An invitation to visit this school has been accepted for early September.

Further information regarding this project may be obtained by telephoning 3281 or 25617.

Keeping Sunday

OMEMEE. (ENS).—The Trinity United Church WA met with the president, Mrs. H. Deyell, opening with the reading of the Women's Association creed.

Thankyou notes were read from Mrs. A. Rutherford, Mrs. George Overholt, Roger Northey, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Pogue, Mrs. Henry and Jean Hyland, and verbal thanks given by Mrs. T. A. McConnell on behalf of Mr. McConnell.

Mrs. H. Graham, Christian citizenship convener, spoke on "Observance of Sunday," dealing with excuses for commercializing Sunday, the need of keeping it as a day of rest and making it possible for others to keep it. The Christian Sunday, the Holy Bible and the Church were upheld as three important means of grace which should be restored to their proper place in the life of a Christian citizen.

Group leader Mrs. T. J. Pogue announced the worship theme, "Purity of Heart," and read the hymn "I Would Be Pure." The beatitudes were read by Mrs. Gordon Bocock, and Mrs. A. N. Weir commented on their significance. Mrs. R. E. Brooks led in prayer.

Among the world's first string instruments, the harp was known as far back as 3,000 B.C.

For The Bridal Shower

This is the time of year when brides march down the aisle, so from now on, the bridal showers will occupy a favored spot in home entertaining.

Refreshments for a party honoring the bride-to-be follow a certain pattern. They must be festive and feminine in appearance, by all means. Flavors tend to be delicate. Sweet things seem to win out.

So here's our contribution to the table for brides. It's Apricot Angel Cake, a feathery light angel food cake with a filling and topping of apricot cream.

The cake itself can be homemade or bakery-bought. It's the aprocit cream that transforms it into a "bridey" dessert.

Stop in the baby food department of your local food market or drug store, pick up a jar or can of junior apricots and applesauce. Its clear, fresh fruit flavor is the secret of your "frosting's" fine flavor.

Here's the complete recipe:

APRICOT ANGEL CAKE

2 teaspons unflavored gelatine
¼ cup orange juice
1 tin strained apricots
1 tin strained applesauce
2 teaspoons lemon juice
⅛ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup granulated sugar
1 cup (½ pint) whipping cream, whipped
1 small (8-12 ounce) angel food cake

Soften gelatin in orange juice; dissolve over hot water. Combine apricots, applesauce and next 3 ingredients; chill, without stirring, until firm. Beat mixture with electrict mixer or rotary beater until light and foamy; fold in whipped cream. Slice cake horizontally into 3 layers. Spread apricot mixture between layers, on top and on sides of cake. Chill several hours or until firm. Makes 8 servings.

These strained fruits—prepared especially for the small fry—are handy foods to have on hand. Strained apricots, strained peaches, strained prunes—all make luscious toppings for ice cream, cake and custard.

Decorate your cake with green grapes, if desired.

Woman Star Combines Baking With Athletics

TORONTO (CP) — One of Europe's woman sports stars who now lives in Toronto combines baking with her athletic activities.

She is Mrs. Hilde Doleschell, an attractive blonde from Vienna who has some 30 championships to her credit. She won 10 tennis titles in her native Austria and represented her country four times at Wimbledon.

Twice Mrs. Dolchel won the Hungarian International Tennis Cup and one year took the Czech International Tennis Cup.

But let's explain what she's doing in a bakery truck before going on to her skiing, field hockey, table tennis, and horse racing.

In 1945 U.S. occupation troops took over the store she and her husband operated in vienna. In November, 1951, the Doleschells and their son Michael, 9, came to Canada.

They brought machinery, some money and know-how about baking and a special European coffee-making technique.

They now have three bakery shops here and Mrs. Doleschell delivers the good to the two branches from the main store where the baking is done.

Back in 1941 Mrs. Doleschell won the German International Skiing Cup. In Vienna in 1951 she won top honors in women's harness racing.

She also won many mixed doubles tennis trophies with the well-known George Metaxa, Austrian tennis hampion killed at Leningrad in the Second World War.

Her field hockey and table tennis skill has also brought her honors.

Just a few weeks ago she won suburban Leaside Tennis Club's invitation tournament.

During one week—in between driving a truck and running the bake shops—she managed to defeat 18 other contenders. On the final Saturday she just had time to score a quick 6-3, 6-2 win, pick up her silverware and get back to business.

OES Defeats Rain Successfully With Indoor Tea

A very successful tea was held Wednesday afternoon by the Order of the Eastern Star at the home of Mrs. Rachael Rose, 593 Homewood Ave., despite adverse weather.

Previous plans were for a garden tea on the lawn of Mrs. Rose's home, but rain made it necessary to hold the tea indoors.

The hostess' home was attractively decorated with several bouquets of peonies and iris, and flags and bunting. The many guests were received at the door by Mrs. A. J. Newton, worthy matron, Mrs. Keith Armstrong, associate matron, and Mrs. Rose.

The conveners for the tea were Mrs. P. D. Windrim and Mrs. A. K. Knott, and the hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. V. Smith and Mrs. O. Williamson.

Mrs. Newton made the draw for a crocheted chesterfield set, which was won by Miss Isabel Hamilton.

The servers were Mrs. O. Brailey, Mrs. Victor Coombes, Mrs. Herbert Bromley, Mrs. J. Weir, Mrs. Cyril Davis, Mrs. Carlyle Ferguson, Mrs. R. Keating, Mrs. Elmer Williamson, Mrs. William Cross, Mrs. Robert Russell, Mrs. Roy Matthews, Don Worboy, Mrs. Bernard Holloway, Mrs. George Bennett, Mrs. Walter Smillie, Mrs. Albert Watkins, Mrs. M. Irish, Mrs. D. Duder, Mrs. Roy Brown, Mrs. Art Malby, Mrs. Orm Culver and Mrs. William Beggs.

Mrs. Percy Moore made tea, and assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. Harry Green, Mrs. Robert Hutton, Mrs. Gerald Ireland and Mrs. Gordon Webb.

The bazaar table was under convenership of Mrs. D. Hillier, assisted by Mrs. J. McGovarin, Mrs. J. H. Hall, Mrs. E. Renwick, Mrs. W. Jewell, Mrs. A. S. Metheral, Mrs. S. Richardson and Mrs. Walter Wheeler.

Mrs. P. Butler was convener of the candy table, and her assistants were Mrs. O. Kidd and Mrs. G. Bennett. The home-bake table was convened by Mrs. S. Ward, assisted by Mrs. W. Butcher, Mrs. M. Moncrief, Mrs. A. Munro, Mrs. F. Hardwick, Mrs. O. Culver and Mrs. K. Sisson.

Mrs. D. Leckie, Mrs. W. Terrace and Mrs. L. M. Greenslade told fortunes.

Mrs. J. Miles and Miss Evelyn Bailey took tickets at the door and Mrs. D. Hillier sold tickets on a hand - crocheted lace tablecloth which is to be drawn for in the fall. Mrs. Robert Merrett sold tickets on a garden urn which will be drawn for at the next chapter meeting.

DOROTHY DIX:

Enjoy Writing To Men They've Never Met

DEAR MISS DIX: Several of my friends and I get a great deal of pleasure from corresponding with boys in service, even though we've never met them. We don't expect any big romances to spring from our writing. We do it because we love to write letters, are considered pretty good at it, and feel that we are cheering the boys who receive our mail. However, older members of our families claim it's a dangerous thing to do. They feel that we shouldn't write to boys unless we've been properly introduced, and know all about them. Since we are all girls in our late teens and early twenties, we feel our judgment can be trusted.

THE GIRLS.

ANSWER: This letter is typical of many I receive on the same subject, so its answer covers many other inquiries. In my opinion, if properly conducted, there is nothing wrong or dangerous in this type of correspondence. Of course it can lead to difficulties if unwisely handled, but so can almost any other situation in life. Boys in service appreciate, and even need, cheerful letters from home—a fact so well established that it needs no emphasis here. Perhaps if more mail went to them, there wouldn't be so many unhappy alliances with girls overseas.

Correspodence with unknown boys is definitely unwise when its only object is to promote a quick romance. That is why the project is not recommended for young teen-agers. However, when a girl approaches 19 or 20, she should be sufficiently stable to direct the tenor of the mail in such a way that neither she nor the boy becomes emotionally involved. Since both writers want to know as much about each other as possible, it's simple to establish in the first letter or so such details of the boy's life as would be considered important. An exchange of snapshots is almost inevitable, and provides, at least, a mutual knowledge of looks. Background data should be similar, and form the basis for chatty letters.

DEAR MISS DIX: A year ago my husband and I became friendly with another young couple in the neighborhood. The friendship progressed until now we see each other at least once a week. My husband and the young man have established a much firmer companionship than the wife and I have. I feel we should see less of the couple, my husband would like to spend more time with them. Am I making too much of a trifle?

ROSE G.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Perhaps you are making too much of the issue. Why not widen your circle of acquaintances with the hope of finding a more congenial companion for yourself, in which case you would be less likely to resent your husband's preoccupation with his pal? Going out as a foursome once a week certainly should not constitute a chore for you, especially since you admit a fondness for both young people. Your trouble is largely boredom with everything, including yourself. New friends and activities will do wonders for you.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My steady boy friend is attending a local college, and though he professes to love me, we see each other only on weekends, and he doesn't even call during the week. He says he just doesn't have a chance. Should I break off with him?

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You need a little briefing on the demands of a college education. Since the boy is studying seriously and arduously, it is quite conceivable that he has little time for telephoning. If lack of attention makes you so angry, you'd be doing him a favor to break off the friendship, but you'd be passing up a worthwhile boy. Would you prefer a nincompoop who had nothing to do but spend his time on the telephone?

Realtors Can Now List Properties With All Offices

The Peterborough Real Estate Board today announced the formation of a Co-operative Listing Division under the management of Donald Lillico, a former city realtor.

The purpose of the "Co-op" is a means to list property for sale with all realtors in the city and district so that faster sales will result from their concentrated efforts.

Here's how it works: A person interested in selling his home or other property may call any broker who is a member of the Peterborough Real Estate Board and ask to have the property listed co-operatively. A salesman will call and inspect the property filling out the detailed listing form required by the board.

This form is taken to the Co-op office at 87 Hunter St. W. where a staff under Mr. Lillico process the listing, assign a number to each and immediately dispatch copies to the office of every realtor in the Peterborough area.

The effect of having the complete sales force of all the real estate agencies at work on each listing is sometimes startling. One of the first co-op listings to come through this week was sold within 24 hours, and another was sold the same afternoon it was listed. As one realtor explained: "It's just the difference between having one man or sixty to work for you."

To cover the higher cost of processing and distributing listings to all offices the commission rate on co-op listings is 5% of the sale price on city residential property, compared to 3½% on an exclusive listing to an individual broker. Rates on farm, business, and resort property varies according to a scale fixed by the Ontario Association of Real Estate Boards.

The Co-operative Listing division is only one of a number of ambitious projects to be undertaken by the revitalized Real Estate Board under the guidance of President Ross Thompson. Since realtors consciously or otherwise play an important part in the growth of a community, it is felt that their activities should be organized to play a constructive sale in planning and development.

The formation of the Co-op was organized after six months study of co-operative systems in Ottawa, Toronto, Sudbury, Chatham and Hamilton. The Boards of those cities have sent experts to Peterborough to analyze the real estate market in conjunction with committees of the Peterborough realtors.

The plan which has finally evolved is considered the most efficient in Ontario because it combines the best features of all the other systems.

Ottawa Commutes Death Sentence

OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet, on advice that Marcel Milot of Yamachiche, Que., is mentally ill, has commuted his death sentence to life imprisonment, a justice department spokesman said today.

The 28-year-old man was scheduled to be hanged early Friday for the murder of Mrs. Antonio Lesieur in May, 1951, at Yamachiche. She was shot following an argument over Milot's attentions on the woman's daughter.

Damage Millions In Alaska Fire

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Wind-blown flames which started in surrounding timber destroyed two huge multi-million dollar military warehouses at Whittier, 72 miles southeast of here, Wednesday night and were burning uncontrolled.

Alaska defence command officials said the flames were raging through the port's dock and had reached the vicinity of the Alaska railroad depot.

Damage was estimated by the railroad officials as "at least several million dollars" in the destruction of the warehouses alone. They were bulging with military supplies when the blaze started.

The fire started at 5:45 p. m. Alaska time and quickly spread through the sprawling, new area which serves as the military port facility for the entire territory of Alaska.

A special trainload of troops left here at 6 a. m. today to help military stevedore companies stationed at Whittier in fighting the blaze. The town is isolated except by rail and air and the only communications facilities are military. They were clogged and no civilian messages were being accepted.

MARRIED 50 YEARS — Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ford, Wednesday entertained friends and relatives at their home in Coldsprings. —Murray Smith Photo

Coldsprings Couple Married 50 Years Ago

COLDSPRINGS (ENS) — Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ford were "at home" to their friends and relatives Wednesday afternoon and evening to celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Ford, whose maiden name was Mary Davidson, is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Davidson. Mr. Ford is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ford. Both were born near Camborne.

They were married at the home o fthe bride's parents, Camborne, June 17, 1903, by the Rev. Alex McCormack, pastor of the Congregational Church, Coldsprings, at that time. They farmed until retiring in 1938. For the past seven years they have resided in this village.

ACTIVE CITIZENS

Mr. and Mrs. Ford have been life-long residents of this locality and are held in high respect by a host of friends. Both are members of St. Paul's United Church and take a keen interest in activities of the community. Mrs. Ford is an active member of the Women's Missionary Society and Women's Institute.

The bridesmaid of 50 years ago was a cousin Gertrude Davidson, now Mrs. James Taylor of Foam Lake, Sask., who was unable to be present. The groomsman was a brother, the late George Ford.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford have two daughters and one son: Mrs. Stewart Houston (Ella) of Cobourg, Mrs. Milton Harvies (Lorna) of Gores Landing, and George of Camborne. There are 16 grandchildren. All were able to be present for the event.

The dining table was centred by a three-tier cake made by the bride of yesteryear and decorated by her sister Mrs. Hilton Eagleson. It was flanked by tall tapers in crystal holders.

RECEIVES GUESTS

Receiving the guests and attending the guest book was Mrs. Harold Baxter, Cobourg, a niece. Pouring tea were a sister Mrs. Hilton Eagleson of Cobourg and Mrs. T. F. McBride. Serving luncheon were the couple's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. Houston and Mrs. Ford and granddaughters Gena and Margaret Ford.

Among the many flowers received were a basket of yellow roses from Coldsprings Women's Institute, yellow 'mums from Camborne Women's Association, a basket of gladioli from a nephew, Stirling Ford and Mrs. Ford, Kirkland Lake, and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Davidson.

Neighbours presented the couple with a table lamp, as well as several individual gifts. Their family presented an electric teakettle and the grandchildren a teapot and double boiler.

Included among the guests who were present at the wedding 50 years ago were Mrs. H. Eagleson, Mrs. David Dines, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. McBride, Percy and Thomas Davidson, Eldred Lean and Abbie Bell.

Friends and relatives were present from Oshawa, Cobourg, Bethesda South, Gores Landing, Windsor, Hulls Corners, Camborne and Plainville.

$46,000 Fire Razes Mill At Lyndhurst

LYNDHURST (CP)—A spectacular $46,000 fire early today destroyed R. T. Elmy's combined grist and planing mill here and for a time threatened to spread throughout this village 20 miles northwest of Brockville.

Volunteer firemen from Athens, Charleston and Gananoque combined with the local bucket brigade in keeping the flames from spreading as a high wind scattered embers over the rest of this village of 600 persons. However, the wind shifted after about an hour and flames roared harmlessly off in another direction.

The blaze levelled the four buildings which made up the combined mill. Only the shell of the central mill remained standing today.

Veteran Missionary Helps 450 Eskimos

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—For the last 23 years Canon W J. R. James, veteran Anglican missionary, has been preacher, school teacher, doctor, dentist and carpenter to some 450 Eskimos in the Baker Lake region 400 miles northwest of Churchill.

Recently, after eight months visiting "outside," Canon James returned to the bleak northland to continue his work.

While he was absent, church services in the St. Aidan mission at Baker Lake were carried on by Thomas Tapatai, an Eskimo catechist and former pupil. Two other Eskimos trained by the missionary conducted the school classes.

TEACHES ENGLISH

School is held three days a week at the mission, built 23 years ago by Canon James with Eskimo help, which has been his home ever since. The English and Eskimo languages are taught with the aid of specially-prepared textbooks and phonograph records, supplied by the federal government, which also equipped the classroom with a movie projector.

"A knowledge of the English language is of great value to the Eskimo in his trading with the white man as well as in his social life," says Canon James.

He has been pleased with the response of the Eskimos to religion, which he thinks should be taught in every school.

FEARLESS CHRISTIANS

"The Eskimos do not take things at face value and when they embrace Christianity they are fearless and unashamed."

Church services, conducted in the Eskimo tongue, are held twice during the week and twice on Sunday.

But Canon James doesn't confine his work to the mission. Each years he travels to some outlying Eskimo settlement. These trips take him as far as 250 miles out into the cold, barren plains and often require 30 days on the trail with dog team or canoe.

Find More Villains Than Heroes When Tracing Your Family Tree

By MURIEL PENN

LONDON (Reuters)—Every once in a while almost every one gets a hankering to find out what is in his family tree.

Now there's an expert to tell you how to go about it, but he warns you may not like what you find.

L. G. Pine, editor of Burke's Peerage, established book on British nobility, has written a layman's guide to family-tree climbing called "Trace Your Ancestors."

But, he warns, most people who begin looking into the family tree have no notion of what may be lurking in the branches.

Most of them assume that they will find a few kings, perhaps some mediaeval barons, or at least British yeomen of the stalwart "common man" type who helped settle the new world back in the days before the American revolution.

FACE THE TRUTH

He tells ancentor-searchers they must be prepared to "face the truth" and sweetens the pill by saying that the greatest families have had the greatest number of blackguards.

"There will be more villans than heroes or heroines," he says. "Indeed, some of the characters will be downright sordid and ignoble. Nothing has impressed me more than the low character of some noblemen; and I have often been tempted to wonder which country has had the more ignoble nobles."

BETRAYED THEIR COUNTRY

To back up his point he says: "In Scotland, for instance, nobles often betrayed the country to the English. Such treachery was almost always redeemed by the common man. On the whole, though, I think that the nobles of the Netherlands were the worst, for sheer stupidity and callousness to their country's interests."

In tracing ancestors, he points out, the first essential is to have the accurate vital statistics on your father and then start working your way through municipal and church records. You're not likely to find much that is new until you get back beyond four generations.

Suggest Museum To Mark Areas Flooded By Seaway

MORRISBURG, Ont. (CP)—A regional museum may be set up to preserve the strong thread of history, much of it tied closely to the earliest settlement of Upper Canada, which runs through the section of eastern Ontario to be flooded by the St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

Final decision on the museum and other phases of an over-all plan to safeguard the historical associations of the area rests with an advisory committee in Toronto.

James Smart, a retired federal employee whose family connections in the seaway strip go back at least four generations, is drawing up a blueprint for the master plan. He will submit his recommendations to the committee.

Hired shortly after his retirement as director of the national parks branch of the federal government, he has made a painstaking survey of the entire 10,000 acres to be flooded.

SUGGESTS MUSEUM

Mr. Smart, making a pictorial record for his own files, is convinced a museum would be the best and most logical way of collecting the historical specimens and documents of Dundas, Stormont and Glengarry counties. He is sure from his own studies that many of the old homes hide valuable historic specimens, tucked away in attics.

Probably the district's most famous historical monument marks the site of the War of1812 battle of Crysler's Farm, five miles west of here. In that battle, the United States raiders were driven back across the river in November, 1813, by a small British force and the Canadian county militia.

The site of Upper Canada's first Protestant church also will disappear under the water of the Long Power pool, along with scores of lesser landmarks.

But Mr. Smart says their memory can be preserved through photographs, charts and drawings. Old farm implements could be collected and displayed. He says there are Indian sleds, old cider presses and even an ancient Dutch oven awaiting rediscovery.

Youth Gives Self Up

HULL, Que. (CP)—An 18-year-old youth who escaped Tuesday from Hull county jail gave himself up Wednesday to Quebec provincial police. Police said that Robert Jodoin arranged by phone to be picked up by police at a downtown intersection. He was taken back to the jail. He was serving a year for car theft.

Set Records In Production Coal And Steel In Poland

By DAN DE LUCE

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Poland is a puzzle.

Never in history have Poles produced so much coal and steel as now. The sinews of their heavy industry are impressively stronger.

But they must pay prices out of this world for the simplest food and clothing. The shoddiness of consumer goods is a public scandal.

The western territories, taken from Germany in 1945, include vast tracts of fertile land which are still not cultivated. In central Poland, many farms are smaller than five acres and food must be imported for the poorest peasants from other parts of the country.

Warsaw was the worst ruined city in Europe in the last war. It is rebuilding at breakneck tempo. Constitution square, opened a year ago, is an architectural gem of shops and apartments. But half of the square's buildings are undergoing repair because of faulty construction. Their facades are beautiful. In back, they are crudely unfinished.

Communist periodicals tell the story.

For example, Glos Pracy: "The working people are often hurt by the improper quality of manufactured goods on the market as well as by the conduct incompatible with the existing instructions of some centres (government stores) of socialized trade. . . .

"It is not a rare phenomenon to see coats of monstrous sizes, trousers with legs of different length or widths, shirts or other articles of clothing sewn in a slipshod manner."

Here is the careful report of an economic analyist in a Western embassy in Warsaw:

"Poland produced 84,500,000 tons of coal in 1952. The target of 86,000,000 tons this year probably will be reached.

"Poland's steel output was 3,100,000 tons in 1951, 4,600,000 tons in 1952, and should top 5,000,000 tons this year.

"Despite rumors abroad, the Polish people are not on the point of starving. They have enough to eat. Their food is extremely high priced—a dollar for a loaf of bread, more than $3 for a pound of meat, 20 cents a poudn for the basic staple, potatoes. Their diet is not the best, lacks variety, but is filling. There is no emaciation.

"The poles also are shabbily clothed. What else can be expected when domestic woollens are $125 a yard and up, ordinary shoes $200 a pair?"

"Yet we must not forget another factor in the cost of living, housing. There is a large yearly increase in workers housing, especially in Warsaw. Low rentals are charged, five per cent or less of a family head's income. Say, $10 a month."

10,000 Troops Can't Quell Berlin Revolt Completely

BERLIN (AP)—East Berlin's Russian-protected Communist governors launched a frantic back-to-work propaganda campaign today in tacit admission that Soviet tanks, troops and a summary execution had not ended major resistance to their puppet government. From across the tank-closed frontier, the big three Western Allies demanded that the Russians end their blockade of the city's eastern part, and condemned Thursday's firing squad execution of a jobless West Berlin truck driver as an "act of brutality which will shock the conscience of the world." As West Berlin lowered flags to half-staff in mourning for the dead of the eastern rebellion against communism, Red Radio Berlin incessantly pumped out promises of reforms and appeals for the captive East Germans to support the government.

Streetcorner loudspeakers in the Soviet sector blared: "It is the patriotic duty of every citizen to quietly take up the tools of his daily labor." West Berlin took this as evidence that the general strike which touched off Wednesday's violent rioting still is under way, or at least threatening the Red regime.

With 200 Russian tanks and 10,000 Soviet troops sealing the entire East-West Berlin frontier, there was no way of knowing how many East Germans were staying sullenly home.

MAY BE MORE EXECUTIONS

Reports filtering into the West said that the Russians had imposed martial law and the "rules of war"—which could mean more drumhead executions from one end of their zone to the other.

West Berlin newspapers headlines screamed "murder" over their accounts of the Soviet execution of the alleged riot leader, Willi Goettling. His widow, in the Allied-occupied half of the city, said her husband had to cross the Soviet area by elevated railway to reach the office, in the U. S sector, where he drew the $8.56 weekly relief cheque on which the couple and their two small daughters subsisted.

"That must have been how he was accidentally drawn into the workers' demonstration," she said. "He had no special interest in politics."

In a note to East Berlin's Soviet control chief Sergei Dengin, Britain, the U. S., and France through their commandants in West Berlin condemned the Russians' "irresponsible recourse to military force" which they blamed for the bloodshed in the revolt against Red rule.

There was no accurate estimate of how many lives had been lost since the Russians took over mil-

Pats 350-Pound Safe Vanishes With $8,000

By BILL BOSS

IN KOREA (CP)—The $8,000 question hereabouts is "Who walked away with the Patricias' 350-pound safe?" With that much money and some important documents inside, the safe disappeared recently from the tent of Capt. Leslie Basham of Calgary, quartermaster of the 3rd battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

The loss of the $8,000 is nothing compared to that of the important documents, which has senior officers at Canadian brigade and Commonwealth division headquarters worried.

TRY TO SOLVE MYSTERY

The division's special investigation branch, the Canadian provost corps and the Korean national police have combined in attempts to solve the mystery. Detectives are searching the brigade area, Korean villages behind the prohibited zone and the markets of Seoul for clues.

An "inside job" is suspected.

Only clues are the imprints of an "A-frame," the harness used by Koreans for carrying heavy loads on their backs. They were found deeply embedded in the soil outside Basham's tent.

Suspicions are that Koreans, rather than Canadians, removed the safe.

U.S. Authorities Free Nuschke

BERLIN (AP)—U. S. authorities today released Otto Nuschke, East German deputy prime minister, after two days of questioning and sent him back to the strife-torn Russian sector.

The 70-year-old Red leader who holds one of the top spots in the Communist-controlled government was picked up in West Berlin at the height of the rioting Wednesday afternoon.

Vladimir Semyenov, Russian high commissioner, protested to Nuschke's immediate release. The note arrived at Allied headquarters this morning.

U. S. officials disclosed Nuschke's release shortly before 1 p. m. (8 a. m. EDT) and a few minutes later the Communist ADN news agency announced that he had come back to be greeted "warmly by members of the political committee" of his party.

Change Charge To Manslaughter

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Russell Tongay, 39-year-old swimming instructor, today faced manslaughter charges in the death of his five-year-old swim-star daughter, Kathy.

The manslaughter warrant was issued after justice of the peace Edwin Lee Mason dismissed a second-degree murder charge Thursday and ordered Tongay held on the lesser count. Mason fixed bond at $1,000.

The maximum penalty upon conviction of manslaughter is 20 years in prison.

Mason said after more than three hours of a combined coroner's inquest and preliminary hearing that there was no evidence to show any beating by Tongay with his hands or fists, but he added:

"Kathy Tongay came to her death on May [illegible], 1953, as a result of injuries received when she attempted to execute a high dive from the 33-foot tower at the Mal Fadden-Deauville pool.

Manitoba Fears New Flood Coming

THE PAS, Man. (CP)—The rain-swollen Saskatchewan river, whose tributaries have caused flood damage on the Prairies during the last week, rose six inches here Thursday and was reported backing up into the Carrot and Birch rivers.

On the Pasquai and Birch rivers all stop logs have been put into dams in an effort to prevent flooding of seeded farmlands in the river delta between here and Cedar lake.

Prospective Father Collects On Stork

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—A prospective father bet Lloyds of London that the stork, on its first arrival at his house, would bring more than one baby.

Lloyds lost. Papa won. Mama had triplets.

The father, Gregory Melanson, paid the British insurance company a $200 premium for a policy that promised $5,000 if his wife had multiple births.

He took out the policy shortly after his 25-year-old wife became pregnant. Thursday, in Santa Monica hospital, she gave birth to two girls and a boy by caesarean section. The babies, a few weeks premature, were placed in incubators.

Reds Have Their Troubles

Czech Rulers Use Bayonets To Halt Workers Uprising

BRUSSELS (AP) — Communist rulers of Czechoslovakia now are resorting to "bludgeons and bayonets" to put down an upsurging revolt of enslaved Czech workers, the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions asserted today.

J. H. Oldenbroek, ICFTU general secretary, today issued a message of support to fellow workers behind the Iron Curtain "waging the brave fight for freedom and social justice."

Czech newspapers received in Vienna have admitted rioting workers stormed the Pilsen city hall June 1, tore down the Soviet flag and raised the U. S. Stars and Stripes. The city was under martial law for five days. Unconfirmed reports have told of similar rioting by laborers angered at the recent drastic currency revaluation and high production demands.

"Strikes and demonstrations have broken out spontaneously in the most important industrial centre of the country," Oldenbroek said, "forcing the so-called 'workers governments' to defend themselves from the just claims of the workers with bludgeons and bayonets."

The Soviet-dominated regime has brought about a "disastrous" situation in Czechoslovakia.

"Hundreds of thousands are threatened with famine as the result of a monetary reform depriving the entire population of its savings. Old-age pensions, cut by four-fifths, can no longer keep the aged in food. The cost of living has been thrust up by 130 per cent."

Oldenbroek said the last vestige of Czech workers' freedom had now been abolished with the introduction of forced labor—"every Czechoslovak between 14 and 65 can now be ordered to accept any work anywhere."

"Another order puts an end to the 48-hour week, and in flagrant violation of international conventions permits managements to engage workers for unlimited periods. Workers thus deprived of their political rights are subjected to a system of medieval slavery."

Court Votes To Overrule DouglasMove

Lawyers Still Battle For Loophole To Save Couple's Life

WASHINGTON (CP)—By a vote of 6 to 3, the U.S. Supreme Court today overruled the action of one of its own members and threw out a stay of execution granted to atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg Wednesday by Justice William Douglas.

The decision could be the climactic one for the husband and wife who have waited on death row in New York's Sing Sing prison for two years while their fate was a battle issue in the courts of the U. S. and public opinion the world over.

Soon after the court ruling was announced here. U. S. Marshal William A. Carroll said in New York that the death sentences might be carried out before 11 p.m.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today rejected an appeal that he spare the lives of atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

The lawyers who have battled for the Rosenbergs were still manoeuvring, however, to save them.

They filed motions with the full Supreme Court for a stay of executions for reconsideration of the decision which set side the stay Douglas issued on Tuesday.

NEW PETITION

They have pending, too, a new petition asking President Eisenhower to spare the lives of Rosenber, a 35-year-old engineer, and his wife, 37. .

They also asked a stay to be certain that Eisenhower would have time to consider their plea.

Eisenhower turned down an earlier petition last February. He said the Rosenbergs, convicted of conspiracy to betray atomic secrets to Russia, could be responsible for the deaths of many innocent Americans.

Today's court decision rejected the Douglas argument that there is substantial reason to question whether the Rosenbergs were tried under the right law.

They were convicted and sentenced under the Espionage Act of 1917, but Douglas said the courts ought to rule on the question of whether they should have been sentenced under the 1946 Atomic Secrets Act.

The six-man majority overruling the Douglas stay was made up of Chief Justice Fred Vinson and Justices Stanley Reed, Robert Jackson, Harold Burton, Thomas Clark and Sherman Minton.

The minority consisted of Justices Douglas, Hugo Black and Felix Frankfurter.

Vinson's majority opinion was brief.

It said the court does not doubt Douglas had the power to issue the stay in the first place.

But the chief justice said the issue is whether a substantial question of law exists. And he said the court believes in this case that answer is no.

W. Germany Doubles Elite Frontier Guards

BONN (AP)—Spurred by arguments that the bloody anti-Communist riots in Berlin had emphasized German insecurity, the West German Parliament today voted to double the elite federal frontier guards. This force faces the Russian-backed East German People's Police on the other side of the Iron Curtain.

The Bundestag (lower house) voted 228 to 147 to increase the frontier protection police from 10,000 to 20,000. A similar bill was approved last February by a vote of 188 to 144, but its opponents won their argument that this was an insufficient majority.

Interior Minister Robert Lehr told Parliament his lightly-armed frontier police were no match for the East German forces, who have tanks and heavier guns.

Proponents of the increase reported that since May 15 there have been approximately 50 clashes along the border with the Soviet zone and in more than 30 cases the Western forces were undermanned. The East German militarized police are estimated to have upwards of 120,000 men.

2 Ships On Way Home

OTTAWA (CP)—The Crusader and Haida are on the way home to Canada. The two Canadian destroyers have both been relieved after a year of United Nations service during which the Crusader became the UN's champion naval trainbuster with 4½ "stops" to its credit and Haida racked up three.

Auriol Demands Bickering Stop To Save France

PARIS (CP)—President Vincent Auriol today urged France's political leaders to put aside their jealousies and bickering and map out an agreed program which will bring an end to the country's 30-day cabinet crisis.

The president acted after the National Assembly had thrown out his fourth candidate for the job—Radical Socialist Andre Marie—early this morning. Paul Reynaud, Pierre Mendes-France and Georges Bidault had been defeated before him.

The president, who usually acts only as a moderator, called in 20 of the most influential deputies in the National Assembly and bluntly told them they must work out a solution among themselves.

He said "continuation of the crisis is running the risk of damaging the republic and weakening France both in the French Union and the world."

VERBAL DRESSING DOWN

In the group he assembled were all the premiers since the war, men who have been nominated for the job but turned down by the National Assembly and heads of the political parties. Only the Communists were excluded.

After the verbal dressing down, President Auriol directed the 11 former premiers and defeated candidates to sit down around a table and draw up a program, in cooperation with the parties. When the program is completed, the president said he would then name the man to put it into effect.

The group will meet Saturday morning and report to Auriol Sunday. The president said he was determined to have a cabinet in the first days of next week.

"Since May 21, for nearly a month, France has not had a government," Auriol said in his statement. "In ten days the important meeting at Bermuda will open. At the end of this month, bills fall due which endanger the treasury. We must consider the promises of the state both inside and outside the government. The national economy is wilting. Our commercial balance is more and more in deficit, imperilling our money."

He said the time has come to break "the coalitions of egotism and special interests."

Marie's bid to become France's 19th post-war premier failed by 42 votes. After a 15-hour debate Marie failed to get the 314 votes he required to secure nomination. The voting was 272 to 209.

His fate was sealed when Popular Republican deputies, whose votes were vital, decided to abstain.

India Intends Help On Truce

NEW DELHI (AP)—An authoritative Indian source said today the New Delhi government still is prepared to carry out its undertaking to participate in a Korean truce commission, despite South Korea's release of anti-Communist North Korean prisoners.

This was made known a day after Foreign Minister Max Petitpierre of Switzerland said the release may lead his government to reconsider her willingness to serve.

The Swedish defence staff in Stockholm announced today that the country's representatives on the truce commission would leave for Korea next Tuesday. This indicated that Sweden is not pulling out from the arrangements.

There has been no official reaction from Czechoslovakia and Poland—the other members named to the commission.

The Indian source said the New Delhi government "greatly regrets the latest developments in South Korea but earnestly hopes they will not delay the signing of an armistice agreement."

"There is no change in the Indian government's attitude. They are prepared to carry out their agreement," he added.

Reds Request Special Conference

Important Subject To Discuss Peiping Indicates

MUNSAN (AP)—The Communists said late tonight they have "an important subject to discuss" when Red and Allied truce negotiators meet in a few hours in a full-dress crisis session that may determine the fate of a Korean armistice.

This was the only hint of the reason behind the Red request for a meeting at 11 a. m. Saturday (10 p. m. EDT Friday) at Panmunjom.

There has been speculation the negotiators might approve final truce details or that the Reds may protest President Syngman Rhee's release of about 26,000 anti-Red Korean prisoners.

HEARD IN TOKYO

The Red comment came in a Chinese language broadcast by the official Peiping radio heard in Tokyo. It said Gen. Nam Il, chief Red delegate, called the meeting because the Communists "have an important subject to discuss."

The Red radio earlier accused the U. S. and South Korea of collaborating to free the prisoners.

The armistice draft appears ready for signature as soon as Chinese, English and Korean translations are approved.

Observers predicted Rhee's arbitrary action probably would not block signing of the truce, but they feared trouble later when the Al-

Dunnville Has Water Problem

CALEDONIA (CP)—Hunters and anglers and representatives of 12 municipalities bordering the Grand river were told here last night that the city of Brantford is dumping untreated sewage into the river, the major source of drinking water in Dunnville, 40 miles downstream.

The group called on the Ontario government to share costs in the construction of proper sewage disposal plants which would cost about $6,000,000.

Despite objection by Mayor G. Ramsey of Dunnville, hunters and anglers said they would post 1,000 signs along the river warning visitors of polluted water. Mayor Ramsey said he feared their action would touch off a panic in Dunnville.

Reeve William Winegard of Caledonia said adequate sewage for a town like Caledonia would ost $300,000. He said the town couldn't afford the cost unless the provincial government pays half the cost.

New Mass Breaks As 1,800 Flee S. Korean Camps

SEOUL (AP)—New and bloody mass breaks from Allied stockades today swelled to nearly 26,000 the legion of anti-Communist war prisoners liberated in South Korea's bold defiance of the United Nations command. More than 1,800 bolted from five prison camps and a hospital Thursday night and early today on the heels of those ordered released on Wednesday by President Syngman Rhee of the Republic of Korea.

UN command headquarters in Tokyo placed at 25,952 the total Koreans escaping in the last two days, and 9,398 the anti-Red Koreans remaining in custody. The figures differed somewhat with those released by the UN prisoner-of war command, which said its totals were "rough."

Those making the break early today included 494 who battled United States Marines at Ascom City camp, near Seoul's big port of Inchon on the west coast. The UN command said the marines had replaced South Korean guards at the camp before the South Koreans had opportunity "for collusion."

MAY WRECK TRUCE

Whether the mass releases and breaks for freedom would wreck the two-year-long armistice negotiations—now in their 11th hour—remained to be seen.

In Moscow, the Soviet press carried the story under the heading "provocatory actions of the Syngman Rhee clique." The reports published there implied collusion between some U.S. authorities and the South Koreans.

Additionally, Russian newspapers published U.S. State Secretary Dulles' comment that Rhee violated "the authority of the United Nations command;", and Prime Minister Churchill's statement deploring the prisoners' release.

A Rhee aide said "anyone who understands our position will understand" the presidential order free-

Airlift Globemasters Grounded In Korea

TOKYO (Reuters) — All C-124 Globemasters on the Korean airlift were grounded temporarily today following the crash near here Thursday of one of the giant aircraft with the loss of 129 Americans—the world's worst air crash.

All victims were United States Air Force men or army personnel attached to the air force. Seven were crew members and the remainder were returning to Korea after leave in Tokyo.

An air force announcement on the grounding said preliminary investigation had shown no connection between the crash and engine trouble which grounded Globemasters temporarily six days ago.

The air force said that one engine of the four-engined transport failed shortly after take-off, but a check on the engine showed it to be in good condition.

'Adam And Eve' Discovered On Secret Isle

LONDON (AP)—Discovery of a secret island somewhere in the Mediterranean where a beautiful blonde and her tall, bronzed husband live as "Adam and Eve" was reported today by a young schoolmaster.

Charles Violet reported coming across the island during a 5,000-mile cruise in his 20-foot hawl, Nova Espero. In Corsica he heard about a sunken Roman treasure ship. Investigating, he reported landing on "Paradise Island."

Violet said the exact location of the island will remain a secret as far as he is concerned. Ready to welcome him, he said, was the handsome young couple "living in a delightful state of near nature."

VOLUNTARY EBILE

The girl spoke English well. They told him they were Belgians and had been dropped on the island by a fishing boat at their request.

Violet said when he first approached the island he saw the couple and thought they were not wearing any clothes.

"As I drew nearer," he went on, "they disappeared into a cave and reappeared in bathing suits. Why they wore clothing at all I don't know. Perhaps it was a precaution against a visitor but they did not resent my arrival."

Fire Destroys Chatham Plant

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — Fire early today destroyed a large canning factory on the northwestern outskirts of this city. Damage was estimated at $100,000.

Flames raced through the 400-foot long wooden building fed by thousands of cartons and crates which were to be used in the approaching canning season.

The North Raleigh and North Harwich fire departments answered the alarm but were powerless to check the spread of the flames.

At the peak of the canning season the factory employs about 80 workers, canning tomatoes, beets and pears.

The plant is operated by Reaume brothers with S. Reaume as plant manager.

Naguib Becomes President

Egypt Proclaimed Republic In New Move

CAIRO (CP)—Egypt's ruling military clique tightened its hold on the Nile land today. It proclaimed a republic, installed Maj.-Gen. Mohammed Naguib as president as well as premier, and publicly took over the major cabinet portfolios.

The proclamation of the republic ended the 148-year-old dynasty of former King Farouk and his forebears.

At the same time the army revolutionary council, which dethroned Farouk last July and has been the power behind Naguib ever since, announced three of its members were taking over key cabinet posts.

Chief of these was Lt.-Col. Gamal Abdel Nasser, Naguib's closest aide and acting army chief, who became vice-premier and interior minister.

3-YEAR TERM

The council's proclamation said Naguib would serve as president and premier until the end of the three-year "transitional period" set up early this year. After that, the proclamation continued, "the people will have the last word in choosing the shape of the republic, designating a new president when a plebiscite on the constitution takes place."

Eventual proclamation of the republic had been expected since a strong tide of anti-monarchist feeling broke into the open with the departure of Farouk. The change was recommended almost unanimously by a 50-man constituent commission which for several months has been working on the draft of a new constitution.

The proclamation stripped Fuad II, the 17-month-old son of Farouk, of his title as king and all his royal relatives of their titles as well. A regency had exercised the baby's nominal authority here since he was proclaimed monarch on his father's forced abdication.

The infant was reported to be asleep in Farouk's Italian villa at the time he was deposed. The portly 33-year-old Farouk was holidaying on the French Riviere. His estranged second wife, former Queen Narriman, was home with her family in Egypt.

OTHERS IN CABINET

In addition to Nasser, the military men who came to the forefront in the cabinet reshuffle were:

Maj. Salah Salem, named minister of national guidance and minister of state in charge of Sudan affairs;

Wing Cmdr. Abdel Latif Baghdady, war and navy minister.

Maj. Abdel Hakim Amer, became commander-in-chief of the Egyptian armed forces; reliable sources said he would be jumped to the rank of major-general.

Newspapers broke out with red ink headlines to welcome the republic.

Meantime, plans went ahead to mint new coins and print stamps for the republican regime.

The governing council announced the final overthrow of the royal family after a six-hour meeting. The dramatic proclamation "in the name of the people" declared the republic had decided to cast aside "a dynasty whose history was a long series of treasons."

NAMED AS VILLAINS

Several former monarchs were named as villains, but the announcement said Farouk "surpassed them all with his tyranny, his sins and his lack of faith in the destiny of the country."

Fuad, II, who never saw his homeland while he was king, was the 11th nominal ruler in the dynasty founded by Mohammed Ali, an Albanian soldier of fortune.

It was through a spendthrift grandson of Mohammed Ali, the Khedive Ismail, that Britain got such a big say in controlling the Suez canal. Ismail, who had run up a huge debt to build elaborate and mostly useless public projects, found himself in desperate need of cash in 1875. He offered his shares in the French-built canal to Britain, and Prime Minister Disraeli snapped them up for Queen Victoria. Suez was the shortcut to her new Indian empire.

The Mohammed Ali line continued from Fuad to his son, Farouk I, who mounted the throne under a regency as a slim, handsome boy of 16 in 1936, after the death of his father. He ruled 16 years until—by now podgy, aged beyond his 32 years and accused of corrupt practices—he was forced by Naguib to abdicate.

Railway Union Feuding Starts Again

OTTAWA (CP) — Feuding has broken out again within the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (CCL), Canada's biggest transport union.

J. E. McGuire of Ottawa, former national secretary-treasurer of the 30,000-member union, said Thursday national president Harry Chappell had made an unsuccessful attempt to have him expelled from the CBRE for the second time in little more than a year.

Mr. McGuire, a top-flight figure in Canadian labor until he was squeezed out of the CBRE for "insubordination," said president Chappell made the eviction bid at a meeting Wednesday night in Toronto of the 500-member division 76 there. He said the division turned down the Chappell move with only two members supporting the national president.

Mr. Chappell was not available for comment. Officers of division 76—which took Mr. McGuire back into the CBRE after the union's national convention voted him out last fall—would not talk.

STORMY MEMBERSHIP

Until early last year, the stormy McGuire had been secretary-treasurer of the CBRE for years and evident successor to 71-year-old president A. R. Mosher, with whom he was on the outs.

When their long running feud came out into the open, the Mosher-led executive of the CBRE ordered McGuire out of his officer's job and out of the union altogether. This was confirmed by the union's triennial convention here last fall.

At the same time, president Mosher stepped out to be succeeded by Mr. Chappell. However, Mr. Mosher retained his presidency of the 350,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor, which meanwhile had dealt Mr. McGuire out of one of its executive positions.

Later, Mr. McGuire—a CNR employee—was transferred to Toronto and on the expiration of his first year out of the union was given membership by division 76. Previously, he had belonged to an Ottawa local.

Epidemic Eliminates CNE Hog Competition

The swine pens at the Canadian National Exhibition will be empty at show time on either side of Labor Day this summer.

That section of competition has been rubbed out by the outbreak of hog cholera in Western Ontario. A further case in Halton County was discovered Wednesday.

The Examiner was informed that Dr. Childs, veterinary-general with the federal Department of Agriculture, had suggested the omission of pigs from the CNE, and that directors were in full agreement with the proposal.

This precaution, reaching ten weeks into the future, suggests that an early end of the outbreak is not expected by veterinary authorities.

341 Pigs Involved In Cholera Outbreak

OTTAWA (CP)—The agriculture department Thursday reported a new outbreak of hog cholera involving 341 pigs—the biggest single case since the epidemic first began in mid-May.

The new case was uncovered near Burlington, in Halton county, increasing the number of southwestern counties infected to 13 from 12.

The number of fatally stricken or slaughtered hogs now has climbed to 2,833 and the number of infected premises to 51.

Dr. Thomas Childs, veterinary director-general, said the pigs in the outbreak reported Thursday "apparently had been sick for some time, but had not been reported."

He said the facts in the current outbreak are being "thoroughly investigated," but he declined to say whether any charges will be laid against the farmer involved.

John M. James Nominated In Durham Riding

ORONO (Special to The Examiner). — John M. James, Liberal MP for Durham in the last parliament, was selected by acclamation to again carry the Liberal banner in the fourthcoming federal election scheduled for August 10.

Mr. James' nomination swept the crowded-to-capacity Orono town hall to standing applause, and in a few moments nominations closed. Guest speaker of evening was Hon. Lester B. Pearson, president of the United Nations General Assembly, and Secretary of State for External Affairs.

Mr. Pearson said: "Our future policy must be one of peace, not a sit-down and lean-back policy, but rather a peace through international co-operation as laid down by the United Nations and the North Atlantic Treaty organization.

ACCEPT COMMITMENTS

"It must be an active policy," continued Mr. Pearson. "We must accept commitments in peace that we do not have to accept in war.

"We do our part in Korea, so we don't have to fight aggression closer to home."

Speaking in regard to the truce stalling unilateral action by South Korean President Syngman Rhee in the freeing of 25,000 North Korean prisoners, Mr. Pearson asserted, "the United Nations have laid down the principles whereby we can build a peace. We, through principle, have attempted to constitute an honorable end to the fighting.

"At the last moment the South Koreans have arisen with a dangerous and disconcerting intervention." Then, Mr. Pearson declared, Canada could not support the serious action of Rhee in freeing the prisoners. "We are not being unrealistic and overly optimistic about the days and weeks and months ahead. But those who would break the peace, fear our strength. They fear our unity. We have prevented war during the past four years, and we may build peace in the next four. All I can pledge is that this government will do its part in the great effort to bring real peace, and I mean something more than simply living without atom bombs."

The members of the nominating committee were Art O'Reilly, Tom Pritchard and Walter Simmons.

Court Votes

Accordingly, Vinson said, the decision of the court is to vacate—that is, to reverse—the stay of execution.

There were a few muffled gasps in the crowded chamber as Vinson made the pronouncement.

The individual justices who dissented them stated their views. Douglas in his dissent declared:

"I know in my heart that I am right on the law."

He added:

"No man or woman should go to death under an unlawful sentence."

Black was critical of what he called "judicial haste" and said also that a less harsh sentence would seem proper since there was, in his view, some conflict between the two laws.

MADE NO RECOMMENDATION

The more recent atomic law does not authorize a death sentence unless it is recommended by the jury and there is a showing of intent to injure the United States. The jury made no recommendation in the New York trial.

Frankfurter indicated he thought the whole question should get further study.

In Congress, comment on the court's action was generally approving.

Representative W. M. Wheeler (Dem. Ga.) who on Wednesday introduced a resolution to impeach Douglas, told reporters, "I may [illegible] to proceed—that (the court decision) strengthens my case against Douglas."

Representative Louis Graham (Rep. Pa.), chairman of a special judiciary subcommittee charged with considering the impeachment resolution, has said he will not call his group together before next week.

Senator John McClellan (Dem. Ark.) said the final decision would undoubtedly meet with "universal approval and conforms to the system of justice under our laws."

DEMONSTRATORS MARCH

Even as the court was handing down its decision, demonstrators in behalf of the Rosenbergs were marching back and forth before the White House.

About 300 were taking part in the march. Individuals scoffed and and refused to believe it at first when reporters told them of the court's action.

The Rosenbergs learned by prison radio during lunch that the stay of execution granted by Douglas had been overruled.

A Communist party broadcast Thursday night admitted that the workers' rebellion was widespread. The party promised to "be more just" in the future.

Parked Car Hit, Driver Arrested

Less than an hour and a half after a car side-swiped a parked vehicle on Queen St., Lakefield, Thursday, city and provincial police arrested Walter Morgan, 41, of 114 Lansdowne on a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Appearing in magistrate's court this morning, Morgan asked for an adjournment until June 30. He is also charged with driving without a licence. When picked up he was in possession of a 60-day permit.

The accident occurred about five o'clock in the village. According to Police Chief Price Morris, a vehicle owned by Jack Spargo was parked on the west side of Queen St. near the Hendren funeral home.

NOTED LICENCE

A car driven south on the road hit th eSpargo's car, heavily damaging the front left corner of the car. It failed to stop, and within minutes Peterborough and Ontario provincial police were alerted. Eye-witnesses had noted the fleeing car's licence.

The two police forces co-operated when at 6.30 PC Robert Muldoon of the Peterborough police and OPP Constable Harold Armstrong picked up the accused at his home.

The grill on Morgan's 1940 model car was extensively damaged. When arresting the accused, police found him in possession only of the temporary licence.

Lives 9 Days On Peanut Diet

VANCOUVER (CP) — "Skippy," a seven-year-old runaway, told Thursday how he lived for nine days on nothing but peanuts and pop.

The boy, Billie McRae, ran away from home last Tuesday.

When found by police, Skippy was serving as bat boy at a neighborhood ball park. The hip pocket of his faded denims bulged with a load of peanuts.

"That's all I have been eating," he said proudly.

"Once in a while when I picked up some empty pop bottles and sold them I bought a bottle of pop—but I ate mostly peanuts—that's good for you."

Skippy said he spent the nights in an abandoned truck near his home.

A welfare society is looking after him now.

Note Mixed Prices On Toronto Market

TORONTO (CP)—Early afternoon trading produced irregularly mixed prices at the stock market today.

Golds edged forward in all sections but base metals and western oils faded slightly.

Volume for the first three hours hit 1,402,000 shares with interest centred mainly in speculative issues.

Uraniums and New Brunswick base metals moved a wide list of stocks with losses and gains about equal. On the upside were New Larder U and New Delhi but Graham Bousquet and Gunnar slipped in heavy trading.

Action in industrials was trendless. Maple Leaf preferred picked up $3 on a small turnover but Canadian General Electric slipped $2.

Golds were the only bright spot in the market. Seniors led as winners like Giant, Dome, Kerr Addison and Teck Hughes showed gains ranging to 55 cents Donalda stepped back three cents in juniors but Preston went to a new high of $2.71 on a small gain.

Mrs. Emmett J. Doris

Burial services were conducted at St. Peter's Cemetery for Mrs. Emmett J. Doris, the former Elaine Olive Gagnon, whose husband is a former resident of Peterborough.

Mrs. Doris died Monday in Prescott after a lengthy illness, leaving besides her husband, two daughters, Noreen and Aleta, both of Prescott.

Also surviving are two brothers, Edward J. Gagnon of Timmins and Trevelyan Gagnon of North Bay, and two sisters, Mrs. E. R. Higgins and Mrs. William Griffith, both of North Bay.

Born in Chapeau, Que., 48 years ago, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John J. Gagnon, she moved to North Bay at an early age and was educated there at North Bay Normal School.

Funeral services were conducted at St. Mark's Church, Prescott, by the Rev. Fr. James while burial services were conducted by the Rev. Fr. Weis.

Pallbearers were William Thayer, E. R. Higgins, John Doris, Michael Doris, Gary Braund and Joseph Walsh.

Two Skeletons Identified By Policemen

LONDON (Reuters)—Police believe they have established the identity of two skeletons dug up from the garden of 10 Rillington Place, West London tenement where the strangled bodies of four other women were found.

Scotland Yard said today: "Positive identification has not been possible but there is reason to believe that these skeletons are the remains of Ruth Fuerst and Muriel Eady."

Miss Fuerst, 21, was an Austrian hotel maid who came to England in 1939 and disappeared in 1943.

Miss Eady, 32, a factory worker, vanished from her rooming house here in the same year.

Pathologists and detectives had only a collection of bones, buried for 10 years, to work on. A Scotland Yard spokesman said that with the evidence so circumstantial it was difficult to be positive.

GOLD TOOTH-FILLING

A gold tooth-filling, found among the bones in Rillington Place, first put detectives on to the track of Ruth Fuerst. Scientists established that it was Continental workmanship. Inquiries were made in Austria.

Police went carefully through lists of foreign girls missing in London during the war and Miss Fuerst's name, linked with evidence from an Austrian dentist, stood out as a strong possibility.

Study of "missing" dossiers also led police to re-open the case of Muriel Eady.

The bones were fitted together into skeletons and police scientists compared their measurements with those of the missing girls. They seemed to tally.

lies must account for and hand over Red prisoners.

There is the possibility Rhee could expand this first open revolt against the United Nations command, upsetting the whole agreement.

The UN command has assured the Reds it is taking "every step" to recapture the escaped prisoners, but it has found only a handful. The task appeared almost hopeless as the prisoners melted into the countryside, hiding in homes with the blessing of the South Korean government.

Meanwhile, Rhee made public a letter he wrote President Eisenhower Wednesday in which he apparently rejected Eisenhower's offer of economic and military aid and a promise to negotiate a security pact if South Korea would accept a truce.

Rhee pleaded with Eisenhower to find some other answer than "death warrant" armistice.

JOINING ENEMY

"The UN is now putting pressure on us . . .," he said, "and is joining hands, it seems, with the enemy in this matter of armistice terms."

He accused the U.S. and the UN of backing down on early war objectives of "a united, independent and democratic Korea and the punishment of the aggressors."

He said "the counsels of appeasers" have turned America to "an open confession of weakness . . . that it had never been intended to unify Korea by war."

As the critical full-dress session approached, there were these other developments:

1. The Reds called off today's meeting of interpreters believed working on the armistice draft at Panmunjom.

2. The official Red Peiping radio accused Rhee of releasing the prisoners in order to impress them into the South Korean Army and added the "Americans deliberately connived" by taking no measures to prevent the breakouts. It also said the sincerity of the U.S. is "indeed put to an acid test."

STOP CONSTRUCTION

3. Communist army engineers abruptly stopped construction of a building at Panmunjom which some observers thought might be used for the truce signing ceremony. There was no explanation.

4. Allied troops continued preparations for prisoner exchange and top Allied officers, who will serve on a joint Red-Allied military commission after the armistice, arrived in Munsan.

Should the Reds make the most of the prisoner release, a truce might be threatened seriously.

The actual prisoner agreement makes no mention of numbers, but says all prisoners opposing return to their homeland will be turned over to a repatriation commission within 60 days.

The UN command has told the Reds about 47,000 anti-Red prisoners would go to the commission.

If the Allied command fails to meet this number, the Communists possibly could hold out on Allied prisoners.

Two members of the five-country repatriation commission to handle Red PoWs who refuse to go home reacted to Rhee's prisoner release.

Switzerland warned that the action might lead her to reconsider her decision to serve.

An authoritative source in New Delhi said India regretted the release of the PoWs, but she hopes the move will not delay the signing of an armistice agreement."

There was no immediate comment from the other three commission members—Sweden, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

ing the prisoners. Rhee has voiced vigorous opposition to any armistice leaving Korea divided.

Prisoners also bolted at UN camps in Yongchon, south-central Korea; Sang-Mudai, Pusan and Taegu.

13 KILLED BY GUNFIRE

At Ascom City, 13 prisoners were killed by gunfire and 7 were trampled to death as 494 other PoWs clawed through a barbed wire fence to freedom. Ten more PoWs died later of injuries to boost the death toll to 40.

A marine spokesman said the gunfire came from a rice paddy outside the prison compound, evidently from Koreans aiding the break. Two marines were wounded. AP correspondent Milo Farneti reported the stockade was literally blood soaked.

Marine patrols scouting the hills around Ascom City recaptured about 100 prisoners. Some 980 remained in the camp during the break.

At Yongchon, about 770 PoWs crashed through, under and over a nine-foot barbed wire fence to freedom despite tear gas bells fired by South Korean guards. There about 267 stayed behind. The UN prisoner command reported earlier that 905 had escaped.

At Pusan, about 170 patients fled into the pre-dawn darkness from a PoW hospital. The prisoner command said 93 were recaptured, leaving 2,830 Korean and Chinese prisoners still in custody there.

At Camp 9, on the outskirts of Pusan—huge port on Korea's southeast tip—all 34 North Korean trusties disappeared from their jobs in the officers' mess and in the check room of the officers club.

ONE KEEPS QUOTA

Only one camp of the seven containing anti-Communist North Koreans still retained anything like its original members. That was at Taegu where only five PoWs fled. Some 842 prisoners remain there.

The mass releases early Thursday were at Masan, Sang-Mudai, Nansan and Pusan.

The UN command assured the Communists via courier that it was making "every effort" to round up the prisoners—but it appeared an almost impossible task.

Horse On Relief Dies In Timmins

TIMMINS (CP)—Homer, a 21-year-old horse which died Wednesday, is believed to be the only horse in Canada ever to get civic relief.

Homer went on relief four years ago because his owner, a father of 13 children, didn't have the money to buy hay for the beast. The owner asked town council to look after him.

Town council argued for most of an evening before deciding to put Homer on relief. One member said the horse should be destroyed, but that was voted down because his owner depended on him for his living.

From then on, town dogcatcher Hector Bousseau regularly carried hay to Homer's barn.

New Switchgear Placed In Substation

Last month the peak load in the electrical department of the Peterborough Utilities Commission was 23,600 kilowatts, approximately the same as for May, 1952, when it was 23,522, General-Manager W. Howard Powell reported at Thursday's PUC meeting.

The kilowatt hour consumption increased seven per cent over the May 1952 figure from 9,708,300 to 10,405,000 last month. As a result, the load factor of 55.5 per cent in 1952 increased to 59.4 per cent this year.

Installation of new switchgear in the Aylmer St. substation has been completed with the exception of minor metering devices.

In the distribution system, poles were moved on Monaghan Rd. from Braidwood Ave. to the river to accommodate new pavement being laid. New circuits were installed in the Queen Elizabeth subdivision and on Erskine Ave. from Cameron St. southerly. The primary circuit was rebuilt on Waterford St., from London St. to Dublin St., and on McFarlane Ave. in the vicinity of the new public school.

There were 34 new three-wire, four new two-wire and four new power services connected. Twenty services were changed from two to three wire. There were 64 new flat rate water heaters connected and four new street lights erected.

Plant Developing Methods Outlined To Kiwanis Club

A discussion of plant breeding was given to the members of the Kiwanis club Thursday at their weekly meeting by fellow Kiwanian, Ernie McWilliam, superintendent of Dewart Milling Co.

Plants and plant life, Mr. McWilliams said, are the foundation of all life on our planet today. They supply food to the animal kingdom and marine life. For without plant life, life as we know it wouldn't exist, since we derive most of our substantial food from domestic animals.

HARDER TO FORECAST

The major difference in plant breeding as compared with animal breeding is that in the orginal cross of male and female, a seed is developed, not a living individual, hence it is more difficult to determine the characteristics of the offspring.

Mr. McWilliams dealt with higher forms of economic plant life. Common plants in our local area fall into the categories of cereals, wheat, oats, barley, corn, rye and all our common grasses. Of this group corn is an exception in its physical structure.

As a general rule, both male and female organs of the plant are borne within one floret. This is where corn varies from the other plants. With corn the male part of the plant is borne in the form of a flower on the tip of the plant. The female portion or tassell or silk is borne on the florets, lower down the stem.

ARRANGE POSITION

In arranging to cross two plants, forward planning is necessary; in that the biologist must arrange for a male and a female plant to grow and mature together at the same time. Here arises one of the major difficulties in plant breeding as compared to animal breeding. In animals the female have re-occurring periods of fertility at which times they can be bred, and the animal male can be used at any time after maturity. In plants this is not so. The female is receptive for a few hours in its lifetime and if fertilization does not take place then, the flower dies. It is also similar in the male organs. The pollen matures and sheds within a few hours and if there are no receptive female within its close proximity, the germ withers and dies.

Following the crossing or mating, the plant breeder can only hope fertilization has taken place and that he judged the right receptive period of the male and female accurately. If successful, the ovary will mature one seed, which must be planted the following year to reproduce. From this one seed there will originate a single plant, producing approximately 30 to 40 seeds.

With the planting of these second seeds, one produces 30 to 40 different plants, in which not one is similar to another. All will be wheat for instance, but their characteristics will be entirely different. They carry the characteristics of genes of all their parents, back to their original ancestors thousands of years ago in varying degrees. These characteristics are transmitted within each plant in an extremely unstable form, and must be separated and sorted out through their following generations.

To show how these characteristics are inherited and why this happens it is necessary to go back to the single cell with each plant.

Within every cell of the wheat plant there are 42 chromosomes, or fine hair-like threads or rods.

Now one would think that when two cells unite, female and male, or 42 plus 42, it would give you a plant with 84 chromosomes, but this is not so. Mother nature provided for this in a very simple way. The reproductive cells that unite, that is the egg and sperm each carry half the chromosomes or 21.

GENES LOCATED

On each chromosome are located genes, or characteristics of inheritance. Every characteristic in every individual or offspring owes every single characteristic to the genes they inherit.

It is because of this phenomenon that scientists can almost foretell what they will produce. We know now the numbers of chromosomes involved, we also can determine the number, location and character of each. By mathematical computation we can determine what will be produced if we sort out the genotypes properly. This takes several years with wheat, but it is possible to do.

In order to co-operate with all the people all over the world, it is a common practice to exchange all this information with other nations working along similar lines. Germ plasm knows no international boundaries in plant breeding, with the exception of Russia.

Since we can cross all related types of species we can go back to wild types and grasses to obtain characteristics we wish. If these wild types have smaller chromosome numbers and are difficult to work with, we can multiply their chromosome numbers with a miracle drug called cholchicine. This produces polyploid or multiple numbers, but always with the basic multiple of seven in respect to wheat.

Hence we obtain our new varieties of all crops. To produce varieties with disease resistance, early maturity to escape frosts, strong short straw to facilitate harvesting, high yields of choice quality to maintain our world markets of wheat and flour.

Of Italian Descent

ROME (AP)—Italy claimed today that Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan of South Africa is of Italian descent. Malan's family originally came from north Italy, near the French border, and during his recent visit here Malan met distant Italian relatives who bear his name, a foreign office spokesman told a press conference.

Whiff Of Red Chaos

Recent decisions of Communist leaders in Moscow and satellite capitals to lessen restraints in the regimes have had some not surprising results. When a heel is raised slightly from prostrate bodies which it has been crushing, the victims are likely to try to struggle to their feet or to squirm out of the path of the oppressor. So there have been demonstrations in Czechoslovakia, riots in Berlin, and shouts in Poland and other Communist states where the Red rule has been imposed against the will of the majority of citizens.

* * *

Reports which reach this country are confused and exciting but there is no reason to believe that Communist imperialism in eastern Europe is crumbling. The rumour coming out of the United States that Malenkov has been assassinated is plausible but not credible. Even though he may not have been seen or heard for thirty days by members of the western world, the recent Kremlin edicts bear the imprint of his policy. Whatever the Berlin demonstrations amounted to, they have been curbed by martial law. The most that can be made out of the situation by western observers now is that the changed policies are being accompanied by difficulties which could have been anticipated anyway. The quick putting down of the East Berlin rioters is an indication that the old hands still hold a whip and that no effective resistance to the regime can be made by an unorganized mob. One result of them may be a return to the former iron rules, regulations and restrictions which have oppressed the populaces and created the barriers against the western world.

Goat's Beard And The City Engineer

Our farm pages and news columns have re-echoed the alarm with which farmers and agricultural experts view the spread of goat's beard in this district. This noxious weed, so prolific and rampant that it even smothers other weeds, is now covering acres of canal bank, river bank and road verges, and of course, is also usurping untilled farm land. Even though it chokes out other weeds, goat's beard is worse than most of those it replaces. There is still time this week to check some of its progress by cutting, burning and weed-killer, although most of the plants have gone to seed.

Farmers must wage perpetual war against weeds, for it seems that as soon as one kind is brought under control or exterminated, a new one rises to infest the land. We remember a pioneer farmer—who had cleared his own land north of Peterborough—who was so conscious of the menace of weeds, that long after he had handed over the prosperous farm to his sons, he continued his life-long battle. In summer from dawn to sunset he would be out in the fields and lanes personally attacking each individual enemy of his homestead and prosperity. He felt his mission so strongly that he deliberately stayed alive until he was 93 to carry on with methodical zeal his one-man war. A successful war, too; not a weed could be found on the property while he lived.

We mention this venerable and admirable farmer to persuade others to a similar awareness—even city folk. His method was too painstaking for most farmers of today. They have, fortunately, new chemicals which do a pretty good job, if applied in time. Time should be taken for it, as county weed inspectors will be the first to aver.

Goat's beard has come into the city, too, where it is wantonly taking possession of vacant lots and untended roadsides. City people, with less property than farmers, may find the old uprooting hand method healthy exercise and get from it the kind of savage joy which, we are sure, was one of the rewards of our venerable farmer who patrolled his fields from morning to night. There is a kind of vindictive satisfaction to be had from laying a weed low, personally and by hand. It can be even better fun than watching a wrestling match.

The city has a weed inspector, too, who is interested in seeing goat's beard singed or pulled out. Unfortunately, Peterborough's weed inspector is the City Engineer. We say this is unfortunate, not because the City E[illegible]neer is unfamiliar with weeds, but because he is now at his busiest season in his proper job of engineering the city. We fail to see the logic in the Council's naming its highly qualified city engineer, whose specialized business is certainly not weed control, as weed inspector. Even if the city engineer has somebody in his department to whom he can deputize his weed inspection, that person too is now fully occupied with regular departmental duties. In naming the city engineer as weed inspector the Council is merely following a local custom. This does not make the appointment any more sensible.

Boys' Camp, Clear Lake

Thirty-one years ago the Rotary Club of Peterborough opened a summer camp for boys. Situated on the east shore of Clear Lake, its first buildings were few and rough, but it was a far-off wilderness paradise for the lads who attended it a couple of weeks or more each summer. Fees were low, and if parents could not afford to send a son deserving or needful of such a holiday, the Club paid his way. For many years the Clear Lake camp has been operated by the YMCA of Peterborough, through its Y's Men's Club, the original sponsors and continuing owners of the property having grown somewhat past leading sing-songs at the camp fire and the job of supervising Indian canoes full of only partly make-believe young Indians. The good work of the camp has continued under these happy arrangements.

Now the Y's Men's Club is to assume complete control of the camp, and the Rotary Club is handing over to the YMCA for a nominal sum its title to all the property, now extensively built on and providing many amenities unknown to it thirty years ago. This is a good decision. The Y's Men's Club has long proved its competence and interest in the work, and the future of the Clear Lake Boy's Camp is assured.

As the transaction occurs we cannot refrain from complimenting the Rotarians on their foresight in purchasing the extensive property when it did —long before that side of Clear Lake was dotted with cottages. Such a site is no longer possible so near the city. Hundreds of parents in the city and district have good reason to thank the Rotary Club, the Y's Men's Club and the YMCA for the good work that has been done, and the fun and sun provided, during a whole generation.

Stratford Scores Again

The city of Stratford which has already amazed the country with its plans for a Shakespearean Festival on a grand scale, is not content to rest on its laurels. During the five weeks of the Festival it will have twenty-five afternoon concerts of excellent music of all kinds, performed by Canadian artists in the Festival theatre. The concerts will each last for one hour, and each ticket will cost one dollar. The music will be chosen from the classical repertoire, and a quantity of Canadian music will be performed.

Thus Stratford pulls the carpet from under the feet of any other ambitious Ontario city which might have considered establishing a summer music festival. Unless such a festival were organized on a very large scale it would have difficulty in competing with the Stratford afternoon concerts for artists and audience as well.

We have a strong premonition that Stratford is only the first Ontario city to organize a festival. During the next ten years we shall see much development in this direction, some of which will undoubtedly be successful. But Stratford has been first in the field, and has shown the way. It has organized on a large scale, and unless something goes very decidedly wrong, it will reap large benefits in profit and prestige. The profits will probably have to be re-invested in the festival plan, but the prestige is pure gain, and will manifest itself in many ways.

Danger On The Farm

News items from our district correspondents this week are a warning that the quiet countryside is not as safe as it seems. A farmer near Port Hope was kicked by a cow which he was tethering in the barn and died in a Peterborough hospital a few days later as a result of his injuries. A Mariposa township farmer was instantly killed when his tractor overturned on him. The mechanization of farms has increased, not reduced, farming dangers, for machinery heavy enough to turn sticky soil is more risky than a horse which knows when to balk.

Ontario farmers, as a whole, are inventive, handy and mechanically-minded people. Yet the ease with which they handle the new instruments of farm cultivation, the familiarity they show with their mechanical workings, and the ingenious ways they have of putting them to difficult jobs, these are themselves a warning not to hold in contemptuous familiarity the powers and risks which machines involve. A farmer ploughing with ten horses would handle them very carefully, watchful all the time of their wiles and mis-steps. It is more necessary to be alert to the foibles and wrenchings of tractors which are even more powerful.

Politics Without Passion

By ROBERT MILLER

LIKE the rest of us here the House of Commons is back at work again after the Coronation beano — and very dull the proceedings are. It is not only that no one can really work up much passion in the general atmosphere of relaxation and rejoicing.

THE REAL difficulty for the Labour Party is that the Opposition can find no real issue on which to challenge the Government. Peace has not yet broken out but on the other hand the international situation is obviously much less oppressive than it was when the Conservatives took office eighteen months ago. The Opposition cannot even argue that the Government ought to have been much more forthcoming since the gentle thawing in the cold war. The last speech Sir Winston Churchill made on foreign affairs, in which he advocated Four-Power talks, was exactly what the Labour leaders had been saying in private for weeks. Mr. Attlee could not do anything else but give it his blessing.

It is true that the Opposition is still a little unhappy about the Government's handling of the Egyptian problem and thinks that Sir Winston's attitude is inclined to be far too truculent. But, here again, Labour has not much of a case, at least at the moment. Fighting has not broken out in the Suez Canal Zone, as many Socialists expected it would, and while there remains hope that Britain and Egypt will come to an honourable agreement, the Labour Party can only wait and watch.

THE GOVERNMENT is equally well placed in home affairs. Eighteen months ago the Labour Party was so convinced that the Government's policy would be disastrous for industry that it jubilantly prophesied there would soon be a million unemployed. There is no sign of it yet. So far the employment figures have remained remarkably steady.

Labour is even in a difficulty over the rise in prices. In theory, it might seem that the public would at once respond to any crusade against the high cost of living and perhaps the oddest fact about the present situation is that this has simply not happened. No one really knows the reason. Some think it is because the housewife prefers to have a lean purse and well-stocked shops rather than vice-versa.

Others believe that the explanation is a little subtler. They argue that the marginal voter has lost his faith in the Labour Party and feels that its talk about high prices is a political stunt. That is certainly the impression I got at a recent by-election. In every speech the Labour candidate made, he talked about the rise in the cost of living and, after a time, he gave the impression that he had no constructive policy to offer.

What is curious is that both Conservatives and Socialists agree that the Bevanite struggle has not been the real cause of the Labour Party's decline. Certainly that was the view I came to at this by-election. The Conservative candidate began by making a great song-and-dance about the Bevanites during the first few days. During the rest of the campaign he hardly referred to them.

"WELL, there's one thing the Coronation has done," a friend said to me the other day. "It has proved once and for all that there's no future for sound broadcasting."

Certainly no one could deny that television did a wonderful job. Thousands who stayed at home and watched the crowning in comfort saw a great deal more than many distinguished people who had places in the Abbey. In fact, one man who was among that honoured assembly assures me he had had only a single glimpse of the proceedings. The poor fellow had a seat behind a pillar. So much for those who so loudly complained that the Coronation should have been arranged on more democratic lines.

❖ ❖ ❖

BUT although I think the T.V. technicians deserve all the praise showered on them, I cannot agree that sound broadcasting is finished. There are certain things that television will always do better — the Coronation is an obvious example. It does sport better: the viewer of a cricket match can see what the bowler is doing when he cunningly holds his hand behind his back and he can also see which way the ball is breaking. There are other thing that should be mentioned — the news reels, for instance, which have always seemed to me brilliantly done.

But there are other fields where I feel that sound broadcasting can more than hold its own. Plays are still not particularly well done on television: the camera is often oddly confined instead of moving freely as it should do. Sound, too, has an advantage in a talk, for there is nothing, I think, more embarrassing than a close-up of the distinguished man whom one has long admired.

❖ ❖ ❖

LONDONERS must have received the news that the Coronation decorations may be left up after June 22 — the date originally fixed for dismantling them — with mixed feelings. The crowds of sight-seers are still as dense as ever. Indeed, I have at last given up my old 'bus journey to the office, having learnt that, if I start off at the normal time, I may be as much as half-an-hour late. I go by "tube" instead.

EVERYBODY KNOWS that London has the most courteous policemen in the world, and certainly they all deserve a special medal for the way they have behaved during the last few weeks. Even when they have not been struggling with the crowds, they have had to answer interminable questions from the foreigners and provincials in the city. So far as I have been able to judge, they have remained marvellously good-humoured. And it is not only the police who deserve to be praised. What about the London motorists who have had to contend with the country visitor who strides across the road without looking to the right or left? A taxi drive these days is often a perilous journey. The other afternoon we missed three women in under a hundred yards.

But despite these dangers and inconveniences there is always something to amuse or delight the eye. I like particularly the children who, crammed into open taxis, pass slowly along the Mall or Whitehall cheering everything and everybody.

China's Surplus Multitudes

By O. M. GREEN

ONE result of the widespread famine in China, which Peking has frankly acknowledged, will give special concern to the Communists; it must aggravate the drift of peasants to the cities which for some months past has seriously worried the Chinese Government.

Even on the basis of the Communists' figures, which for those who know something of China are almost certainly an understatement, peasants who have abandoned their bits of land and wandered blindly to the cities must number some hundreds of thousands.

In Manchuria, eighty-five thousand have drifted into the towns since early this year. Employment is said to have been found by about twenty-seven thousand; but what of the rest?

Peking claimed last month to have sent back nine thousand five hundred peasants to the fields, but indications are that several thousands are still camped without work in the suburbs.

Sianfu, capital of Shensi in the northwest, claimed last month to have "persuaded" (by what means, one wonders) twelve thousand eight hundred peasants to go home. Some thousands of these had come from the coastal provinces of Shantung and Kiangsu, hundreds of miles away — which suggests bad conditions for seekers after work in the intervening provinces.

In Shansi, next province to Shensi, the drift to the towns appears equally serious. From Chungking it is reported that many peasants (no exact figures are given) have simply returned their land to the local Peasants' Association and made for the nearest town with their families and such poor property as they could carry.

These are samples of the normal vicissitudes of rural life in China where four-fifths of the population look to the land for a living. It is clear that the Communists' attempt to solve the problem by distributing the landlords' estates among the peasants has not succeeded. In some ways it has even made matters worse, though this may be transitory.

For one thing the amount of land allotted to each adult, averaging under half an acre, is too small even for the Chinese farmers' tireless industry to provide a steady livelihood. Even in the management of that allocation the Communist regime has created for the peasant all sorts of new perplexing problems, as brought out in an official survey in the great southern province of Kwangtung, recently re-published in Hong Kong.

The survey emphasizes that the peasants, particularly those of the so-called "middle class", are perpetually afraid of being elevated to the landlord class; they hesitate to hire needed labour; or to lend money to poorer peasants for fear of being accused of exploiting them, and production suffers because to produce more food than the family needs is to incur the suspicion of being wealthy.

Another grievance is the system of taxation. The peasants say that the officials set them a certain arbitrary standard of production and base the taxes on that regardless of whether it can be reached or not.

The Peking "People's Daily" sharply attacks the official agricultural organizations (of which there are 180,000 spread over China), for precipitating the flight to the towns. They are charged with "commandism" (in other words, unwarrantable use of force), use "all kinds of harsh and brutal methods", seize the people's property in land and tools, and force them into mutual aid and agricultural co-operative groups as a step towards the collectivization of the land.

As these agricultural official organizations are largely staffed with cadres—students and youths even less educated, except for a smattering of Marxist jargon—it is not surprising if, "dressed in a little brief authority" they become tyrannical. It is not only in China that minor officials can be intolerably overbearing.

The "People's Daily" also castigates the provincial authorities for allowing the peasants to leave their fields. In bygone days when professional beggars wandered over China like a plague, the one idea of every magistrate was to give them something and push them on to the next town as quickly as possible. Much the same thing seems to be happening now. It must be stopped, says an order from Peking; the surplus rural population must be put to work on local irrigation, road-making, afforestation, land reclamation.

All of which calls for money, or at least its equivalent in food, for the workers, and may be unnecessary and even impracticable in the densely populated, closely cultivated provinces such as Kiangsu or Hunan.

Another factor which must add to unemployment among the peasants is the multiplication of State farms with mechanical farming. They may, as the Communists claim, increase the quantity of food produced, but at the cost of giving work to proportionately fewer men.

The basic fact is that there is not enough land in China for the hundreds of millions of her population. Beyond the ranks of the peasants, the Communists admit that "the necessities of social reform"—State trading and the suppression of "unproductive industries" —have thrown out of employment numbers of small shop-keepers and work people. One reads, too, of intellectuals who are little better than beggars.

As the heavy industries—metallury, mining and cloth-making—grow and the present gigantic waste and muddle in all State enterprises, due to inexperience and lack of trained foremen, is gradually overcome, there will be more employment for the people. The conservancy works, too, on the Huai, Yangtse, Yungting and other rivers should bring some millions more acres under cultivation.

But it is the experience of China as it is of India that, wherever conditions of life improve, up goes the population to saturation point.

Whatever other principles the Communists may stamp out, or at least curb, in the Chinese people, one doubts whether they will ever conquer the age-long Confucian conviction of every Chinese that it is his duty to have as many sons as possible to perpetuate the family and the worship of its ancestors.

Able Mr. Pickersgill

Able, hard-working, forthright, energetic and imaginative, Mr. Pickersgill will bring strength to the Government. He knows Canada thoroughly, has great ambitions for it, and is gifted besides with an astute political sense which will stand him in good stead.

The Liberal party, during its long tenure of office, has been both shrewd and fortunate in bringing along a succession of younger men to fill the gaps which time remorselessly tears in its ranks. Among these Mr. Pickersgill ranks high.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Who can utter the mighty acts of the Lord? who can shew forth all his praise? . . .

Our father understood not thy wonders in Egypt; they remembered not the multitude of thy mercies; but provoked him at the sea, even at the Red sea. Nevertheless he saved them for his name's sake, that he might make his power to be known . . .

Then believed they his words; they sang his praise. (Ps. 106:2,7,8,12.)

❖ ❖ ❖

Behold, he that keepeth Israel shall neither slumber nor sleep.

The Lord is thy keeper: the Lord is thy shade upon thy right hand . . . The Lord shall preserve thee from all evil: he shall preserve thy soul. The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore. (Ps. 121:4,5,7,8.)

❖ ❖ ❖

Then assembled together the chief priests, and the scribes, and the elders of the people, unto the palace of the high priest, who was called Caiaphas, and consulted that they might take Jesus by subtility and kill him . . . Then one of the twelve, called Judas Iscariot, went unto the chief priests, and said unto them, What will ye give me, and I will deliver him unto you? And they convenanted with him for thirty pieces of silver. (Matt. 26:3,4,14,15.)

Letter To The Editor

ILL-MANNERED CUSTOMERS

Sir: I would like you to print this letter in your column as a tribute to all the clerks in grocery stores:

First of all, I would like to complain about some of the ignorant customers we serve. Why do they have to pull and handle the food? And are never satisfied with what is on display even if it is our utmost quality! You would think they would have some consideration for the time and labour put in wrapping and pricing the items. Why do they have to unwrap the cellophane meat!—not just one—but a dozen different packages!! Why is the fruit always pinched and poked?—and then they have the nerve to turn and ask if this is reduced (especially bananas and tomatoes)? After waiting on a customer like this you are expected to be in a pleasant mood. We know the food isn't always at its best, but we try to give the best quality we can and wish the customer would be more considerate. We know there are different kinds of customers and clerks, but if a customer is pleasant, a clerk will be!!

Sincerely,
AN IRRITATED CLERK.

Forest Lore

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

Nowhere in New Brunswick are we far from forests. The prosperity of every one of us depends to some extent—more than many appreciate—on well-protected and well-managed woodlots. Moreover, most of us some time or other find ourselves in the woods on business or pleasure. We shall enjoy that all the more if we know something about forests and forestry. If we happen to lose ourselves in the woods, we can make our way out more easily and meanwhile provide shelter for ourselves and find something to eat, if we know a little of what to look for and how to use it. For many reasons some woodcraft should be acquired by all, and a good way is to have it taught in school as practically as facilities permit.

ITALIAN SHIP OF STATE

Fire Damage Said $10,000,000

WHITTIER, Alaska (AP)—The loss from a devastating fire which closed this key Alaska military port Wednesday night is estimated unofficially at from $6,000,000 to $10,000,000.

Eighteen persons were injured and the main 1,200-foot dock and three 800-foot warehouses filled with vast quantities of supplies were destroyed by the rampaging flames. Railroad facilities on the huge pier were also lost.

A military board was named to determine the cause of the fire and arrangements were being made to shift ships with military cargo to Seward, on the southern shores of the Kanai peninsula.

Lay Pure Silver Leaf Down Cobalt Street

COBALT (CP)—A strip of pure silver leaf, six inches wide and 20 yards long, is being laid down on Silver street today. It's worth about $500.

Workmen tore up the sidewalk and recemented it with the silver. Surrounding the strip are samples of high grade cobalt ore.

The expensive strip commemorates the famous silver sidewalk found in the Lawson mine during Cobalt's early days. It will be one of the attractions when Cobalt celebrates its 50th anniversary July 5-11.

U.S. Jets Down 6 Red Planes

SEOUL (AP)—U. S. Sabre jets destroyed six Communist MiGs and damaged three in air battles high over northwest Korea today.

On the ground, Communist infantry jabbed at South Korean positions along the central front, where 30,000 to 40,000 Communists had rolled back Allied lines as much as two miles early this week in a pre-armistice drive toward the 38th parallel.

The air force, meanwhile, boosted from five to six the number of MiGs shot down in air battles Thursday. Four other Red jets were damaged.

Except on the central front, ground action was light. On the western end of the battle line the 8th army reported only two small patrol contacts in the night.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

A right pleasant dinner the other night at the King George Hotel for the hockey Shamrocks, OMHA bantam "A" champions this year. PMHA prexy Ray Tanner gave the dinner as well as leather jackets and hockey sticks to the players, a generous gesture by a good sportsman. Club manager Dave Hayes was chairman for the occasion, he and Coach Pat Doherty giving team pictures to the winners, the presentation being made by George Bennett of the association executive. Larry Lonsberry's dad presented the most valuable player crest to Gary Darling.. Nip O'Hearn, who presented the jackets for Mr. Tanner, was guest speaker and gave an interesting talk on the value of education to athletes, as well as stressing sportsmanship. A neat "do."

Minor ball is ready to roll here after a meeting tonight at seven in the city hall to clean up last-minute details. It's open to managers, coaches and others interested in the kids: peewees, bantams, and the midget-juvenile combines. A dozen or more teams will take to four fields shortly in PMBA action under capable coaches. Alex Sinclair has rounded up four of the local service clubs and three labor groups to kick in cash toward equipment. This is an excellent start toward reviving baseball in Peterborough. This well-organized minor setup and the junior Liflocs will eventually bring the game back to its proper stature in the city and revive senior ball again.

Halfway mark in the OLA senior schedule is approaching and quite a scramble is developing for the first four spots, the playoff positions, in the group. Fergus and Brampton are presently fighting furiously for fourth place back of St. Kitts, Toronto Yorks and the Petes. Tonight's clash here, weather permitting, betwixt Yorks and Petes shapes up as another honey. Yorks beat the Thorpe team here last meeting after Petes took them in Orillia. This is the rubber match and there'll be no quarter asked or given —except of course a few of 'em at the gate. Trailermen trek to Brampton on the morrow and then rest for a week.

To Train As A Jockey

Within two years, Peterborough for the first time may have a young jockey steering mounts in running races around the Woodbine oval. Don Walker, aged 16 and weighting just 76 pounds, is being sent up to Jim McIlmurray at the Woodbine next week by Bill Sturdy, Crawford's Grove grocer, for jockey training. Bill, who came here five years ago, was a jockey himself years ago in the Western States and later was a partner to McIlmurray. He is keenly interested in the runners and thinks young Walker has the makings of a rider. Says it takes from one to two years to transform a green kid into an apprentice jockey, and that Don might make it by a year this autumn.

UEW beat Revoy's 7-4 in men's softball last gloaming to stay tied atop the loop with the TPT Petes, who edged Seabrooke's 3-2. Skipper Tom Walton of UE had Howie Dalton hurling and the latter did his usual steady slab chore, while Dick West also pitched well. The winners hit better with ducks on the pond. George Bennett's TPT-ers had to come through in the ninth on hits by Buck Legrow and Jack Mackness, plus a miscue, to yank out their victory in a real thriller, complete with hot arguments, et al. Reg Gordon and Lefty Doris pitched on pretty even terms and 'twas just a tossup al the way. Red Sullivan belted his fifth homer of the season, and Mark Donoghue also clouted a four-base blow. Good ball.

Three Colts Steal Dresden Show

DRESDEN, Ont. (CP)—Three of last year's top colts stole the show Thursday at the annual June harness races staged by the Dresden Turf Club. Hy Lee Baldwin, owned by Lafe Morgan of Chatham, won both heats and in copping the first trip paced the fastest time of the day—a 2.10 1-5 mile.

The Morgan speedster had to be good to take the nod from two of last year's top colts, Bobby Herbert from the Herbert Stable at London and Richard Hal, now owned by Evans and Fraser of Ridgetown. This pair each had a two-three record.

Argyle Grattan, last season's "horse of the year" ran into tough luck in the first heat of the 2.17 pace but came back to take the second whirl in 2.10 2-5. The Campbell star from Ailsa Craig was bumped in a scramble during the first mile and the wheel of his sulky was broken. Despite this he gamely went on to place fourth behind Mac Dale, owned by Cecil Stone of Petrolia.

Marines Take Close Tilt At Curve Lake

Outboard Marines pulled out a 3-1 fastball victory over Curve Lake last night on the latter's diamond in a nifty number. Doris hurled five-hit ball for the winners and had excellent support, while Taylor twirled good ball, too, most of the way, though his mates could manufacture but one run, that one tallying in the sixth inning.

The victorious visitors shoved over a marker in the second stanza, and added one in the third inning. They counted the insurance marker in the eighth, and threatened again in the ninth with two aboard at the final out of the fast fixture. Teams:

Marines: Gordonier, 1b; Fennell, lf; Blakely, rf; Downer, 3b; Corrigan, cf; Godfrey, 2b; Mongraw, c ;White, c; Broadhurst, ss; Doris, p.

Curve Lake: Coppaway, 3b; H. Taylor, 1b; D. Jacobs, lf; N. Jacobs, rf; J. Taylor, 2b; A. Taylor, ss; Knott, cf; Irons, c; S. Taylor, Umpires—Richardson and Montgomery.

Olson-Young Tangle Tonight

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Randy Turpin's fall work will be cut out for him tonight at Madison Square Garden when Carl (Bobo) Olson meets Paddy Young for the American middleweight title and the right to fight the Briton for the world title in August.

Olson, Hawaiian-born San Francisco boxer, rates a 3-to-1 favorite over the rugged Irishman from New York. The pick here is Olson despite the ever-present danger in Young's left hook.

The 15-round bout, scheduled for 10 p.m. EDT, will be televised (NBC) and broadcast (ABC) for a $50,000 fee. Each fighter gets 30 per cent of the TV cash and the estimated $35,000 that 9,000 fans are expected to pay at the box office.

Young, a converted southpaw, is a solid puncher. He boxes better than many think, throwing a stinging jab. The hook to the body is his best punch. He takes a good wallop, fights back and comes on strong in the late rounds.

Paddy's saddle nose usually spouts from the first round on and often old cuts open around his eyes. Both eyes were cut in his last fight, a 12-round victory over Ernie Durando March 27.

Don Kenyon Gets Thousand

LONDON (Reuters)—Don Kenyon, England and Worcestershire opening bat, climbed on top of the county batting honors Thursday to become the first player of the season to notch a thousand.

Kenyon, out for 53 against Sussex, got his thousand at 48. He has scored more than 2,000 runs in each of the last three seasons.

Close of play scores:

Australian Tourists 197 and 146, Derbyshire 69 and 17 for one.

Middlesex 210, Nottinghamshire 46 for three.

Essex 177 for nine declared, Surrey 54 for one, start delayed, wicket wet.

Oxford University 128, Warwickshire 137 for three.

Lancashire 193 for four declared, Cambridge University 36 for five.

Northamptonshire 268 and 57 for four, Glamorgan 221.

Kent 93 and 254, Leicestershire 131 and 21 for no wicket.

Sussex 192, worcestershire 163 for four.

Batting: Gene Stephens, Boston Red Sox, set a modern major league record as he singled twice and doubled in the seventh inning against Detroit when the Red Sox scored 17 runs.

Pitching: Eddie Lopat, New York Yankees, allowed eight hits in winning his 13th straight game over two seasons, against St. Louis 5-0.

KICK—Leaving Saddle Lake Dude Ranch, Wilton, N.Y., where he trained, Paddy Young assured a white weanling that he had a kick, too, for his 15-round American middleweight championship match with Bobo Olson at Madison Square Gardens.

Kesselring, Weslock Carry Slim One-Stroke Golf Lead

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener and Nick Weslock of Windsor, Ontario's two top amateur golfers, carried a slim one-stroke lead into the wind-up 36 holes of the Ontario open golf championship today.

Both fired sizzling four-under-par 68s in the first round of the 54-hole event Thursday as they outshot a strong band of American pros and amateurs and some of the top Eastern Canada money players.

Kesselring, who won both the Ontario open and amateur last year, and Weslock, winner of the Open crown in 1949, came in a stroke ahead of two pros and a highly-rated amateur.

They were Bo Wininger of Oklahoma City and Rudy Horvath of the host Essex Club and amateur George Eluck of Windsor Lakeview.

Seventy of a field of 138 qualified for the final two rounds with scores of 77 or better.

39 CANADIANS

Thirty-nine of the qualifiers seeking the Carling Trophy are Canadians. Of these, 22 are professionals, who are in the running for an additional $2,500 cash, including first prize money of $1,000.

Two of the leading pros still in the running are Smiley Quick of Pasadena, Calif., who won the Open at Kitchener two years ago, and Fred Hawkins of Tucson, Ariz., a pre-tournament favorite who was second in the 1951 Canadian Open.

Smiley and two others came in with 71s—Al Balding of Toronto and Mike Dietz of Detroit. Hawkins was two strokes behind with a 73 which included a two-stroke penalty incurred when a spectator picked up his ball.

Two strokes back of Kesselring with 70s were five players, including amateur Bill Parkes of Woodstock, Ont. The others were Larry Tomasino of Detroit, Bill Capps of Los Angeles, Bill Kozak, a native of Welland who now plays out of Youngstown, N.Y., and Pete Fleming of St. Andrews, Ill.

OTHER SURVIVORS

Others who survived the first 18 holes included Bob Gray, Toronto Scarboro pro, who had 73; football player Bob Cunningham, Jr., of Toronto who shot 75; and Ken Jacobs, Toronto amateur, with 73.

Kesselring was out in 34 and back in 34 for a two-under-par margin on each nine of a course he played for the first time in a practice round Wednesday. He used only 30 putts for the 18 holes and had five birdies.

Weslock, who went out in 36 and back in 32, used only 29 putts, bagging five birdies and an eagle along the way. The eagle came on the longest hole, the 428-yard third, and four of the birdies were in a row.

Horvath, a late finisher, appeared headed for the lead but faltered near the last. At one time on the back nine, he was six under par. However, he slipped on three of the last five holes, taking bogeys.

He thinks young Don has a bright future in the business of handling race horses at post time.

All of the club's 32 rinks took part in this competition.

Tigers Trip Mimico 14-11

TORONTO (CP)—Hamilton Tigers defeated Mimico Mountaineers 14-11 Thursday night in a Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association game, although the Mountaineers led with 15 minutes to go.

The Tigers were in front 5-2 at the first quarter mark and 6-3 at half-time. Then Mimico spurted to lead 8-7 at the three-quarter mark. But Hamilton's five-goal last-quarter attack gave them victory.

Bill Rankin paced the Tigers with three goals. Jack Dorney and Buster Brown each got two Joe Nolan, Freddie Sanford and Harold Harte were two-goal scorers for the Mountaineers.

IRISH SOCCER ACE DIES

GLASGOW (AP)—Patsy Gallagher, 60, famous Irish soccer player, died Wednesday night. Known as the "mighty atom" because of his five-feet four-inch height, he played on 15 Irish international soccer teams.

TPT Petes Edge Seabrooke As UE Beats Revoy's In Keen City League Frays

TPT Petes continued neck-and-neck with UEW in joint leadership of the men's senior softball loop Thursday night at the East City Bowl, by edging Seabrooke Motors 3-2 in nine innings of thrill-packed action. It was the keenest, most boisterous game of the season to date, witnessed by a bumper crowd. Reg. Gordon, seasoned star, took the rubber for George Bennett's men opposing Lefty Doris; and both hurlers finished up in a grand pitchers' duel with honors about even. Petes scored their vital tally in the last of the ninth when Legrow singled with one away and Jack Mackness followed suit; the outfield throw-in to head off Buck at third evaded third-baseman Wyatt as it caromed off the runner near the base and the big boy came prancing in with the winner.

TWO HOMERS

Seabrooke's led off with a pair in the first, their only runs, as Red Sullivan poled Gordon's second pitch far over the right-centrefield fence for his fifth circuit clout of the season; and Mark Donoghue followed suite. Petes tallied one in their half, when Don Floyd singled and scored when a right-field peg in to third, proved wild. A dispute arose and the Motor boys surrounded the arbitrators to protest Floyd's scoring on the toss. Edgar and Leggitt were anything but lonely; and Donoghue was banished.

The teams battled to the seventh amid boisterous protests of one kind or another as tension increased and tempers flared. Finally, the bat of big Jack Mackness cracked out with two gone in the home seventh; and the white sphere sailed far away over the right-field barrier to tie the ball game.

Thus the stage was set for the dramatic finale, a break for the winners, a heartbreak for the losers.

Colorful hitting and fielding, studded the contest as all remained to see it. Gordon, Jaquith, Mackness and Spinner Spencer fielded brilliantly as well as Leonard, Doris and Thompson; but every player performed well.

UEW TRIUMPHS

UEW defeated Revoy Motors 7-4 in the first game of the regular men's senior city league softball twin-bill Thursday night, at the East City Bowl, to remain in first place in the league standing. They have company, however, as TPT Petes also won to share the van position jointly with the Bennett men. Tommy Walton, veteran favorite catcher, former Toronto boy, now handling the Union nine, chose his versatile start, Howie Dalton, to stem the Revoy tide; and the calm veteran responded by twirling winning ball to please his brother-in-law and make his kinsman's debut an auspicious one.

Dick West faced Dalton over the route with honors fairly even on a purely statistical basis of reckoning.

Dalton allowed nine hits, West eight; the winner struck out five and walked one; the loser fanned four and issued two passes.

A slight edge with the willow when hits meant runs enabled UE to earn their margin; but it was nip-and-tuck till the final bell as Revoy's put up a fighting game to further enhance their prestige as a fighting team.

Thomson, Leether, Robson, Grafstein and Cupoli led in the RBI column, Leether driving in two for UE; the others one apiece for their teams. Kotowski and Jerry McGillis looked neat afield, the latter pulling a shoestring off Henry in the ninth.

Cards Beat Dodgers With 12-4 Win; Cubs Clip Pirates

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers are doing their best to insure the 1953 National League pennant for the upstart Milwaukee Braves. The two would-be contenders have met nine times this spring. The Dodgers won the four games played in Brooklyn and the Cardinals have just finished sweeping their second series—a total of five games—from Brooklyn in St. Louis. Milwaukee gained three full games during Brooklyn's decline and fall in St. Louis. Because the Braves, too, have been winning, the only progress the Cardinals have made towards first place is the half game they picked up Thursday when Milwaukee was rained out.

The Cardinals beat the Dodgers for the third straight time 12-4. Chicago Cubs moved within two percentage points of getting out of the cellar as they whipped Pittsburgh 8-4 and New York defeated Cincinnati 6-3. New York Yankees subdued St. Louis twice 5-0 and 3-0, stretching their American League lead to 11 games over Cleveland. The Indians had to go 12 innings to beat Philadelphia 6-4.

BREAKS RECORDS

Boston broke eight modern records for single inning scoring by pushing across 17 runs in the seventh against Detroit. The Red Sox went on to win 23-3, making a total of 40 runs scored off Tiger pitching in two games.

Chicago defeated Washington 8-4 with six runs in the ninth inning.

Carl Erskine lasted only four innings against St. Louis and gave up six runs—three on a bases-loaded double by Stan Musial. Harvey Haddix picked up his eighth victory.

Eddie Lopat in the first game and Jim McDonald and Tom Gorman in the second game baffled the Browns as the Yankees made it three in a row and 31 out of their last 36 games.

8TH STRAIGHT WIN

Lopat, who allowed eight hits, collected his eighth straight victory this season.

During the runfest at Boston, the Red Sox collected 14 hits and six walks to score their 17 runs. One of the hits was a home run by Dick Gernert with two on. Gene Stephens singled twice and doubled in the inning to set a modern record.

Forced into extra innings when Joe Astroth homered for the Athletics in the ninth, the Indians picked up two runs in the 12th on an error and three scratch hits.

Syracuse Halts Springfield Winning Streak

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The tail-end Springfield Cubs finally were stopped Thursday night, but not before posting their sixth straight victory—longest Cub winning streak of the season.

Syracuse Chiefs put an end to the string by taking the second game of a double bill 4-3. Springfield won the opener 3-1, featured by some fine hurling.

The cellar-dwellers now are only 4½ games behind the seventh-place Chiefs and appear more confident than earlier in the season.

Rochester Red Wings advanced to within three games of the league-leading Montreal Royals by winning a 9-6 decision from Baltimore Orioles in the only other scheduled game.

END VICTORY STREAK

Lynn Lovenguth put an end to Springfield's streak, stopping the Cubs for his third victory, but needing help from Arc Dyck to do it when the hustling Cubs rallied for two runs in the ninth.

The opener was a pitching duel between Arny Landeck of Syracuse and Springfield's George Long and Tony Jacobs. Long and Jacobs together were touched for only three safeties, with Long taking the win. Landeck gave up only four hits.

A four-run sixth inning and a three-run seventh, featuring a mental lapse by Baltimore first-baseman Jack Mayo, enabled Rochester to down the Orioles.

The four-run splurge saw the Wings tie up the contest at 6-6, after Baltimore had taken a 5-0 lead in the first.

Bickell Memorial Cup Given Leaf Player

TORONTO (CP)—The J. P. Bickell Memorial Cup, a solid gold trophy believed to be one of the most costly in sports, is to be awarded annually to the Toronto Maple Leaf hockey player chosen by a vote of Maple Leaf Gardens' directors.

Made in Sweden, the trophy, a memorial to the late Canadian mining magnate and Gardens' director, is a 14-karat gold on a solid quartz base. A replica, to become the property of the player who receives the award, will also be of 14-karat gold.

The cup will be awarded this year for the first time.

2 Women Fight For Top Laurels

TORONTO (CP)—Anne Sharp of Lookout Point and Mrs. M. H. Currer of Toronto St. George's are to battle it out today at the suburban Thornhill Club for the Ontario ladies' golf championship.

In Thursday's semi-final competition, Miss Sharp defeated Kay Helleur of Toronto Rosedale 5 and 3 while Mrs. Currer eliminated Shirley Woodley of the Toronto Ladies' Club 4 and 2.

Their meeting in the final of the 38th championship will be the first decided over the 36-hole route. The other finals, in flights and beaten eights, will be over the 18-hole distance.

In the championship beaten eight Rae Milligan of Jasper, Alta., the Alberta titleholder, meets Mrs. Lionel Ross of Cobourg in the final.

Musial Worried Over Long Batting Slump

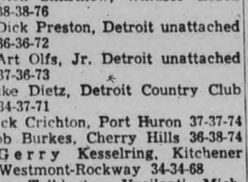
ST. LOUIS (AP)—A worried Stan Musial, predicting he will climb above the .300 mark before the season ends, said Thursday he has no private problems to blame for the worst batting slump of his illustrious career.

The $80,000-a-year St. Louis Cardinal star admitted he doesn't know the answer to his prolonged slump. He's hitting only .250 for the first third of the season, nearly 100 points under his lifetime average.

Has Musial lost his reflexes, a sign that the end is near in baseball? He doesn't think so, and neither do his manager, teammates and other baseball people questioned here.

BADLY WORRIED

"Sure, I'm worried," the 32-year old outfielder said. "I'm worried because I'm not helping the ball club, but—and print this, please—I have no financial worries, no outside problems."



Manager Eddie Stanky of the Cards said he has never considered benching Musial and considers him valuable because of his base-running speed and fielding ability as well as his batting. "He won two games for us on the last trip by his running alone," Stanky said.

RIGHT ON THE NOSE—Trainer Lou Hammond took Tips, the stable's pet Chihuahua, to see race mare Teddy's Girl and her colt (right) in Margaret Walter's thoroughbred racing stable at Vancouver's Lansdowne Park. Just as the camera clicked Tips sank his sharp little teeth into the mare's snout. Action in the stable a split second later was too confused for the camera to record.

Not Given Starting Chance, Paige Peeved

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Satchel Paige, St. Louis Browns' ageless hurler, admits he is the greatest relief pitcher in baseball today, but he is peeved at manager Marty Marion for not giving him a starting chance.

"I can't understand that fellah" Paige muttered while relaxing in the clubhouse between games at the Yankee Stadium Thursday. "I know he wants to win. So why don't he start me?"

"I'm the best pitcher he's got. He knows that. It don't matter to me whether I relieve or start. But I know I can win 16 or 17 games for him as a starter. You can't do no winning in relief. . . at least not that many.

"That old age of mine fools 'em. But it shouldn't. The main thing is I feel good. I feel better now than I did five years ago when I came to Cleveland. I eat better now and I don't have stomach trouble no more.

SHOW UP KIDS

"I guess Marty don't want to start me because he's afraid I'll go nine innings and show up the young kids on the staff. It don't look right, I guess, for an old geezer like me doing the things them young men can't do."

Paige, who said he "might be a couple of years older" than the 44 years attributed to him in the American League record book, proudly pointed out he has appeared in 27 games, more than any pitcher in the American League. (He made it No. 28 in the second game of the doubleheader against the Yankees.)

He has won one and saved five others, but he is proudest of his two-inning scoreless relief job against the Yankees Tuesday night that helped the Browns snap New York's 18-game winning streak.

GOOD AGAINST YANKS

"I always get a kick out of saving a ball game, but it feels especially good when it's against the Yankees. I really bore down against them that night. I had that Mantle kid so confused with my variety of pitches, he tried to bunt on the third strike. Imagine a fool thing like that. A home run hitter trying to bunt with two strikes on him."

Paige modestly proclaimed himself the No. 1 relief pitcher, and offered the following explanation.

"Take them fellows like Wilhelm, Black and Kinder. They usually come in with the score tied and nobody or one man on base. Then their team gets them a couple of runs and they pile up them victories. Now take old Satch. I come in with the bases full, nobody out, three balls and no strikes on the hitter. And we're usually behind in the score. Then I bear down and gets out of the inning without a score. Sometimes they manage to get a run. But we don't get no more."

Laura Secord Store Renovated

Forty years ago a Peterborough business man, Frank P. O'Connor, opened the first little black and white Laura Secord shop in Toronto.

At noon to-day Gordon K. Fraser, formally declared open the 101st Laura Secord Shop on George St. which has been completely renovated and modernized.

John D. Hayes, head of the company was present and declared that the traditions established by Frank P. O'Connor 40 years ago had been adhered to through the years.

Mr. Hayes said: "The late Senator Frank O'Connor treated all the people who worked with him as he himself wanted to be treated. From the small beginning of the company he insisted that only the very finest foods obtainable would be used. They would be made fresh daily and they would be sold at the lowest possible price."

This year nearly 5,000,000 pounds of candies would be made in the studios of the company in Toronto and Montreal. Mr. Hayes said that Peterborough has always held a special place in the affections of the company arising from the founder's long associations in this city.

The "New Look" given the George Street shop is in keeping with an extensive modernization program of the company. A new portrait of Laura Secord as a young girl has replaced the traditional drawing of the Canadian heroine of the War of 1812.

With Mr. Hayes at the opening ceremonies was Robert J. McGillis, vice-president and general-manager. Mr. McGillis paid tribute to Mrs. Zeta Corbett, shop manager who has been a Laura Secord Associate for 29 years. The policy of the Company is to place wide responsibilities on Shop Managers, Mr. McGillis said, and Mrs. Corbett's warm courtesy and service had won many friends for the Company.

After the opening proceedings, guests were entertained at the buffet luncheon at the Empress hotel.

Among the guests at the opening of the Laura Secord Shop and at luncheon were:

Ald. and Mrs. S. Black, Ald. and Mrs. N. Graham, Ald. and Mrs. P. J. Anglesey, Fire Chief Leonard and Mrs. Leonard, Mr. and Mrs. John Madden, Mr. and Mrs. Don Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Burnie, G. K. Stan Longhurst, Mr. and Mrs. Geddes Harper, Mrs. May D. Caddy, Mrs. Doris Dinsdale, Miss Jean Gillespie, Mrs. Margery Moncur, Mr. Alexander Shearer.

Hosts at the luncheon were: John D. Hayes; R. J. McGillis; Grellan Vouthier, general sales manager; Rud Lang, sales manager (Toronto district), Frank Chamberlain, public relations representative; and Mrs. Corbett.

HARD TO RECOGNIZE—"It's hard to recognize your own sister after all these years," said Frank Gott, of 2034 St. Thomas Street, Ville Jacques Cartier, as he embraced his sister, Mrs. J. Schmidt, of Albion, Pa., after they met for the first time in 48 years. When Mrs. Schmidt arrived at Central Station she carried with her a recent photograph of her brother which she used to identify him. @

Will Intensify Training For 25th Brigade

OTTAWA (CP)—The army's 25th brigade in Korea will intensify its training and go in more heavily for leave, welfare and education if a truce ends the fighting, Defence Minister Claxton said Thursday.

His statement didn't mention anything about when the brigade might be thinned out or pulled out. The reason, officials said, is that nobody knows. The formation is committed to the United Nations and it would be some time after a truce before the picture would be clear.

MATTER OF MONTHS

Indications are that it would be a matter of months after a truce before there was any substantial reduction in the brigade's size.

Mr. Claxton said the army, in anticipation of a truce, has prepared plans ready to go into effect at once to increase welfare, leave and educational facilities for the soldiers.

But training would also be stepped up in duty hours and would stress types of fighting that have not been common in Korea.

Christ Church Marking 100th Year

FREDERICTON — (C P) — Christ Church Cathedral will mark the 100th anniversary of its consecration during the meetings of the Anglican diocesan synod here June 23-25. ➠

The Most Rev. Waler F. Barfoot, Primate of All Canada, will be the speaker at a special evening service June 23. The cathedral was consecrated August 31, 1853.

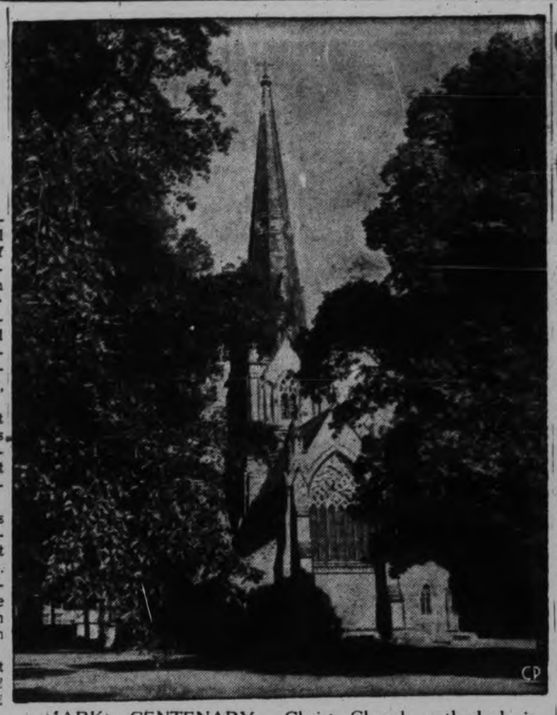
Christ Church is a monument to the zealous man whose efforts made it a reality. He was Archbishop John Medley, First Bishop of the Diocese of Fredericton.

The cathedral took eight years to build. Laying of the cornerstone Oct. 15, 1945, was an event unique in ecclesiastical history. With it began what church authorites believe to have been the first new cathedral foundation on British soil since the Norman conquest.

This resulted from the fact that all other cathedrals established in the long years between had grown out of existing ecclesiastical establishments, such as parishes. Christ Church cathedral was founded as such—not on any previous parochial organization. For Fredericton, too, the event held a far reaching significance.

BECAME CITY

It made Fredericton a city. By letters-patent issued April 25, 1845, Queen Victoria ddi ordain and constitute the town of Fredericton, within the said province of New Brunswick, to be a bishops see and the seat of said bishop, an do proclaim that the said town of Fredericton shall henceforth be a city, and be called the city of Fredericton."



Somehow the original ordination of the city was not implemented by an act of the provinciall legislature until March 30, 1948. Christ Church was completed in 1853 and consecrated on Aug. 31, in a ceremony attended by religious and civil dignitaries, both of Canada and the United States. The June date for the observance this year has been chosen to accomodate Archbishop Barfoot.

For some time after the laying of the cornerstone the work proceeded slowly. Bishop Medley had one stormy meeting with the building committee at which the latter urged the sealing in and finishing of only a portion of the edifice. Thereafter the bishop is said to have spent a dark night in prayer. In the morning, a letter from England bore a note for £500. The gift was unsigned except for the initiails F. S. M. but the anonymous donor and his generous gift have been perpetuated in the fabric of the cathedral itself. Today the initials F. S. M. may be seen carved into one of the stones supporting the bishop's seat.

COMMANDING POSITION

Christ Church cathedral occupies a commanding position near the bank of the St. John river in the easterly part of the provincial capital. The entire nave is an exact copy of St. Mary's Church at Snettishman, Norfolk, England. Trinity Church in New York city contributed toward the cost of the beautiful east window.

Originally the tower housed a chime of eight bells, the tenor bell weighing 2,800 pounds. These were destroyed when the spire and tower were struck by lightning, July 3, 1910. They were replaced in 1913 by a set of 15 bells which duplicated the tone pattern of the chime in Trinity Church, New York. The second set was presented by Sir James Dunn, the New Brunswicker who became a power in finance and steel. A cenotaph with recumbent effigy of Archbishop Medley, carved in white carrara marble, was placed in the south transept in 1896.

MARKS CENTENARY — Christ Church cathedral in Fredericton, N.B., will mark the 100th anniversary of its consecration during the meetings of the Diocesan synod June 23-25. The cathedral took eight years to build and was consecrated Aug. 31, 1853. The event made Fredericton a city by letters patent issued by Queen Victoria which proclaimed "the said town of Fredericton shall henceforth be a city," when the cathedral was made a bishop's see.

Coldwell Urges Farm Machinery Co-Operatives

NORTH BATTLEFORD, Sask. (CP)—CCF leader M. J. Coldwell Wednesday urged co-operative ownership of the farm implement industry as a means of providing efficient and low-cost agricultural machinery.

Swinging into the heart of the jackfish country in his current federal election campaign, Mr. Coldwell termed various lines of farm implements produced by different companies a "most costly and uneconomical practice."

He said the industry should be re-organized and integrated. Standardization under public or co-operative ownership would substantially reduce service costs. Only through standardization could the farm implement industry be prevented from making excess profits at the expense of farmers.

The CCF leader said in spite of all the evidence showing immense profits made for many years by the farm implement industry, government apathy permits it to do "pretty much as it likes in advancing its own selfish interests."

Won't Use Canadian Soldiers If S. Koreans Break Armistice

ORONO, Ont. (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson indicated Thursday night Canadian troops in Korea will not be used in any fighting that may break out between the South Koreans and the North Koreans after an armistice.

Mr. Pearson, president of the United Nations general assembly, spoke at a Durham riding nomination meeting which chose John James, the sitting member, as the Liberal candidate for the riding in the Aug. 10 federal election.

Mr. Pearson did not mention Canadian troops but observers said he made plain that Canada would honor only those commitments made as a member of the UN and would not go beyond that sphere of action.

NO OBLIGATION

"We are under no obligation to support or participate in any operation brought on by the government of the Republic of south Korea and not by decision of the United Nations," said Mr. Pearson.

He declined comment on the question of whether Canadian troops will be used in any roundup of escaping prisoners of war. Only United States troops now are being used for that purpose.

Dr. J. B. McClinton was re-elected president of the chamber. W. S. Anderson is vice-president, E. A. Perry second vice-president and D. A. Bull treasurer.

Ford of Canada's 11,000 employees accepted a six cent an hour increase on Tuesday, bringing the company's minimum rate to $1.55 per hours.

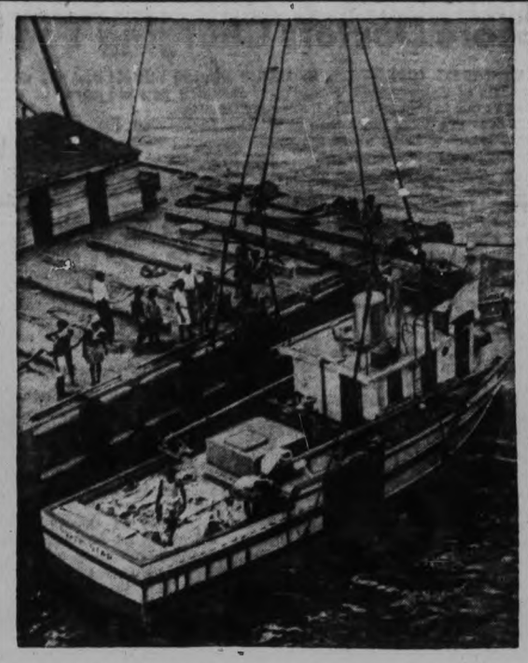
Judge Reserves TV Judgment

OTTAWA (CP) — Mr. Justice J. C. A. Cameron Thursday reserved judgment in a damage action by a Toronto television company against a Montreal firm which picked up copyrighted television programs and distributed them by wire to subscribers.



The action in Exchequer Court of Canada was launched by Canadian Admiral Corporation which sought $600 damages from Rediffusion Inc. Admiral claimed its copyright on television broadcasts of Montreal Alouettes football games was infringed by Rediffusion last fall.

Admiral also sought an injunction which would restrain Rediffusion from making similar use of any future broadcasts. The company abandoned a claim that Rediffusion contravened the Unfair Competition Act.

Rediffusion claimed that no copyright existed on live television broadcasts, that its method of operation did not infringe copyright on filmed broadcasts and that Admiral was not entitled to an injunction.

Gas Production Still Expanding

The production of propane gas by the Peterborough Utilities Commission continued to increase last month, General-Manager W. Howard Powell told Thursday's PUC meeting.

The amount of gas used for gas making was 47,052 gallons, an increase of 20 per cent over May, 1952, when 39,145 gallons were used. The amount of gas made last month was 6,580,000 cubic feet, an increase of 859,000 or 17 per cent over the same month last year when 5,721,000 cubic feet were made. There were 24,786 gallons of gas bottled last month, an increase of 12,606 gallons or 95 per cent over May, 1952, when 12,680 gallons were bottled.

These increases were made in spite of the strike of production workers at the Quaker Oats Co. plant which used no gas last month, Mr. Powell pointed out.

Additional work was done on repairing joints on the high pressure gas main. On Aylmer St., 21 joints were repaired and on Hunter St. bridge seven joints were repaired. Two new gas services were laid.

ST. JOSEPH, Ont. (CP)—Jean Narcisse Cantin, 62, son of the founder of this Lake Huron village, 40 miles northeast of London, and descendant of one of Canada's oldest French families, died Thursday at Westminster (Veterans) Hospital London.

Mr. Cantin, accompanied by his wife, returned only a week ago to the village which in the eyes of his father was to have been a thriving Western Ontario city.

A veteran of both world conflicts, Mr. Cantin served overseas during the First World War with the 64th Field Battery, CFA, and was instructor at the Royal School in London, reaching the rank of captain.

During the Second World War he was staff officer at No. 3 RCAF training command, Montreal with the rank of squadron leader.

Earlier, the ship's load of egg coal was transferred to a lighter, the Coburg.

The Franqueline went aground on the island's northeast shore early Wednesday when, Capt. Cecil Freeman of Montreal said, the steering mechanism broke. He said a front plate was broken. The ship's 23-man crew remained aboard.

Cattle Receipts Down Slightly

TORONTO (CP) — Receipts on cattle were down slightly at the Ontario stockyards this week. Cattle prices dropped $1 to $1.50 on steers and cows with other killers mostly $1 lower. Calves were steady to $1 lower, hogs lost $2, lambs dropped $2 and sheep held steady. The holdover at the close was 1,200 cattle.

The cattle run of 7,101 head included 700 westerns. Good to choice heavy steers were the hardest hit, selling on Wednesday at $18.50-19.50; choice light steers $20-21.50; good light $19-20; mediums downward to $18; good heifers $19-20; plain downward to $16; good cows and bulls were mostly $15-16; canners downward to $9; common bulls as low as $12; good to choice fed yearlings $20-21.50; mediums as low as $18; good light stockers $21-22; a few at $22.75; plain to medium stockers $16-20.

Calves totalled 1,699 head. Prices were steady to $1 lower. Choice vealers $23-25; up to $26 for tops; medium to good $17-23; plain grassers downward to $13.

Hogs totalled 2,645 head. Prices dropped $2 to $34 for grade A; dressed sows were unchanged at $24.

Sheep and lambs totalled 468. Good spring lambs opened steady at $32 but closed lower at $30; good light sheep $10-12; culls downward to $5.

To Build New Church

BRANTFORD (CP)—Plans were announced Thursday for construction of a new church and rectory in St. Mary's Roman Catholic parish in the east end of the city. The new edifice, of stone construction in Gothic design, will be on Murray street at Colborne street.

$400,000 FIRE—Flames and smoke billow from a warehouse containing more than 3,500 tons of newsprint on the Quebec City harbor front. Damage was estimated at more than $400,000 from the fire, believed started by spontaneous combustion. Capt. Aurele Fraser, Quebec harbor master, said an inquiry will be held into the cause of the fire.

Score Doctors Charging Too High Fees

WINNIPEG (CP) — Dr. E. P. Scarlett of Calgary said Thursday doctors out to charge all the traffic will bear are doing more than any other group to bring about the introduction of state medicine.

Dr. Scarlett, chancellor of the University of Alberta, said at the Canadian Medical Association's annual convention which ends today that even a few such doctors in the medical profession can ruin the reputation of all.

"We must impose a discipline on ourselves rather than expect one from without," he said. "You tell me that our professional life has a sordid side, that we have moral weaklings in our ranks. Granted . . . . But there is an infinite difference between maintaining a standard which is occasionally abandoned and affirming that there is no standard to maintain."

Dr. Douglas Quick of New York City's Roosevelt Hospital, after delivering the Gordon Richards memorial lecture, said that in the treatment of cancer you win or lose on one toss.

RADIATION HELPS

Speaking on the influence of radium on cancer therapy, he said if surgery is not successful, the patient is lost, but if radiation is used there is some chance of increasing long-term control of the disease or giving more short-term relief.

The aim is not simply to prolong life, he said. Prolinging life is only worth while if comfort is provided as well.

Dr. Quick said the incidence of lung cancer is unfortunately increasing. Surgery is faced with diagnostic difficulties in lung cancer. He recommended a constructive surgical attitude and the use of radiation in more cases at an earlier stage.

Dr. Quick said the quality of therapeutic radiology in Canada—the treatment of malignant disease with x-rays, radium or other radioactive material—is second to none.

Dr. J. F. McCreary of Vancouver said a deadly infant-killer of a few years ago has been reduced to the role of a minor offender. Childhood Diarrhoea, which used to kill hundreds of infants, is being defeated by improved sanitation, more physiological knowledge and the use of penicillin and sulfa drugs.

SAFEGUARDS IMPROVED

Dr. McCreary said the disease still causes some infant deaths in the first year and epidemics in nurseries for the new-born are increasing. Safeguards include careful boiling of the child's milk and sterilization of whatever goes into its mouth.

Dr. S. Mirsky of Ottawa said there is hope of an immunization for epidemic jaundice. In a paper prepared for delivery at the convention, he said the combination of virus of the disease with gamma globulin may produce the anti-toxin.

Gamma globulin, a preparation from treated blood, is effective in treatment of poliomyelitis. At present there is no known immunization for jaundice.

Dr. Marjorie Bennett, anaesthetist at St. Boniface hospital, said the ability of a surgeon to distinguish between emergency and non-emergency cases may decide success or failure.

It is important to know when not to operate, she said. Rushing a patient to the table without proper assessment of his trouble may decrease his chances of recovery.

Named Candidate

SIMCOE (CP)—Raymond E. Anderson, present member of Parliament for Norfolk, was unanimously nominated at a convention of Norfolk Liberal Association Thursday night to contest the riding in the forthcoming federal election. Guest speaker at the convention, Trade Minister C. D. Howe, forecast a 15,000,000-pound increase in tobacco export to Britain this year.

Display Equipment

TRENTON, Ont. (CP)—The most modern RCAF equipment was on display at the air station Thursday when the station played host to more than 100 chief executive and engineering officers, members of the Canadian Industrial Preparedness Association. The association members represented 49 major Canadian industries from a total of 20 cities.

MRS. T. A. S. HAY who celebrated her 100th birthday Coronation Day, died Thursday in hospital.

Oldest Citizen Mrs. T. A. S. Hay Dies In Hospital

Peterborough's oldest citizen, Mrs. T. A. S. Hay, 192 McDonnel St., who celebrated her 100th birthday Coronation Day, June 2, died in hospital Thursday after a short illness.

She was born near Lennoxville, Que., the former Elsie Roux and the daughter of the late Rev. Charles Roux and Leo Caddy.

She attended school in Montreal and Plattsburg, N.Y., finishing at a private school in Toronto.

Mrs. Hay has lived in Peterborough for the past 72 years. Her husband, the late Dr. T. A. S. Hay, a former city engineer, predeceased her in 1917. Since his death and the death of one daughter, Mrs. Hamilton Crawford of Marmora, Mrs. Hay has lived with her daughter, Mrs. C. D. Mathias.

She was a member of St. John's Anglican Church and a member of the 57th Regiment Chapter of the IODE since 1913. A lover of the arts, she developed her talents in music and painting and excelled as a French linguist.

QUEEN'S CONGRATULATIONS

On her 100th birthday, Mrs. Hay recived a cable of congratulations and best wishes from Queen Elizabeth.

She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Mathias (Isabel), Peterborough; one sister, Mrs. Harold Woolhiser (Helen), St. Petersburg, Fla.; five grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

The funeral will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. from the Comstock funeral home to St. John's Anglican Church. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson of St. John's Church and Archdeacon C. W. Balfour of All Saints' Anglican Church will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

3 Youngsters Admit Set 3 Fires

Boys Aged 5, 7, 9 Apprehended Near Fire Hall

Three Peterborough boys — ages five, seven and nine years —have admitted setting three fires in the Charlotte St.-Bethune St. district.

They were apprehended Thursday night after two small fires had been reported—one at S. J. Black Office Supplies, two stores east of Bethune; the other on a lot behind the British-American Service Station, 272 Charlotte St.

The trio also admitted setting the fire Tuesday night in the wooden elevator shaft of Conger Lehigh Fuels, located on the west side of the CNR railway tracks at Bethune St. Like the others it was discovered soon after it was lit, and it caused only $15 damage.

Fire Chief Ralph Leonard knew that the fire in the Conger Lehigh elevator shaft was an incendiary attempt so he called in Inspector Ray Simmons of the Ontario Fire Marshal's office, Toronto. The inspector was present when the three boys were apprehended.

SEEN FROM FIRE HALL

The first of the two fires Thursday night was lit in a deep cement cellar window well at the back of Black's store. A quantity of paper and other refuse was in the well and when the boys dropped matches into it the waste paper began to burn. The smoke was seen from the rear of the fire hall by city firemen and they had no difficulty in putting the blaze out.

Five minutes later a second fire was started on the vacant lot behind the service station, a hundred yards west of Black's. This too was put out before there was any damage.

The boys are also believed to have tried to start another fire in the coalyard Thursday night but they were chased away in time.

Had the flames got through the window at the bottom of the cellar window well at Black's store they would have reached some highly-inflammable cleaning fluid that is stored in the basement. There is also a valuable stock of office supplies in the basement.

As a result of the incendiary attempt Fire Chief Leonard has two observations to make: Keep cellar window wells free of scrap paper and other rubbish; and—a hint to storekeepers—take care in selling matches to children.

A WILLOW-PLATE SETTING on the west shore of Lake Katchewanooka is a pleasant place to while away the hot noonday hours of summer, these children find. The weeping willow trees, rustic bridges and small lagoon—there are several more of each on this private waterfront—took many years of hard work to achieve. The owners now feel rewarded since the ponds are filled with frogs that keep down the pest problem. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Quaker Workers Resolved To Stick To Basic Demands Union Meeting Indicates

Fred Dowling Tells Members Retreat From Wage, Hours Demands Would Betray Whole Packing Workers Union

Before the nine-weeks old strike at the Quaker Oats Co. is settled there will have to be compromises. But the 435 Peterborough strikers indicated at a membership meeting Thursday night that on three basic points they were not prepared to give way: a base rate of $1.39½ an hour, a 40-hour week, and no swing shifts. Fred Dowling, Canadian director of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL), making his first address to the membership since the strike began April 22, reviewed the strike picture and the prospects of a settlement with the company.

He spoke quietly, without any attempt at oratorical effect, gauging the temper of his audience of 200 Quaker strikers who crowded into the Labor Centre hall to hear him. At the end of his address he figuratively drew the line from which the union could not retreat.

ESTABLISHED RATE

"I think that if you people backed up on the $1.39½ rate and the 40-hour week you'd be selling out our union," he said bluntly. "That's the milling rate that's now established in industry. We must convince Quaker Oats that they must meet a pattern once it's set.

"Keep on the picket lines until you get your basic demands and you'll have the international union behind you 100 per cent," said Mr. Dowling.

The Canadian director made it plain that the international union were primarily interested in the wages and hours that would be finally arrived at. The swing shift issue was more of a local matter, he felt, though the Peterborough strikers had every right to regard it as just as important as the other two issues.

A discussion on the proposed swing shift was cut short by a striker who shouted: "We're not going to accept it anyway, so why talk about it?"

This brought the loudest and longest burst of applause during the evening.

While in Peterborough Mr. Dowling has no intention of conferring with Reginald R. Faryon, president of the Quaker Oats Co. of Canada, to talk over a possible settlement. However, he said that he was informed by Sam Huges, UPWA Eastern Canadian director, that James Hutcheon, department of labor conciliation officer, had arranged with the company for an invitation to be extended so he and Mr. Faryon could confer later. The letter was supposed to arrive sometime this week. He still hasn't received the letter, he said.

Mr. Dowling said that even if this did come about it wouldn't be of major importance.

"The most hopeful sign is not a meeting with Mr. Faryon but the meetings arranged by the Ontario government's conciliation officer," he said.

(Questioned later by the Examiner about the possibility of a

Water Shortage Not Likely This Summer

Apprehension that the Peterborough Utilities Commission might have to curtail use of garden hoses this summer may have been groundless.

General-Manager W. Howard Powell told Thursday's PUC meeting that it looked now as though there would be no water shortage.

"This is the bad time of year as far as the water supply is concerned," he said. "People are using a lot of water getting their lawns and gardens in shape and so far there has been plenty."

Total pumpage last month was 142,825,000 gallons, compared with 135,680,000 gallons in May of last year, an increase of 7,145,000 gallons. The maximum pumpage rate last month was 5,980 gallons a minute compared with 6,030 in the same month last year. The average pumpage rate was 3,200 gallons a minute last month, compared with 3,030 in May, 1952.

The water was treated with 7.2 pounds of chlorine and 56.3 pounds of alum per million gallons.

NEARLY FINISHED

At the filter plant, construction of the buildings and tanks is nearly finished. Sedimentation basins will be ready for water test soon.

In the distribution system, 27 new water services were laid and three were relaid. One hydrant was changed, one hydrant was scrapped and 300 hydrants were greased and oiled.

On McKellar St., an eight-inch main was extended from the end of the existing main westerly under the CNR tracks to Erskine Ave.

Civic Hospital Operating $22,952 In Black

Civic Hospital financial statements for the first five months of 1953 shows the hospital operating with an excess budget provision thus far of $22,952.

With the help of the city budget appropriation, revenues are up $19,000 while expenditures are down $5,000. Total net expenditures have been $409,820.83 while the budget allowed for expenditures of $414,817.85.

Biggest item in the costs column is salaries which have run at $311,942.92, still some $2,000 under the five month estimate.

Better To Build Afresh Than Renovate Says Board

Preparing figures showing the estimated cost of renovating Queen Mary Hospital for the use of chronic patients, the Civic Hospital Board pointed out in a report Thursday night they would be building on a "sounder base" by embarking on a new construction program.

The report will be forwarded to city council. Council had requested the board to investigate the possibilities of converting the old structure to alleviate crowded hospital facilities.

Originally preparing the report, the hospital's staff committee pointed out it would cost approximately $23,700 to renovate the building for use and about $3.50 a day per patient to operate it. The hospital could accommodate 22 patients.

NEW WING AT CIVIC?

Applied against this is the possibility of constructing a new wing to the present Civic Hospital. If money derived from the sale of Queen Mary Hospital was combined with provincial and federal government grants, it might make it possible without adidtional expenditures.

This would enable the building to be serviced for heat and food from the main building and would make available all the professional services available in the hospital.

"It would be reasonable to expect that for this amount of money the first part of a chronic division could be built which would provide approximately 40 beds. The cost of staffing such a unit on the same basis as used with Queen Mary Hospital would be $1.13 less per day than in the smaller unit," the report pointed out.

In addition to the lower costs of providing service the alternative provides much better treatment facilities.

LONGER WAIT

It was felt by the staff committee the embarking on a program of new construction means a longer delay in alleviating the present situation but "on the other hand it appears to be building on a sounder base."

Also to be forwarded to the council will be reports by Superintendent John Hornal and the Medical and Surgical Advisory Committee. Both reports suggest the appointment of a medical social service worker who could correlate all the community services for the benefit of a patient who has recovered sufficiently to be removed from the hospital.

This would keep patients moving out of the hospital and help crowded conditions there.

While the expense of providing a social worker could not bring in any more revenue or reduce costs, such a person could pay the community in better utilization of its hospital facilities and in the quicker restoration of individuals to their place in the community.

Parked Vehicles Struck By Cars

Three accidents occurred Thursday on Peterborough streets. No one was injured in the crashes, all of which involved parked vehicles.

A car owned by Roy Wilson of 532 Sherbrooke was damaged to the extent of $35 when it was struck by another car while parked on Aylmer. The second car was later identified as belonging to William Conert of RR 3, Indian River.

A vehicle backing out of an Armour Rd. driveway at midnight, driven by Ronald Dooher of RR 4, Campbellford, struck a parked car owned by Lloyd A. Rowland of 612 Centre St. The parked car was damaged to the extent of $90.

Passing a parked truck owned by Sam Stindson of RR 5, Peterborough, a car driven on Hunter St., Thursday night by William J. Foley of 367 Bethune St., struck the truck, causing damage of $40 to the parked vehicle.

Board Approves Annexation Plans

The City Planning Board Thursday night approved the final draft of plans for the annexation of 60 acres of land by the city, owned by the Westbrook Co. in North Monaghan Township for development into a residential subdivision.

The property, formerly owned by Hugh Stewart, was known as the Hilltop farm.

W. M. Bowes, planning consultant for the Westbrook Co., presented the plans to the board, and explained that North Monaghan Township had agreed to the annexation of the land by the city, and that his company was going to put the sewers in and pave the streets.

As yet there have not been any building by-laws passed by Council for the area, and it is expected that the lot frontage will range from 60 to 80 feet. It will be another two or three months before all the problems are ironed out, before annexation can take place.

Local Strawberries Expected In Quantities

Peterborough district strawberries should arrive in volume on the local market early next week, according to reports from growers relayed through Earl McIlwain of National Grocers.

"Their first berries have already reached some stores, and the crop is now ripening to the extent that requires increase in the picking help," Mr. McIlwain said.

"The Vineland berries were of top quality, and the demand from the city and district has been exceptionally heavy, particularly with repeat orders.

"Burlington cabbage will be cut Monday, and some Peterborough head lettuce is promised for next week."

John Madden To Head Christmas Seal Drive

John Madden, Sales Manager for Outboard Marine was appointed chairman of the Christmas Seal Campaign Thursday at the monthly meeting of the Peterborough county T. B. Association.

Fred Revoy, chairman of the visitation committee, reported that five members of the executive visited 16 patients at Gravenhurst during May and a group of the members visited four patients at the Mountain Sanitarium in Hamilton.

PUC Takes Over Coal Vault For Transformers

Although he asked to be put on record as opposed to further underground electrical installations in the city until a plan has been approved by the Peterborough Utilities Commission, Dr. G. R. Langley assented to the PUC taking over an underground coal storage vault and freight entrance from Zeller's Ltd. on Simcoe St. at Thursday's PUC meeting.

The vault will be used to house a transformer to serve Zeller's store which is at present having an extensive addition built on the rear and will require considerably more electric power. It will also serve adjacent buildings.

"We can't too soon have a plan that will stand the test of good engineering inspection," said Dr. Langley who previously made an unsuccessful attempt to block construction of an underground transformer vault for the new Woolworth store because of the lack of an overall city plan of proposed underground installations.

COMMON PRACTICE

"We're following the practice of the rest of the country now," General-Manager W. Howard Powell said.

Mr. Powell reported that Zeller's Ltd. proposed to have an estimated connected load of 75 killowatts lighting and 75 killowatts power.

Supply of this load was originally planned to be from transformers from a pole on Simcoe St. alongside the building but, in the modification of the building, it was pointed out that the coal storage vault and a freight entrance on Simcoe St. would be abandoned.

The vault is approximately 30 feet long, eight feet six inches wide and eight feet nine inches deep. It is made of concrete and is in fair condition.

Mr. Powell said that new transformers would be required in any case and, by bucking up entrances into the building and cutting new access doors, the vault would make an excellent transformer vault.

Zeller's Ltd. was willing to give the vault to the PUC if it takes over the responsibility for its maintenance as required by the city, as it is under a public street. The underground transformer would tie in with the underground system on George St. and make a perfect link with Zeller's and Kresge's stores, he said.

"I've no objection to taking it over on that basis," Dr. Langley said, assenting to the proposal.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Farmers' Day at Kemptville Wednesday, June 24
Western Ontario Farmers Sell 57 Holsteins to Oregon . . . J. H. Jose & Son, Newcastle, Have Great Producing Cow in Mina Frayne Korndyke . . . Advertising Brought Hereford Sale Crowd.

Almost 20 years old, Mina Fayne Korndyke of the Holstein herd of J. H. Jose and Sons, Newcastle, has been pouring forth milk until today she has a production record of 201,653 pounds, containing 7,951 pounds butterfat, average test 3.76 per cent.

John Powell of Brantford writes: "This makes her top living lifetime producer in Canada. Mina made this production in 14 lactations, all on twice-a-day milking on official ROP. Ony one other Holstein cow in Canada has ever completed 14 lactations on ROP test, and Mina is only the second cow to qualify on twice-a-day milking for a gold ribbon certificate of longtime production presented by the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada for lifetime records exceeding 200,000 pounds of 3.4 per cent milk. She calved recently and has started on her 15th ROP record, milking easily at 40 pounds a day.

Mina has spent her lifetime in the herd of her breeder and owner, J. H. Jose and Son."

27 TO COLOMBIA

Included in the three plane loads of Canadian Holsteins transported to Colombia was the reserve junior champion bull at the 1952 CNE and Peterborough championship show. He was nominated for All-Canadian as a senior yearling.

This consignment was bought by Guillermo Villa Medellin, Colombia, who was assisted in his selections by J. M. Fraser of Streetsville.

The 1952 reserve champion at Peterborough was Spring Farm Hopeful Pathfinder, sold by William Clarkson and Sons, Weston.

JUDGE AT LACHUTE

Fred Hubbs of Bloomfield judged the 97 Holsteins shown by 12 exhibitors at Lachute (Que.) fair. There was an increase of 33 head over 1952.

57 TO OREGON

Western Ontario Holstein breeders have sold 57 head on consignment to William D. Lee Key, Eagle Point, Oregon, U.S. These animals started on their long train trip from Woodstock on Thursday. The 56 heifers and one bull were bought in Oxford, Middlesex and Perth Counties.

From J. T. Brown Herd

A member of the purebred Holstein herd of J. T. Brown, Newcastle has recently completed a 365 day Record of Performance test as an eight year old of 17,628 lbs. milk containing 823 lbs. fat, average test 4.67 per cent. butterfat. She thus has a six lactation lifetime record of 100,468 lbs. milk containing 4,610 lbs. fat, average test 4.59 per cent. butterfat, thus qualifying for a Red Seal Certificate of Longtime Production presented by the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada. As a five-year-old she produced 876 lbs. fat from 19,951 lbs. milk and as a seven-year-old 954 lbs. fat from 20,856 lbs. milk.

This cow was Reserve Grand Champion at Peterborough in 1950 and Reserve Grand Champion at the Durham County Black and White Day in 1951. She has been classifieid as "Very Good" in Selective Registration.

"Window" In Cow

Grass silage does not appear to have offered a serious challenge to corn silage among Michigan herds he recently visited, Roy Jewell reports in the London Free Press.

"We might well examine the practice of feeding more hay during the pasture season . . . Most of the breeders we visited had racks outside in the paddock or pasture where the cows had access to good hay even while on grass. One farm reported almost as much hay consumed in summer as in winter.

At the Budd Farm, near BeNeville, Mich., hay plays an important part in the summer feeding program. This herd had the highest butterfat average in the U.S.A. in 1952 . . . 796 pounds.

At Michigan State College we saw several animals with "plastic windows" which could be opened much as a housewife opens a fruit jar, for examination of the contents. One cow which appeared in fine flesh has carried such an attachment four years, apparently without discomfort. It was a new experience for us to look into a cow's dgestive system through an opening in her side."

Pedigreed Pastures

During the last 10 years numerous tests have been made by the Division of Forage Plants, Central Experimental Farm. Ottawa, to study the performance of different kinds and varieties of grasses and legumes for hay and pasture purposes.

It has been known for some time that certain species of grasses and legumes perform better than others in various ways. For example, timothy is still the most widely used grass for both hay and pasture. Brome grass is being used more and more in hay-pasture mixtures. Orchard grass is primarily a pasture grass, although a small amount of it is now being used in mixtures for grass-legume silage. Reed canary grass is very widely adapted but it grows best in wet poorly drained situations.

The next thing to find out was haw different named varieties or pedigree strains of grasses and legumes compare with ordinary or commercial seed, says F. S. Nowosad.

HIGHER FIELDING GRASSES

The improved pedigree strains out yielded and also surpassed commercial sorts in disease resistance, winter-hardiness, leafiness and general suitability for pastures. On the basis of yield alone the commercial seeds of various grasses were surpassed by the new varieties as follows: Chieftain Canada bluegrass, 11 per cent; Ensign meadow fescue, 13 per cent; Climax timothy, 16 per cent; Parkland brome, 25 per cent and Delta Kentucky blue grass, 50 per cent. Hercules orchard grass did not produce any more than commercial sort, but over the years tested it was found to be more winter-hardy, and is therefore recommended.

Different varieties of legumes have been tested but not as long as the grasses. But again named varieties of alfalfa, for example, performed better than commercial seed. Among the best are Ladak, Grimm and Rhizoma alfalfa. Empire birdsfoot trefoil was also far superior to ordinary, imported or narrowleafed strain of this species.

Thus from tests so far completed it is evident that it pays to use pedigree strains of grasses and legumes in compounding hay and pasture mixtures.

THIS SIX MONTHS OLD BULL CALF brought the top price of $1,950 at the National Holstein Sale held May 25th at Oakville, Ont. Named Glenafton Potentate, his dam and her dam are graded Excellent, the highest rating for conformation and his paternal grand-sire is the seven times All-Canadian bull "Marksman". (L. to R.) J. E. McCague, Alliston, Ont. consignor, Craig Reid, Norval, agent for Juan Schiadon, Mexico City, the buyer and at the halter Mort Butchers, herd superintendant Glenafton. 61 head at the National averaged $674, 34 of them going to the U. S. A. and one to Mexico.

Grassland Plot Triples Farm's Feed Production

Grassland farming feeds three beeves where one fed before on the farm south of Hartley village in Victoria county, owned by Ray Weldon of Lindsay.

In other words, one improved field carries now as many beef cattle as did three fields of equal acreage, prior to 1950 when the Weldon farm was chosen for production experiment and demonstration.

That is an overall claim for grassland practice which was reviewed from experience on five selected farms at the field day Thursday at the Weldon place. Some 200 farmers were present from Central Ontario, but most of them were of Victoria.

The occasion mainly provided a progress report on results of the beef cattle production plan and experiment which was undertaken three years ago by the Ontario Agricultural College. Its purpose was to assist farmers by actual field work in growing cheaper feed from their own land for their beef herds.

FIVE SELECTED FARMS

Five test farms were secured in Kent, Middlesex, Bruce, Victoria and Lanark counties. Those counties suggest central district positions for demonstration purposes. The experimental production sites were to be accessible to farmers in five sections of the province.

Years in sod, without benefit of grassland methods, was a primary condition common to the five farms. At the Weldon place, fences were removed here and there to lay out three fields each of 43.6 acres.

One field serving as a check plot, chiefly for purpose of comparison was left unchanged, blue grass and some wild white clover. The plot has been in sod about 40 years.

The second plot, also 40 year-old sod, was given an application of fertilizer in October 1950 at the rate of 350 pounds of 3-18-9 and 100 lbs. of cyanimid per acre.

In April 1952, ammo-phos (16-20-0) was applied at the rate of 200 lbs per acre.

The third field was given the grassland treatment, reseeding and fertilizing.

The details were recalled by Prof, Norman Thomas of O.A.C. The plot was plowed in Oct. 1950. It was well worked, fertilized and seeded June 7 and 8th, 1951.

The fertilizer treatment was 350 lbs, of 3-18-9 and 50 lbs. of ammoniam nitrate per acre at the time of sowing oats (1951), and 100 lbs. of 3-18-0 and 50 lbs. of ammonium nitrate per acre with grass seed.

PASTURE MIXTURE

The seed mixture was as follows: alfalfa 5 lbs.; ladino 1 lb.; white Dutch 1 lb.; orchard grass 4 lbs.; Brom 8 lbs.; timothy 5 lbs.; meadow fescue 3 lbs.; Kentucky blue grass 1 lb.; perennial rye 3 lbs. Total 31 lbs. per acre.

The oat crop was pastured in 1951 beginning about July 20. Tests had indicated that the land was low in phosphorus and potash, Dr. Thomas said. Incidentally, he recommended in fertilizing practice that phosphorus and potash should be applied in the fall and nitrogen in the spring, cyanimid or ammonium nitrate.

Production of a ton of beef removes about $15 in fertility values from the soil, Dr. Thomas said, and production on the average farm extracts annually about $125 to $150 in terms of fertilizer components.

That is an outline of the preparations for the tests that are now continuing. LeRoy Brown of Lindsay, agricultural representative in Victoria, was chairman, and speakers were R. A. Graham of the livestock branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Ed Starr of that branch, Dr. William Tossel of O.A.C. Their topics were correlated, beginning with part of Mr. Graham's talk on the factors of necessity of developing pastures of nutrient content for cheap feed as an economy in meeting the increasing demand for food from the expanding population of Canada, broadly, cheaper production to the end of profitable raising of beef cattle.

Dr. Tossel discussed particularly the varieties of seed in pasture mixtures, and Dr. Thomas broadly covered the general aspects of the experiment. Ed Starr sumbitted figures on Weldon production up to Thursday morning June 18.

FARMERS' APPROVAL

Dr. Thomas interrupted his talk on the whole project of the five farms with the question: "Are you representative farmers interested in having us carry on this work with a reasonable regard for the expense involved, say an additional $30 an acre, to try to get the best results possible, as a help to you determined by your individual circumstances, or do you want us to make only a mediocre application of fertilizer? I would like to have your opinion on this."

The show of hands from the group of farmers was unanimously for the larger scope of the experiment.

"Well, that helps to clarify our position in regard to the five farms. We like to feel that we have public opinion with us, and I am glad to see your response. You are from the upper 60% of farmers or you wouldn't be so interested in this matter."

THIS SEASON'S GAINS

Mr. Starr presented figures on the test at the Weldon farm this season beginning from the first of May. Cattle were selected as uniformly as possible, were weighed and tagged. A week later they were weighed again, and from that stage they are weighed once a month.

Ten steers were placed on the check lot (no fertilizer or seeding). They averaged 826 lbs. Thursday morning they were wighed for the information of farmers attending the demonstration. They showed a total gain of 1,640 pounds, or average of 164 lbs., and that indicated 37.6 lbs. of beef per acre.

Fourteen steers were turned on to the fertilized lot. They averaged 831 lbs. on May 1, and on June 18 they showed a gain of 1,720 lbs.; average 122.9 lbs., or 39.4 lbs. of beef per acre.

On the reseeded lot there were 22 steers averaging around 900 lbs.; their gain to June 18 was 3,230 lbs. for an average of 146.9 lbs.; or 74.5 lbs. of beef per acre. On the whole, similar gains are reported from the four other test farms. Continuing rains were somewhat an interfering condition, but Mr. Starr quoted the figures as of the entire period to Thursday.

Obviously that is only part of the story for 1953. Gains are expected to continue favorably on the reseeded lot throughout the summer, in comparison with the two other lots, and with advantage on the side of the grassland idea.

Other topics of the program will make another story, but pertinent to this account is the explanation by Dr. Thomas that the seed mixture was more comprehensive than ordinarily recommended, because it was a seeding on land that was not definitely known, although the soil tests had indicated the mineral constitution. Experience in weather conditions and use of the land would afford othr evidence of varieties of grass and legumes best adapted to the plot.

Dr. Thomas told Ray Weldon that the reseeded area should be equipped with a drainage system, and before the afternoon ended Mr. Weldon had the announcement made that he was agreeable to that proposal.

Hereford Sale Established

Review of the Eastern Ontario Hereford sale recommends a word of tribute to President Homer Hawkey and Secretary Wm. Mood for the effects of their publicity. The large attendance was partly built up by the success of the preceding four annual auctions, and advertising that clearly covered quite a large area.

Promoting directors are probably concluding by this time that the average price would probably have been raised by the elimination of eight or ten head. The catalogue listed 49 animals, and only one cancellation was noted. One of the assets of the Association is the annual aspect of the sale as an established event.

Don Kinloch, mentioned as an Oshawa tailor, with a rural address of Beaverton, RR 1, wrote the largest cheque for the nine head he selected. His outlay was $3,055, at prices ranging from $460 to $285. The latter was the only one of his taking bids below $300.

Percy W. Elmhirst of Indian River paid $1,970 for six head. John Page of Norwood, a newcomer in East Peterborough, invester $1,740 in six. Don W. McQuaid, Omemee, RR 2, took two for $590, and R. T. Currelly, Port Hope, RR 3, $520 for two.

Dave Kerr of Peterborough consigned one animal, a yearling bull, Old Orchard Monarch 4G that was selected by his neighbor, Harold Archer of Smith, for $400. The sire was O. O. Monarch 53rd, and the dam O. O. Snooks 3rd, indicating the line introduced here by John Stuart.

Some of the larger returns to breeders were: Col. F. E. Birdsall $1,725 for five head, best price $410. Only one leaves the county, his Somersby Julia, bought by E. Reavie of Flinton. The others were taken by Peterborough farmers within a short radius of the Birdsall farm.

Buyers were Thomas Hope, John Page, Percy Elmhirst, Archie Elmhirst and Mr. Reavie.

A. R. Linton of Cobourg sold five head for $1,395, and J. R. Nokes, Manilla, four for $1,740. Charles Fisher & Son, Bailieboro, four for $1,285; Milton Cornish two for $770; Homer Hawkey two for $475.

Some of the Peterborough district buyers were: R. A. Fitchett; John Leason, Richard Herr; Richard Heffernan; Don McQuaid, Omemee, two for $590; Wilfred Reynolds, Fraserville.

Brucellosis Legislation Is Planned For Townships

At the field day of Hamilton District Cattle Breeding Association, June 10, W. P. Watson, Livestock Commissioner for Ontario, announced that his Department was preparing to put into effect a policy to make calfhood vaccination for Brucellosis compulsory in any township in the province where two-thirds of the cattlemen ask for it.

Legislation has been passed, and only a few details remain to be worked out before the policy becomes effective. It provides that a township council must appoint a committee to administer a compulsory vaccination if two-thirds of the cattlemen petition for it. Inspectors to see that vaccinations are carried out must be appointed by the council.

The Ontario government is prepared to bear the major part of the cost, although details of reimbursing the councils have not yet been determined.

Calfhood vaccination has steadily grown in favor with farmers owning cattle in Ontario until last year 177,000, or 33 per cent. of all the female calves born in the province were vaccinated. In many localities this practice has been followed almost 100 per cent.

Mr. Watson also announced that under the terms of a co-operative agreement between his Department and the Record of Performanch branch of the Federal Departmetn of Agriculture at Ottawa, pure bred herds would no longer be tested for production under the Dairy Herd Improvement Association plan operated by the Ontario Department. The tests of these pure bred herds would be done under the supervision of the R. O. P. branch, which is the official method of testing cattle in Canada.

Some Farm Labor?

National Employment Service reports men available from the Maritimes at a wage of about $100 a month, with room and board. Ralph Banbury, Brighton, agricultural representative in Northumberland, comments: "Many of them have been engaged in pulpwood operations, and it is hoped that they will be more able than some who tried this work in past years. With the large crop of hay and other work impending, there are farmers who could use help if these men are seriously interested in the job."

Amazing Results With Foliage Feeding In Just A Few Days!

USE NEW SENSATIONAL "NA-CHURS"
LIQUID FERTILIZER

NOW anyone can grow beautiful flowers, lovely lawns and wonderful vegetables. Your neighbours are! These unsolicited letters speak for themselves:—

"I've used "NaChurs" in the garden and on the lawn for two years. You really have a wonderful product."
Mr. Van Deliner, 191 Ridout St., S., London, Ontario

"I have had wonderful success using "Na-Churs" on violets, also on gloxinias. Never before have I had such grand foliage, and such a quantity of bloom."
Florence L. Mayer, Omemee & District Horticultural Society, Omemee, Ontario.

"Passing motorists stop to ask me my secret of gardening success. The flowers, as well as my vegetable garden, have been wonderful beyond words through the use of your product."
K. W. Phelps, Windsor, Ontario.

"I would like to tell you how pleased I am with "Na-Churs" Liquid Fertilizer. I have greens and grass better than I have ever had."
George Darou, Supervisor, London Hunt Club.

MORE AMAZING RESULTS!
IN ONE OPERATION

Countless experiments in the greenhouse and in the field have shown that remarkable results with foliage feeding are often obtained when "Na-Churs" is applied along with the sprinkling water, either in a sprinkling can or through your garden hose. The home gardener with a small hand or pump type sprayer can fertilize large areas in a matter of minutes. Saves time and labor, and you can better control growth because "Na-Churs" is used almost immediately by the plants, and results can usually be seen in a few days.

MORE ECONOMICAL—MORE VERSATILE

Because "NaChurs" is already in liquid form, there are no dusty chemicals to mix up—there's nothing to become caked and hard to handle—no undissolved particles to clog spray nozzles. It is easier to measure exact proportions and there is no waste.

Limiting Of U.S. Market Said Irritating Canadians

MONTREAL (CP)—It is difficult for Canadians to understand why they are denied access to the United States market on at least reciprocal terms, the joint board meeting of Chambers of Commerce of the United States and Canada was told Thursday.

Situations which are "definitely irritating to Canada" and threaten "a regrettable deterioration in our trade relations" were outlined by C. Bruce Hill of St. Catharines, a member of the Canadian chamber's advisory council.

The prime causes of irritation lie in the field of fully manufactured products, he said. Exclusive of newsprint, there was a trading deficit with the United States in 1951 of $1,700,000,000. Canada's imports of manufactured products from the U.S. amount to close to one third the value of its own manufacturing output. Canadian manufacturers of finished products export to the U.S. a bare one per cent of that country's manufacturing output.

"No one suggests that we Canadians should get a third of your market for manufactures, but maybe two per cent would serve to equate matters."

SUGGESTS MAJOR STEP

Mr. Hill suggested a major step toward solution of the deficit problem would be giving to Canadian manufacturing products entering the U.S. the same treatment accorded U.S. manufactured products entering Canada.

"The administration of and certain clauses in the United States Customs Act, 'the Buy American Act' and the 'escape clause' in the Trade Agreements Act present obstacles to Canadian products entering the U.S. of which there is no counterpart applying to goods going the other way."

There are obstacles which "act as a virtual embargo and, indeed, which completely nullify tariff concessions made in recent years."

In classification of goods there are as many as 12 rates on similar articles. There are 83,000 cases before the customs court, against seven classification cases awaiting decision of the Canadian tariff commission.

Picketer Fined

PRESTON (CP)—William Dankavitch, field representative for the United Packinghouse Workers of America (CIO-CCL), was fined $10 and costs Thursday for watching and besetting during a strike June 11 at Savage Shoe Limited. Police testified that a company truck was prevented from entering the company's premises by a picket line. They said Dankavitch was in the front row of picketers.

Cat Attacks Woman

OTTAWA (CP)—Betty Gray tried to referee a cat and dog fight here Thursday and came out the loser. She was walking with her dog on leash when the dog engaged a cat in battle. Miss Gray tried to part them. The cat turned on Miss Gray and inflicted 12 cuts and 20 punctures to her right leg from knee to foot. She was taken to hospital.

Fifteen of the men, all 21 years or older, will train for two years in the firm's plants in St. Catharines, Toronto, or suburban Scarboro. Ten will go to England for a two-year fellowship course.

Premier Says Publisher Started Smear Campaign

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Thursday Stuart Keate, publisher of the Victoria Times, "intentionally or unintentionally" started a "new smear campaign" against Social Credit in British Columbia.

The premier was referring at a press conference to an address Monday by Mr. Keate at a convention of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island in Nanaimo.

Mr. Keate said that there is a threat of authoritarian government in B.C. from the attitude of the political group led by Premier Bennett.

The premier Thursday said the publisher had spread "unadulterated partisan political propaganda," and suggested that Mr. Keate, "who claims to be the great spokesman for the remnants of the Liberal party in B.C.," should test his ideas by being a Liberal candidate in Victoria in the Aug. 10 federal election.

QUOTES STATEMENT

In his Nanaimo address, Mr. Keate said the threat of authoritarian government was born in Premier Bennett's first post-election statement: "People may say there must be a strong opposition—but it is my opinion there must be a strong one-party administration."

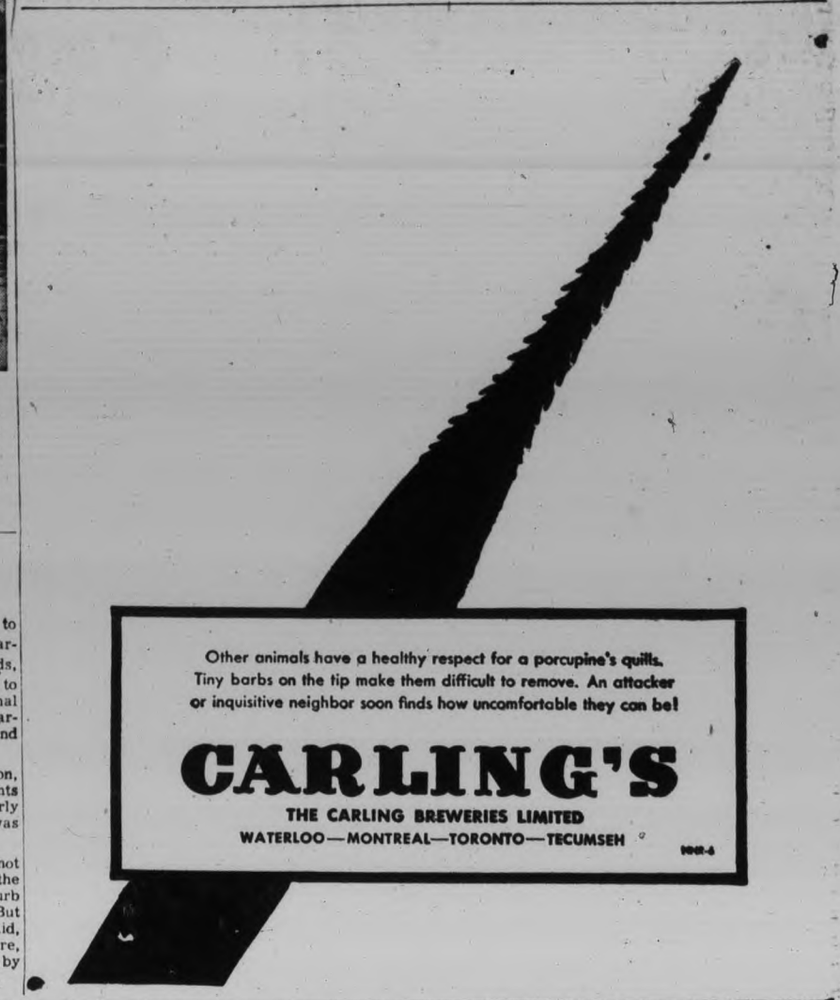
Premier Bennett's reply at his press conference was:

"If Mr. Keate had been at any public meeting addressed by myself during the campaign, he would have known I said at all of them that our free democratic way of life in which Social Credit believes could only function if we had a system of checks and balances.

"I believe we should have a strong government—not a minority government. But also there is a proper place and always must be for the official opposition so that they may bring forward constructive criticism in parliamentary debate."

71 ON COUNCIL

Edinburgh, capital city of Scotland, has a municipal council of 71 members.



FLOATING BOMB—Described as a "floating bomb" while it was burning and wracked by 30 minor explosions, the $250,000 oil tanker Argus is beached, still smouldering 15 hours after it caught fire in Vancouver. The 517-ton ship, carried 30,000 gallons of high octane gasoline and diesel oil. It burned for 24 hours and a major explosion was a constant threat. It finally was towed to an oil company pier to be pumped out. It was reported about half the cargo could be salvaged and the tanker probably will sail again.

May Secede From County

ORILLIA (CP) — Town council Thursday unanimously decided to ask ratepayers at the December municipal elections for a mandate to secede from Simcoe county. If that fails, council will ask support to seek city status for Orillia. The proposal was made by reeve Hugh Johnston and deputy reeve John MacIsaac in retaliation against Simcoe county council's refusal to lower Orillia's $30,000 share of county road costs.

NEW PRESIDENT — Thomas Wardrope Eadie, 30 years with the Bell Telephone Company of Canada, succeeds Frederick Johnson as president of the company, July 1. Mr. Eadie joined the Bell Company as an engineer in Montreal in June, 1923, and worked in Montreal and Toronto before being appointed vice-president in charge of operations in 1948. In 1951 he was named a director. He was elected chairman of the Trans-Canada Telephone System in 1952 and is a former president of the Telephone Association of Canada. He was born in Ottawa July 26, 1898, and served in the First World War with the Royal Canadian Naval Air Service.

Won't Destroy Doctor's Liberty

WINNIPEG (CP)—Health Minister Martin today assured the medical profession the present federal government will do nothing to stifle or destroy the liberty of the individual doctor.

Speaking at the 86th annual convention of the Canadian Medical Association, Mr. Martin said the only proper limitations on professional freedom are ethical considerations imposed by a man's conscience.

There are four challenges to Canadian medicine, said Mr. Martin. It must maintain standards, provide facilities and services to physicians, maintain professional freedom and ensure that no barrier comes between doctor and patient.

The first is up to the profession, he said. Government health grants have aided the second with nearly $100,000,000 since the plan was began.

Doctors were quite right in not wanting current changes in the pattern of health care to disturb the patient-doctor relationsrip. But a barrier already exists, he said, in the rising cost of medical care, a problem to be faced jointly by the government and profession.

B.C. Car Sale Boom Amazes Dealers

VANCOUVER (CP)—This city's continuing boom in motor-car sales is making even dealers wonder.

"In this community, money being spent on new and used cars and trucks exceeds that on food or clothing," said Clarke Simpkins, president of the Motor Dealers Association of B.C.

A buying power survey by Sales Management of New York indicates Vancouver's sales are the biggest in Canada. Twenty-eight per cent of all retail sales in this area are automotive, not including gasoline. The national average is 20 per cent.

"What we want to know now," says Simpkins, "is why? What's making Vancouver higher than the rest? Forced sales? Something else?"

SHEDS MORE LIGHT

MDA's new full-time manager, Ed Orr, in a review of the automobile business Thursday, shed additional light on the stature of the industry.

There is nearly $450,000,000 worth of vehicles registered in the province now—almost the price of the big aluminum development at Kitimat.

Demand remains high and there is no sign of skittishness on the part of finance companies, he said.

All things indicate that "people want the latest and the best," he said.

But one "fly in the ointment" mentioned by Mr. Simpkins was federal taxes.

NOT LUXURY ITEM

"We estimate that the federal government has taken $14,000,000 in sales and excise taxes on new cars sold in B.C.," he said. "But it has contributed only $3,000,000 toward the Trans-Canada Highway.

"The government taxes a car as if it were a juke box," he said, adding that British Columbians pay $400 taxes and $300 freight on a new $2,400 auto.

"It should realize that a car is no longer a luxury item."

Minister Scores Church Council

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Carl McIntyre of New Jersey said Thursday that the World Council of Churches is destroying the basic concepts of Christianity.

If the policies of the council are allowed to gain power, the world can close its churches and revert to paganism, he said.

He was speaking at the five-day Canadian regional conference of the International Council of Churches of which he is president. The object of the conference, Dr. McIntyre said, is to organize a Canadian Council of Evangelical Protestant Churches.

Dr. McIntyre also said the WCC fosters socialistic dogma, has a soft attitude towards the economic philosophy of communism and plans to build one world church.

Rev. Duncan McGregor of the First Baptist Church, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., was elected president of the conference.

Liberals Serve 276 Guests At Garden Tea

By actual count there were 276 guests served at the garden tea held on Thursday afternoon by the Liberal Women's Association of Peterborough City and County. However, gate receipts showed more than 300 admissions paid to enter the spacious lawn at the rear of Col. and Mrs. J. A. Dewart's home at 589 Weller St.

Purpose of the tea was to promote fellowship among the Liberal women of this riding and to activate the organization. There has not been a social event of this kind in the past 25 years and it seemed opportune to have one now in view of the summer federal election date just announced.

This spring Mrs. T. F. Doughty was elected president of the Women's Association at a largely attended rally. Mrs. Doughty was receiving with Mrs. Dewart and also receiving was Mrs. M. J. Swanston, wife of the Liberal candidate who was present himself for most of the afternoon to meet the ladies.

Acting as hostesses on the lawn were the past president Mrs. John Duignan and Mrs. P. D. Scollard and Mrs. G. Faux.

Tea arrangements were convened by Mrs. W. B. Gordon, assisted by Mrs. D. R. McGregor.

The table was set between towering trees at a corner of the lawn and was centred with colorful peonies. Pouring tea were Mrs. T. J. Carley and Mrs. R. M. Glover, followed by Mrs. C. R. Banks and Mrs. Charles Elliott.

City members who served the guests were Mrs. A. Tort, Mrs. A. Ford, Mrs. J. Conlin, Mrs. J. Collins, Mrs. V. J. Ridley, Mrs. F. Gray, Mrs. E. McWilliam, Mrs. R. Honey and Mrs. G. Hancock. Those from the county assisting were Mrs. P. Pearson, Mrs. E. Orr, Mrs. G. Hanbidge, Mrs. W. Drummond, Mrs. C. Laing, Mrs. F. Steinkraus, Mrs. Joseph Lonergan, Mrs. J. V. O'Connor, Mrs. W. Shearer, Mrs. J. Harrington and Mrs. C. Johnson.

Membership cards were available at the tea from Mrs. A. E. Parker. The admission tickets were taken by Mrs. Roy Brown.

SAILOR'S SETTLEMENT

Sealers and whalers were first to settle on the coasts of New Zealand from 1792 onwards.

Paisley Shawl 112 Years Old Shown To W.I.

WESTWOOD (ENS)—Mrs. Jane Thompson was convener of the program on Historical Research at the meeting of the Women's Institute, held in the Community Hall with a good attendance.

Members answered the roll call by describing an event of note in this county during the past five years. One member commented on the modern method of the hay makers in contrast to the old method of a team of horses hitched to a hay rack.

An interesting display of antiques brought to light some valuable relics of long ago. A paisley shawl was displayed by Mrs. Stewart Graham, which had been wrapped around a six weeks' old infant coming from Scotland in 1841 who later became her mother-in-law, the late Mrs. Alexander Graham.

Petrified moss and pitch pine, spoons, plates, doll's head, a mug and watches were all on display.

The second vice-president, Mrs. Redmond Walsh, conducted the meeting in the absence of the president. Mrs. William Mood and Mrs. Alex Patterson were appointed a committee to look after the prizes and booth for the Community picnic at Birdsall Beach in July, with a picnic lunch at 12 noon.

A "bird" contest was won by Mrs. R. Walsh.

Mrs. Fred Neilson brought a report of the recent district annual meeting held at Trent River.

Lunch was served by the committee in charge.

Warsaw Women's Institute Observes 50th Anniversary

Fifty years of history were reviewed Thursday afternoon when the Warsaw Women's Institute celebrated its half-century anniversary in the Warsaw United Church.

More than 125 members and guests from other communities met to pay tribute to the founders and interim workers of this branch which is one of the oldest branches of the Women's Institute in the world. Among present were five of the original seven members of the branch. They were Mrs. James A. Spencer, Peterborough; Mrs. Arthur Carveth, Lakefield; Mrs. Joseph Myles, Mrs. Albert Cooper, and Mrs. Mrs. David Taylor, all of Warsaw.

Mrs. G. K. Fraser of Burleigh Falls and niece of Mrs. Adelaide Hoodless who was founder of the WI, was guest speaker for the occasion.

MADE PROGRESS

Mrs. Fraser congratulated the members on the progress that had been made by the branch in the past 50 years. She explained that women had come a long way from the Victorian age when a woman's place was believed to be in the home.

Following her introductory remarks Mrs. Fraser gave a commentary for a fashion show. The clothes modelled by WI members were ones worn by her mother, Mrs. George Tuckett of Hamilton, when she accompanied her sister, Mrs. Hoodless, to England to obtain the organization's royal charter in 1897.

The speaker explained that these were the clothes which her mother wore to court functions, and she also gave a detailed outline of manners and fashions in Queen Victoria's court.

Modelling the clothes were Mrs. Reg Payne, Mrs. M. E. Drain, Mrs. Keith Clysdale, and Mrs. H. G. Digweed.

President Mrs. Stewart Clysdale paid tribute to the work of past and present members of the branch. "The services provided by the WI have developed in line with the needs in our changing world," she said. "But instead of looking back we must look ahead. The fields ahead are full of opportunities which require our best endeavors."

The members and guests were welcomed by Mrs. Wallace Anderson. The address of welcome was replied to by Mrs. Wallace Shearer of Buckhorn.

REPORTS OR HISTORY

Reports of the history and of the work done in the 50 years since the branch was organized were given by Mrs. Arthur Edwards and Mrs. Thomas Cooper.

The Warsaw branch was organized by a Lakefield branch in the summer of 1903. It was the first branch to be organized in East Peterborough district. The first officers were Mrs. A. F. Choate, president; Mrs. Fraser, secretary, and Mrs. R. Mathews, treasurer.

In their 50 years of existence the Warsaw branch members have purchased the old school, later sold it and then bought and equipped the building which is their present quarters. Money has been raised to provide relief for the needy, to help finance and organize community projects and during the two world wars to send supplies to Europe and boxes to men serving in the armed forces.

These reports also mentioned the work done by women who conducted sewing and home nursing classes for the members.

Mrs. Anderson read a memorial address and Mrs. George Taylor presented memorial flowers for the 95 members of the branch who have died.

MUSICAL PROGRAM

The musical part of the program was provided by Mrs. Charles Foster, vocal soloist, of Peterborough; Miss Beverly Dunford, pianist, of Trent River; and Mrs. J. W. Wilkinson, pianist, of Oakwood.

During the afternoon, greeting and congratulations were expressed by the Rev. J. W. Wilkinson of Oakwood United Church and formerly of Warsaw, and by Mrs. Theodore Doigh on behalf of the Orillia branch.

Following the meeting tea and social hour was enjoyed.

The program convener for the day was Mrs. Arthur Edwards who was assisted by Mrs. G. Taylor, Mrs. T. Cooper and Mrs. W. Anderson. The tea convener was Mrs. H. G. Digweed. She was asisted by Mrs. Milton Drain, Mrs. Ivan Payne, Mrs. Clarence Payne, and Mrs. Sherwood Payne.

The church was beautifully decorated for the anniversary meeting with several bouquets of flowers and flags. The committee in charge of decorations were Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. Harold Payne and Mrs. C. Parcells.

The members of this year's executive of the branch are Mrs. Clysdale, president; Mrs. Clarence Payne, secretary; and Mrs. Harold Ray, treasurer.

MRS. EVA BRACKENRIDGE was installed president of the Soroptimist Club of Peterborough following re-affirmation of the pledges of this business women's service club at the installation dinner meeting Thursday evening. Mrs. Brackenridge will head a capable slate of officers for the period ending in June, 1954.

Five-Point Pledge Binds Soroptimists To Service

Again the impressive pledge of Soroptimists to tolerance, sincerity, wisdom, friendship and service was affirmed by the Soroptimist Club of Peterborough preceding the installation of a new executive.

The ceremony followed a Coronation dinner party at Buckhorn Lodge, Thursday evening. It was conducted by Mrs. Mae Thompson with candles representing each point of the pledge being lighted by Miss Rose Williams, Miss Elsie Bennett, Mrs. Ada Stanton, Mrs. Alma Belleghem and Miss Florence Scott.

Mrs. Thompson emphasized "This is a creed to be lived up to" as she proceeded to install the new officers and directors, each one also lighting a candle to mark her pledge to the ideals of Soroptimism.

New president, Mrs. Eva Brackenridge pointed to a charming photo of Queen Elizabeth II on the ceremonial table as she promised fellow members, "I will try to emulate our Queen and give you the best service I can."

Mrs. Brackenridge succeeds Miss Gene Clark, who as past president is privileged to act in an advisory capacity. She was asked for her "interest and guidance" and a tangible tribute to her valued service the past year was in the gift of a bracelet, brooch and earring set in antique silver, presented by a past president, Miss Alice Curtis.

Singled out for special mention for their work last year by Miss Clark were the welfare conveners and the club hostess Mrs. Alma Belleghem, who also received many expressions of pleasure in the special arrangements she had made for this dinner. Place favors for 30 guests were tiny jewelled crowns she had fashioned, and the tables were decorated in the Soroptimist colors, royal blue and gold, with streamers, flowers and candles. Mrs. Belleghem has also provided attractive seasonal decorations for each dinner meeting of the year and one month entertained for a buffet dinner at her home.

Under jurisdiction of the welfare conveners, Miss Myrtle Sargent and Miss Flora Metcalfe, is the Golden Mile Club, a social club for older ladies which meets twice each month. With a total membership of 38 and an average attendance of 435, this has necessitated considerable work and organization by them throughout the ten active months and in addition they have shown much personal interest in the home life and activiites of these women.

Closely assisting Mrs. Brackenridge in the club work of the '53-54 term will be Miss Verna Johnston as first vice president Miss Isabel Sutherland as second vice president; Miss Marjorie Nesbitt as treasurer; Miss Flora Metcalfe as corresponding secretary; Miss Mignon Mayneord as recording secretary.

Directors, whose duty it is to plan and suggest possible courses of action and to possible chair committees are Miss Hariet McGeary, Mrs. Susan Fraser, Miss Myrtle Sargent and Miss Elva Jackson. Directors are elected for two-year terms and two new ones are appointed each year. Miss Sargent and Miss Jackson have served for one year.

Close of the installation ceremony was the reciting in unison of the Soroptimist pledge, a pledge which binds these business women to the best and highest ideals of service to the community.

A social time in the comfortable lounge of the lodge was then enjoyed and some membrs gave of their varied talents to a happy hour.

DOROTHY DIX:

Lass, 15, Interested In School-Mate But All He Says To Her Is "Hi"

DEAR MISS DIX I am very much interested in a boy of 15 who is friendly to me in school. However ,when I meet him outside, all he'll say is "Hi". I know he doesn't have another girl, and I'd like to encourage him.

ALICE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Fifteen-year-old-boys are difficult to interest sometimes .They don't like to show too much fondness for any particular girl because they know it will lead to kidding from the other boys. If you like the lad, bide your time until he's a bit older, and has acquired a little more social consciousness.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: Three years ago, when I was 15, my parents brought me to this country. As is the custom in our native land, they had a husband selected for me, but since he was about 40, I didn't care much for him. Actually, I am interested in a boy of my own nationality, who is close to my age .Should I tell my parents that I intend to pick my own husband.

F.O.

ANSWER: Since your family has become part of our own great land, they must learn to adopt its customs, which include the privilege of young people to choose their own mates. Their choice may not always be wise, but, at least, the freedom to make it belongs to them.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: The boy I like is 22, five years older than I. He has dated me a couple of times, but I think the reason he doesn't take me out more often is that he has home responsibilities consequently little money to spend. How can I show him that what he spends on me isn't important; it's being with him that matters.

D. L.

ANSWER: It's up to you to suggest inexpensive pleasurees you might have him to your house occasionally, making the evening entertaining with records, new dance steps, perhaps a showing of home movies, and ending up with simple refreshments. Consult your local paper for news of happenings around town that will provide low-cost amusement. Don't let the boy get into the habit of never spending money on you, though.But don't make your concern with his finances too obvious. He probably has pride, too.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX I have been going with a very nice man for 16 months. I'm 24 and he's 30. Though he seems to like me, he has mentioned, casually, that he never intends to marry. Do you think, he'll change his mind?

HELENE F.

ANSWER: Not if you continue your present rate of dating. He enjoys your companionship and hospitality but it is quite willing to let things remain there. If you try going out with other men for a while, he may realize how much your loss would mean to him, and perhaps offer the security of a wedding band.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 34 years old and have been divorced for a year. I have been going out with a divorced woman slightly younger. We both claim to be just good friends. She claims she doesn't want to go out with men, yet she plans way ahead for things we are to do together. She has met my family, and is quite chummy with my mother. Yet, in spite of all her apparent interest in me, she says we are seeng too much of each other. I have a small son whose custody I shall soon have since my ex-wife doesn't want him. The other girl is very fond ofis s The girl is very fond of the boy and thinks it splendid that I am going to have him. Iwould like to marry her, yet wonder if she would accept me.

ANSWER For goodness sake, stop worrying. All the young lady is waiting for is a proposal. Her actions belie her words to such an extent that they have no other interpretation than extreme interest in you and your welfare.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Readers' Friday Column Conducted By Mary Moore

QUESTION: Would you please send me some information on how to decorate and what to use for a 25th wedding anniversary cake.—Mrs. Lloyd H.

ANSWER: Rich fruit cakes are usually used for wedding anniversary cakes. Since yours is a silver wedding anniversary use a rich fruit cake, frost it with almond paste and white icing, then decorate it with silver dragees (little silver candy balls to be bought at grocery stores for this purpose), outlining "25th" on the cake with them, and making a silver border of them in a double tight row. If you would like recipe for rich fruit cake write to me again.

QUESTION: I have recently been appointed social eonvener for our H. & S. meeting. Could you give me ideas how to prepare lunches to be served for the larger groups? Have you any quick cookie recipes ...Mrs. D. R.

ANSWER: Since the funds for H. & S. groups are limited I think modest sandwiches and cookies and tea are quite sufficient. When making sandwiches allow a minimum of 3 small sandwiches and 2 cookies per person. My definition of a small sandwich is this: a 2-slice sandwich without crusts cut into 4 or at the most 3 dainty sandwiches.

UNCOOKED COOKIES

One cup marshmallows, ½ cup chopped dates, ¼ cup chopped walnuts, cut up marshmallows, add dates and nuts and pour over them ½ cup thick cream and allow to stand, covered, overnight. Roll 9 graham wafers. Drop the cream mixture from end of a small spoon into the graham watercrumbs, and roll them around shaping into little round balls. Place on oiled paper to set.

FRYING-PAN COOKIES OR PORCUPINES

One-half cup finely cut dates, 1 cup white sugar, 2 eggs. Stir the above ingredients together over low heat in heavy frying pan for 5 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in 1 teaspoon vanilla. Stir in 2 or 3 cups rice krispies—the amount is optional. Put fine cocoanut on wax paper and drop mixture by small spoonfuls in it and roll around to form balls covered with cocoanut.

NOTE: Chopped nuts or glace cherries may be added if desired.

QUESTION: Please come to my rescue once more. Often recipes in American publications call for lemon etc. flavored gelatin. Now, in spite of zealous shopping I've never found flavored gelatin, labelled as such. May one use jello powder, and if so are any changes in the recipe necessary. I've also had packages of - - - - - dessert mix. Could one use that for the called-for flavored gelatin? The big difficulty there seems to be the smaller variety of flavors.

My stove is a gas range with the broiler underneath the oven, with a common heating element. When recipes simply say "pre-heat broiler" and give no temperature how hot should the oven be. Will these recipes turn out satisfactory in this type of broiler?

My recipe for strawberry preserves is somewhat too sweet to suit me. In fact, I prefer fruit done with as little sugar as possible. Since I work I can scarcely use any method that takes much fussing. Also I have no canner. With all these provisions in mind, have you any suggestions as to how I can preserve strawberries that

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Indians Cultivated Strawberries Before Discovery Of America

By JOAN BARBERIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Hollywood has done well by those rollicking, navy types who sailed about in the 17th and 18th centuries seeking doubloons and such like. Now we think they might devote a reel to a certain French Army officer.

We don't know his name, but the Canadian Fruit Wholesalers' Association assures us a French Army officer did sail home to France in 1714 from Chile with five strawberry plants.

Later these plants were crossed with the meadow strawberry of eastern North America which arrived in Europe some time before. It was from this hybrid that modern strawberry varieties have been developed.

ANCIENT ART

The association reports that long before Columbus discovered America, the Indians of Chile were cultivating wild strawberries.

"They obtained fruits as large as walnuts and sometimes as big as hen's eggs."

Strawberries have been grown commercially in Canada since the turn of the century and June is the month when they're at their best.

When buying the berries look for the ones that are fresh and clean and have a solid red color. Green or white tip means the berries have been picked too soon and will be lacking in flavor.

A juice-stained container often indicates the berries are overripe or beginning to spoil.

SHORTCAKE RECIPE

We've copied out a recipe for the old-fashioned type of strawberry shortcake because these days the standard practice is to serve a soggy substitute made out of sponge cake and thin cream.

Ingredients for shortcake: Two cups flour; four teaspoons baking powder; one half teaspoon of salt; three tablespoons of fat (shortening or butter); two thirds cup of milk and four tablespoons sugar.

Method: Sift baking powder, salt and flour. Add sugar. Cut in the fat with a knife or pastry blender.

Pour in milk and stir quickly and lightly with a fork until mixed. Turn out on lightly floured board. Knead two or three times and roll to a three quarter inch thickness. Cut with a cookie cutter and bake on greased and floured pan for 15 to 20 minutes in a hot oven (400 to 425 degrees).

Quaker Workers

meeting in Peterborough with Mr. Faryon, Mr. Dowling said: "What would we talk about? The boys here are solid.")

FOLLOW INSTRUCTIONS

"I'm a representative of the union and will go in for talks on instructions from the officers of the union. When they tell me to go, I'll go. At the moment they are standing firm: $1.39½ an hour, a 40-hour work week, and time-and-a-half on Saturdays. They're not budging an inch."

Asked about his interpretation of the expected meeting with Mr. Dowling, Mr. Faryon said today: "Mr. Hutcheon of the Department of Labor phoned here and said he had been in touch with Sam Hughes and if it was convenient for me, Mr. Dowling would meet me here 10 a.m. Thursday. I agreed to this and also wrote to Mr. Dowling expressing my willingness to meet him at any time, at any place.

"I can only assume that when Mr. Dowling got to Peterborough he found that the local union executive were standing pat on their demands, and that there was nothing really for us to discuss."

WILLING TO NEGOTIATE

Mr. Faryon reiterated that the company was willing to negotiate a settlement on some compromise basis between the union demands and the Conciliation Board report. He said this offer had been made to the union executive at every meeting with them, including the meeting just before the strike.

A third meeting between the company and the union has been arranged by the Department of Labor. Previous sessions were held June 3-4, and June 15. The next meeting will be Tuesday, also in Toronto.

Only minor concessions were made by both sides at the two previous Toronto sessions. But both have said they wish to keep on negotiating.

Mr. Dowling said that when he came to Peterborough in 1941 to organize the Canada Packers' plant the Quaker Oats Co. was well ahead on the wages paid.

SITUATION CHANGED

"The situation has now changed and I pointed this out to Mr. Faryon," said Mr. Dowling. "The other plants have caught up with Quaker and passed them."

The Canadian UPWA director said he couldn't see how Quaker Oats could refuse the wages and hours request. Last year in the consilidated report for the United States and Canada the company reported $14,000,000 in "clear profit."

The Canadian company's share of the profit was not revealed, said Mr. Dowling.

"In the United States they're paying 40 cents an hour more in wages than here, and they're selling for practically the same, if not a little less. If they can do that in the United States and show a profit—while here they're operating at a loss—then there must be something wrong with management here."

"Maybe it's the sales force. Or it could be something else. We say to the company: 'You're responsible for the faults of management and you can't make the employees pay for it'."

Mr. Dowling continued his attack on the management, saying that at one time the Maple Leaf and Robin Hood mills in Port Colborne were paying lower rates than Quaker in Peterborough.

"Now the situation is reversed, and I reminded Mr. Faryon of that," said Mr. Dowling.

U.S. DIRECTORS

Mr. Dowling said that he didn't believe it was Mr. Faryon, personally, who was holding up the settlement on wages and hours. He blamed it on the "board of directors in Chicago." And he suggested that the 8½-cent wage increase in Big Steel might cause the directors to change their attitude.

"I think the fight with the Quaker Oats Co. began when the Republican Party won the last election. Big business took the position that their party was now in power and labor would have to dance to their tune."

He said it was significant that R. Douglas Stuart, who has resigned as president of the Quaker Oats Co. to become United States ambassador to Canada, was Republican treasurer.

won't verge on the jam stage? . . . the lemon squares were really special . . . they are tops on my list for next baking day.—Mildred Z.

ANSWER: The so-called lemon-flavored gelatin is lemon jelly powder. That is the method cookery writers have to use to avoid mentioning the commercial advertised name of products. The last-named dessert mix would not do at all. Preheat a gas broiler for 5 minutes to warm up the air the broiler rack itself. Certainly your broiler is satisfactory for all broiling.

There is no reason why you cannot preserve strawberries without any sugar at all if you wish—the only condition being that they are thoroughly sterilized. Although I would advise using a medium syrup—1 cup sugar to 3 cups boiling water—pour boiling hot over well-washed, then hulled and drained strawberries. Put strawberries in sterile jars, pour over boiling syrup to overflowing, put on rubber, top, then seal to within ⅛ turn of tight. Process in hot water bath (this does not have to be canner—any kettle deep enough for jars and with a lid) for 25 minutes. Remove as soon as possible, tighten seal, never loose it. Invert to cool. Store in dark place.

Cancer Fund Up $1,935 On Goal

The Peterborough unit of the Canadian Cancer Society has now collected $9,935—$1,935 more than the 1953 objective.

This figure was reported by R. E. Macdonald, unit treasurer, at a meeting of the unit Thursday night. He also reported that Peterborough was third highest in funds collected in the Toronto district.

The lay education committee of the unit was asked to draw up plans for circulating literature in city industries. Mrs. J. Perry, in the absence of Mrs. John Bradshaw, gave the welfare committee's report.

Plans were made to have a booth at the Peterborough Exhibition in September.

The next meeting of the unit will be held at the unit office, 440 Water St., September 24. During the summer months the office will be open Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, 2-4.30 p.m. for anyone wishing information or literature about cancer.

CNR Trainman Dies In Burning Hotel

The fire was said to have started in Mr. Walsh's room. Volunteer firemen fought the flames but nothing could be saved. A pool-room, restaurant and the hotel were destroyed.

Hornepayne is 250 miles north of Sault Ste. Marie on the main Canadian National Railways line.

Rosenbergs Executed For Treason

Gave Atomic Bomb Secrets To Russia, Paid With Lives

By RELMAN MORIN

OSSINGTON, N.Y. (AP) — Julius Rosenberg and his wife, Ethel, walked quietly to the electric chair Friday night and were executed for the crime of delivering to Soviet Russia the secrets of the atomic bomb. Neither of the condemned spies talked, or attempted to talk, as the last moments came.

Both entered the death chamber in Sing Sing prison—only a few moments apart—with a firm step and a stony face. They were executed shortly before sunset, so that the grim task would be finished before the beginning of the Jewish Sabbath. It was the day after their 14th wedding anniversary.

They were the first non-military convicts in the history of the United States to be executed for espionage.

At the hour of retribution, crowds gathered, demonstrating, in New York, London and Paris.

HYSTERICAL SYMPATHIZERS

Hysterical sympathizers, screaming and crying, milled around a speaker's stand in New York's Union Square. Street fights broke out in Paris and several policemen were reported wounded. In London, thousands roved the streets, waving copies of the Communist newspaper, Daily Worker, which carried a single word in giant type—"murder."

In Dublin, two bottles of kerosene were thrown through the window of the United States information office. They did not explode.

But in Ossining, where the prison is located, the night was quiet. Heavy details of police and state troopers, guarding temporary barricades, met no demonstrators.

As the hour approached, two telephone lines were opened between the office of Warden Wilfred L. Denno and, Washington—presumably to be in touch with the White House and the office of Attorney-General Herbert Brownell.

The Rosenbergs spent most of their last day together. Warden

Shown dragging for Ware's body are OPP Constable Don LaCombe and Bill McHugh and two brothers, Josh and Dallas Johnston. Drew Promises To Cut Taxes By $500,000,000

GUELPH (CP)—George Drew promises tax cuts of at least $500,000,000 a year—about one-ninth of the tax bill—if his Progressive Conservatives are elected Aug. 10. The chief opposition party's leader, giving its keynote speech of the election campaign in his native town Friday night, pledged a special fall session of Parliament to make "immediate" tax cuts and start off a long series of other measures. These platform points, embodied in a party manifesto delivered by Mr. Drew, include a contributory health insurance program, easier terms on home-building, a better tax deal for municipalities, a Dominion-provincial tax conference, elimination of government "waste", repeal of the government's emergency powers, expansion of markets for Canadian products and reform of the Senate.

The Progressive Conservative leader's tax-reduction policy was the No. 1 point in a 16-point formal declaration of the party's program, which had been kept closely under wraps until Mr. Drew gave it to an audience in this city where he once was mayor.

WON'T CUT PENSIONS

"We will reduce federal taxes," he said, "by at least $500,000,000 a year. This can be done without reducing any pensions, family allowances, other social security payments, or in any way impairing the efficiency of our armed forces."

Another promise of Mr. Drew—and the one that gained about the heaviest volume of applause from his audience of about 2,000—was to amend the Criminal Code to provide penalties for communistic or other subversive activities. By coincidence, he spoke at almost the same time that Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, convicted atom spies for Russia in the United States, were being put to death.

Mr. Drew gave the county his keystone speech in a Western Ontario riding—Wellington South—that has returned Liberals to Parliament since 1935.

He got a civic reception on the steps of city hall before his meeting, and then marched to the armories behind the red-bereted band of the Red Chevron boys.

Guide Pained At Controversy

DHULAL GHAT, Nepal (AP)—Tensing Bhutia, the Nepalese Sherpa conquerer of Mt. Everest, arrived here Friday and said he was pained at the controversy stirred up over whether he or his New Zealander companion, Sir Edmund Hillary, was first to set foot on top of the world's highest peak.

The beaming guide said he actually was first on top by a few steps, but it didn't matter.

"We went together, were tied together and won together," he said.

He added that the credit goes to the entire expedition, headed by Col. Sir John Hunt, "and no single man's efforts could put him on top of the world."

Tensing and a group of Sherpa porters arrived to rousing cheers of the inhabitants of this Himalayan village, 45 miles from the Nepalese capital of Katmandu.

The gaiety here was marred by a group from Katmandu, led by a Communist sympathizer, who camped here two days ago in a determined bid to get to Tensing first and extract from him a statement that he was first on top of Everest and that he was Nepalese and not Indian, even though his home is in Darjeeling, India.

The group prevented others from going ahead to meet Tensing as he approached the town. The leader waved a document in triumph, said to have been signed by Tensing, and raced off to Katmandu.

Rhee's Stock Sinks Swiftly Among Legislators In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Syngman Rhee's stock has sunk swiftly among U.S. legislators and some express doubt that Congress would approve any mutual security pact with his South Korean government despite the outcome of truce negotiations.

Senator Warren Magnuson (Dem.-Wash.) just back from a Far Eastern inspection trip, joined today in mounting congressional criticism of Rhee for freeing some 25,000 prisoners from United Nations camps. Much comment was critical, but Rhee had defenders also in Congress.

Previously, Senator Walter George (Dem. Ga.), a Senate foreign relations committee member, talked of the possibility of ousting Rhee, saying he had "practically scuttled" truce hopes unless the Communists want a cease-fire badly.

At Panmunjom, the Communists asked for an indefinite recess in the armistice negotiations, dealing a blow to hopes for a prompt truce. They also demanded recovery of the freed North Korean prisoners and asked whether the UN was "able to control the South Korean government and army."

The Korean ambassador was not invited Friday when State Secretary Dulles called a meeting of representatives of United Nations countries having forces in Korea.

Demonstrations In Europe Protest Rosenberg Deaths

LONDON (AP)—Wild demonstrations protesting the execution of U. S. atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenbergs were staged in London and Paris Friday night. A broadcast by Radio Bucharest said Communist-ruled Romania was deeply indignant.

In Paris, armed riot-police arrested more than 1,000 persons in breaking up attempts by mobs to march on the heavily-guarded U. S. embassy. At least one man was shot. Two news photographers and several policemen were reported injured.

Police in the British capital also were mobilized to control bitter crowds shouting anti-American slogans.

The Bucharest radio said Romania "has learned with deep indignation" of the Rosenberg execution, which the Romanian people considered "an act of flagrant against the cause of peace."

The main disturbance in Paris broke out on the fashionable Rue Royale when police blocked a noisy throng of several hundred persons that started surging toward the American embassy on the Place de la Concorde.

DEMONSTRATORS SHOUT

Wildly shouting demonstrators had gathered along the Champs Elysees and other central points several hours before the execution deadline at Sing Sing prison—after midnight European time.

In London, police formed a shoulder-to-shoulder cordon around the entrance to Prime Minister Churchill's house at 10 Downing st. to hold back yelling demonstrators.

STALL TRAFFIC

As word of the execution spread, many demonstrators lay down on the streets, stalling after-theatre traffic around Picadilly circus in the centre of London. Communists unfurled anti-U. S. banners.

Hundreds of police kept order around the U. S. embassy and other American government buildings on Grosvenor square. Except for a few pickets, the neighborhood was quiet.

All London morning papers splashed the news of the execution.

Moscow's first public report was a brief item on its foreign transmission early today. The Communist radio said the Rosenbergs were executed "in defiance of the protests of world opinion." It added that President Eisenhower had rejected Mrs. Rosenberg's personal clemency petition.

Contract Ends Shipping Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Merchant Marine Institute, representing 39 shipping companies, Friday night signed a new contract with the CIO National Maritime Union, ending a four-day tie-up of U. S. shipping on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

The contract provided for a six-per-cent wage increase for top-rated crew men, four per cent for middle ratings and two per cent for the lowest rated group.

The average wage for able bodied seamen under the previous contract was $303.32, with overtime pay at $1.87 per hour.

Joe Curran, president of the NMU, stated, "the ships will be ready to move as soon as they wish."

The 39 firms to agree to the new contract are dry cargo and passenger shippers. Their contract follows a pattern set Thursday night by a few other dry cargo shippers.

The same series of wage increases was also provided in pacts signed earlier today by tanker companies.

Say U.K. To Explode Largest Atom Bomb

LONDON (Reuters)—Lord Beaverbook's Daily Express today claimed Britain will explode the world's largest atom bomb in Australia's Woomer rocket range early next year.

The front-page story, which gave no attribution for the story, said an official announcement of the coming British atomic tests is expected soon.

The first test of a British atomic weapon was carried out last October on the Monte Bello islands, off the west coast of Australia.

The paper said Sir William Penney, Britain's leading atomic expert knighted after conducting the October test, will also conduct the next series.

It said Penney had been working on two types of atomic weapons, both designed to be carried by Britain's latest jetpowered bombers—the Valiant, the Vulcan and the Victor.

One Swept Over Falls At Burleigh

Oshawa Man Dies In Crowe River Boating Tragedy

Two men drowned within hours of each other Friday night and early today at Burleigh Falls and the Crowe River near Cordova Mines.

The body of Donald Ware, of Toronto, believed drowned shortly before midnight at Burleigh, has not yet been recovered. In the Crowe River drowning, the body of Arnold Tripp of Oshawa was recovered shortly before noon.

Cordova Mines is 15 miles northeast of Havelock.

A happy weekend of fishing and swimming on Lovesick Lake was tragically prevented for three young Toronto couples Friday night when the boat, in which Donald Ware of 147 Cedarvale Ave., Toronto, was fishing, was swept over the dam at the northrn edge of Burleigh Falls separating the lake from Perry's creek, apparently taking the 23-year-old steelworker to his death.

FIRST TIME ON LAKE

It was the first time that Ware had ever been on the lake and it is thought that he ventured too close to the dam where the current was much stronger than usual. Water had been diverted through it in order to lower the level at the centre of the village where a new bridge is being built. With his wife, who is expecting a child next month, Ware had come to Burleigh Falls Friday night with two other young couples, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wiles of 78 Harvie Ave. and Mr. and Mrs. Jack McCartney of 12 King Edward Ave., all of Toronto. Wiles has had a cottage on the western shore of the lake for some time and McCartney bought one just a few yards from it last October. The Wares were staying in the McCartney cottage.

Demand Clark Free 9,000

SEOUL (AP)—South Korea's acting prime minister has demanded that Gen. Mark Clark immediately release some 9,000 anti-Communist Korean prisoners still in Allied stockades because "we must liberate them all."

Forty-five more anti-Communist Koreans fled from three UN prison camps Friday night and early today. The UN prisoner command said nine were recaptured.

One South Korean was killed and one United States soldier was wounded at a camp near Pusan.

South Korea's acting prime minister, Yung Tai Pyun, in a letter dated Thursday, demanded that Clark turn over all anti-Red prisoners still in Allied hands.

Desire To Drive Causes Accident

NORTH BAY (CP)—Police said today a young woman's desire to drive resulted in her brother suffering a broken back Friday night when she grabbed the wheel of the car in which they and their father were riding.

Gilbert Gallipan, 19, of Sturgeon Falls was in critical condition today.

Police quoted Isadore Gallipan, 45, as saying his daughter, Mrs. Marcelle Lescard, 23, wanted to drive. When she grabbed the wheel, the car went out of control and turned over.

The elder Gallipan and his daughter suffered minor injuries.

Police Change Minds About Car Fatality

PICKERING (CP) — Police changed their minds about a traffic fatality Friday night when the man they believed dead rubbed the back of his head and groaned.

Investigating a traffic accident, they found a car upside down with four persons trapped inside. Ray Hill, 32, of nearby Oshawa, was hanging feet first from a door. Police thought he was dead, but he later groaned and was found to have suffered only head bruises.

Hawaii Faces Mass Walkout

HONOLULU (AP)—Hawaii's 26,000 dock and plantation workers threatened a mass protest walkout today following the conviction of longshore labor leader Jack Hall and six co-defendants on charges of conspiring to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the government.

Stevedores began quitting their jobs less than an hour after the jury returned its verdict Friday.

Eleven ships were tied up by late afternoon.

Union sources indicated sugar and pineapple plantation workers would follow the longshoremen and unconfirmed reports said some had already left their jobs.

Hall is Hawaii regional director of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's union, which embraces the dock and plantation workers.

Reds Demand PoW Recovery Before Any Truce

MUNSAN (AP)—The Reds today angrily told the Allies if the United Nations wants a truce it must control South Korea's rebellious government and recapture 26,000 anti-Red war prisoners freed by President Syngman Rhee. Although the Communists protested vehemently at Rhee's arbitrary action, they did not rule out an armsitice. But their terms appeared near impossible—the Korean prisoners have melted into the countryside with Rhee's blessing and the split between South Korea and the UN command apparently was growing deeper.

South Korea's acting prime minister, Y. T. Pyun, made public a letter to Gen. Mark Clark, UN commander, demanding freedom for 9,000 anti-Reds left in Allied stockades. It was written Thursday, a few hours after the first big break.

SEOUL (AP)—Three hundred more anti-Red Korean prisoners broke out of a stockade late tonight at Sang Mundai. This raised to more than 26,000 the number who have fled the stockades since Wednesday night.

TERMS NOT BINDING

Pyun said Rhee does not regard recent prisoner - exchange terms "equally binding on us" and warned Clark bluntly against "saying or doing anything that might likely provoke passions of the (Korean) masses, which once let loose may easily go out of control."

At almost the same time, Clark made public a letter written the same day blistering Rhee, and accusing him of breaking recent assurances that South Korea would make no arbitrary moves without consulting Clark.

Rhee's action has cracked the unity of the Allies, and the Reds made the most of it.

The Communists listed their demands in a letter handed to the Allied truce delegation in a 25-minute meeting at Panmunjom.

MAKE NO ANSWER

The Allied delegates made no answer and the meeting recessed indefinitely at Communist request, subject to call by either side.

(In Washington, U.S. officials had no comment, but said they expected a strong protest.)

In their letter, the Reds warned ominously, "your side must bear the serious responsibility for this incident," and asked a series of blunt questions:

"Is the United Nations command able to control the South Korean government and army?

"If not, does the armistice in Korea include the Syngman Rhee clique?

Chinese Mass 16,000 Troops Along Front

SEOUL (AP)—The Reds today massed some 16,000 fresh troops along the east central front—scene the past week of the greatest Communist offensive in two years.

The U. S. 8th army reported the Red buildup as the air force announced Allied air power suffered its heaviest losses of the war the last week, helping to stall the great Communist drive.

Two new Red divisions were reported moving into the Pukhan river lines, the sector where perhaps 40,000 Communists pushed South Korean troops back as much as two miles Sunday and Monday.

Fighting was light, however.

Nineteen planes—including 12 Sabre jets—went down behind Communist lines, the air force announced. Fourteen were lost to anti-aircraft guns and five to unexplained causes.

None was lost in dogfights, in which Sabre jets shot down 19 Red MiG jets.

Day and night, UN planes in record waves dumped bombs and jellied gasoline on Communist troops to play a major role in stemming the greatest Red drive since 1951—a drive which dented South Korean lines up to two miles.

The worst previous Allied plane loss was 16 in the week of Feb. 5-11, 1952. Previous high Sabre toll for a week was four for the period ending April 19.

The week also saw destructive Communist air raids on the Seoul area.

Today, the Communist push had slackened to platoon and company-sized assaults, while the Reds apparently probed for weak spot in South Korean lines on the east-central front.

Rosenbergs Cost Gov't $150,000

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has not yet tallied the full cost of convicting Julius and Ethel Rosenberg as atom spies and sending them to the electric chair.

Justice department officials today offered a "very rough estimate" that the bill will run somewhere around $150,000.

This would cover the salaries of department lawyers especially assigned to the case, the printing of briefs and similar expenses, but not the operating costs of the many courts which have dealt with the case and other "intangibles."

A major item of the government's expense is the approximately $32,400 which the U. S. will pay to the state of New York for keeping the couple at Sing Sing for more than two years. The agreed rate was $40 per day. Mrs. Rosenberg was the only woman in the death house, and authorities assigned female guards and made other special provisions.

The U. S. will also pay New York state a special fee for carrying out Friday night's execution, but officials said they have not been advised what this will amount to.

Maligne Mountains Named After Queen

OTTAWA (CP)—Mountains surrounding Maligne lake in Jasper National Park will be named the Queen Elizabeth ranges to commemorate the Coronation, the resources department announced Friday.

The department said the Queen has agreed to the idea which originated with the Alberta geographic board.

Maligne lake is only 32 miles from the town of Jasper, Alta., but has hardly been disturbed since first seen by white men in the early 1900s.

The Queen Elizabeth ranges comprise about 15 mountain peaks towering 10,000 feet.

Throttle East Berlin Revolt

Reds Forced Use 25,000 Combat Troops

BERLIN (AP)—East Germany's leading Communist newspaper admitted today the Soviet zone is rocked by strikes and disorders and a U. S. general declared the Russians are trying to "tamp down dynamite."

Maj.-Gen. Thomas Timberman, American commander in Red-encircled West Berlin, said the Russians had brought in the major elements of two armored divisions, about 25,000 men of the 1st and 14th divisions, to throttle rebellious East Berlin.

Communist officials claimed that strikes and unrest were dying down after last Wednesday's riotous anti-Red outbursts in which 100 Germans are rumored to have been killed.

But Neues Deutschland, the Communist party organ in East Germany, admitted chaotic conditions still prevail. It said East Berlin is short of food because of "transport difficulties," a reference to a zone-wide strike by rail workers. It added that no vegetables are available and that "hoarded buying" has emptied stores.

RAIDS CONTINUED

Communist security police continued their zone-wide raids and arrests, hunting down workers who led the anti-Communist demonstrations that paralyzed cities and towns throughout the Soviet-occupied area.

The Communists admitted that even the Soviet-guarded uranium mines in Saxony were in danger from "provocateurs and diversionists." They asserted, however, that some workers were rallying to the government and personally protecting the mine installations.

Refugees slipping into Western territory reported that two men were put to death by a Russian armored force now ruling the Elbe river industrial centre of Magdeburg.

START CONFESSIONS

The Communist zone radio claimed that one prisoner taken during the Wednesday rioting in East Berlin confessed that he and 90 other jobless Berliners were "hired to kill" Communist zone police by an American officer. The U. S. and other Western powers have denied any responsibility for the demonstrations.

At least 1,500 East Berliners were estimated to be under arrest. Several public schools in the Soviet sector have been transformed into temporary jails.

Rumors placed the German dead at more than 100 and even official Communist sources indicated the property damage was enormous.

An estimated 80,000 Russian troops occupied cities and towns throughout the east zone.

Vancouver Has Mock Bombing Attack

VANCOUVER (CP)—The wail of air raid sirens along the Pacific Coast from California to Alaska today signalled the start of "Operation Beware," the region's first big post-war civil defence exercise.

Citizens scurried for shelter as low-flying aircraft swooped in over major cities. All traffic except emergency vehicles came to an abrupt stop.

The operation was designed to test efficiency and measure the training of the numerous departments which co-operate with civil defence services, including city police and fire forces.

An imaginary shower of incendiary bombs fell along the Vancouver waterfront, setting fire to ships, docks and oil tanks.

An exploded pipeline sent burning oil cascading into the harbor. Two railway cars loaded with munitions blew up.

STORY SAME

The story was the same all along the coast. The bombs dropped on Vancouver and surrounding districts were supposed to be from planes that failed to deliver their full loads on western United States industrial centres.

In Alberta, the exercise included tests of telephone and short-wave communications and assessment of casualties and damage in bombed areas.

The operations in this area were directed by Air Vice-Marshal F. V. Heakes. On hand as an adviser was Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington, Canada's head civil defence co-ordinator.

On his arrival here Thursday, Maj.-Gen. Worthington warned that "Operation Beware" might not live up to expectations.

SECOND ONE BETTER

"You'll find the first one is rough," he said. "Response to the second one will be much better."

Pedestrians in the cities under attack were pre-warned to take cover in the nearest building or shelter. Motorists were ordered to pull over to the curb, switch off the engine and sit tight until the all-clear sounded.

Machines stopped in many industrial plants as workers manned emergency posts. Doorways, windows and elevators were listed as "danger points."

In Victoria, ambulances were directed by radio control to buildings that had received direct hits. Casualties were removed by way of ladders from upper storeys. Debris was checked for radioactive particles.

Only one point of disagreement arose between co-operating U. S. and Canadian officials. It involved window panes.

American citizens were told to pull down their blinds but leave the window open to reduce the risk of flying glass.

On this side of the border citizens were advised to keep both windows and blinds closed to reduce the danger of radioactive dust or mist seeping into the home.

"It's a debatable point," admitted a local official.

DONALD WARE, TORONTO, was drowned late Friday night when the motor boat in which he was fishing on Lovesick lake at Burleigh Falls was swept over the small dam at Perry's Creek. Waters of Lovesick lake were being directed through the dam (shown above) while the new bridge is being erected at the usual waterway connecting Lovesick lake with Stony lake.

Martin Promises Doctors Keep Freedom

WINNIPEG (CP)—Health Minister Martin Friday assured Canada's medical men the federal government will do nothing to destroy the freedom of Canada's individual doctors.

The minister, at a luncheon meeting on the final day of the Canadian Medical Association convention, stressed that the government's only aim was to provide every Canadian with the medical care to which he is entitled.

The medical profession must maintain standards, provide facilities and services to physicians, guard professional freedom and ensure that no barrier comes between doctor and patient, he said.

The government aided the provision of facilities with grants of almost $100,000,000 in the last five years, said Mr. Martin.

TO AID DOCTOR

Referring to the federal health grant system started in 1948, Mr. Martin said its whole purpose is to enable the doctor to serve the patient better. It is intended to strengthen, not replace, the work of those responsible for health.

An American expert in the prevention of polio told delegates the danger in its use is preventing the introduction of a new serum which is almost certain to provide complete immunization to the disease.

Dr. William McDowell Hammon of Pittsburgh said during a press conference it may be years before United States research workers consider the material safe.

Referring to another polio vaccine for which much hope was held, Dr. Hammon said: "Gamma Globulin was my baby and I hate to have to say it wasn't much good."

Early gamma globulin experiments were carried out in the United States during an epidemic of polio in 1951-52. Dr. Hammon and a research team inoculated about 55,000 children. The drug was found to be wasteful and uncertain, the doctor said.

Lung cancer will soon be the equal of stomach cancer as a killer of men, Dr. M. B. Perrin of Winnipeg said in a press conference. He delivered a paper on overcoming the difficulties of diagnosing lung cancer.

The incidence of lung cancer is steadily rising, said the doctor.

Religious Film Very Popular

NEW YORK (AP)—A new big-time motion picture is working up a groundswell in religious circles in the United States.

Although the film "Martin Luther" so far has been unveiled only in three cities and in special showings to church leaders, it already has become something of a sensation.

Owned by six Lutheran church bodies, the $500,000 picture is said to be the first church-backed movie ever distributed commercially.

Various Protestant spokesmen say it eventually could spark fresh revival in their faith.

"I believe it will become both a religious and historical experience for the American people," said Dr. Daniel A. Poling, Philadelphia Baptist minister and editor of the Christian Herald.

NEW REFORMATION

Dr. E. E. Flack, dean of Hamma Divinity School, Springfield, Ohio, said: "I can almost visualize a new reformation to be produced by this film. Its far-reaching influence can never be estimated."

Dr. Samuel McCrea Cavert, general secretary of the National Council of Churches, called it the "most interesting and absorbing" religious film yet and urged pastors to tell their congregations about it.

Up to now—in Minneapolis and in Hickory, N. C.—it has drawn a bigger boxoffice than any current Hollywood offerings, including three-dimensional hits.

Fair demand in oats and some barley business were credited to U.S. points. Other support apparently connected with recent business came into flax and there were inter-market operations in rye. Top grades of Class 2 wheat were down five cents; IWA and domestic prices were unchanged.

MORE ABOUT—

Rosenbergs

Denno said they talked from about noon to 7:20 p.m. EDT in the woman's wing of the prison. They were separated by a wire screen.

The party of official witnesses entered the death chamber a few moments before 8 p.m. Behind the electric chair was a white, wheeled table. In front were four rows of benches.

SILENCE HEAVY

The room was heavy with silence. From overhead, the lights beamed on the electric chair.

A moment later, a voice was heard in the corridor leading in from the death chamber. It was low but distinct.

Then Rabbi Irving Koslowe entered, intoning the words of the 23rd Psalm . . . "The Lord is my Shepherd, I shall not want."

Rosenberg was a step behind him. It was about 8:02 p.m.

The executions were so arranged that husband and wife would not know when the other went down the corridor. Had Ethel Rosenberg gone first, she would have passed her husband's cell.

Rosenberg, 35, wore dark brown trousers, a white undershirt with short sleeves, and low slippers without heels.

His moustache had been shaved off. His glasses were removed.

His face was a blank. His eyes appeared not to see any of the persons in the room nor any of its details.

But he turned, without guidance to the electric chair and sat down quietly.

Rabbi Koslowe kept his eyes on the prayer book. He prayed steadily, and twice kissed the book.

The black helmet was placed on Rosenberg's head. Then the black straps were fixed around his chest, and the other electrode was set against his right leg. The trouser had been slit, so that the leg was bare from the knee down.

HUMMING BUZZ

The guards stepped away. A signal was given to the executioner, in an alcove to the left of the room.

A metallic rattle sounded—like marbles rolling down a metal washboard. Then it stopped. The room was filled with a humming buzz.

Rosenberg's chest bulged, straining against the straps. His fists clenched in tight knots. His neck and shoulders turned crimson.

There were three massive charges of electricity. The first lasted three seconds, the second and third 57 seconds each. He was dead in 2¾ minutes.

The humming stopped. It was 8:06 and three quarters.

Two guards stepped to the chair and swiftly unbuckled the straps. Two physicians approached with stethoscopes.

They listened for a long moment and one said: "I pronounce this man dead."

The body was lifted onto the white table and wheeled out of the room.

MRS ROSENBERG'S TURN

About three minutes later, Rabbi Koslowe's voice again came from beyond the door. He read both the 15th and 31st Psalms, "who shall sojourn in Thy tabernacle. . . ."

Ethel Rosenberg, 37, walked behim him.

She wore a shapeless short-sleeved green dress with a small white pattern. It had no belt. She also wore slipper-type shoes.

She looked around the room. Her eyes flickered from face to face, across the row of witnesses and down the line of guards.

She stopped in front of the electric chair.

Two women had followed her into the chamber. One was Mrs. Helen Evans, prison matron, and the other Mrs. Lucy Many, former matron and now a telephone operator.

KISSES MATRON

Ethel Rosenberg whirled back from the chair and extended her arm toward Mrs. Evans.

Mrs. Evans took her hand between both of hers. Mrs. Rosenberg pulled the short, white-haired matron toward her, and, the two women kissed.

Each murmured, but the words were unintelligible to the witnesses. Later, Mrs. Evans said she only recalled saying "Goodbye."

Again, the black helmet, straps and leg contacts were set in place. Just before the gear was placed on her head and face, Mrs. Rosenberg closed her eyes.

She winced, slightly, as the electrode was fixed on her head.

The chamber was hot. There was no sound except the half-whispered words of the rabbi. He kept his eyes on the prayer book, and his head was partly bowed.

Then the switch was thrown and the metallic rattle sounded again.

Mrs. Rosenberg had stretched her arms along the arms of the chair, the palms of her hands upward. Now, her hands clenched.

Her body strained against the straps. Then it slumped after the first three-second charge. The two 57-second charges followed.

Then, as before, the straps were taken from her chest and the doctors examined her. This time, the decision was not immediate. They moved the stethoscopes several times, and there was a brief consultation in whispers.

They murmured to Warden Denno and the warden signalled the guards to replace the straps. Twice more, the switch was thrown and a buzzing hum filled the chamber.

PRONOUNCED DEAD

Then it was finished. With the second examination, she was pronounced dead.

The second execution had begun at 8:11½ and ended at 8:16.

The Rosenberg's children, Michael, 10, and Robert, 6, were being cared for at a farm in Toms River, N.J.

So closed the story of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg which began more than three years ago with the arrest of Dr. Klaus Fuchs, German-born atomic scientist, who was working in an atomic laboratory in Britain.

That was in February, 1950.

On June 16 of that year, David Greenglass, younger brother of Ethel Rosenberg, was arrested in New York. The trail followed by detectives on both sides of the Atlantic led from Fuchs, through several other men, to Greenglass and from him to the Rosenbergs.

Julius was arrested July 17, his wife Aug. 11, 1950.

Each denied "before God and man" the story that Greenglass told—that they had all been units of an espionage network, designed to ferret out the secrets of atomic energy, and relay the information to the Russians.

Greenglass testified that his sister, Rosenberg's wife, told him, "Julius finally got to the point where he was doing what he always wanted to do—give information to the Soviet Union."

The Rosenbergs called it "a monstrous frameup."

They were convicted in March, 1951, and sentenced to death on April 5, 1951. In sentencing them, Federal Judge Irving Kaufman called their action "a crime worse than murder."

He said: "I believe your conduct in putting into the hands of the Russians the A-bomb years before our best scientists predicted Russia would perfect the bomb already has caused the Communist aggression in Korea with the resulting casualties exceeding 90,000 Americans."

That was the casualty figure at the time.

Rhee's Stock

The secretary and the diplomats conferred about 35 minutes. It was understood they discussed the truce situation and South Korea's action, but there was no comment afterward.

It was learned, however, the ambassadors were told that Walter S. Robertson, assistant state secretary for the Far East, will fly to Korea soon at Rhee's invitation to confer with him.

Dulles is reported to have given the ambassadors assurance the U. S. government and UN command were going ahead with plans for a truce as soon as possible despite Rhee's action.

"PERFECT OUT"

Magnuson, who conferred with Rhee in Korea, said he thinks the South Korean president's action "gives the Communists a perfect out if they want to take it."

He added, however, that "if the Communists have any desire for peace at all," he thought they would be "suckers" not to accept the truce terms of the United Nations.

But he said he feels there is "a real danger" that they will start the fighting again later.

Speaking up for Rhee was representative Ralph Gwinn (Rep. N. Y.), who said he would offer Monday a congressional resolution commending the Korean president for his action.

Representative Charles Kersten (Rep. Wis.) said the Communists should be the last to complain about the freeing of the prisoners. Rhee was only adopting their tactics.

"During the course of the war, by their own admission, the Reds themselves released between 40 and 50 thousand otherwise unaccounted for South Korean prisoners," Kersten said in a statement.

"They claimed, of course, that they 're-educated' these prisoners in North Korea. But all the evidence shows that this vast number of unaccounted for prisoners taken by the Reds were either forcibly pressed into their labor battalions or the Red armed forces, or they were murdered."

President Eisenhower, reported to have notified Rhee Friday by cable that he was holding him personally responsible for freeing the prisoners, previously had offered to propose a mutual defence pact with South Korea if a truce became effective.

Ottawa Schools Said Superior

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa's public schools have a greater share of intellectually superior students than other Canadian city, says W. T. MacsKimming, chief inspector of city schools.

In his report just published, the inspector said intelligence tests showed six per cent of Ottawa's 15,777 public school pupils are in the "gifted" class with intelligence quotas of 130 or more.

The reason for Ottawa's superiority?

Mr. MacsKimming says the government attracts men of superior intelligence to its top civil service posts, and "like tends to beget like." In other words, the children take after their smart fathers.

companions saw of Ware at about 10 p.m., he was about half-way across the lake.

BEGAN SEARCH

When Ware didn't return, the two men became worried and borrowed a boat to search for him.

"We spent all night looking and calling for him up and down the lake," Wiles said.

"We didn't find him and so we searched the creek below the dam and found the oars about 4 o'clock in the morning. Two hours later we found the boat among some rushes in a backwater about 500 yards from the dam and called the provincial police."

Pete Fyfe of the Park Hotel was waiting with boats and his own grappling hooks when the police arrived and dragging operations were begun immediately in the creek between the dam and Stony Lake. Cpl. Jack Munro was in charge of the investigation with Constable Don LaCombe conducting the dragging, assited by Bill McHugh and two brothers, Josh and Dallas Johnston, all of Burleigh Falls.

DIVERTED WATER

Shortly after, the check valves in the dam were closed, sending the water once more through its normal channel in the middle of the village and lowering the level in the vicinity of the dam by several feet.

A portion of the motor's shaft and the propeller were found about 200 feet from the dam and about 10:30 a.m. they recovered Ware's tackle box and the remainder of the motor which had been torn from the stern of the boat in the rush over the dam which ripped off a piece of the stern about a foot wide.

When further dragging failed to locate the body, Cpl. Munro expressed the opinion that it may have been swept through into Stony Lake by the rushing water.

McCartney this morning telephoned the sad news to Ware's parents with whom the young couple had been living and they were expected to arrive in Burleigh Falls this afternoon.

Reds Demand

"If it is not included, what assurance is there for the implementation of the armistice agreement on the part of South Korea?

"If it is included, then your side must be responsible for recovering immediately all the 25,952 prisoners of war who are at liberty—and your side must give assurance that similar incidents will not recur in the future."

The Red total did not include 36 who escaped Friday night and Saturday.

REPEAT CHARGES

The Reds repeated their charges that the Allies must have known beforehand of the release and therefore "connived" in the escapes.

They said the prisoner were "forced" to leave the camps and charged that South Korea openly violated the recently-signed prisoner exchange agreement That pact provided that the escaped prisoners and 21,000 other Reds who refused to go home be put in custody of a repatriation commission after an armistice for Red "explanations."

The letter was signed by Kim Il Sung, North Korean premier, and Red Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-Huai.

Later, Dr. Karl Hong Ki, a South Korean government spokesman, denounced the letter as "false accusation directed at the United States to cause a split between the U.S. and the Republic of Korea."

SHOCKING ACT

Clark's letter to Rhee was short but direct. He wrote that he could "not at this time estimate the ultimate consequences" of Rhee's "precipitous and shocking" act.

He said Rhee had assigned command authority over all RoK forces to the UN when the war began in 1950.

And, he said, there has been no indication "I should consider otherwise."

He added:

"I must inform you with all the sincerity which I possess that I am profoundly shocked by this unilateral abrogation of your personal commitment, which was so freely and voluntarily given."

Pyun wrote Clark that Rhee's reasons for releasing the PoWs without consultation was "too obvious to need any explanation."

Pyun wrote that "it is clear" to Rhee that "no matter how you feel about the stand this government has been taking on the PoW question, you are duty-bound to abide by the (PoW exchange) agreement terms which we do not regard as equally binding on us."

Pyun said Lt.-Gen. William K. Harrison, Jr., chief UN negotiator, proposed to the Reds on May 13 at Panmunjom that all Korean prisoners who wouldn't return to their Red homelands be freed as civilians immediately after an armistice.

In Washington, Walter S. Robertson, assistant secretary of state for the Far East, prepared to fly to Korea for conferences at Rhee's invitation. He is expected to leave Sunday.

Civilian Aides Annoying To U.S. Airmen

By DON WHITEHEAD

WASHINGTON (AP)—A United States Air Force revolt against the Eisenhower administration's defence budget poses this question: Will Congress put its trust in the civilians at the Pentagon or in the military to determine what size combat forces are needed.

This basic question is at the core of the dispute. And in making the decision, Congress in fact will be choosing between the security estimates made by President Eisenhower and his civilian aides and those made under the Truman regime.

Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, air force chief of staff, is fighting for expansion of the air force to the 143 - wing goal established two years ago. He argues this is the rock-bottom force which the present joint chiefs of staff decided was needed to assure security in war with Russia. A wing contains 30 to 75 planes depending on their type and mission.

Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson, with Eisenhower's support, has fixed an "interim" goal of 120 wings and replied to Vandenberg in effect:

"We don't accept your estimates. The new joint chiefs (recently appointed and soon to take over) and the national security council will study the situation and then we'll decide how big the air force should be. Meantime we'll build toward this new goal and we have in this budget all the money we can spend intelligently."

The Eisenhower budget trimmed about $5,000,000,000 from the $16,788,000,000 air force budget approved by Truman. Now Vandenberg says the air force could reach the 143-wing goal by mid-1957 if Congress would appropriate an extra $1,435,000,000.

There is considerably more than money at stake. The prestige and military judgment of Eisenhower and Wilson also are deeply involved.

If Congress should side with Vandenberg against the administration, then Congress would be saying in substance it has more confidence in Vandenberg's estimates of the security needs than in those of Wilson, who is speaking for Eisenhower.

MORE ABOUT—

Drew Promises

IMPORTANT ELECTION

Mr. Drew, whose speech was the first of any Canadian leader to be recorded for the CBC's television news, called the coming election the most improtant in Canadian history and said there must be a change now to make government responsibie to the people.

The government, he said, was running things in such a way that Parliament was being sidetracked.

Mr. Drew said his party would initiate—at a special parliamentary session starting not later than October — a program including these points:

1. The tax cuts.

2. Exemption for municipal bodies from federal sales and excise tax on their purchases, and allowing the federal government to be taxed on its property in the same way as ordinary municipal taxpayers.

3. A Dominion-provincial conference to "revise our whole system of taxation" so that taxes on homes and farms would be substantially reduced.

4. Reorganization of the department of national defence, specifically to act on findings of the Currie and McNab reports alleging maladministration in some branches of the department.

WOULD REPEAL ACT

5. Repeal of the "undemocratic" Emergency Powers Act which gives the cabinet wide powers to direct the Canadian economy by order-in-council.

6. Reform of the Senate, particularly regarding the method of appointment, tenure of office (now life) and the legislative functions of the upper chamber.

7. Barring Communist activities.

8. Expansion of world markets for Canada's farm and other primary products. This would include "bold and constructive steps to break the dollar-pound barrier and regain our British and Commonwealth trade."

9. Appointment of a "national agricultural board" to establish "fair" farm floor prices related to farm production costs. This appeared to indicate some type of so-called parity prices, though Mr. Drew did not elaborate on the point.

10. Extension of unemployment insurance benefits to cover unemployment due to crippling sickness or accident. Insurance now is paid only to persons unemployed and available for work. Under a recently passed statute—not yet proclaimed—it is to be extended to these who become disabled after being laid off work for other reasons.

HOUSING PROGRAM

11. A housing program to make it possible for people with small incomes to get new homes, through improvement in the purchase terms. There would be co-operation with the provinces and municipal governments.

12. A contributory health insurance program, in co-operation with the provinces, to provide all Canadians with diagnostic, medical and surgical treatment. It would "recognize" existing medical insurance plans and would not be state medicine.

13. With provincial co-operation, there would be a national policy for the development of resources. This policy would include proceeding with the South Saskatchewan river power and irrigation project, the St. Lawrence seaway and hydro projects in the Maritimes.

Mr. Drew said his tax-reduction program calls for a lessening in the taxation of the average Canadian family by at least $170 a year, not counting what local tax relief might be given by easing the burden on municipalities.

"By reducing the sales tax," he said, "we will reduce the hidden taxes on food, clothing and all the essentials."

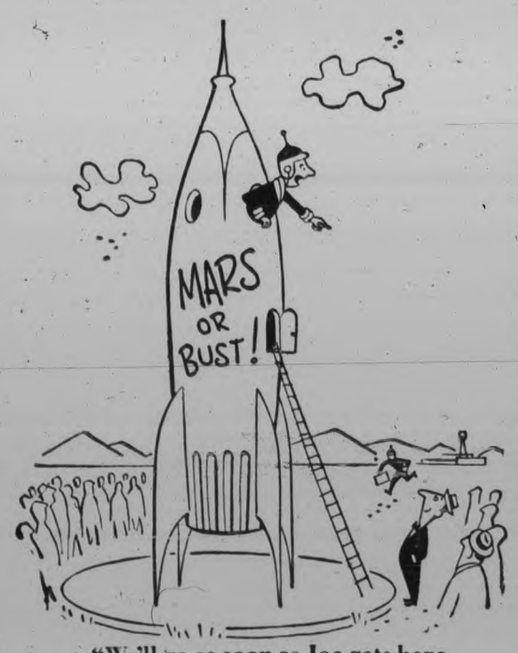
JUST LIKE THE OLD DAYS, that's what the summer days this year will mean for Norman Browne and his cousin, Billy Browne, as they drive around Peterborough and district in their 1911 Model T Ford. During the past winter they decided upon a hobby, rebuilding old cars and trucks; the old model T is the first in their collection. It keeps up with the modern cars, travelling along at 40 and 50 miles an hour. Norm with daughter, Phyllis, (top left photo), get the feel of the old timer while cousin Bill (lower left photo) stands on the running board of their second venture, a 1922 truck. Norm's daughter, Mary Beth, (top right photo) stands beside the old car's acetylene headlights. —Examiner Staff Photos

42-Year-Old Car Revived To Run Again At 50 M.P.H.

Did you ever hear of a 1911 Model T Ford that would clip off 50 mph? Well Norm Browne, a young local electrician, has one, although it didn't run quite that fast when he bought it however the car is not meant for 'hot-rod' purposes-it is the first product of an expanding hobby which Browne, his brothers and friends have begun.

Last January Mr. Browne was looking around for something to do during the long winter evenings, some hobby that would prove interesting and in the long run possibly profitable.

He contacted Les Crowe of Crowe's Landing who had a Model T, which was little more than a relic, stored in his barn The car had been there since 1934 and over that period of time had accumulated its share of rust and general decay, but Browne was convinced that it still had possibilities so he purchased it.



With the help of his brothers Bill, Reg and Glen, and a friend Don Massey, the car was compietely dissembled. The frame was liscovered to be broken and another one had to be located and installed. Each part was polished and checked for flaws and then put back until the whole car had been over-hauled and was nearly as good as the day it came off the Ford assembly line

TRUCK TOO

In the meantime Norm's brother Bill had acquired a Model T truck of the 1922 vintage and although complete disassembly wasn't necessary a good deal of work was required to put the machine in the same class as its older relation. However on Coronation Day, the two old-timers were chugging proudly along in the shadows of the lumbering lorries.

The Brownes intend to expand this hobby as time and finances allow. "It is peculiar, said one, "but as soon as you express the intention of buying one of these old cars the owner immediately raises his price sky-high. I suppose they think that there is some value connected with the age, but in actuality, if a great deal of time and energy isn't spent on them in repair, they aren't worth their weight as junk."

At present the Brownes are renting their cars to anyone who is interested, and are biding their time until they have a fleet of 'lizzies at their command.

"We'll go as soon as Joe gets here with the Travellers Cheques."

Goat Feeds Fawn

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP)—An orphan fawn and a li'l goat on which he depends for nourishment have found their way to the sanctuary of Fred Lowes at Beachville. The fawn was discovered in a hayfield on the farm of Lloyd Johnson, RR 2, Mount Elgin, by his 14-year-old son, Len. Only three or four days old, the fawn thrived on milk from the Johnsons' goat Lucy. Both goat and fawn now are at the sanctuary.

200 Manvers Pupils Sing In Festival At Bethany

BETHANY (ENS)—Under the direction of Mr, James Gay, supervisor and teacher of music in Manvers township schools, a musical festival was held in the town hall.

Students taking part were from Pontypool (Edwin Challice, teacher of senior room; Mrs. Christella Neals, junior room); Bethany school (Mrs. Mary Wright, teacher of senior room; Miss Velma Thexton, junior room); Carscadden's school (teacher, F. Munroe); Drum school (teacher, Mrs. L. Lindsay); Galloway's school (teacher, Mrs. Laura Rowan); Yelverton school (teacher, Mr. W. Bailey); Lifford school (teacher, Miss Dorothy Mann); Fallis school (teacher, Miss Patricia McBean); Bethel school (teacher, Miss G. Howe).

PROGRAM

The program included "Now Thank We All Our God" by the pupils of Bethany school; "Tell Me the Stories of Jesus" and "The May Song" by Bethel school; "When He Cometh" by junior room of Pontypool: "Sleep Baby Sleep" and "The Poor Fish" by Carscadden's school; "At the Clear Fountain" and "The Spring Is Here" by Drum school; "Raindrops and Snowflakes," Galloway's school; "The Merry Comrade" and "Robin's Song" by Yelverton school; "Iris and Lilacs" junior pupils of Bethany; "Dear Harp of My Country" and "The Rainbow" by Lifford school; "The Little Sandman" and "Santa Lucia" by Fallis school; "Music and Dancing," Pontypool school.

Nine pupils from Lifford school sang "Sleepy Time" and "Spring Song" in three parts. Two private pupils of Mr. Gay, Joy DeGeer and Gordon Gay, gave piano solos.

A number of the students had been competitors in the Kiwanis Musical Festival in Peterborough and gave a repeat performance of several numbers which had received honorable mention. Girls from the three schools of Bethany, Pontypool and Fallis, Brenda Rowan, Joan Morton, Phyllis Bristow, Betty Lou Mitchell, Rommie Grown, Muriel Hendsby and Irene Urbankiewicy, sang "The Cuckoo Song" with soprano and alto parts. Joy DeGeer (Lifford) and Loraine McGill (Yelverton) sang "The Little Clock."

A prize of money was presented to Betty Lou Mitchell and Rommie Grown of Pontypool, donated by Mrs. K. Kilbourne of Peterborough. Mr. Gay, who made the presentation, said: "The girls did remarkably well at the Kiwanis Festival. In competition in a class which included privately trained singers they received a mark of 86 per cent, just two marks below the first prize winners and received high praise from the adjudicator for their efforts. Mrs. Kilbourne's thoughtful gesture in presenting a second prize was much appreciated."

Mr. Gay explained some of the work in connection with music in the school curriculum. "We hope to develop music in every child. Some may have more natural talent than others and these continue with private musical studies. Others might not have this opportunity. It is our desire to give every child the same chance to learn music, to develop a sense of rhythm."

GROUP SINGING

The remaining numbers had each been taught in the schools in their weekly lessons. With only one rehearsal, they sang as several groups with excellent harmony. Pupils from Galloway's, Bethal, Yelverton and Drum sang two choruses "Our Country's Name Is Canada" and "Robin In the Rain." Fallis', Lifford and Galloway sang "Bouquet For Rosemary." Lifford, Fallis, Bethany and Pontypool pupils united in singing "The Swing" and "Spring Magic." Fallis and Lifford pupils sang "The Fairy Ring." Bethany and Bethel pupils sang "Here's Health Unto Her Majesty."

The final selections included pupils from all the schools, approximately 200 students in one huge choir singing "They All Call It Canada, But I Call It Home," "Oh Canada" and "God Save Our Gracious Queen."

Mr. Hope Rayson was chairman for the evening.

Drew's Tax Plan Interests Pearson

BEAMSVILLE, Ont. (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said Friday night nothing would make him happier than a drastic cut in taxes.

Commenting on the 16-point Progressive Conservative manifesto announced in Guelph by George Drew, he said 48 cents of every dollar collected by the federal government is spent on national defence and 25 cents of every tax dollar.

"If, in the face of this, Mr. Drew's plan (to cut taxes by more than $500,000,000) was workable, it would be the greatest sleight-of-hand since Houdini."

Mr. Pearson spoke at a Liberal nomination meeting which chose Lincoln's sitting member, Harry Cavers, as party candidate for the riding in the Aug. 10 federal election.

Television Records Election Campaign

GUELPH (CP)—Television cameras Friday night recorded an election campaign meeting for the first time in Canada as George Drew delivered his keynote speech for the Progressive Conservatives.

Clearing Minefield Aid To Prospective Father

IN KOREA (CP)—A tip for fathers in the hours before the wife gives birth to a baby: Forget about it by clearing a minefield.

Sgt. Lewis Evans of Edmonton used that system out here and he found it worked. He was too busy thinking about mines to think about anything else.

He was part of a team which worked worked under engineer Lieut. Charles Carter of Niagara Falls, Ont., to clear a Communist minefield in front of the Canadian positions.

First thing Lieut. Carter did was to make a dummy field, rehearse his men in that, refresh their memories about mines in general and then go to work. It took several nights and they came under enemy mortar and machine-gun fire but they did the job without casualties.

WE DON'T WANT TO LEAVE HOME moan these little black puppies, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Yeatman, River Road North. The blackies have become family pets with the Yeatmans, especially with their younger children who wanted to keep the whole litter. But the demand for the pups couldn't be turned down and they were sent to their new homes today. The children have kept the pups' mother who, although she misses her family, seems quite happy to be free once more to roam around the Yeatman property without a black line of yipping sons and daughters following behind. —Examiner Staff Photo

SATURDAY, JUNE 20, 1953

It Was Overdue

The Department of Resources and Development informs us that it has affixed a bronze tablet to the handsome statue of Sir John A. Macdonald which stands in the principal park of the city of Kingston. The wording is as follows:

SIR JOHN ALEXANDER MACDONALD
1815-1891

First elected from Kingston to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Canada in 1844, he was for forty-seven years a leading figure in the public life of his country. One of the Fathers of Confederation, he became the first Prime Minister of Canada and held the office 1867-73; 1878-91. Under his leadership the new Dominion was extended from sea to sea by incorporation of the territories of the Hudson's Bay Company, British Columbia and Prince Edward Island; and linked together by construction of the Intercolonial and Canadian Pacific Railways.

The tablet will be unveiled today, June 20, by the Mayor of Kingston, Mr. George Clarke Wright, whose father, as Mayor, unveiled the monument itself on October 23, 1895.

* * *

We are happy that this tablet has been placed on the monument, but we must say that we think it should have been done long ago. The monument itself is one of the finest of its kind in Canada—much finer than the one in Ottawa or the one in Toronto. It represents Sir John, considerably larger than life size, wearing Court dress, and is mounted on a marble pedestal of sufficient height to give the bronze figure the commanding position it needs, against a background of beautiful trees. What the monument cost, we do not know. It bears the simple inscription "Macdonald". But as the years have worn on generations have grown up who need to be told a little more than that. Kingstonians have asked the Historic Parks and Sites board to put a tablet on the base of the Macdonald monument for several years, but it has been slow in coming.

* * *

While writing of Kingston we wish to express our approval of a proposal which has been made to erect a monument to its founders, Comte de Frontenac and Chevalier de la Salle. In 1973 Kingston will be three hundred years old, and the unveiling of such a monument would mark the occasion as nothing else could do. Wisdom is shown in the agitation which is now being made, twenty years before the tercentenary. Monuments do not spring up in a day. Money must be collected; an artist must be found and models made; the monument must be carved or cast; it must be set in place at an appropriate site. All of this takes time, and twenty years is not a bit too soon beforehand to start work on it. We hope that the idea will bear fruit, and that the result will not only be a noble and appropriate monument for one of Canada's oldest and most romantic cities, but an addition to Canada's store of worthy statuary, commemorating its heroes and its history.

Summer Ahoy!

Tomorrow at exactly eleven of the morning summer comes to Peterborough. Since Thursday we have had a succession of the longest days of the year so we already know that summer is upon us, even had we not been able to see its verdure, feel its warmth and sense its fragrance. This series of longest days—fifteen hours and forty-one minutes between sunrise and sunset (a few seconds more or less as we reach and pass the 21st of June) continues until next Thursday. Then the sun becomes a minute lazier, and in about ten days the nights will begin to draw in for a minute every few days.

That is the story the solar calendar tells of these opulent and soulful days. The world around us speaks more vividly. Lawns and fields are green with the rains of the past few weeks. Bushes, flowers and trees are lush. Iris raise their handsome flags. The peony is in full bloom, her subtle, heartening fragrance piercing the warm hush; the peony which Arnoldus Villanova said has magic—as Bliss Carman remembered:

She hath a deep hid virtue
No other flower hath.
When summer comes rejoicing
A-down my garden path,
In opulence of colour,
In robe of satin sheen,
She casts o'er all the hours
Her sorcery serene.

June has been notably kind to growth, if not to maturing fruits; there has been no thirst. Gardeners lucky enough to get their seeds and plants rooted between wet spells can boast heavy growth now.

A man accosted us on George Street the other day, beaming like the summer sun. "Tomatoes three inches big already!" Ah, but he's an early bird: he started his seed under glass and he gardens every morning between six and eight. Others speak glowingly of their potatoes, their peas (sweet and edible both) and their perennial borders. To judge from the general conversation we overhear at street corners, in the bus and at munching times, gardening is the passion of everybody in Peterborough and for miles around, and everybody is touchingly proud of his own results this June. Nature has graciously added her efforts to the affection our gardeners have lavished on their earth, seed and bloom.

And so summer comes in happily and people begin to let their gardens take their course while they themselves take to the lakeside, to the boats and to siestas.

Modern St. Giles, Peterborough

Last week we took pleasure in commending the congregation and officers of the new Grace United Church upon their plan to build a church in contemporary design. Today our report shows that another new Peterborough congregation also plans to build a church which reflects 1953, not 1253. We hail the prospect of two modern churches, both in the south section of the city. St. Giles Presbyterian congregation has only been organized since last autumn; its ambition to build so soon, and to build worthily of its own generation is a fine testimony to the spirit informing it.

The architect for both new churches is E. H. Zeidler, of the Peterborough firm of Blackwell and Craig. The new St. Giles, differing in appearance but not in manner from the proposed new Grace United, will be a place of light and aspiration, without the Gothic gloom of medieval copies or the pretensions of Victorian, quasi-classical imitations.

In the great ages of faith generations have written their history in the churches they have built. Here in Peterborough will be two new churches manifesting the spirit of the people of this age, and incorporating in their houses of worship, the crafts and materials of our own ingenious generation. This is as it should be, if the Deity is to be glorified afresh in each succeeding age. Incidentally, the modern plan and materials permit of a building to seat (in St. Giles) 418 persons at a cost of something like $80,000, which is lower than the cost would be of a building in imitation of earlier styles.

103 Degrees F. In The Northwest Territories

Among the hobbled reasons advanced against August 10th as election date, we have seen no complaint that the heat will keep voters away from the polls. This, we feel, is the strongest objection there can be to the August election date. Think, for instance of the 8,000 Eskimoes who may be disfranchised by the heat. We consider that the Government, having only lately enfranchised the Eskimoes in the Northwest Territories—a just and proper grant of the ballot—has dealt a sweltering buffet to these sturdy new voters by its August polling date.

The Eskimoes are apparently cold-resistant; the Government seems to have assumed that they are also heat-resistant. This is a rash and unwarranted assumption. The August election date is unfair to the Eskimo voters. What Eskimo is going to venture out of his igloo into heat of 100 degrees Fahrenheit, his eyes unable to see to mark his X because of blubber dripping from them? Let the officers of Government not think we are exaggerating. One summer not long ago the temperature at Fort Smith, NWT, south of Great Slave Lake, rose to 103 degrees. No Eskimo can vote under such conditions.

Most of these native Canadians live in the sprawling 1,300,000 square miles of the Northwest Territories—an area thirty-four per cent. of the country's total. The Yukon will be less affected, partly because the Yukon's 200,000 square miles of territory contain only thirty Eskimoes. But even these thirty will feel the heat of election day. Or the temperature will be so lazily warm that the Eskimoes will refuse to budge from their sun-shades.

Ottawa, we feel, has slighted the natives of the Mackenzie River constituency, and even of Saguenay, Yukon and Grand Falls—White Bay—Labrador constituencies. Has Ottawa forgotten that the average temperature at Yellowknife in high summer is only ten degrees lower than the temperature in which Ottawa swelters then? Even at Chesterfield, on the west coast of Hudson Bay and just four points below the Arctic Circle, the average mean temperature during the hottest summer month is 49 degrees above zero. What Eskimo wants to vote under such conditions? More, what Eskimo is heat-proof enough to be able to wallow to the polls then? Why, there is not even an igloo left standing by that time fit to be a polling booth.

Not Happy About Diet

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN
(in Tokyo)

THE MASSIVE greystone Diet building in Tokyo which houses the Japanese Senate and House of Representatives has served in the past as the death-place of Japanese democracy. It was built just in time for the gradual defeat of the liberals and the old gentle-minded men by the militarists before the war. There is little cause to be happy about what is going on in the same building today.

The House of Representatives meets in a great semi-circular chamber. It is heavy with carved wood and coloured glass and tasselled curtains in the most expensive Edwardian bar-parlour style. The galleries are usually quite full with row after row of devoutly serious people, all in the sober black of Japanese public appearance. They sit patiently watching the rows of empty desks and the great curtained recess for the Emperor while the parties fight out their tactics in corridors and private rooms. They sit and show no emotion when the aged members return and the house dissolves into frivolous ill-temper and bad manners. Indeed, I know nowhere else in Japan where you can see people behave like the Diet members—not even among the reckless taxi-drivers as they lightly cannon into one another and bow and smile and drive on.

BUT THE ROOTS of Japan's present mode of government are very shallow and do not greatly involve the hearts of her people. When Japan emerged from the war and General MacArthur decreed a democracy, not the least of her difficulties was the absence of leaders and even of what the West recognises as politics. The natural leaders were either in prison waiting trial as war criminals or else, one by one, were "purged," declared ineligible for any sort of public or commercial life. Power fell by default into the hands of ex-civil servants from the less important ministries or to men who had been ambassadors abroad during the bad years or to professors who had managed to steer clear of politics. Such men as the present Premier, the Foreign Minister, the leader of the largest opposition party and the leader of the Leftist socialists.

But nothing like a clear parliamentary pattern emerged. Parties formed and broke like amoebas in a spot of pond water and, in almost every case, the nucleus of the party was not a principle or a programme but an old man. The Liberal Party took final shape round Mr. Hatoyama; but, literally on the eve of his becoming Prime Minister, the Americans declared him purged and so power was handed to the career diplomat, Mr. Shigeru Yoshida, who is today technically leader of the Liberal Party. Until March 14 he headed a Liberal Government and now he heads a caretaker government until the election on April 19 which will almost certainly cost him his job.

THE NEXT largest party, the Progressives, was founded by disappointed Liberals and eventually coalesced round the person of Mr. Shigemitsu, who is a genuine Grand Old Man. He is a cripple as a result of an attempted assassination in Shanghai before war and it was he who signed Japan's instrument of surrender aboard the USS Missouri.

These two parties are implacably opposed to each other. Yet by Western standards both are conservative and both allow that at least a limited amount of rearmament is necessary for Japan. The Socialists have split into Rightists and Leftists. They divided originally over control of trades unions. The Rightists pursue a vague philanthropic line, opposing Communism and trying to avoid the issue of rearmament, while the Leftists shout for trade with China, no rearmament or involvment with the West—in fact, a line barely distinguishable from that of the Communists who are not represented in the House.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT the complication of the Parliamentary scene is based on the fact that the bitterest struggle of all is inside the Liberal Party. There are some seventy Liberals, supporters of Mr. Hatoyama or of Mr. Hirokawa who was recently coldly sacked by Mr. Yoshida for disloyalty, who have opposed Mr. Yoshida at almost every turn. Hatoyama believe that, now he is out of purge, he has the right to the Premiership and Yoshida has never any intention of returning it to him. Yoshida, in fact, has done little or nothing to conciliate these jealous men and now—in their anger which seemed more vindictive than righteous—they have passed a vote of no confidence on Mr. Yoshida and pulled the party down about their ears.

✧ ✧ ✧

AN UNPLEASANT situation has now arisen. The Liberal Party will almost certainly go to the polls in two, perhaps three separate groups. Yoshida's intransigence has lost him support. Most professional politicians actively dislike him and he arouses little enthusiasm in the country. The Progressives have won no popularity during the Government's six months of life. They were too hard to distinguish from the Liberals — except in their attitude to personalities. It may well be that the Rightist Socialists will be elected to power for no better reason than that the conservative wing has exhausted its popularity. The Rightist Socialists under the leadership of the Christian Mr. Katoyama, inspire little confidence for the future; during the Occupation they ran a government notorious for its inefficiency and corruption; and their leaders are men of small weight.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT LOOKS as if Japanese politics are due for a period of instability on the French model — unfortunate at a time when the country needs leadership, when its very way of government is still in a formative stage and when the danger of extremists — whether of the right or left — taking advantage of the shabby muddle is very real. Japan's leaders and way of government are drifting further and further away from the people and for that the Liberal Party cannot escape blame.

The impression left by the party struggle in Japan is one of irresponsibility and unreality. Somehow it does not reflect the dilemmas that face the country and the sombre debating chamber is no place for finding out what is happening in Japan or how its people feel.

✧ ✧ ✧

JAPAN'S DILEMMA is simple and terrible. It was utterly ruined by the war, stripped of its markets and sources of raw materials. It can no longer rely economically on itself and its own efforts. It has to decide whether to commit itself to the West or whether to remain austerely neutral. Involvement with the West more and more implies a measure of rearmament. Overwhelmingly now the Japanese are opposed to war and want no part in the struggle that is convulsing the East. They believe it to be none of their business, but they depend for their economic survival, for their rations and raw materials, on America and American dollars. At present — because the dollars roll in — they are able to have their cake and eat it, but it is a happy state that cannot last for ever. It is largely dependent on the continuance of the Korean war in which they profess not to believe and in which they want no part.

The politically conscious in Japan — who are an urban minority — are ferociously neutral. The fear of a repetition of the war usually expresses itself in a nagging, querulous anti-Americanism. They seem to despise their own politicians and their desire to be left alone is expressed in terms of high-minded idealism which is often maddening because it always emerges that Japan is right and the rest are wrong. Yet even among the students, there are few real Communists. There is something melancholy in their uncertainty. They have lost their old convictions of what is right and inevitable; they have still to find something to put in their place; they provide only the vaguest sort of leadership for the new Japan.

BUT these people are only a minority and, in a country where public opinion as a factor in politics is of minor importance, their significance can be over-estimated. Most Japanese are still farmers. They live hard lives in small houses beside their small fields. For them little has changed. For them the war was a recent horror that swept away their young men and they now simply believe that not to rearm is the best way to avoid its repetition.

For them politicians are remote people in Tokyo, but the Government — that is a separate, almost unchanging entity that must be obeyed. Traditionally they have always filled the army and, from out of their bottomless supply of land-hungry farmers' sons, have provided the material for the fanatical officers' corps. They are still devoted to that powerless national symbol they call the Emperor. If he set his name to the order, they would almost certainly again obey and die as bravely as ever, as indifferent to their own sufferings and to the sufferings of others as their comrades were ten years ago. The country is still coherent in its organization, is still a raw material out of which almost any sort of state could be fashioned. But it is with an insecurely based ideology and a faint government that Japan faces the horrid realities of her economic position.

An American View: HE ALWAYS LEAVES SUCH A MESS

There's A Sawdust Trail A-Winding

(CALGARY HERALD)

THE political party which calls itself Social Credit is on its way back into power in British Columbia, and the party of the same name in Manitoba should, in the immortal words of the sporting fraternity, have stood in bed.

There are various conclusions to be drawn from these two provincial elections in the past few days, none of which has the slightest thing to do with what are jocularly known as Social Credit principles.

The first conclusion is that British Columbia, where the political climate is somewhat more exotic than in the rest of Canada, is still fed up with the uninspiring behavior of two old political parties, just as it was last year, but is still neither mad enough or soft enough in the head to vote socialist.

The second conclusion is that in provinces like Manitoba, where there has been stable and reasonably satisfactory government, the messiahs of the misty Social Credit faith haven't got a chance.

We said last year, and we say again, that the new government of British Columbia is no more Social Credit than we are, which is saying a great deal, and we will be the most astonished people in the world if even the salubrious climate of the coast province can nurture any bona fide genuine, pre-shrunk Social Credit practice outside of a tendency, already noticeable, to a dictatorship complex. Premier Bennett, whose Conservative slip is not yet entirely concealed by his new Social Credit party dress, has already been aping his Alberta betters by pointing out that strong Oppositions are really an unnecessary nuisance, and that what really matters is an all-powerful, one-party government. We trust citizens of B.C. have noted this one down.

All that the B.C. result proves is that the voters were prepared to vote for anybody, anybody at all, as long as it wasn't either of the two old parties or the CCF.

In Manitoba, on the other hand, where an absence of fury made clearer thinking possible, the voters looked at what the Social Crediters ever offering and couldn't see anything. Their blood pressure remained normal when they were told that Social Credit would purify political Manitoba's bloodstream. Their practical prairie minds regurgitated the suggestion that it didn't matter if they understood Social Credit just as long as they felt it in their hearts. And they took unapproving note of the explanation made by one SC candidate, C. R. Breswatherick, on why he would not reveal his stand on the issue of coloured margarine. Mr. Breswatherick, in the best tradition of the robot-disciplined Social Credit platoons, said: "Heads of the party asked candidates not to give a personal opinion on this matter because in their view it might deceive the public." That made it glaringly clear to Manitobans just how much an individual Social Crediter's opinion was worth when the mystic voices whispered to the Social Credit high priests. Private SC members are division fodder only, theirs not to reason why, theirs but to vote right or die, politically.

Carry on, Manitoba! Watch it, British Columbia!

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And they arrived at the country of the Gadarenes, which is over against Galilee, And when he went forth to land, there met him out of the city a certain man, which had devils a long time, and wore no clothes, neither abode in any house, but in the tombs.

When he saw Jesus, he cried out and fell down before him, and with a loud voice said, What have I to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of God most high? I beseech thee, torment me not . . . And Jesus asked him, saying, What is thy name? And he said, Legion: because many devils were entered into him. And they besought him that he would not command them to go out into the deep.

And there was there an herd of many swine feeding on the mountain: and they besought him that he would suffer them to enter into them. And he suffered them. Then went the devils out of the man, and entered into the swine: and the herd ran violently down a steep place into the lake, and were choked.

When they that fed them saw what was done, they fled, and went and told it in the city and in the country. Then they went out to see what was done; and came to Jesus, and found the man, out of whom the devils were departed, sitting at the feet of Jesus, clothed, and in his right mind: and they were afraid . . .

Then the whole multitude of the country of the Gadarenes round about besought him to depart from them; for they were taken with great fear: and he went up into the ship, and returned back again.

Now the man out of whom the devils were departed besought him that he might be with him: but Jesus sent him away, saying, Return to thine own house, and shew how great things God hath done unto thee. And he went his way, and published throughout the whole city how great things Jesus had done unto him. (Luke 8:26-28, 30-35, 37-39.)

Letter To The Editor

JUNE IN PETERBOROUGH

Sir:

'Tis June!
With a hey nonny nonny
And a woe woe woe—
The gentle frogs
In the woosy bogs
All croak!
I'm broke!
My tax is paid
And the money I laid aside for frivolity
Is used in this cosmopolity
For necessity!

Ah me! nonny nonny
And a ho heave ho—
Tighten my belt
And mow mow mow
My lawn, from left to right
And never stop work from Dawn till night.
To pay the next installment due
In Ju-ly, or August or September.
June 1953
Ah me;
A month to remember!

Stratford River Shows What Peterborough Can Do As Well

By A Member of The Study Group, Peterborough

Inanimate objects can suffer, as much as humans, contempt through familiarity. The beautiful Otonabee, flowing through the length of Peterborough, has suffered indifference, contempt and even abuse, often through the very familiarity which people born and bred in the city have of it. Visitors, or people who have moved to Peterborough are quicker than most native Peterburians to realize the natural asset the river and its Little Lake are, and what a unique beauty it could provide.

Peterborough natives all know that the river is here, but few bother to look at or appreciate it fully; they get brief glimpses at a few places—along Water Street, along the Lakefield road, or crossing Hunter Street, if they peep through the slits. But even along the bridge they see little, for it is so wide and the parapets so high.

MAGNIFICENT RIVER

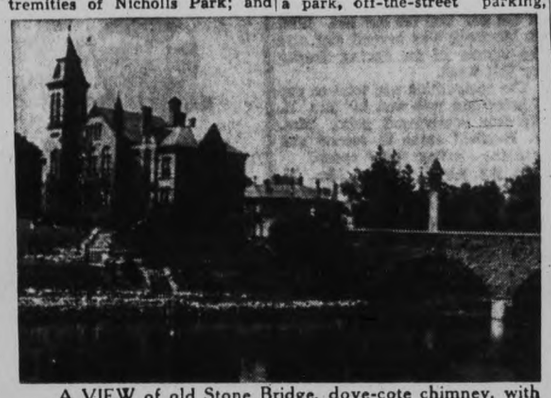
Outsiders, those who have lived in other cities and can compare Peterborough with them, recognize and appreciate this magnificent river, broad, deep, swiftly-flowing, island-studded, and willow-edged. Without fear of contradiction it may be stated that no other city, at least in Ontario, has been so endowed by nature.

Unfortunately, few if any cities have so ignored or even abused nature's gift.

One might begin a sentimental journey of appreciation at Point St. Charles. Look south-east towards the Cemetery, towards Little Lake and the park that so closely encompasses it. What a site created by nature and man for civic celebrations such as that held there Coronation night.

SCUM AND OIL

Don't go down the days the Little Lake is covered with scum and oil from pollution. And don't look north-east where one of the real beauty spots of the city was built up by Wartime Housing. Some of these are as neat and attractive as any home in town, but some aren't! The general effect is certainly depressing.



Proceed north on George St. to the CPR tracks. Cross the footbridge provided there to the east shore. Stand at the foot of the little incline leading up to Engleburn Avenue and study the vista of great trees; green, well-kept lawns; dark, clear water; and heavily-wooded islands.

Those same islands hide a multitude of sins. Return to the west bank of the river and walk up it to Simcoe Street. Note the network of railway track the CPR has laid on the river bank.

Stand on the Hunter Street bridge and look south and east. See the trees, lawns and games centre that is Riverside Park. Or look north where the Quaker Oats Company has spent so much time and money making the river bank a thing of beauty.

But don't look southwest.

Where Edinburgh St. meets Water, another inspiring view is presented. The river widening there comes almost to the road, allowing an uninterrupted appreciation of graceful Inverlea bridge, of the rolling western extremities of Nicholls Park; and distance is kind, preventing the railway line being seen along that bank.

STRATFORD EXAMPLE

To focus attention on what might be done with all this neglected beauty, it might be worth a brief study of the struggle of one Ontario city which had literally nothing to start with.

In the heart of Western Ontario is Stratford, a city of 19,000 Early in its history, the tiny, reed-choked, stump-filled creek that flows sluggishly through it was named the Avon to complete the parallel with its English counterpart. In nothing but name did this stream resemble the Warwickshire river.

On this crek were two small parks, one at the east end, Queen Victoria Park; and one in the heart of the city.

BEAUTY FROM JUNK YARD

Between these two, along the banks of that ambitious creek, stood the city dump, a bottle-strewn ashery, not to mention a huge, unsightly junk yard. Bordering it were dirty backyards and crumbling buildings.

In the midst of this desolation a man with vision took charge. R. T. Orr, now over eighty, was, in 1905, a young, aggressive general insurance broker. He decided what must be done; he convinced George McLagan, the furniture manufacturer, who incidentally owned great tracts on the river below his home; and he went ahead with it. At times he was laughed at; more often he was cursed. But he has lived to see his city a focus of world attention simply because his park system lent itself so admirably to the schemes of another young man of vision, Tom Patterson, general manager of the Stratford Shakespearean Festival.

It has taken all those forty-eight —and Mr. Orr at 81 says: "Twenty years from now we'll be able to years to achieve what is now there see the results of our work here."

In that interval the creek was dredged and dammed to form Victoria Lake (such a poor substitute for Little Lake!); property along the river was acquired, buildings razed and the land filled in. George McLagan donated many acres for parks; great trees were put in and small trees planted which have now grown big; a road bordering the river on both sides was laid with a hard-surfaced path following between it and the river; lagoons were cleaned up and rustic bridges put in joining the few islands.

DUMP NOW TENNIS COURTS

Where the dump once stood, now there are tennis courts flanked by rock gardens. Altogether there are over 1,300 acres of parkland with numerous softball diamonds, football and cricket fields, bowling greens and a large casino for summer dancing.

Most famous of all the Shakespearean Gardens lie west of the Stone Bridge across the Avon at Huron Street. Here are every flower mentioned in Shakespeare's plays, formally landscaped walks and beds, and a bronze head of the poet executed by Cleeve Horne. All this was devised on the site of a burnt-out woollen mill. The great ugly chimney remained after the fire and, with unmatched ingenuity it has been converted into an artistic dove-cote.

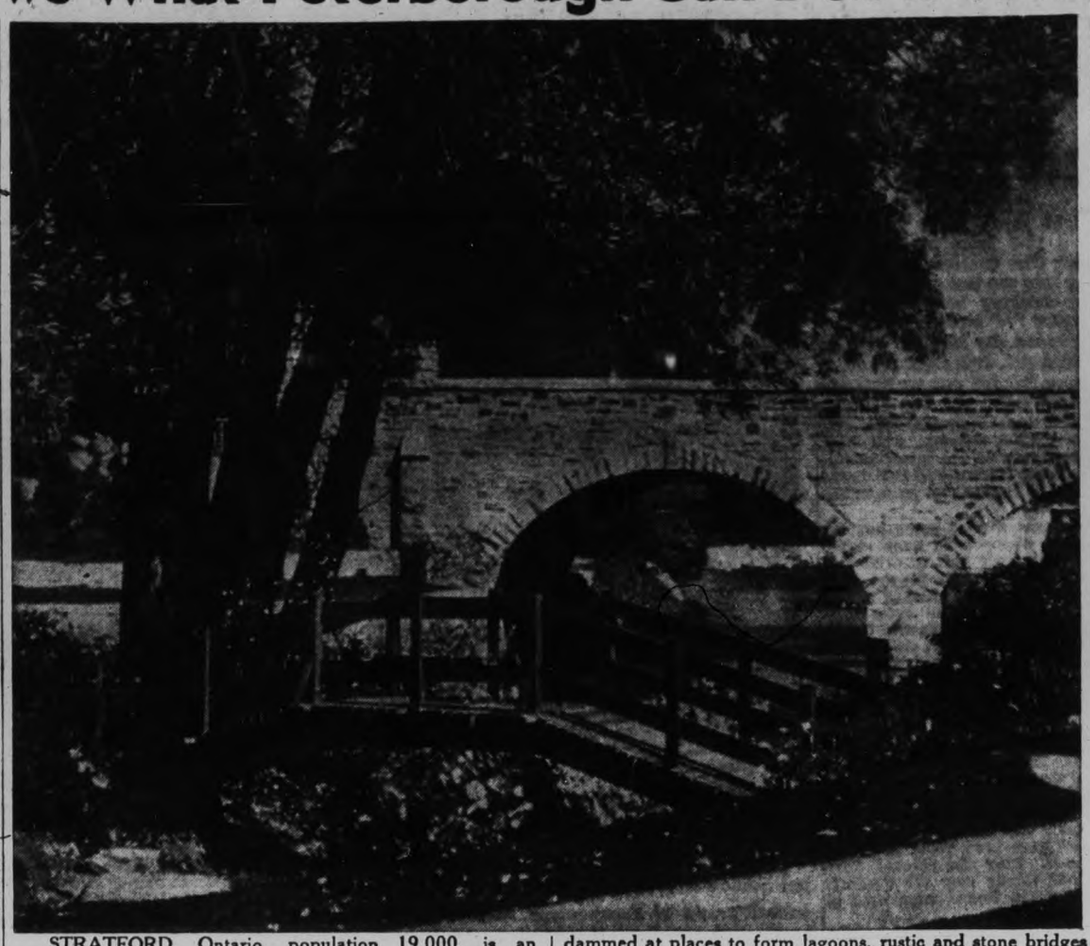
Across the river and further out Huron Street stands the last one of a group of stores which did not fit in with the plans for the river. The city took them over years ago, allowing each owner to continue to own his as long as he wanted, but forbidding their being sold.

All this was not achieved without many hard words and harder thoughts. In 1910, a business man decided the river bank was the place for his new factory. This factory would employ Stratford labour, pay Stratford taxes, and make unproductive land a paying proposition. It took clever manoeuvring for Mr. Orr to convince the delegations sent to him that it would be foolv to waste this choice lot.

BATTLE WITH RAILWAY

Stratford still talks of the famous battle with the C. P. R. in 1912. The railroad wanted to run a line through the heart of the park along the Avon River from one end of the city to the other. It meant a station in the park, freight sheds and yards beside the river. Mr. Orr suggested alternative routes to the railroad. "This isn't the Rocky Mountains," he said logically. "Railroads don't have to follow rivers."

The railroad stood firm— the river route or none. And when the votes were counted after the plebicite that followed, it was none—by forty-eight votes.



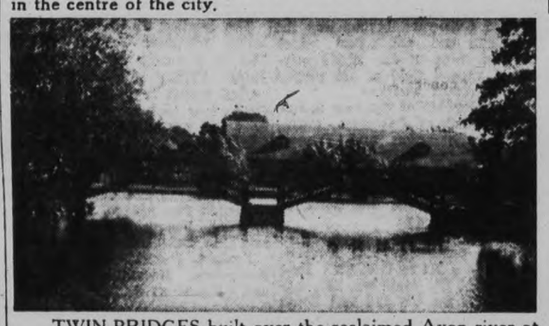
Stratford is not alone in the desire to make the most of their assets. Only this April, Windsor has drawn up plans for beautifying its downtown river front. They are expropitiating land for They are expropiating land for a park, off-the-street parking, and a civic auditorium. The C.N.R. is co-operating and is ready to survey Windsor's needs and requirements for new railway facilities because "the city is," they said "now ready to do its share."

With such material to hand as there is in Peterborough; with a river second to none; with Jackson Park Creek winding through the heart of the city, what wonders might not be effected, could we but find the men of vision.

HUMILITY

The trodden worm curls up. Thus it reduces its chance of being stepped on again. In the language of morality—humility.

—F. W. Nietzsche: The Twilight of the Idols.



STRATFORD, Ontario, population 19,000, is an example of what an enterprising town with far-sighted leaders, can do to preserve and beautify its river. The Avon was a mud-choked, stump-marked creek in 1905. Over the years crumbling buildings, dirty back yards, dumps and unsightly industrial buildings were transformed into parkland and beautiful river banks. The stream itself was cleared, dammed at places to form lagoons, rustic and stone bridges were built and the Shakespeare Gardens created. This year Windsor is beginning a great, expensive, but popular series of improvements to reclaim its river banks. The accompanying article throws out some hints for the Otonabee. Another potentially beautiful stream within Peterborough city limits is the Jackson Park Creek.

OUT OF LITTLE but slime and stumps the Avon river at Stratford has been transformed into a beautiful waterway in the centre of the city.

STATELY SWANS have been put on the Avon at Stratford to add to the new charm of the river their white and plumed elegance.

TWIN BRIDGES built over the reclaimed Avon river at Stratford enhance its appearance.

UGLY CHIMNEY of burnt-out woollen mill has been converted into a dove-cote.

SHAKESPEAREAN GARDENS were created where a dump and woollen mill once stood. In these famous gardens every flower mentioned in Shakespeare's plays is said to have been planted. The Gardens are formally landscaped and include a bronze head of the poet, done by the Canadian painter and sculptor Cleeve Horne.

Your Garden:

Now Is The Time To Make Up For What You Didn't Do Before

BY HENRY PREE (NEA)

Now is the time the home gardener can look forward to making up the time he lost earlier in the season because of the rain.

While the soil in most gardens is still rather wet, it should be dug at the first opportunity and allowed to dry out before seeds are sown and tomato or other plants set in the rows .

Apply a 4-12-4 fertilizer (one strong in phosphorus) by spreading after you've finished digging. Work it well into the top two or three inches of dirt with a stout rake.

Since the tiny roots of newly-germinated seeds must have protection against drying out, it is very important that the surface soil be made rather fine.

Lean heavily on the rake and break up all the lumps, removing only the larger stones and excessive weed growth.

Adding rotted manure, peat moss or other organic matter to the soil is further insurance of a good harvest.

Sow short rows of carrots, radishes, lettuce and beet seeds at weekly intervals so as to avoid having too many vegeables at one time.

Buy short, stocky tomato plants rather than the long, spindly ones. Set the stakes firmly into the ground before you put the plants into their holes.

Place the stakes on the side of the plants away from the wind so that when the wind blows the plant will lean against them. Use stakes at least seven feet long and bury them at least two feet.

Careful spading and use of fertilizer will help insure good growth for your garden.

Tie the plants with soft, strong twine and tie tightly to the stake and losely to the plant. If you have the room you can let tomatoes—run on the ground and keep straw under them.

You'd be wise to invest in an all-purpose spray or dust, one containing DDT or rotenone for insects and a fixed copper fungicide to control diseases, especially blight, on tomatoes.

The heav rains have so waterlogged the soil that the leaves on trees and shrubs in low spots are wilting. Arrange some method of drainage or the plants will suffer.

I would suggest digging a foot-deep hole (or larger) along one side of the plant and bailing out the water. Keep doing this as the hole fills until the wet weather is over. Then refill the hole.

Rose lovers should examine their plants to see if aphids are infesting the new growth and flower beds.

These tiny sucking nsiects can be eliminated by spraying with a teaspoonful of Black-Leaf 40 in a quart of slightly soapy warm water. Repeat this every day or two while the pests last.

Here are some things you could get done over this weekend:

DIG UP the vegetable garden.

MAKE FIRST SOWING of raddish, lettuce, bean, beet and carrot seeds.

A·F·I·E·L·D with NICK NICKELS

Stopped at a private summer home last Sunday to admire a splendid planting of weeping willows on a small man-made series of pretty lagoons and rustic bridges that took this family 20 years to perfect.

While being shown about the neat grounds by the owners the kids were intrigued by number of monster bull frogs in the shallow lagoons. They were monsters, too; one old tame bull called "Oscar" made easy capture. He must have weighed several pounds and bulged his fat belly out over cupped hands. Oscar was as much one of the family pets as the dog and cat.

"What a meal his legs would make," said someone thoughtlessly. The owners would have willingly wrenched off their own legs rather than harm the great frog, or, at least their dark looks said as much.

All this preamble to get around to the frogging season which is official from July 1 to Oct. 15 in these parts at the taking limit of ten per day per person. Even this game bag should be filled with reserve since the frog has many natural enemies before you take a crack at him—snakes, turtles, herons, raccoons and some species of fish. Also of the hundreds of tapiocaed eggs that females lay each spring very few reach maturity.

If you plan to take frogs at night by artificial light you must get yourself a license from the Lands and Forests boys and bullfrogs taken under this authority may be sold on a commercial basis.

Oscar and his kind may be fat, funny and delectable but must not be caught without using common caution.

MUSKOKA TOURIST STEAL

Every time I pass Skyboro Airport it makes me sick to think of all the tourist air business we are missing in the Kawarthas. Am thoroughly convinced now that Peterborough future planners are not sure flying is her to stay, especially when we read how Muskoka is stealing the idea and putting it to use.

Trans-Canada Airlines are dispacthing a Douglas DC3 out of Malton each night at 8.55 for the "Little Norway" airport at Gravenhurst to accommodate tourists. From Chicago (6 hours), Cleveland (3 hours) and New York (3½ hours) city-weary travellers may arrive in the heart of a Canadian summer playground. Air fares from Toronto are $7.70 one way and $13.85 return. Many tourists, of course, will come in their own sport planes.

Bobcaygeon has the only approved Kawartha airstrip, Kellett's Farm, one mile south of the village. It has been busy for several weekends and is being used constantly by J. Kempthorne of Canton, Ohio. Traffic is expected to be quite heavy from now on, according to hardwareman Roy Bottum.

How much longer must we go on in these parts wilfully missing the air-bet business? Yeahs and yeahs?

SOME "POINTS" IN COVERAGE

Lady tourists shopping at a drygoods store on Main Street had their hearts set on a display of colorful Hudson Bay's point blankets. I hoped the saleslady would give them the correct information as to what "points" meant.

Not the definition put forth by a sales girl in a store in St. Paul who said they represented the number of sheep it took to produce the wool for each blanket.

In 1779 the markings referred to the exchange value in terms of trade beaver but nowdays refer to the sizes, not the weight per square foot. Therefore, 3½-point designates a blanket 63 by 81 inches and 4-point, 72 by 90 inches. They have always been of pure wool. There is also a 1½-point crib blanket, which is kid stuff.

Hundreds of outdoor handouts which come to my desk, because I am on a sucker list, get the heave-ho, but a recent one on 'How to Forecast the Weather' is different. Filled with color photographs of weather-telling clouds, sunrises and sunsets, it presents a short meteorological course for the rankest outdoorsman. Drop a line to Guidbrod Bros. Silk Co., Philadelphia 7, Pa., for a free copy. You'll be pleased.

LATE, FARTHEST TRAVELLERS

Geese were going north as late as the first week of June to the east of Peterborough in the Quinte forestry district. They were the Brants, the smallest of that large family of far travellers that weigh 2½ to 4 pounds average. Wintering on the Atlantic coast they breed in the Canadian Arctic islands and along the coast of Greenland. They are slow starters since their breeding grounds thaw out so late and by leaving in early June they are able to fly straight through.

♠ ♠ ♠ ♠

A report in Monday's newspaper about the shortage of natural and artificial ice in the Kawarthas for the coming summer season has already filtered down to the States and resulted in some tourists thinking about cancellation of their holiday reservations.

Resort owner Clark Sandercock of Roseneath tells me that he put up 25,000 cakes of one-foot blue ice in eight district icehouses. He and resort owners in that area watched the ice situation like hawks during the winter and were prepared to bring in artificial ice in case their harvest was poor. It wasn't and they didn't.

Canada Packers manufacture 15 tons of artificial ice per day for resale and are willing to supply any resort people at a reasonble rate. As much as 70 tons per day was delivered by truck to the city from a Hamilton plant last summer and there is no chance that any place is going to go short this summer.

Wherever the report came from, and we think it was a wire service story from elsewhere, does not apply to the Kawarthas. Let us keep cool.

Petes Trounce West Yorks 15-5 In OLA Senior Game To Take Over Second Place

Flashing their old-time championship form here last night before 2,500 fans, the Petes' Trailermen trimmed Toronto West Yorks handily by a 15-5 score to take over sole possession of second place. They just led 3-2 in the close first quarter, but started to roll from then on, making it 6-3 at the half and 12-4 going into the last quarter. The Thorpe team finished stronger in every period of the hard-checking but clean OLA senior "A" struggle. The loss dropped the McPhail men to third slot. Just eight penalties were handed out as Referees Piper Bain and Joe Murphy had a surprisingly easy night with these clubs clashing. The Petes drew four of the minor misdemeanors. McPhail and Hildebrand roughed it once, but no fight developed.

STARRED FOR PETES—Jerry Fitzgerald, left, was in on five goals, and young Roger Smith (at right) notched four in a fine showing here last night as Petes' OLA senior squad swamped Toronto West Yorks by 15-5 before a big crowd. The win hoisted them into second spot by themselves in the group standing.

It was a good game but the Yorks disappointed some of the fans by their lack of drive and zip in the last half. On the other hand, they were checked almost to a standstill as the Petes played first-rate lacrosse, and Goalie Moon Wootton wasn't giving away a thing. George Johnson went good in the other net, too, but he saw a lot of hot rubber in every period.

Neither side was short any regulars, and the Trailermen earned the victory all the way. They looked at least 10 goals better than the Toronto team on the night's play as they tore after loose balls, raced in for rebounds, passed well and shot better than they have been doing in recent games. They also checked their rivals closely over the distance. The Yorks looked more tired at the finish.

Probably the picture goal of the night was a slap shot by Don Ashbee on a quick pass from Harry Wipper in the second period. But there were a number of smart markers racked up by the victors. They tried a lot of high, hard shots on Johnson and beat him for a good average of them. Only one of the Petes' goals were tallied with a Toronto player in the sin bin, and none of the loser's five counters came with Peterborough short a player.

ROGER STARRED

Young Roger Smith was in great form to lead the home scoring parade with four fine goals. Two each were counted by Jerry Fitzgerald (who also had three assists in a nifty performance both ways), Harry Wipper, Ike Hildebrand and Ross Powless. The latter, Curly Mason, Nip O'Hearn, Wipper and Bob Thorpe had two assists each. Single tallies went to Russ Slater, Don Ashbee, and Coach Thorpe.

Best for the Yorkers was George Masters—who suffered a bad cut here in the previous game—as he lit the lamp three times. Joe McNulty and big Merv McKenzie (kidded throughout by fans as Mr. Commissioner) got a goal each. An assist apiece was chalked up to Don McPhail, Leo Teatro, Ken Croft and Elmer Lee. Teams:

Yorks: Goal, Johnson; defence, Masters and D'Amico; centre, McNulty; wings, Teatro and Hammond; rover, S. Kapasky; alternates, McKenzie, Digby, J. Kapasky, Lee, Croft, Facto and McPhail.

Petes: Goal, Wootton, defence, O'Hearn and Wipper; centre, Mason; wings, Slater and Powless; rover, Smith; alternates, Nickle, Fitzgerald, Thorpe, Ashbee, Vitarelli, Hildebrand and B. Robinson.

Referees, J. Murphy and P. Bain.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

With the advent of real summer weather, sports' schedules are going full bang, and 'tis a heart-warming scene on the various city parks nightly as hundreds gather for ball, soccer, tennis, lawn bowling, lacrosse, etc. For instance, Monday night has softball on several diamonds about town as well as lakeshore baseball—Port Hope vs. Liflocs—in Riverside, and an OLA junior joust at Miller Bowl, Long Branch vs. the Pats. Those who don't play can spectate. Yes, a lot of evening activity by the athletes during the summer months, and sports are at their best as the players hit the pink of condition in the real warm weather.

A dispatch yesterday from Vancouver said that Western senior lacrosse officials will ignore the CLA and the east and will continue to play six-man box lacrosse, instead of the seven-man game. They will insist that the Mann Cup playoffs feature six-man clubs in Vancouver next September. The goal is made somewhat smaller under the six-man rule, six inches both ways. Secretary Chuck Rowan will poll OLA senior clubs on their ideas of the six-man game. 'Tis said that Mimico, Hamilton and Toronto Yorks are willing to try it, and St. Kitts will try it against weaker clubs, but not the stronger ones. Nor word from Fergus or Brampton on it yet.

Speeds It Up, Bob Says

Petes are willing to give it a try, Prexy Bob Peirson says. He was talking to Manager Bob Curtin, just back from a business trip to B.C., and Bob said that play was faster with but six a side when the teams are at full strength, but more goals are scored when one team is short a man. Seems it is easier for five players (goalies not counted) to watch six rivals than for four to keep five in check, because of the point being left uncovered. The smaller net makes a difference and should be built just to order for a big, agile goalie like Moon Wootton. It occurs to us, also, that the dropping of two extra forwards from a squad would be a saving on groceries, eh?

* * * * * *

Bob Peirson recalls the time back in 1947 when the Petes played nine of their 36 scheduled games—six of them right here—with just six men on the floor at a time. And few fans ever noticed it! They did it to keep the race from being too much a runaway for the powerful Petes as they swept toward the OLA senior "B" crown, an old habit with 'em ere they stepped up to senior "A" ranks. That gave them three complete lines of three men each, instead of the present two front lines of four with one extra forward, two pairs of defencemen and the goalie. Personally, we believe the six-man OLA game should be given a trial right away. After all, they cut out seven-man hockey many long years ago, and the present brand is plenty speedy.

* * * * * *

Rather Surprising, Huh?

Petes' 15-5 win o'er Toronto Yorks here last eve before a hefty crowd was surprising in that it was a very clean tilt betwixt such hot rivals and also because Yorks aren't beaten often by such a score. The leading St. Kitts couldn't do it to them. But then the Trailermen were in top form last p.m. to really earn it, and they looked like they could score a few more if they needed 'em. Precision passing, good shooting, close checking, hustling for loose balls, and fine local netminding—that was the story. Rog Smith whipped in four goals, while Jerry Fitzgerald, Harry Wipper, Ross Powless and the rest all contributed handsomely to the cause. Only George Masters showed much for the vaunted Yorkers. Petes go to Brampton tonight.

A fast track should face the pacers and trotters in the twilight harness races this e'en at Morrow Park. Five races, two heats each, put on by the Peterborough Turf Club, starting at 5.30. Classes are 2.28, 2.25, 2.22, 2.20 and free-for-all, with $1,000 in cash prizes. A sanctioned meet with wagering privileges, and at least 40 horses will be on deck, we're told. Eight listed for the free-for-all. No delays between heats. This will be the last of the harness races here till exhibition time, since Thorncliffe is opening and attracting the cream of the crop in pacing. Mayhap, a meet or two locally in the autumn.

Charges Figures Most Misleading

TORONTO (CP) — George Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, Friday night described as "most misleading" figures given in statements issued at Montreal last week by the National Hockey League board of governors.

The statements dealt with the relationship between the professional organizations and the CAHA.

Dudley said in a statement that a spokesman said one junior club played in 17 games in the playoffs and received only $325 a game, although the gate receipts exceeded $150,000, leaving the inference that the CAHA received the balance of this sum.

"It must be remembered," Dudley said, "that out of the gate receipts the arenas must have their share and the actual amount received by the CAHA from the 17 games referred to was $69,215.56."

Transportation expenses, living allowances and bonuses left the CAHA with the net sum of $32,663.86, he said.

Jackets For Champs

Ray Tanner, president of the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association, insists upon giving credit where credit is due. He states that, while he helped somewhat, he did not give the jackets to the championship bantam Shamrocks earlier this week, as claimed in a sports' item.

"Dave Hayes, Pat Doherty, Mark Lonsberry, Mr. Mahoney and a few more were responsible for raising the money to give the boys their jackets," Mr. Tanner said by way of correction, adding that he merely helped a little and put up the dinner.

Kesselring Retains Ontario Open Crown

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Challenged by the stiffest competition in the 31-year history of the event, 24-year-old Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener Friday fired a sparkling 68 in the last round to retain the Ontario open golf championship.

And in so doing the young golfer, who has been stamped the most promising Canadian amateur of the decade, equalled the event's record by scoring a 54-hole 209 at the Essex Golf and Country Club. He was seven strokes under par 72 for the three rounds.

In winning the Carling Trophy, Kesselring retained the title for the second consecutive year and was virtually assured of a spot on the Ontario Willingdon Cup team.

Winner of both the Ontario open and amateur in 1952, the Westmount-Rockway Club player needs only to win the '53 amateur to make a two-year sweep of provincial golf.

BEHIND KESSELRING

Charging in behind Kesselring in the final round over the solidly-trapped 6,683-yard layout was the American pro contingent which grabbed most of the $2,500 prize list. A record field of 138 played in hot, humid weather.

Rudy Horvath of Windsor Essex, Smiley Quick of Pasadena, Calif., the 1951 champion and Francis (Bo) Wininger of Oklahoma City, Okla., split the first three divisions with identical 210s. Each received $617. Quick set the low mark of 209 two years ago.

Fred Hawkins of Tucson, Ariz., a strong pre-tournament favorite, brought in a 211 to take $225 Pete Fleming of St. Andrews, Ill., collected $125 for his 214 and Brian Charter of Augusta, Ga., earned $100 for his 215.

Despite a slump to third place after second-round play in which he stroked a 73, Kesselring's final 18 was done in a breeze. He went out and in with 34s and collected five birdies. He was over par on only one hole, the 12th with a bogey four. He counted a 69 on the opening round Thursday.

GALLERY OF 800

A gallery of 800 watched the Horvath-Quick duel. They were tied after 36 holes with 138s. On the final 18th hole Horvath sank a 15-foot putt to stay even with Quick. Jimmy Johnson of Detroit Meadowbrook, who made up the trio, turned in a dazzling 67 but ended up in a ninth-place tie with Bobby Burns of Cherry Hill with a total of 216.

Nick Weslock, playing on his home club, was the opening-day leader but playing with Kesselring, he blew badly on his second tour for a 77 and a final 74 for a 219 total. He was the third low amateur. George Eluck of Windsor Lakewood, with a 215 total was second low amateur and finished in seventh place with Charter.

Wininger nearly scored an upset by coming in with a 68 to go with earlier rounds of 69 and 73.

Bill Kozak of Youngstown, N.Y., formerly of Welland, ended with a 72 and a total of 217.

St. Kitts Whips Fergus 18-8

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The leading St. Catharines Athletics trimmed Fergus Thistles 18-8 in a senior Ontario lacrosse game Friday night. The first period ended in a 3-3 tie but St. Catharines took over the lead the next two period 7-5 and 10-5.

Ted Howe paced the St. Catharines club with three goals while D. Frick, Al Frick, Woolley, Davies, Corcoran and Bradshaw each managed two apiece. Top marksmen for Fergus were Don Gear and Don Campbell with two each.

Tonight, Peterborough plays at Brampton; Hamilton at Orillia; and Mimico at St. Catharines.

Olson Wins Unanimous Decision In 15-Round Fight With Young

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Baldish Bobo Olson, a relentless barrage puncher with a masterful left, won the American middleweight championship on a unanimous 15-round decision Friday night by slashing the face of durable Paddy Young into a bloody mask.

Qualifying for an August date with Britain's Randy Turpin for the undisputed world title, vacated by Sugar Ray Robinson, the Hawaiian-born San Francisco boxer proved too sharp and fast for the ever-game youngster from New York.

Olson weighed 159¾; Young 159½.

There were no knockdowns in the fiercely-fought battle that was won decisively by the 24-year-old Olson. Stabbing, hooking, jabbing, Olson did everything but sign autographs on Paddy's kisser as he rolled home like a 3-to-1 favorite should.

Judge Art Susskind scored Olson a lopsided 12-3 winner in rounds. Judge Art Aidala had it 11-3-1 and referee Petey Scalzo 9-4-2, all for Olson.

It was simply a case of too much fighter for Paddy to handle, although the gamester never stopped winging with his free-swinging style. Time after time he crashed home his payoff left to the body, only to run into another Olson barrage.

Olson sliced open a cut under Pady's left eye in the 10th after reddening the spot for several rounds. In the 13th, he cut Paddy around the right eye. With Olson also leaking from a nose bleed, it was a gory finish.

Young's one big chance went winging when he drove home a terrific hook to Olson's jaw in the second round. The blow caught Olson moving in. But Bobo fought right back and shook up Young with a stinging hook to the head just before the bell.

4-Minute Mile Valueless Achievement

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The young man who could crack the four-minute mile—in the hopes of many Britons—may have to delay his big attempt until the British Empire Games are held at Vancouver in 1954.

Chances of 24-year-old Roger Bannister lowering the world mile mark this season appear to have ended with a muscle injury.

In any case, the shy, lanky medical student claims to be not the least concerned about whether he makes it or not.

"I wish people would not talk about this four-minute mile all the time," he told a reporter recently. "It's ridiculous." He thinks the achievement will be "valueless" as far as athletics are concerned.

UNIQUE FEAT

Bannister sees it this way:

"This phantom 15-mile-an-hour performance will be done, not by rigid adherence to a stopwatch schedule, but by the right conditions and the right opposition coinciding with the runner being in the right mood.

"As far as athletics are concerned, it will be quite a valueless achievement."

The comment was a long one for Bannister. It coincided with sympathetic pieces in London papers about the way some persons expect him to smash a record every time he steps on a track.

Bannister himself says his only aim is to win international contests for Britain.

"I have two gears," he says. "Top is when I run really hard and second is when I cruise. I can only run in top gear once or twice a season and obviously that should be in an international or championship competition."

The Oxford medical student, who writes medical examinations this fall, will wind up his season well before then so he can study.

"The exams are far more important than a four-minute mile," he says.

GOOD PACER

The feat that set tongues wagging was a time of 4:03.6 Bannister turned in this spring for the mile. Most persons credited the performance to the opposition supplied by 22-year-old Chris Chataway of Cambridge, a red-headed young man who gets together with Bannister to work out strategy when they are planning an all-out race.

Chataway set a torrid pace and then dropped out, leaving Bannister all primed for a fast finish.

The partnership will be broken up shortly as Chataway goes with a joint Oxford-Cambridge track team to the United States for meets against Princeton, Harvard, Yale and Cornell late in June.

Then the British team is scheduled to meet McGill at an undisclosed date.

Pats Defeated By Gaels In Junior OLA

Peterborough Pats dropped an 18-7 OLA junior "A" decision to the Green Gaels on the Oakville floor last night, ofter beating Gaels 14-7 here in the previous game. The Pats appear to be losing on the road this year and yet beating the same clubs here, a trend noticeable throughout the strong junior lacrosse group. The powerful Long Branch team plays Pats here Monday night, and the locals will have two newcomers, Indians from Oswego, Wilf Logan and Ivan Thomas.

In the hot going, Doug Miller's pack found the hard floor tough to figure and played a too cautious brand of lacrosse, though it was close enough till the late stages. Frank Farley scored three goals for the visitors while Jerry O'Reilly counted one and aided on four. Other goals were by Carl Brioux, Bob Allen and Lionel Bloom. Goalie Hill did well but found it tough to see the ball in the Oakville arena.

Rain Cancels Cricket Play

LONDON (Reuters)—Rain and muggy wickets cancelled play of six first class cricket teams Friday, including the Australians vs. Derbyshire.

Great bowling by Alec Bedser brought a draw for Surrey with Essex, but the feat failed to keep Surrey from losing the county cricket championship leadership to Middlesex.

Middlesex won over Nottinghamshire by 20 runs with minutes to spare.

The Australians and Derbyshire, at Chesterfield, drew when rain and a sodden pitch prevented play on the third day of their match. With 258 runs needed to win Friday, Derbyshire held a slender chance of becoming the first county to beat the Australians since 1912.

Friday's results:

Australian Tourists 197 and 146, Derbyshire 68 and 17 for one; no play Friday because of rain. Match drawn.

Middlesex 210 and 63 for four declared, Nottinghamshire 138 for nine declared and 115. Middlesex won by 20 runs.

Somerset 173 and 288, Royal Air Force 307 and 155 for three; RAF won by seven wickets.

Kent 93 and 254, Leicestershire 131 and 21 for no wicket. Match abandoned—no play Friday because of rain.

Sussex 192 and 168 for nine declared, Worcestershire 195 for six declared and 167 for six. Worcestershire won by four wickets.

Essex 177 for nine declared and 79 for eight, Surrey 228 for nine declared. Match drawn.

Out At The Kawartha

Mad dogs and Englishmen go out in the noon day sun, but you should have seen the number of ladies out to play golf Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. T. McCaig was the winner of the golf ball for low net. Mrs. H. Woodcox was second and also the winner of the Spring Trophy for this week.

The competition was total on par 5 holes and was won by Mrs. H. Woodcox receiving a point. Mrs. F. Dunfield came in second and won the sterling silver spoon.

In the 9-hole section, Mrs. N. Williamson was the winner of a point for low gross. The silver spoon was won by Mrs. D. Griffin and the golf ball by Mrs. Leo Copp. Both these ladies were tied for the last week of the Spring Trophy so there will be five contestants in the 9-hole group.

BUSINESS GIRLS

Forty-five BG's teed of Thursday evening with a number of the girls playing off matches. The low gross was won by Norma Shaughnessy who received the silver spoon and Ruth McKee was credited with a point for this competition. Norma Shaughnessy was the fourth Spring Trophy winner as well, so the competition will be played by the following: Ruth McKee, Mel Mortimer, Evelyn Scott and Norma Shaughnessy. The hidden hole competition was won by Joan Elliott who received the spoon and Eleanor Taylor was given a point.

Special attention is asked for the handicap competition dates. This is now posted in the locker room and the girls participating are asked to note carefully the dates by which each round is to be finished. The girl whose name appears in the lower bracket must contact the girl whose name appears in the upper bracket and thus arrange for the match.

We are to be hosts next Thursday, June 25, to the Business Girls of the Peterborough Golf Club so Captain Dorothy Harle would appreciate a good turnout of our own BGs on this particular night.

Be sure to listen for news about the Kawartha Golf Club on the Saturday evening broadcast.

BOMBERS SIGN CASEY

WINNIPEG (CP)—Officials of Winnipeg Blue Bombers announced Friday the signing of halfback Tom Casey for the 1953 season in the Western Interprovincial Football Union. Casey, playing his fifth year in Canada, is no longer classed as an import.

New York Giants Swamp Braves In 15-1 Triumph

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

The big question around the American League today is "who do you like for second?" It's true that New York Yankees' tremendous first place lead has been shaved to 10 games, but if you look a little deeper into the standings you find that a real battle is developing for the runner-up slot. Only three games separate second-place Cleveland from fourth-place Boston with Chicago White Sox sandwiched in between. Even Washington and Philadelphia can's be counted out of the race for second.

The Senators are five lengths behind the Indians and the Athletics, although now in the midst of a three-game losing streak, are only 7½.

Cleveland has won three in a row as has Boston. The White Sox have picked up three of their last four.

DOWN WASHINGTON

The Indians whipped Washington 4-2 Friday night and the Yankees bowed to Ted Gray and the lowly Detroit Tigers 3-2.

The White Sox defeated Philadelphia 5-2 and the Red Sox beat St. Louis Browns 4-1.

In the National League, the Braves absorbed their worst beating since moving to Milwaukee. New York Giants swamped them 15-1.

Brooklyn broke a four-game losing streak by taking the second half of a doubleheader from Chicago Cubs 7-1 after the Cubs had come from behind to win the free-hitting opener 11-8.

The third-place St. Louis Cardinals kept rolling with a 10-2 triumph over Pittsburgh. Philadelphia whipped Cincinnati 10-3.

BRAVES AHEAD

The day's firing left the Braves 2½ games ahead of Brooklyn and five in front of St. Louis. Pittsburgh replaced Chicago in the cellar.

Gray held the Yankees to five hits in registering his first victory of the season against nine defeats. Gene Woodling's home run after a safe bunt by Joe Collins produced the only New York tallies. Jim Delsing blasted two home runs and Gray himself scored the winning run after singling in the seventh.

Big Mike Garcia breezed to his eighth victory against the Senators who couldn't break into the scoring column until the last two innings.

The White Sox blasted the Athletics rookie Marion Fricano for 11 hits, including a two-run double by Bob Elliott in the ninth, to hand him his second loss against four victories.

Billy Goodman of the Red Sox ran his hitting stream to 15 games with a pair of doubles and a single against the Browns. Roy Sievers' first-inning homer was the first St. Louis run in 20 innings.

The Braves really blew one against the Giants. Three Milwaukee pitchers gave up 16 hits, the fielders contributed two errors and some generally lax play, and the batters were baffled by Sal Maglie, who allowed only four safeties. The one damaging hit off Maglie was a home run by Dave Cole, last of the Milwaukee Hurlers. Bob Buhl drew the loss, his third.

Randy Jackson homered with the bases loaded to put Chicago ahead to stay in the first game of its doubleheader with the Dodgers but his bases-empty blast was the only run the Cubs could get off Russ Meyer in the nightcap.

Robin Roberts won his 11th game in the Phils' victory over Cincinnati. Tommy Glaviano, reserve infielder, hit two home runs and a single for the Phillies.

Careless Driving Charge Costs Orono Man $56

LINDSAY—(ENS)—A 22-year-old Orono man, Roy Strachan, was fined $35. and $21.50 costs when he was convicted on careless driving in court here yesterday, following an accident May 30 when a Lindsay man, his wife and two children, were all injured following a collision on highway 7 east of the town.

According to the evidence brought by the Crown, Strachan had been driving towards Peterborough that day. At the curve of the junction of highways 35 and 7, he had passed one witness Mrs. Nancy Roos, of Omemee, causing her to almost stop her car when he cut in front of her. Mrs. Roos then saw the accident which occurred when Strachan caught up with Douglas Nesbitt of Lindsay, who was driving in the same direction in his old-model car, with his wife and two boys, aged three years and five months.

According to Nesbitt, the first intimation that a car was near came when he heard a roar, then a screeching of brakes. He glanced in the rear view mirror, he said, in time to see a car cutting in behind. Then the car was struck at the rear, went out of control, crossed the ditch on the right side of the highway, grazed some trees, and turned on its left side. Nesbitt admitted that another car had been approaching at the time, which had to swing into the shoulder to avoid the collision. Strachan claimed in his evidence that he had not seen the other car until he was about to pass the Nesbitt vehicle, and then had tried to cut in behind the latter, but was too late, and crashed into the rear of the car when Nesbitt seemed to slow down.

The old-model Nesbitt car was a complete wreck damaged to an estimated at $200, as was the Strachan vehicle. Mr. Nesbitt was least seriously hurt, sustaining only bruised shins, but Mrs. Nesbitt suffered bruised legs and a broken nose while the three-year-old son had a split tongue, and the baby suffered a bad bump on his head, causing hospitalization the next day.

Constable Tom Fitzpatrick of the Lindsay OPP said that skid marks behind the Strachan car reached back for 150 feet, and showed a heavy braking.

Strachan was originally charged with dangerous driving, but Magistrate Gee, in finding him guilty of the lesser count said "this is the way every one drives these days. If we convicted this man of dangerous driving, we'd have to have every motorist in court."

The world's altitude record for gliders is listed as 30,100 feet by W. S. Ivans, Jr., in California in 1950.

City Police Edge Marmora In Bewildering Contest

MARMORA (Staff). — In a thrilling game which saw hockey stars turn umpires, a "grudge" match between two pals, a triple play and a one-handed catch to kill a final inning rally, Peterborough Police edged Marmora 7-6 here Friday night.

The exhibition game was staged for the Marmora Arena artificial ice fund.

The big thrill of the game came in the last of the ninth when with two out and Marmora trailing by one run, rightfielder Mantle slashed a liner over short, one that looked like a sure hit.

In a desperate attempt to spear it, shortstop Jim Healey leaped high in the air, thrust out his hand and caught it. The catch ended the game and cinched the visitors' victory.

IMPORTS

Red Sullivan and Dit Clapper were imported especially for the contest and called an exacting game. It was Clapper's picturesque calls, however, that finally spurred first base coach for the Police Claire McGillen to action..

At one point a Police runner took off from first on a flyball, and as he watched the runner tear along the basepath, Claire shook his head and muttered: "You'll never make it; you'll never make it."

He was right; the runner was tagged and as Clapper called him out, the coach let out a cry of righteous indignation: "What? Out? Oh, no!" He rapidly retreated to his coaching box when the umpire growled at him.

Finally Coach McGillen could stand the gaff no longer. He challenged Marmora Chief Constable Gord Caldwell to take a turn at bat. The Chief agreed and Claire stepped up to the plate.

After taking a couple and fouling off one, the coach changed his tactics, crouched, and laid a butn along the first base line. As McGillen lumbered down to first the ball trickled along the line while the apprehensive fielders watched. It stayed fair, and the runner was safe.

POPPED OUT

Later, Chief Caldwell took his turn. On the first pitched ball he was struck on the back and shortly later popped to the infield.

But afterwards he claimed "Claire told his pitcher to hit me ....it isn't fair." Rumor has it Chief Caldwell lodged an official protest with the impire.

In the sixth with none out the City Police had loaded the bases on Marmora, with Driscoll on first Wainman on second and McGillen on third. Crough hit a fly to the right field and Driscoll took off.

As the ball was caught everybody else took off, too, Wainman just as Driscoll was passing him. They reached third about the same time as McGillen crossed the plate. The ball was thrown to each base by the Marmora team who must have been as bewildered as everyone else and by the time the dust cleared down, everyone was out and no runs had been scored (according to the umpires).

That was one for the analysts.

The lineups:

Police — Healey, Phillip, Armstrong, Louth, McGillen, Menzies, Wainman, Driscoll, Traynor, Crough, Eady and Rodrigue.

Marmora — Kellean, Forrester, Leonard, Kouri, Lavender, Darrh, Young, Moss Trumble, Nickle, Maynes, Begley, McInroy, Mantle, Doran, Wilson, Stewart.

Police	122	010	1—7 9 3
Marmora	400	002	0—6 6 3

Batteries—Police: Phillip, Eady and Armstrong; Marmora: McInroy, Begley and Kellean.

Ex-Nursing Sister Up On 4 Cheque Counts

LINDSAY (ENS) —A former Toronto woman, a returned nursing sister from the war, now receiving a war pension, Wilma Biggins, appeared in Lindsay court Friday and received a week remand on four charges of obtaining money by means of worthless cheques.

The woman protested that her bank manager in Lindsay would vouch for the fact that she often had overdrawn and asked for a remand to June 30. Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan insisted for trial next Friday.

The charges read that the accused had obtained $5 from Robert Hutchins, $10 from a local bank, $6 worth of goods and money from Herb Hardy, all with worthless cheques.

Crown Attorney Jordan intimated that there were four other cheques, for which no charges had been laid as yet, and probably two more in addition to these.

She and the Duke of Edinburgh will fly from Aden to Entebbe airport to begin an African tour and the Queen will declare the dam open the next day.

Quebec Fans Throw Party For Beliveau

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec hockey fans threw a party for Jean Beliveau Friday night but the big, high-scoring centre with Quebec Aces of the Quebec Senior Hockey League kept his future plans to himself.

The 21-year-old Beliveau, who has rejected several offers from Montreal Canadiens of the National League, received a gift, reported to be between $2,500 and $3,000.

Beliveau, who will be married June 27 to 20-year-old Elise Couture of Quebec, remained mum as to whether he would remain for a third season with the Aces.

Olson Believes He'll Beat Turpin On Style

NEW YORK (AP)—Calm, poker-faced Carl (Bobo) Olson believes he will beat Britain's Randy Turpin "on style" and win the world middleweight championship in August.

Shortly after he handed durable Paddy Young an artistic lacing in Madison Square Garden Friday night to capture the U.S. 160-pound crown, Bobo said "I've got the style to beat Turpin."

At first the 24-year-old Hawaiian-born San Franciscan was reluctant to go on the limb and said only: "My style will give Turpin trouble."

GROWS OPTIMISTIC

But he grew more optimistic and said later he would beat him.

"He's awkward, strong, and pretty good," said Bobo of the one-time world champion, "but I believe my bobbing and weaving style will do it.

"I saw the pictures of his second fight with (Ray) Robinson," said Bobo, "and I know my style will give him more trouble than anyone else has."

Both fought Robinson, the retired champion, twice. Turpin outpointed Sugar Ray the first time in one of boxing's greatest upsets and then was stopped by the Harlem dandy in 10 rounds. Olson was stopped by Robinson in 12 and later dropped a close 15-round decision to him.

Royals Club Springfield In 8-3 Triumph

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The league-leading Montreal Royals, after ripping through Springfield Cubs 8-3 Friday night, glanced back to find another International Baseball League club on their trail.

Buffalo Bisons, who had a record of nine victories in their last 13 starts before game-time at Rochester, defeated the Red Wings 5-3 to climb over them into second place behind the Royals.

Paul Foytack, who needed help from Milt Jordan in the ninth, sewed up his third win for Buffalo, allowing six hits.

At Springfield, the Royals bombarded the last-place Cubs for 15 safeties, all off starter Vern Fear. Tom Lasorda allowed Springfield only six for an all-time record of 13 triumphs and only three setbacks against the Cubs.

DIVIDES TWIN BILL

Ottawa split a doubleheader with the Orioles at Baltimore, the Athletics winning the opener 8-3 and losing the nightcap 9-5.

Bill Harrington limited the Orioles to seven hits to win the first game. Baltimore erupted for 14 hits in the nightcap at the expense of Ed Mackinson, while Jack Sanford and Tom Herrin limited the A's to eight blows.

Syracuse Chiefs pleased home fans by edging Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2. Lefty Marvin Williams went all the way to beat the Leafs, giving up seven hits and fanning seven.

ANNE SHARP WINS CROWN

TORONTO (CP)—Anne Sharp of Lookout Point Friday won the 38th Ontario ladies' golf championship, defeating Mrs. M. H. Currer of Toronto St. George's 7 and 5.

It was Miss Sharp's seventh attempt for the crown. Twice she reached the semi-finals and once the final. It was the third time Mrs. Currer reached the final.

In the 36-hole match, Miss Sharp won the first hole, lost the second and then moved ahead in the third and fourth. The 24-year-old physical education instructor was never seriously threatened from then until she won the title by taking the 13th of the second round.

She was five up on the outgoing nine in the morning and six up after 18 holes. Teeing off on the par-72 course in the afternoon, Miss Sharp won three of the first four holes and Mrs. Currer took the seventh, eighth and 10th.

Two holes were halved and to win Mrs. Currer would have had to win each of the remaining six, a task too much for her.

DURELLE KEEPS TITLE

STELLARTON, N.S. — (CP) — Yvonne Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N. B., retained his Canadian middleweight boxing crown with a split decision Friday night over challenger Harry Poulton of Charlottetown in a listless 12-rounder. Cautious Durelle was held at bay by equally cautious Poulton. Action was so slow in late rounds that referee Bobby Beaton warned the fighters repeatedly.

At the end of the bout, in which there were no knockdowns, Durelle was unmarked. Poulton had a slight cut under the nose. Durrelle weighed 159 and Poulton 158.

Year's Efforts Reviewed By Lions Club

BANCROFT—(ENS)—At the closing meeting of the Lions Club Retiring President Mike Burns thanked all members for their co-operation during his year of office.

After the installation of new officers, committee chairmen gave a review of the club's varied activities.

Lion Jack Hattin reported that the blood typing clinic had proved highly successful. More than 1,300 people in the area were typed and local doctors and hospitals now hold a complete alphabetical register.

Health and welfare chairman Alec Smith reported a wheel chair was supplied to a crippled girl, glasses had been provided for three children and free eye examination for a further seven. In numerous cases, free transportation had been provided for sick people and blankets and other necessities for burned out families. A survey of crippled children in the North Hastings area was well under way and a donation had been made to the European relief fund.

Lion Reg Wallis reported that maintenance of the swimming pool and provision for an instructor had cost the club about $500 last year. Twenty swimmers had received Red Cross proficiency certificates. Last year's Christmas parade was the biggest ever and two thousand presents of candy and fruit were distributed to children of the district. Twenty-five needy families received Christmas parcels.

Finance chairman Jack Follis reported a minimum of $2,000 had to be raised each year to carry out club projects.

The TB seals campaign continues to be well supported and Lion Ernie Thomas reported a gratifying bank balance. A mass X-ray campaign had been successful and grants were made to TB sanitariums.

Although no meetings of the club are to be held in July and August, members will be active with the regatta and field day.

Angry Crowd Chases Orator

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A man who played a part in the last stay of execution for atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg was chased out of Pershing Square by an angry crowd Friday night.

Police said Irwin Edelman, 54, a veteran soapbox orator in the Los Angeles midtown park, began a speech with the statement:

"If you are happy about the execution of the Rosenbergs, you are rotten to the core."

This enraged the gathering, estimated by officers at 300, and they chased Edelman across the park, across a street and up to the door of a coffee shop into which he scurried. The crowd didn't follow him.

Police escorted him several blocks from the coffee shop and advised him to stay out of Pershing Square.

It was disclosed last Wednesday that Edelman started the chain of reasoning that led to Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas' stay of execution which was upset by the full court Friday.

Circus Lure Strong, Man Jailed 20 Days

LINDSAY (ENS)—A man who had been convicted of vagrancy last Wednesday, Michael Hines, had promised to get out of town, but he couldn't resist the call of the circus, and returned to court on Friday charged with being drunk at the circus grounds on Thursday.

Chief Hunter arrested the man at the grounds and since the police cruiser was not there, told the man to go to the police station and the chief would follow. The man, surprisingly enough, showed up at the station, and told the desk man he had come to be locked up. Hines, appeared in court on Friday and was sentenced to 10 days for not getting out of town, and another 10 days on the drunk charge.

Socialists Walk Out On Emergency Session

PARIS (Reuters)—The Socialists, largest single party in the National Assembly, today walked out of an emergency conference of political leaders called to try to solve France's cabinet crisis. The country has been without a premier for 31 days.

When the meeting adjourned for lunch, the Socialists said they would not be back in the afternoon, because their proposals in the morning session had been unfaborably received.

Other parties said the Socialists had not made any definite policy proposals, only vague aims.

President Vincent Auriol called the conference Friday. He is expected to nominate one of the 21 as premier-designate after the conference reports back to him tomorrow.

Rev. L. J. Delaney Heads County Film Council

NORWOOD (ENS) — Annual meeting of the Peterborough County Film Council was held Thursday, June 18th at 8 p.m. in the Peterborough Public Library, with the president, the Rev. R. D. Duncanson of Norwood in the chair.

Arising out of the minutes came some discussion on the transportation of the films and equipment. It was moved and seconded that all organizations in the county who use the facilities of the Film Council get their individual members to share in this: Mrs. H. Robertson of the Sixth Line School and Mrs. E. Byman of Zion School, Otonabee, reported on how the equipment was moved in their area. The Secretary read a letter of appreciation to the Film Council from Mrs. Betty Crowe of Lakefield on behalf of the Zion Willing Workers. The Secretary reported that a total of 686 showings to an audience of 25,790 in 43 schools and 36 adult groups was the work of the Council in the past year.

A third circuit was started during the year to cover Lakefield, Bridgenorth, Warsaw and north to Apsley. There is every likelihood of further extention of the Area to be served next year.

The treasurer's report was read by Mrs. W. Sutton and showed receipts for the year as $1251.27 and expenses at $844.40, leaving a balance to start next year's program.

Ron Ward announced the purchase of a new projector and two screens in April, by the authority of the executive.

It was reported that three executive meetings were held during the year, one within each of the three circuits, Westwood, Coldsprings and Burleigh Falls.

Mr. Sinclair, principal of Norwood Public School asked if the equipment would be available to Film Council members during the summer. This led to a motion being put and adopted that equipment may be available for a fee of $1.00.

K. O. Birkin, public school inspector presented the following report of the nominating committee which was accepted by the meeting, with one addition, that the President of the Peterborough City Film Council be an ex-officio member of the County executive: past president, the Rev. R. D. Duncanson, Norwood; president, the Rev. L. J. Delaney, Lakefield; 1st vice president, Wilfred Buck, Norwood; 2nd vice-president E. B. Wright, Nephton; secretary-treasurer, Wellington Sutton, Coldsprings; executive committee: Everett Toms, Havelock; Mrs. William Harris, Havelock; J. J. Calnan, Havelock; Donald Fowler, Woodview; Mrs. Ross Reynolds, Apsley; Mrs. Laura Irwin, Keene; Don McKnight, Peterborough; Harold Lewis, Field man for Federation of Agriculture.

Non-voting directors: R. C. Ward, National Film Board representative; K. O. Birkin, inspector of public schools; circuit managers: No. 1 circuit, Ron Ward; No. 2 circuit, G. LaBrash, Norwood; No. 3 circuit, to be appointed from Lakefield.

William Graff, president of the Federation of Film Councils of Eastern Ontario, was present and addressed the gathering. Mr. Graff referred to the urban and rural work which is going on throughout Eastern Ontario and stated that we are taking leadership in the field of film distribution. He spoke of the work done in the Film libraries and circuits within the Federation, and the award that is to be presented to the Film Council which has utilized to the best advantage the equipment at its disposal. Mr. Graff also referred to several visual education institutes and schools to be operated during the summer at University of Western Ontario and Queen's University, as well as two others in Northern Ontario sponsored by the Atkinson Foundation.

An Australian film, "Timbergetters" shown by Ron Ward was previewed with much interest. The retiring president, R. D. Duncanson thanked all for their interest and co-operation and wished the continuance of the same under the new president the Rev. L. J. Delaney.

GRACIE FIELDS, well-known to Canadian ex-servicemen, will appear next Thursday at St. Peter's auditorium. The Lancashire Lass's visit will be a one-night stand.

600 Drivers Walk Off Job

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Some 600 freight-truck drivers left their jobs Friday in protest against delay in the filing of a report by a conciliation board named a month ago to study wage scales.

I. M. Dodds, president of Local 880, International Brotherhood of Teamsters Union, (AFL), who arrived home today from Winnipeg, said he did not yet know full details of the walkout.

The local covers an area which includes Chatham, Sarnia and London. However, Mr. Dodds said he did not know whether any drivers other than those employed here had left their jobs.

The men started leaving their jobs late Friday afternoon.

Mr. Dodds said he telephoned Eric Taylor, Toronto, chairman of the conciliation board, soon after he arrived and was informed the men had left their jobs. He said Mr. Taylor promised the board's report would be presented to the labor minister early next week.

The local's old agreement with various transport companies expired at the end of 1952.

Polish Underground Dynamites Bridge

BERLIN (AP)—The West Berlin Nacht-Depesche reported today that Polish underground fighters have dynamited a Neisse river bridge and fired on a Soviet army supply convoy. The paper said several East German Communist police were wounded by the Poles when they came to the Russians' aid.

It said the demolished bridge had spanned the Neisse at Zodel, a suburb of Goerlitz, the frontier town divided between Poland and East Germany in 1945.

City Intends To Remedy Sewage Problem

BRANTFORD (CP) — Mayor Howard Winter said Friday night that Brantford intends to remedy the city's dumping of raw sewage into the Grand river by setting asside $600,000 by the end of the year for a sewage disposal plant.

He was replying to charges made at Caledonia Thursday before representatives of 12 municipalities bordering the river, that Brantford was dumping untreated sewage into the river.

"We are doing something to meet this situation," Mr. Winter said. "We realize its seriousness."

He said the site for the disposal plant has been bought and the necessary money bylaw passed. He gave no date for completion of the plant.

Mr. Winter said other communities upriver also made sizable contributions to the river's pollution.

"You can't eat a bass out of the Grand river after July 1," Bob Richardson, president of the Caledonia Hunters' and Anglers' Club, said.

Protest Story In Church Paper

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec-Sherbrooke presbytery of the United Church of Canada has protested publication in The Observer, official United Church journal, of articles "supporting the Communist regime in China."

The protest, against articles written by the Rev. Earl Wilmott, former China missionary, appears in the current issue of The Observer. The protest said the presbytery believes harm will come unless another view regarding the Church in China is presented.

"The views of the author of these articles have been made known by his often expressed sympathies for the Communist movement as he saw it operating in China," the protest said.

In one article, Mr. Wilmott said that since the coming of the Communists, the Chinese "now see Jesus as a worker, one who was intensely concerned for the people and sharply opposed to their exploiters—the Romans, Herod and his court, the Sadducees and Pharisees; one who took sides in the people's struggle, encouraging the people and scathingly denouncing the privileged rich; one who said he came not to bring peace but conflict; one who saw in the oppressed masses the hope of the world."

The protest said the statement is illustrative of the brilliancy with which the article mixes truth and half-truth with positive error to present a plausible argument.

One Boy Knows Parents Executed

TOMS RIVER, N. J. (AP)—Ten-year-old Michael Rosenberg knows his father and mother have been electrocuted as atom spies, but his six-year-old brother, Robert, hasn't been told yet.

Neither of the two boys heard the actual news of the execution Friday night. Bernard Bach, owner of the farm where the two boys have been boarding, took them for a ride so that they would not be near any radio or television sets. He said he would break the news to Robert "in easy stages."

But Michael heard an afternoon news bulletin which interrupted a television broadcast of a baseball game.

Michael said, "That's it, that's it." Bach reported, "Good-bye, good-bye."

Windsor Bus Strike Pending

WINDSOR (CP)—Barring a new and satisfactory offer by Sandwich-Windsor and Amherstburg railway officials before the strike deadline, city buses will grind to a halt at 4 a. m. Monday, June 22.

This was the decision reached early this morning by members of Local 616 of the Street Railwaymen's Union, representing all 350 employees of the bus company at a special meeting held at Local 200 hall.

Presented to 85 per cent of the total membership was a list of company offers. Of the 11 items listed on a condensed list just one, an offer to pay $500 annually toward the cost of settling grievances, met with approval.

An hourly increase of nine cents for all hourly-rated employees was turned down in favor of the original 12½ cent request.

Company officials were not immediately available for comment on the union move.

Mrs. T. P. Timlin

The Rev. V. M. Gilbert officiated, and the pallbearers were Edward and William Dines, Percy Grieves, Nuton MacIntosh, Bert Brown, and Milford Tucker. Burial was in the Plainville Cemetery.

For Parents Only

Father Is The First Hero In Eyes Of His Child

By NANCY CLEAVER

"I want to grow up and be a man like my daddy!" Rufus Jones once overheard his only son, Lowell, say to a little group of his playmates when they were discussing what they wanted to be when they were big. Lowell never grew to manhood but died at the age of eleven. His portrait hung above Dr. Jones' mantel in his study at Hartford. This father, 40 years after his boy's death wrote about overhearing his little lad saying he wanted to be like him:

"Few things in my life ever touched me as those words did, or have given me a greater impulse to dedication. What kind of a man was I going to be, if I was to be pattern for my boy?"

FIRST HERO

This is a sobering question for any man. A father is the first "hero" in a little child's eyes. What boastful words kindergarten children can say to their chums about their fathers!

"My daddy is the strongest man in our town! He could beat your daddy without even trying!"

"We've got the fastest car in our block. You should see my dad drive!"

Not until most youngsters are approaching adolescence do they look at their parents with critical eyes. Then, in their desire to prove to themselves and the world how mature, how independent they are, they begin to see all kinds of things about their fathers and mothers which they would like to change. Mark Twain once remarked: "When I was a boy of 14, my father was so ignorant I could hardly stand to have the old man around. But when I got to be 21, I was astonished at how much the old man had learned in seven years!"

ATTITUDE TO WORK

Fathers color their children's attitude to work. A son or a daughter quickly senses whether or not dad gets satisfaction out of his job, even with all the petty irritations which are found in every vocation. They also absorb much of his attitude of respect or disdain for hard manual toil. Masaryk, that great leader in Czechoslovakia, followed a wise plan. He once explained to a friend:

"I take my boys every year to the blacksmith's shop where my father worked. I place their hands on the anvil on which he hammered. I then ask them to repeat after me their desire to be men like my father, that is my greatest wish for my little sons."

A son or a daughter gets their first pictures of what marriage is like, and what a home may be, from the life in the family. The greatest education for happy married life takes place when a boy and girl see mother and dad working together as partners, still in love with each other, and with a zest for life. It is not by chance that social workers have discovered that frequently young men and women from broken homes have little stability in their own marriages.

One of the greatest gifts a father can give to his son is to share his leisure with him. In one of the outstanding recent biographies "A Man Called Peter", the story of Peter Marshall by Catherine, his wife, published by McGraw and Hill, there is a delightful chapter "Man wi' His Laddie". In it she quotes from one of her husband's lectures:

"I shall not soon forget the indictment I heard in our little boy's prayer one night. "Thank you, God," he prayed, "that you let my daddy stay home this one evening!"

ONE OF THE FINEST GIFTS a father can give his children is to share his leisure by going for a walk or doing other things with his children.

Sutton Doctor Dies At 88

SUTTON—Dr. Charles Thompson Noble II died here Thursday at the age of 88. A general practitioner in the Sutton area for more than 50 years, he died at the house where he, his father and his son practised since 1856.

Dr. Noble was born in Sutton and studied at McGill University. He took charge of his father's practice and retired himself at the conclusion of the Second World War.

Dr. Noble was an active sportsman until his death. Only a week ago he took part in a fox hunt. He was a member of St. James Anglican Church where funeral services will be conducted today.

Surviving are his wife, six daughters, Mary, Della, Mrs. J. D. Clune, Mrs. J. H. Lawrence, Mrs. H. Foster and Mrs. Oughtred, and two sons, Stewart and John.

Rescue Child 2, Teetering On Ledge

SUDBURY (CP)—Police told a court today how they rescued a two-year-old child which was teetering on a window ledge while its parents were away from their apartment.

Doors to the apartment were locked. When officers managed to get in they found a baby sleeping in a crib.

Mrs. Elizabeth Horvath, 27, got a year's suspended sentence for leaving her children unattended.

America Shamed Forever Bloch Says Of Execution

By ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON (AP)—"And so," said the voice on the hotel room radio, "Julius and Ethel Rosenberg are dead."

"And so," rasped the furious man in the tan suit, slouched in a chair across the room, "America is shamed forever!"

Lawyer Emanuel Bloch had just heard the news—the young couple he defended in three years of legal manoeuvring, with seven appeals to the Supreme Court, had died in the electric chair as spies who conspired to slip atomic secrets to the Russians.

Bloch took it bitterly, defiantly.

He vowed that "we"—and he didn't explain who "we" were—would drive from power those who failed to halt the electrocution. He mentioned two names: President Eisenhower and Attorney-General Herbert Brownell.

CROWD FEELS DIFFERENTLY

A few blocks away, in Lafayette Square across from the White House, a growing crowd in the sultry June evening reacted differently.

Cheers rang out and auto horns blared as the time of the Rosenbergs' electrocution arrived. There was one demonstration at the appointed hour (8 p. m. EDT), another when word came over portable radios that the sentences actually had been carried out.

Past the White House, in a seemingly endless stream, crawled car after car. In the park across Pennsylvania avenue police estimated 7,000 persons gathered.

And across the street from them, in front of the White House itself, some 400 men and women trudged back and forth, bearing dispiritedly the clemency-pleading signs that have grown familiar.

BURST INTO TEARS

Some of the pickets burst into tears once the news flashes made the rounds. A brief protest demonstration followed.

Then the pickets neatly stacked their signs at the foot of a tree that grows through the pavement, and silently marched away.

Earlier, police had some trouble keeping anti-Rosenberg demonstrators away from Bloch when he appeared at the White House during the last hours before execution time.

Eisenhower already had made a final refusal to intervene.

But Bloch went to the White House anyway, bearing a letter Mrs. Rosenberg wrote from the death house. The letter begged the president to consult Mrs. Eisenhower and, by staying the executions, prevent the "destruction of a small unoffending Jewish family." The Rosenbergs were the parents of two young boys.

FORGET LETTER

In the confusion around the main gate, Bloch forgot to leave the letter. He went back a minute later and gave it to the guards.

Then, having lost his final appeal to the Supreme Court and his last minute efforts to get a stay from several individual justices, Bloch took a taxi back to his hotel.

"That ends it," he said.

Shortly afterward, the White read the letter, but still declined House announced Eisenhower had to intervene.

Can Impose Martial Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—A radio commentator says the U.S. joint chiefs of staff have told Gen. Mark Clark it is all right with them if he imposes martial law in South Korea. But Pentagon officials said today they could find no indication of such action.

The White House declined comment on the statement by Frank Edwards of the Mutual Broadcasting System Friday night that Clark had sought clearance from the joint thiefs and received it.

Edwards said that if Clark imposes martial law, "it takes the initiative away from Syngman Rhee, reduces Rhee to a minor figure."

Rhee, the South Korean president, has directed the freeing of some 26,000 North Korean prisoners of war. The action has been strongly condemned by the United States and other Western powers.

Murder 60 Villagers

JAKARTA, Indonesia (Reuters) Guerilla bands swept down from mountain hideouts 150 miles south of Jakarta last week and murdered 60 villagers, the government announced Friday. The bandits terrorized four villages, looted at will and burned down 800 native dwellings, then fled back to the mountains when troops were rushed to the scene. More than 3,500 Indonesians were homeless after the raids.

Pledge Support

ANKARA (Reuters)—Greece and Turkey today pledged all-out support of the Atlantic Pact and their friendship agreement with Yugoslavia, as Greek Prime Minister Alexander Papagos ended his state visit here. In a joint statement the two countries promised to "extend their efforts unremittingly" to build up collective security under the two pacts.

Discuss Security

BERMUDA (Reuters) — James Hagerty, White House press secretary, and officials of the British and French embassies in Washington arrived here Friday in a presidential plane to discuss security and other arrangements for the coming Big Three meeting. Paul Gorebooth, information chief at the British embassy, and Roger Seydoux, of the French embassy, were members of the party.

Normal School Results

The Minister of Education announces the examination results of the teacher training course given at the Normal School, Peterborough. Candidates who failed or who have been granted provisional standing will receive statements giving their marks and the conditions under which they may complete their standing. Extramural candidates will be informed of their results by letter.

A student who failed on the Normal School examinations may, on the recommendation of the local inspector concerned, be engaged after August 1 on a letter of permission by a School Board, which, after due advertisement, has been unable to obtain the services of a fully qualified teacher.

FAMED LOVERS' LANE—One of the most famed lovers' walks in Canada, the 100-year-old byway hugging the cliff behind the Parliament buildings at Ottawa, is falling into the Ottawa river and becoming overgrown with bushes and trees. For years romantic couples found sanctuary on one of the rustic benches lining the walks of wandering along the shady path. It was closed to the public before the Second World War because parts of the walk were crumbling into the river. But its traditions of earlier romances linger on.

Father's Day Should Mean Far More Than Presents

By DOROTHY DIX

What does Father's Day mean in your household? Is it just a day when Dad receives a few more ties that he may or may not like? Probably the answer is "Yes!"

It should, however, represent a great deal more. In fact, all the special "days" scattered through the calendar should mean far more than the sending of greeting cards and the giving of presents. The ideal purpose would be served if all concerned made it a day of inventory. Dad himself should go in for a little self-analysis and face the honest fact that he could perhaps do something more to improve his role of parent. The rest of the family could likewise make profitable use of the occasion with the possible realization that Father's place in the household could be accorded more honor and consideration.

FATHER RULED IN BYGONE TIMES

The pendulum of domestic life has made a wide arc in the matter of fatherhood. Time was when Father was the undoubted head of his household, the autocrat whose opinion alone ruled every decision, every activity, every facet of family life. With changing times, it is now more likely that Mom wields the sceptre of authority. Even Father's traditional role of breadwinner is often shared by Mother; few things are left solely to the paternal field.

It's time the pendulum came to rest at central focus, with Father restored to a more active part in the life of his family. Mother should relinquish part of her hard-won pre-eminence, and help give her husband more prestige in the eyes of his children.

Part of the breakdown of paternal authority is Father's fault; through sheer inertia he has loosed the reins of home government to the point where it may be difficult to regain them. For the general welfare, everyone should pitch in and try to balance the relative importance of both parents.

MOTHER'S ROLE

Mother's role of training her children is definite; hers is the concern of health, manners and morals. Father's share should be as important. He should be the teacher of good fellowship, the sports director, the leader of activities in the great outside world. Father, whose daily routine includes meeting new people, getting along with business associates—often under trying conditions—is the one to teach self-reliance and poise, to help overcome shyness. He should help in his children's spiritual growth, by attending church with them each Sunday. This is definitely not a role for Mother alone. It must be shared.

EXCURSIONS WITH DAD

Outings with Dad should not be annual, or semi-annual occasions. They should be enjoyed as frequently as possible. Surely once a week most fathers could take children out—for a fishing trip, a boat ride, a ball game. These masculine activities are most profitable with the man of the household. Daughters should be taken on these excursions as well as sons, since girls must learn to get along equally well with both sexes. The girl who has learned to share in a man's world, will never be a tongue-tied, self-conscious adolescent.

So build the Father's Day program in your house around the essential fact that Dad is more than the breadwinner. Make a Father's Day resolution in your home, that all three units of the family—father, mother and children—will unite in a family trinity, guided by God, and a parent at each side mutually sharing the responsibilities and rewards of raising children.

Most Famous Lovers' Walk Deserted For Highways, Cars

By ANTHONY DICKASON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Lovers these days prefer highways and autos to byways and grottoes.

Indicative is the most famed lovers' walk in Canada, an interesting three-quarter mile path hugging the face of the cliff behind the Parliament Buildings here.

For years the many rustic benches lining the walk were popular sitting-out spots. Some folks merely meandered along the undulating path that hangs, ribbon-like, on the southern cliff slope of the Ottawa river.

BANNED TO PUBLIC

Today the walk is banned to the public; cut off from local citizens and interested tourists by locked iron gates. Broken wine and beer bottles scar its length. In places the walk has tumbled into the river below. For this reason it was closed prior to the war as "dangerous."

But even before this, popularity of the "walk of the lovers" had waned. Oldtimers say advent of the horseless carriage spelled partial doom. People, in or out of love, became disinterested in the natural loveliness of the close-to-home walk.

In 1937, a local paper commented that the walk was "not what it used to be 25 of 30 years ago."

However, not all its appeal was forgotten. In 1944, former Prime Minister Mackenzie King, always a lover of nature, wrote the public works department inquiring about the path. He was told it had been closed for some years and that repair work was not considered economically feasible.

Each year snow and ice plus natural erosion have crumpled the natural ledge. From an original width of six to 12 feet it shrank in places to less than four feet. This, together with the uncontrolled growth of trees and bushes, made the path nearly impassable.

RAFTSMEN'S SHORT-CUT

A hundred years ago the big, bare feet of sturdy raftsmen trod the walk—a short-cut to their homes in Lowertown, today's market place—from their job of ferrying timber down through Chaudiere rapids, a mile or so upstream.

Many years later when Ottawa was chosen as Canada's capital by Queen Victoria, Hon. William Macdougall, public works minister in Sir John A. Macdonald's cabinet, really got the walk started as a public institution.

In his zeal for his new office he climbed down to inspect a new ventilation shaft being built below the cliff's lip for the main government building on the hill, the raftsmen's path stirred his imagination. Work to make the path a public one started and was carried on by subsequent administrations.

Government officials today admit the walk was a delight and an early-day tourist attraction of distinct value. They see little possibility of such days being relived.

"It's a pity," said one, "but even if the walk was rebuilt, who'd use it? Lovers sit in cars today, or theatres, or sit and sip cocktails. Simple things like trees, a view of the river, have lost their appeal."

When Taking The Baby On A Trip Use These Hints And Suggestions

Dust off the old valise, dig out the road maps, and check the air and train schedules. Summer vacation time is here.

Owing to a marked scarcity of willing relatives to leave the children with, these half-fare travelers are apt to have a lot to do with making the trip easy or frantic.

Here are some tips one mother learned the hard way—or gathered from travel experts—which may smooth your vacation:

1. Bore the reservation clerk with the fact that you're taking a baby. Repeat it several times so that no one will dare pretend to be surprised when you ask for the bottle cooler at the airport or the webbed guard for your baby's berth on the train.

2. Ignore the old globe-trotters' rule to travel "light." Take everything you think you'll need for the children, because you probably will. Favorite bedtime toys or blanket treasures, and friut and crackers to nibble on may crowd your clothes out of the suitcase but they'll keep smiles longer on little faces.

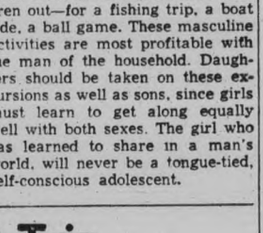
3. Make it a carpet-bagger's caravan if lack of luggage is a problem. You can stuf a lot of paraphernalia in a stout laundry bag. Let the kids tote their own toys in sturdy marketing bags. Avoid the big, back-breaking heavy suitcase since you'll probably carry it. Two smaller lighter ones are better. Don't try to carry anything that doesn't have handles. String-wrapped packages always fall apart as you dash down the ramp.



4. Pack the old first-aid kit with the standard medicines you use for colds, cuts, and stomach upsets. Certain types of nose drops, for example, are sold only on prescription and if you're away from home that poses problems. If Junior tends to get car-sick, ask your family doctor before you leave about medicine to control all types of motion sickness.

5. Leave the house key with a neighbor, and ask her to check windows, stove, iron, and ice-box after you've left. This saves the harassing "Did you remember?" game that usually starts 50 miles from home.

6. Don't keep the children cooped up too long. Fidgets, cranky quarrels, and cramped muscles all seem inter-related. If you are travelling by car, stop for a midday romp at a park, playground or field. We stop for the day at 4 p.m. (it is easier to find night's lodging then and leaves daylight playtime). On train or plane, let them walk up and down the aisle. Other passengers may give you black looks but this is your vacation. Just keep them in check.

7. Take a few garbage bags to serve as wastebaskets. A car, or plane seat gets unbelievably messy in an unbelievably short time. A bag into which all crumbs, paper scraps, and so on, can be dumped helps preserve a semblance of order.

8. Be self-sufficient with the baby's food. Carry four or six full bottles to be refrigerated on train or plane. Take extra sterile bottles with sterile water in them and unopened small cans of evaporated milk to use in an emergency. Tuck in a jar or two of strained food.

9. Pin a shoe holder—the kind with pockets—to the back of the front seat to keep tissues, tops, sunglasses, and post cards together.

10. Don't expect too much help from the airline stewardess or the train's nurse. She may have many mothers to consider. She'll refrigerate the baby's bottles and warm them when needed. But you may have to make your own arrangements to feed yourself, which is a neat trick when you're holding a squirming baby.

Use these bits of information, and I'm sure your vacation will be happier and much more relaxing.

Bishop Performs Confirmation, Dedicates Gifts

NORWOOD—(ENS)— The Rt. Rev. Alton Ray Beverley, Bishop of Toronto visited Christ Church Wednesday evening and conducted the rite of confirmation.

He chose for his text: "Choose you this day whom ye will serve." He emphasized the need of a clean-cut choice of whom we will serve and the need of an immediate and personal choice. Confirmation is the choice that many are making to enable them to carry out Christian acts and ideals.

Organist was Miss Eleanor Watson of Peterorough. The church was decorated with red and white flowers. There were a great many members and friends present from outside points as the service was for the Anglican churches of Havelock, Westwood and Norwood.

Those confirmed were: Malcolm Pacey of Westwood; William Bullock, Bruce Bullock, Gail Hopkins, Mrs. A. G. Spring and Mrs. C. Hopkins of Norwood; Gail Sanderson, Terry Carleton, Rosemary Carleton, Peter Ellis, Gordon Bell, Mr. A. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. G. Pollock, Mrs. D. Johnston and Mrs. T. Anderson of Havelock.

100TH ANNIVERSARY

Bishop Beverley commented on the progress that the congregation of Christ Church had made during the past years. He spoke of how much the church had been beautified by the redecorating which was completed last year. Christ Church parish has become self-sustaining, truly a great step forward in the life of a congregation he said. In recent years the organizations of the church have made a great deal of progress in membership and work.

Three of the largest groups of the church presented 100th anniversary gifts to the church. The gift of the Parish Guild was a chalice and paten; the Girls' and Junior Auxiliaries gave two cruets and the Sunday school a baptismal shell. The Bishop received these beautiful gifts for the church and dedicated them to the use of the congregation.

After the service, members and friends of the congregation were invited to the town hall for a reception tendered to Bishop and Mrs. Beverley.

The tables were decorated with flowers. Mrs. C. Copp and Mrs A. F. Dickenson poured tea and members of the Parish Guild served refreshments.

A birthday cake, commemorating the 100th birthday of the church was cut by Mrs. Beverley.

Burden-Bearing And Burden-Sharing

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Wherever groups of Christian converts gathered together in various cities, they became the "Churches" of the New Testament —at Ephesus, Corinth, Phillippi and other places. They were won to the new faith chiefly through the missionary work of St. Paul, and seem to have been bound together in a very close fellowship, either living together or in close and mutually-helpful relationships.

'Under such conditions the sort of problems quickly arose that have done much to wreck most community - experiments which often begin with much faith and idealism.

One of these was "Brook Farm," famous now because of the distinguished New Englanders who participated in its hopes and failure.

But the reason it did fail was due to failure of individual members to share sincerely in the vision and ideals of the founders. They did not measure up to the faith, courage and sacrifice that might have achieved success.

It was in this respect that failure, insofar as there was failure, soon occured among these early Christian groups. Much of the comment and counsel, as well as the call for strong disciplinary measures, appears frequently in St. Paul's Epistles to the Churches.

The gospel of love and brotherhood, together with the conditions under which the Christians lived in pagan and hostile environments, called for mutual aid to a high degree. Paul put the obligation very plainly: "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ" (Galatians 6:2).

But Paul, himself a self-supporting worker, saw that some were taking advantage of this fine doctrine to take advantage of their well-disposed brethren by shirking their own responsibilities. So, he declared, almost in the same breath, "For every man shall bear his own burden." "Let every man," he said, "prove for his own work."

That this situation was not confined to the Galatians is evident in various other passages. In II Thessalonians 3:10 Paul, noting that there were among them disorderly persons and busybodies, decalred quite roundly that if there were any who didn't work, neither should they eat.

The world in general, possibly making too much of some of the things that Paul wrote that Pter said were hard to understand (II Peter 3:16), has made too little of these plain principles of personal and mutual responsibility that are as valid and vital for social welfare and modern democracies as they were, for the small groups of Christians to whom Paul wrote. Paul was a great believer in Christian social action, and he set down its most distinctive principles with a clear and unerring hand.

Four Confirmed At Apsley

APSLEY—(ENS)—On Wednesday evening Bishop Wilkinson administered confirmation at St. George's Anglican Church.

He was assisted by Cannon Walter Gilling. The four condidates were presented by the new rector the Rev. Willian Boddy.

The candidates were: Beverly Alphy of St. George's, Aileen Tanner of St. Stephen's and Murray McColl and Wayne Holden, both of St. George's Church.

Several adults assisted the usual junior choir in the hymns and an Anthem.

Following confirmation the bishop dedicated new altar drapes and chancel furnishings. The church was decorated with cut flowers and potted plants.

At the conclusion of the service a conference was held by Bishop Wilkinson, Canon Gilling and Mr. Boddy with lay delegates and wardens from the four churches in the parish.

Lunch was served to the visiting clergy, lay delegates, and church wardens by members of the Church Guild. Bishop Wilkinson was accompanied by his wife.

The Peterborough Sea Cadet corps under Lt. Stewart Gardiner left early today for an overnight visit to Kingston. They were taken down in several large 50th HAA trucks.

BIG SALMON

Thomas Hassall of RR 3, Bancroft, while vacationing with Mrs. Hassall in Nova Scotia, landed a 20-pound salmon at Sherbrooke recenlty. Mrs. Hassall reports a large number of fish have been taken on the trip.

TO BE ORDAINED

Rev. Thomas Francis Hoey of Campbellford will be ordained Sunday by James Cardinal McGuigan in Toronto. The Cardinal will hold the ceremony in the Chapel of the Jesuit Seminary and will ordain two other Canadian Jesuit seminarians at the same time.

SIGN TELLS ALL

If speeders get nipped coming south on Highway 7 to enter the city, it won't be the fault of an anonymous sign painter. In letters about 14 inches high, he has painted SPEED TRAP near the first of the yellow stripes motorists notice when they come towards Peterborough.

PARENTS NIGHT

Peterborough Air Cadet squadron 534 is holding its annual parents night Tuesday in the horticultural building in the exhibition grounds to wind up its season. Besides a display of equipment and skills learned there will be refreshments and dancing.

Newspapers Big Bargain

MONTREAL (CP)—One of the public's biggest bargains today is the reading content of the daily newspaper, C. Arthur Weis, president of the Institute of Newspaper Controllers and Finance Officers, said Friday at the institute's closing meeting.

"Most newspapers, despite rising costs that have increased the price of almost every other commodity in the last few years, still sell for the proverbial nickel," he said.

Newspaper profits generally were declining. Most publishers were so public-service conscious they often operated at a loss to serve their readers.

"Self-preservation demands publishers operate their newspaper on a healthy financial basis, he said. Publishers must be more conscious of costs and sources of revenue if they are to stay in business.

"Controllers can contribute by improving methods of cost analysis and determination in order that the publisher be accurately informed."

W. E. Soles, vice-president of Anglo-Canadian Paper Mills, Quebec, said supply and demand for newsprint in 1952 were about balanced.

Toronto Family Hurt As Car, Truck Crash At Young's Pt.

Five Toronto people were injured—three of them had to be treated in Civic Hospital—when their car collided with a dump truck loaded with sand about a mile west of Young's Point at 11:30 a.m. today.

Driver of the car was Mrs. Howard Vear, Toronto.. Injured were her mother-in-law Mrs. R. J. Vear 21 Golf Club Road, Toronto, who suffered lacerations on her head and face and had a bruised jaw; Mrs. Violet Cass, 283 Logan Avenue, Toronto, who had cuts on the top of her head and on the upper left arm; Mrs. Howard Vear's son Douglas, 1½ years, who was cut on his right side near the kidneys. Bobby Vear, a nephew of Mrs. Howard Vear, was not injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Vear were staying at a cottage on Katchewanooka Lake. Mrs. Vear went with the others into Lakefield for groceries, leaving her husband at the cottage.

Driving on a road at the north end of Katchewanooka, where the road has several curves, Mrs. Vear met a Frank Coyle dump truck driven by William Miller of Young's Point, and loaded with sand.

Mrs. Vear apparently put on her brakes and skidded broadside into the truck. The whole left side of the car was wrecked. All the passengers of the car were taken to hospital by Anderson's ambulance of Lakefield.

Constable George Louth investigated.

Soldiers Send Home Great Many Parcels

IN KOREA (CP)—Canadian soldiers in Korea send home more parcels than they get.

You can take that from Lieut. Albert Lautenschlager of Waterloo, Ont., officer in charge of the 25th brigade's field post office.

He says the situation really isn't surprising. The troops can get just about anything they want here. On the other hand, they find Korean and Japanese goods and souvenirs attractive and cheap so they send a lot of them home.

Summer Time

Summer, officially at least, is coming in on schedule. Precisely at 11 a.m. Sunday, June 21, Eastern Daylight Time, the sun will enter the Tropic of Cancer, the weatherman's indication that summer has arrived. Ordinary citizens who sweltered Friday and today are prepared to swear that summer came along ahead of schedule. Today started off at a comparatively mild 76 and the thermometer kept climbing from there.

Oldest Citizen In District Mrs. E. McGinnis, 104, Dies

WARKWORTH (ENS)—The district's oldest citizen, Mrs. Eliza McGinnis, died Friday night at the home of her daughter near here. Mrs. McGinnis was 104 on New Year's Day.

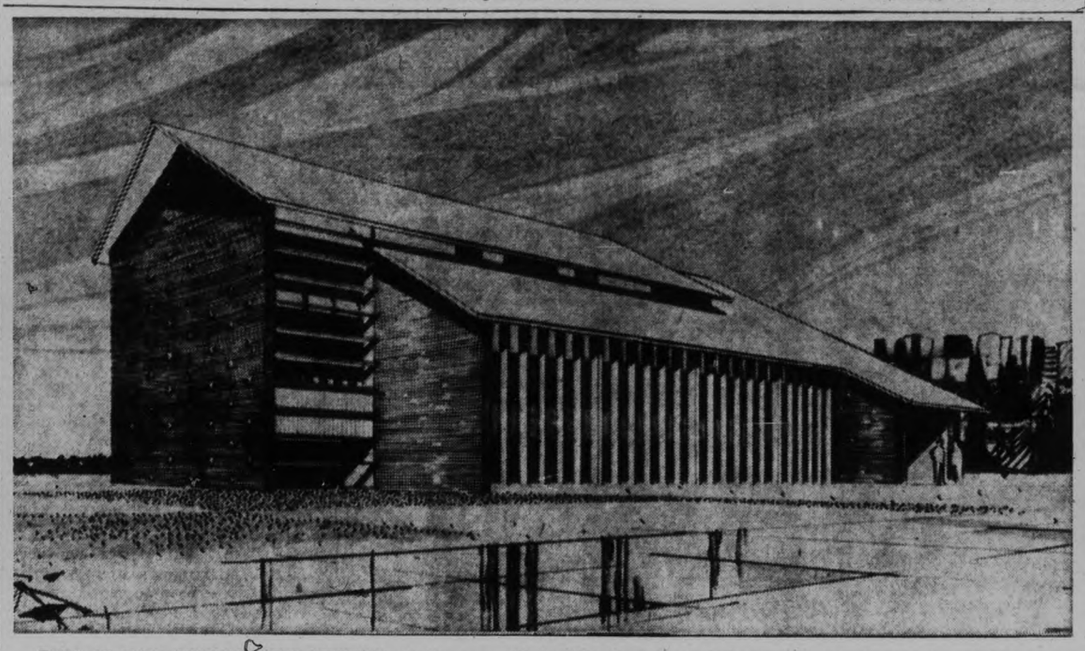
She had been in failing health since the new year, and in the past six weeks her condition worsened.

For the past two years, Mrs. McGinnis had lived with her daughter, Mrs. Edmund Pratt, at Oak Heights, west of the village. Before that, she had lived in Maberly, near Perth, where she will be buried.

BORN IN CANADA

Mrs. McGinnis was born in Camden, near the village of Wilton, northwest of Kingston, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Bertram. She was married in 1874 to George McGinnis, who died in 1927.

Mr. McGinnis had been a foreman on the Kingston-Pembroke railroad and had supervised its construction. Later he worked with the Grand Trunk Railway until his retirement.



Mrs. McGinnis is survived by five of her nine children. Two—George of Perth and Mrs. Duncan Avery of Maberly—died recently.

Living are Mrs. George Fife (Maude), Charles McGinnis, both of Maberly; Mrs. William Ennis (Margaret) of Fallbrook, Mrs. Edmund Pratt, and Arthur of Kingston. There are 27 grandchildren and 26 great-grandchildren.

An Anglican, Mrs. McGinnis had attended Warkworth Free Methodist Church in recent years. Funeral service will be held Monday at 2 p.m. in Lanark, with the Rev. A. B. Moffatt of Marmora Free Methodist Church officiating. Burial will be in Maberly cemeterly.

WARKWORTH'S CENTENARIAN, Mrs. Eliza McGinnis, 104, died Friday night at her daughter's home in Oak Heights, west of the village. She had been in failing health since the new year. Her birthday was January 1. Surviving are five children, 27 grandchildren, and 26 great-grandchildren. (Examiner Staff Photo).

THIS IS THE ARCHITECT'S SKETCH of the new St. Giles' Presbyterian Church on Park St. south. The church will be set north and south on the lot and the vertical louvred windows will face Park St. The rear of the church with the chancel is to the left while the entrance and narthex is to the right. The Sunday school is in the basement, but to overcome a basement feeling, the entrance at street level is half way betwen the main and Sunday school floors.

New Contract Affected 7,000 Workers

This week the 1953-54 contract between the Canadian General Electric Company and the Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (Indep.) the bargaining agents for 7,000 production workers in Peterborough and Toronto, was signed in Toronto.

General wage increases of six cents an hour for men, and seven cents an hour for women, are retroactive to April 27.

George Wallace, president of Local 524, UE,said today that further wage increases through classification adjustments are now being calculated.

EXTRA $70,000

Art Hunter, business agent for Local 524, calculated that the backlog of wage increases-both general and classification adjustments-would mean an extra $70,000 in the pay envelopes of the 3,100 production workers when they draw their vacation cheques on July 17. The new rates of pay begin next week.

The backlog per worker on the general increase should be $20.64 for men and $24.08 for women when they draw their vacation cheques, Mr. Hunter said. Classification adjustments per worker should range from $7 to $65.

"These increases should increase the purchasing power of the CGE production workers by $500,000 over a 12-month period," said Mr. Hunter.

CHANGES MADE

Other contract changes:

The cost-of-living bonus of nine cents an hour incorporated into all day rates and later into all piecework rates;

A 40-hour work week instead of the present 43 hours, effective Jan. 1, 1954. And a five-per cent wage increase to maintain take-homepay.

One year contract running from March 27 to March 27, 1954.

Also fringe benefits including a hospitalization and surgical care plan for dependents of employees, improved vacation plans and improved seniority.

The male labor rate, effective April 27, was $1.35 an hour and this will be increased seven cents at the beginning of 1954; female rates $1.16 and $1.22

Three Monkeys Flee Circus At Lindsay

LINDSAY (ENS).—An amusing sidelight to the visit of the King Bros. and Cristiani circus to Lindsay came with the efforts of circus hands, police and firemen to retrieve three monkeys who escaped from their handlers when they were being washed on Thursday.

Two of the monkeys were caught in short order. The other one was thought at first to have disappeared under the wooden grandstand at the exhibition grounds, and the search centred there for some time.

Late Thursday afternoon Corporal Ken Dennis of the Lindsay OPP, received a call from a farmer on Highway 35 north of the town, asking if they had any word of a missing monkey. The corporal sent some of his men and called the circus officials to try and round the animal up. The show-jumper was finally caught at the farm, some three miles out of the town after the crew of police officers and circus officials had chased it around a rail fence for almost an hour. It left on schedule, that night with the rest of the show.

Natives Ban Films

MOMBASA, Kenya (AP)—No more British and American love, gangster and cowboy movies for African kids and their folks That was the ruling Friday of the Mombasa council of African elders in banning films that are doing "incalculable harm" among the naive and impressionable. They make the kids "become little vagabonds at an early age," the elders said.

Plans Drawn For Building New Presbyterian Church

Plans for the new St. Giles' Presbyterian Church on Park St. south have been drawn and now await the approval of the Peterborough Presbytery. This approval will be sought within the next week. Drawn by E. H. Zeidler of the firm of Blackwell and Craig, architects, the new church will accommodate 418. It is of modern design with special attention being paid to the natural lighting. To overcome a basement feeling in the Sunday school the entrance at street level is halfway between the main and Sunday school floor.

The overall length of the church is 85 feet by 38 feet. The nave will be 60 by 30, the choir and chancel 21 by 18 and a narthex or main entrance 12 by 46.

The nave will accommodate 296, the choir 36, a balcony 50 and an overflow room in the narthex 36. This overflow room can be used for the congregation or for mothers with small children. They can sit in the room and watch the service through large glass doors and listen over an amplifying system. This room is 12 feet by 22 feet.

LARGE BASEMENT

The basement will have a Sunday school auditorium of 60 feet by 28 feet and along the west side will be special rooms and a kitchen. The vestry will be immediately under the chancel.

The entrance will be to the north. The main light will stream into the nave from the side wall which will face Park St. directed by a screen of vertical louvres. The choir seated on a tiered dias will face the congregation. The side windows of the choir rise over the nave roof and are carried as a clerestory over the whole body of the church giving the room an upward looking feeling. The narthex at the entrance end of the nave forms a "T". The balcony is located above the narthex.

The west wall of the building will be solid without windows or might have some small ones. At the west end of the narthex and also in the centre will be large windows.

Tenders will be called early in the summer and building should commence very shortly after. The cost when built and furnished is expected to be around $80,000.

A 1953 CHURCH

Mr. Zeidler who is drawing the sketches asked the question : "Should we be ashamed of living in 1953 instead of 1253? Should we use the same forms as 700 years ago? The task asked of church builders today has not changed down through the years. The job has been to build a place of worship with the means of its time. Only time has changed," he declared.

"The Church preaches the divine nature of the truth, then it is not necessary to express truth in ecclesiastic building? When our age gives us new materials and new methods, [illegible] forces us to use them, why have we to hide them under an old gothic form, as if God would not accept truth and could not see the artificially applied garment."

"The goal in St. Giles' Church was to create a place of worship in the Presbyterian spirit."

The St. Giles' congregation which started as a mission of St. Paul's Church last October has been holding its services every Sunday morning in Confederation School. In recent weeks a Kirk Session has been elected, and will be ordained on Sunday, and a Board of Managers elected. Rev. Gilbert D. Smith who came to Canada from Ireland assumed his duties on Easter Sunday. The congregation is connected with Keene into one pastoral charge.

'Dead' Soldier Finds Family

SUDBURY (CP)—A Canadian soldier listed as killed in action nine years ago is back with his family today because a neighbor had a good memory.

Elmer Giroux, reported to have died in a bomb blast in France during the Second World War, met his sister and other relatives in Sault Ste. Marie this week. It all happened because a neighbor of Giroux's sister, Mrs. J. Martin of Sault Ste. Marie, remembered a photograph of the man in his sister's house.

After his army discharge, Giroux returned to his family home at Sudbury and tried unsuccessfully to find his relatives.

The neighbor, visiting friends in Sudbury, recognized Giroux from a photograph. Then Giroux notified Mrs. Martin and a brother in Spanish, Ont.

Mrs. Martin said after the reunion: "It's like a miracle. It's still hard to believe that Elmer is alive."

Strawberries Arrive In Flood, Prices Drop

The flood of local strawberries on the open market this morning by farmers and jobbers forced prices to drop by half.

Last week when there were only a few local berries jobbers were asking 55 and 60 cents a quart. Today they were 30 and 35 cents and by 10:30 there were few boxes left.

According to farmers local berries won't last more than two or three weeks. There is a scarcity of them caused by the damp weather of the past three weeks.

GARDEN VEGETABLES

Garden vegetables were the second biggest seller and bunches of onions, radishes, pepper grass and rhubarb were selling for five cents. Spinach made its first appearance on the market and it was selling for 15 and 25 cents a bag.

Farmers were asking 65 cents for grade A large eggs and 70 cents for oversize. Spring chickens sold for 45 cents a pound.

Jobbers were getting $2 for 75 pounds of potatoes and asked $4 a bag for 100 pounds of new potatoes.

Maple syrup was still up at $5 a gallon and farmers credit the scarcity of it to a mild winter.

Personal Tribute

EDMONTON (CP)—An artist recently arrived from Holland, Bruin Valerius, expressed in a personal way his appreciation for Canadian aid in flood relief for Holland. He presented a painting of a flood scene to the city of Edmonton.

Four Cars, Truck Collide In Chain Reaction

Four cars and a truck were damaged Friday night in a multiple collision on Highway 7, one mile north of the city. No one was seriously injured and police estimate damage at about $1,400. Wives of two of the drivers suffered minor cuts and bruises when their heads were thrown against windshields.

The chain reaction accident started when John Loucks, 301 Townsend St., passed a light truck driven by Alvin Stoneburg, 611 McKellar St.

Loucks, driving south, collided with the left front of a northbound car driven by William E. Green, 731 Donegal St., bounced back to the west side of the road to hit Stoneburg's truck, back to the east to sideswipe a car driven by Francis King, Chemong Park, then ran off the road on the east side to crash into an elm tree.

Bernard Langen, 623 Little St., driving north behind Green, piled into the rear of Green's car and King ran into the rear of Langen's auto.

MINOR HEAD INJURIES

Mrs. Green and Mrs. Langen suffered minor head injuries and were treated at their homes.

Minor damage was done to two cars when they collided Friday night west of Young's Point on the Selwyn road.

Drivers were Charles R. Patterson, Davenport Rd., Toronto, and Miss Lena Eakins, 664 George St. Police said the two cars met about a mile and a half west of Young's Point in the centre of the road on a turn.

Constable L. B. Tillson, a newcomer to OPP headquarters here, investigated both accidents.

Horton Arrives For Rehearsal

Sunday afternoon Edward Everett Horton arrives at Malton airport with his company after flying in from Chicago. He will be met there by Michael Sadlier who will drive him straight to Peterborough for a Sunday evening dress rehearsal, prior to the opening of his comedy "Nina" on Monday night.

Though, this will be the famous stage and screen star's first visit to Peterborough, it will mark the eighth time that Edward Everett Horton and Michael Sadlier have been associated together. Mr. Horton has played for the young Summer Theatre producer seven times in Bermuda, and in fact tried out the French comedy "Nina" for the first time at the Bermudiana Theatre.

The veteran star has consented to speak at the Rotary Club luncheon on Monday. Mr. Horton is a notable raconteur.

Pari-Mutuels First Time In Many Years

With the advent of the pari-mutuel machines at the Exhibition grounds this evening, betting on the horses will be possible for the first time in many years. Except for a few isolated instances during the '30's legal wagering has not been allowed here since the turn of the century.

All that is necessary to permit betting on the standard breds is the possession of a government charter and at one time practically every Exhibition Board in Ontario owned one. However to retain its rights the charter must be renewed each year and over the period of time since their issuance many of these franchises have become invalid because of neglect.

The betting tonight is made possible because of a charter owned by Fred Orpen, purchased some years ago from local interests.

IN TWILIGHT

The session will be in the twilight hours from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. as a provincial law exists which forbids betting on horses under the lights. The race is being sponsored by the Peterborough Turf Club in conjunction with the Exhibition Board.

As D. A. McGillis said at a meeting a few weeks ago: "I can tell you the Exhibition Board is in the red and as one of the directors I'd like to see us get some money that we sorely need. This is different and will attract the people. It is legal as we have the charter from the government of Ontario behind us."

Theatre Offers Opera By Verdi

Harry Yudin is offering at the Centre Theatre next Wednesday afternoon and evening Verdi's "La Forza del Destino," concluding the series of occasional grand opera films for people who like good music.

He mentions as significant the choice of "La Forza" for the opening of the Metropolitan Opera season that is now past, and also as the first of the Met's week of grand opera in Toronto.

Some of the finest of Verdi's music is heard in this opera. The cast is headed by Nelly Corradi and Tito Gobbi supported by the orchestra and chorus of the Rome Opera House. Narration is in English.

To the public who have responded to this special interest of Mr. Yudin he gives the assurance that the filming is splendid and that the music drama is presented with beauty of singing and acting and superb effects of panoramic photography.

"This is grand opera at its best in cinematic production," Mr. Yudin said today. "I can say in all sincerity to the public that the continuing of these musical features next season in Peterborough depends on the response to "La Forza del Destino."

PARTED WITH PETS—When she left her home in Renaix, Belgium, to join her brother in Windsor, Adelaide Liefde evidently didn't know about Canadian quarantine regulations, so she had to say goodbye to her pets, Dounia, a St. Bernard, and Souky, a Pomeranian, before she came ashore from the Holland-American liner Ryndam. She will be reunited with them when quarantine regulations have been met.

Says Talent In Canada NotGiven Chance

WINNIPEG (CP)—A television panel discussion Thursday agreed the only stumbling block to developing Canadian talent is the Canadian people.

The panel was held at the annual meeting of the National Council of Women. It included Ronald Fraser, CBC chief of press and publicity, P. J. Allard, general manager of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters and Moray Sinclair, Winnipeg public relations man.

Mr. Allard said there is plenty of Canadian talent for television but Canadians won't listen to them and won't look at them. He said the amount of talent exported to the United States is shocking. Canadian songs must be published in the United States before Canadians will listen to them.

Mr. Allard was not concerned with the negative impact of television. He said people have a remarkable habit of surviving and adapting new inventions to their needs.

OLD AGE PROBLEMS

The problems of old age dominated council meetings earlier in the day.

Dr. Wallace Wilson of Vancouver, director of geriatrics for the department of veterans affairs, said discrimination in the employment of older persons and compulsory retirement should be abandoned at once.

He said thousands of Canadians, still able to work, are annually forced into a life of idleness, frustration and low standards of living. Many become a burden on others. There is need for facilities for the care of such persons.

Mrs. Roy E. Campbell of Regina pleaded the case for older women workers. She deplored discrimination against older workers.

AN ANGRY CROWD of catcalling strikers demonstrate in front of East German government headquarters in the Soviet sector of Berlin today, as an armored car followed by a jeep moves down the Unter Den Linden. In the background is the State Library Building and at right a wing of the University Building. The wild anti-Red revolt was sparked by high prices and poor living conditions and turned into a patriotic swell for German unity. More than 50,000 aroused workers marched through the Brandenburg Gate to government headquarters.

Kitchen Colors And What To Use

You asked about kitchen colors?

Q. There are five doors, a French door and a double window in our kitchen and the wainscoting on the lower walls is in a natural wood finish. The room is quite large with a nine foot ceiling. The furniture is maple and I would like to use a green and white striped wallpaper and tier curtains with a small print on a red background

I was told with a nine foot ceiling I should not use a stripe on the walls, but II am tired of potted plants and fruit patterns. What do you think?

ANS. Since the wainscoting in your kitchen breaks the height of the room there is no reason why you cannot use a striped wallpaper on the upper walls. We suggest painting all woodwork and wainscoting white.

Q.—Our kitchen is small and not too light. The floor is covered with grey rubber tile with a black border and the counter tops are also grey. I like pink and would like to use it on all the cabinets. If we do this, what colors would you suggest for the walls, woodwork, ceiling and curtains?

Ans.—We suggest painting the walls and woodwork as well as the cabinets in your kitchen pink. Light blue would be a good color for the ceiling. For the curtains, a pattern in pink, blue and gray is suggested.

Q—The kitchen in our new home will have knotty pine cabinets and one wall is to be papered. I am planning on a color scheme with blue and yellow predominating and would like to have the counter tops blue. What color would you suggest for the floor covering and wallpaper? Also, the top of the drop-leaf table I am going to use has a blue plastic surface. What color should I paint the legs? The chairs are painted yellow.

Ans. — For the wallpaper in your kitchen you could use a small provincial pattern in yellow on a red background—and for the floor covering, royal blue. Paint the table legs the same shade of yellow as the chairs.

Q—I want to put new wallpaper and floor covering in my kitchen. It is a north room with a high ceiling and only one window. The cabinets and woodwork are white, the inside of the cabinets Chinese red and the counter tops are black. The top of the table is pearl grey and the chairs are red. Should I get flowered, plaid or what kind of wallpaper? Also what colors would you suggest for the floor covering and curtains?

Ans.—A provincial pattern in black, red and green on a white background would be nice for your kitchen wallpaper. The ceiling would look lower if you painted it red. For the floor covering we suggest black and white marbelized and the curtains green.

Q—We are planning to repaint our kitchen and breakfast nook. They are together but we would like to make them look like two separate rooms. What would you suggest? The booth in the breakfast nook is upholstered with a floral pattern in silver on a green background. Cabinets are white. Floor covering and sink top are yellow and the window shades are bamboo.

Ans.—To make your kitchen and breakfast nook appear as two separate rooms, we suggest painting the kitchen area green and the breakfast nook yellow.

Q—We plan to redecorate an old kitchen and would like some suggestions for color. The floor covering is gray with a red border and counter tops are red. What colors would you suggest for the wall tile, upper walls, woodwork and ceiling, curtains and furniture?

Ans.—For the wall tile in your kitchen we suggest grey; for the upper walls, woodwork and ceiling, forest green; for the curtains, a pattern on a red background and the furniture maple.

New Phase Opens In Rapids Survey

CORNWALL (CP)—A new phase in preliminary survey of the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence river opened Friday as Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission diamond drilling crews began work at Iroquois Point, 36 miles upriver from here. The point is the site of a proposed power control dam.

Samplings will be used to determine dam construction. Most of the drilling is being done on bed rock along the shoreline.

Sculptor Rejects Gold Medal

LONDON (AP)—Sculptor Jacob Epstein disclosed Friday he has turned down—because of an old snub—the gold medal of the Royal Society of British Sculptors.

The New York-born artist, now 72, told a reporter he refused the medal because "many years ago, when I was proposed for election to the society by two of its members, the society wouldn't have me." He added:

"It seems to me to be a very belated offer of the medal anyway."

Epstein has long been a controversial figure in the art world. Conformists were especially outraged by some of his unconventional treatments of the human body in the 1920s, including the bulbous "Madonna and Child" which won him world notice in 1927.

In recent years, he has been much in demand as a portrait sculptor.

Put Out And Keep Out Damaging Insects

By MR. FIX

The season is at hand when home owners in more sections of the country are being troubled or are soon to be assailed by insect pests, invaders of home and hearth.

Some of them are all but harmless, some carry diseases, and some attack the structure of the home and its furnishings. The latter is what this column—and many harried home owners—are mainly concerned with.

Among them are roaches, clothes moths, silver fish and carpet beetles, all of which damage clothing, rugs and upholstery. There also are the borers—termites, carpenter ants, powder-post beetles—which attack buildings and furniture wood.

Two measures of greatest importance in standing off insects are good housekeeping and thorough sanitation, as a U.S. Department of Agriculture yearbook points out. Removal of bits of food, scraps of fabric and even lint helps to reduce insect food supply. Insect pests that come to dinner on the house leave when the food runs out—like any free loader.

There are many insecticides that beat the kerosene and turpentine of yore all hollow. Some are put up in familiar aerosol "bombs" which, incidentally, provide surface and space spray, but are not fumigants, as many users seem to believe.

Different insecticides may have to be used to combat different kinds of insects. No single one will serve all purposes.

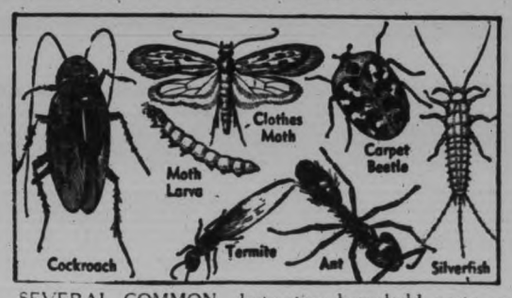
Now for the little pests and ways to doom them:

ROACHES — American cockroaches live in warm, moist places—basements or under porches in warm weather. German cockroaches usually live in kitchens and bathrooms. Use spray containing 2 per cent of chlordane.

Take care not to contaminate food, dishes or utensils, for the spray is toxic.

PANTRY PESTS — Weevils, beetles and moths infest dry foods like flour meal and cereals. Destroy infested foods first. Clean storage area thoroughly, then spray surfaces with 5 per cent DDT. Always store dry foods in tight containers.

SILVER FISH—Live in bookcases, closet shelves, behind baseboards and window or door frames, and other places where there are books, paper and wallpaper. Use 10 per cent DDT powder or 5 per cent DDT spray.



ANTS — Best controlled with chlordane insecticides. If you can trace ants and find nests, apply 5 per cent powder or 2 per cent spray. Use 2 per cent spray on and around openings from which ants enter rooms. If they enter from outside, spray porch landings, foundations and outside of house up to window level.

CLOTHES MOTHS—Feed on wool, mohair, feathers, down, fur or hair. Spray closet walls and shelves twice yearly with 5 per cent DDT. Fabrics can be sprayed too, or stored in tight containers with paradichlorobenzene crystals or naphthalene flakes.

CARPET BEETLES — Do not feed on woollens. Clean thoroughly such out-of-the-way areas as cracks and corners where lint, etc., accumulates. Then spray with 2 per cent chlordane.

Termite control may be somewhat more difficult than any of the above. Best advice is to study a bulletin before attempting to get rid of termites, or call in a pest-control service. Termite control may even involve structural changes in the home.

Liquid wood preservatives help curb rot damage and thus curb termites. Among the best for home use are those containing pentachlorophenol. Wood must be soaked with this solution.

SEVERAL COMMON, destructive household pests are illustrated in the above sketch. The insects are not drawn actual size.

Color And Gaiety Keynote Summer Fashion Jewellery

LONDON (CP)– Color and gaiety are the keynotes of fashion jewelry for the summer with many designs bigger and bolder. Black and white are two themes which will be popular during the year in Britain.

Jet, a 19th-century revival, will be worn a great deal with the new smart, glazed cottons in dark colors. Teamed with sparkling crystals, it is used for sets of necklaces and ear-rings, with sometimes a bracelet to match. Black is used for a chic version of the featherweight spray ear-rings with tiny, wired flowers extending fanwise over the ears.

White enamel will be combined with colored stones for unusual pieces that are light and flower-like. This, too, is a backward glance to the reign of Queen Victoria when enamel and stones were used together for numerous pieces of jewelry.

Giant pearl clips completely hide the lobe of the ear and pendant ear-rings will be worn a great deal as a result of the trend for grander more formal jewelry. One set of brooch, necklace and ear-rings displays a true "chandelier" influence. The heavy drop ear-rings are shaped like Victorian lustre chandeliers and the same motif is repeated in the pendant brooch and necklace.

Tea Honors Q.M. Teachers

A delightful tea was given Thursday by executive members of Queen Mary Home and School Association for the school staff and class mothers and helpers, who had done such excellent work during the academic year.

The tea, held in the upper hall of the school, was convened by Mrs. J. King. Mrs. Ralph Honey, retiring president, presided, assisted by Mrs. Robert Hutton, new president.

Highlight of the tea was the presentation by Mr. O. M. Steer, principal, of farewell gifts to several members of the staff who are leaving Queen Mary this term end.

Mixed regret and gratification was expressed by Mr. Steer over the new appointments of Mr. Leonard McNeill, vice principal, and of Miss Maralin Munro of the primary school. Mr. McNeill is leaving to become first principal of the newly completed Armour Heights school; while Miss Munro is becoming an art director for the Department of Education.

Mr. McNeill made mention of Mr. Steer's ability to win and hold the respect of pupils of all ages by his wisdom and his gentle, but firm and reasoned handling of misbehavior.

The principal in turn expressed his pleasure over the high quality of co-operation given him by the school staff and by the Home and School Association. He stressed the fact it is neither in school nor at home that the character of the rising generation is shaped, but through the joint efforts of both parents and teachers working together toward a common ideal—that of making not only students and athletes of the children, but of developing those qualities in the young which will best fit them to become the kind of citizens we want in this rapidly-developing country.

Mr. Steer showed regret also in the loss of three other teachers who are taking new positions in their profession: Miss E. Meiklejohn, Mrs. R. Pomeroy and Mr. V. C. Northcott whose work in training pupils in choral singing has been outstanding.

The retirement of the school nurse, Miss May Stone, who has for so many years won the affection and respect of pupils and teachers and the gratitude of parents, was received with deep regret by all connected with the school.

A presentation was made to Miss Ruth Mortlock who is being married in July but will continue teaching in the school.

At this final function of the Home and School Association for the year, gratification was expressed by members that the endeavors of the term had met with such success.

Accent On Waist Attracts

Since the 17th century women have realized that the accent on waist is the surest way to attract a man. For many years starting from that time women used a corselet and eliminated inches from their waistline, a man frequently used a woman's waist as a barometer in his choice of a wife. If he could span her waist with his two hands, she ranked high on his list.

Recently corselets have gone out and comfort has been the key note in women's clothes. Hollywood star Arlene Dahl feels however that corselets will come back into style. Arlene has adapted corselets for her entire summer wardrobe. She is wearing the corselet on the outside instead of the inside. She uses them in a contrasting color in velvet over chiffon or silk, and in bright cotton over muslin. The outside corselet is the summer version of the belt, and it is a wonderful way to adjust the waistline.

1953 version of the corselet is a more narrow one than in the days of old, but it still does the same trick. It accents the waist and adds to femininity. It is wonderful with separates and performs a feat of magic in keeping the blouse well into the skirt when wearing separates. Corselets should be worn only with full skirts. However, the blouses can vary in any way—high, low or scoop neck.

Recently designed clothes for Elizabeth Taylor also reverted to the corselet. One of Miss Taylor's most beautiful gowns in a new picture used a jewelled and embroidered corselet over white chiffon.

Incidentally, the corselet is an excellent way to keep a close watch on your figure.

Use Pineapple To Glorify Summer Salads

Pineapple is so versatile it's truly fit to be called "the king of fruits." Keep a good supply in your kitchen cupboard to glorify salads the easy way—remember, canned foods are your best values in the grocery market!

A salad combining this sweet golden fruit, fluffy marshmallows, and whipped cream is so taste-tempting you'll serve it often to make any occasion "extra special." It's a perfect natural for easy entertaining . . . make it in the morning and keep it chilling in the refrigerator until serving time.

PINEAPPLE MARSHMALLOW SALAD

2¼ cups crushed pineapple, ¼ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel, ¾ cup whipping cream, ¼ lb. marshmallows.

Drain crushed pineapple, reserving syrup. Combine sugar, salt, and flour in a saucepan. Add egg and blend thoroughly. Stir in pineapple syrup. Cool, stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Remove from heat and add lemon juice and peel. Cover and chill. Whip cream stiff and fold into pineapple mixture. Fold in marshmallows cut in quarters and crushed pineapple. If desired ¼ cup quartered maraschino cherries may be added. Chill 4 to 6 hours or overnight. Serve in lettuce cups. Garnish with watercress. 5 to 6 servings.

Tap Dancing And Ballet Revue By 75 Youngsters

Tapping their way to poised, and graceful carriage in adult life, if not a niche in the entertainment field, are some 75 Peterborough youngsters who are pupils at Marion Percy Laird's School of Dancing.,

In a snappy and entertaining revue, presented Friday evening at the Collegiate Auditorium for a good sized crowd of parents and friends and a numbef of enviously admiring children, they displayed the varyingly polished results of drilling for the past year in dance positions, rhythm of modern and old-time dance music.

Favorite numbers in a three-part program of 45 items were the old familiar ones. The Sailor's Hornpipe was done by seven of the cutest little "sailors" that ever pulled a rope, though it is certain their sails would have been in a very tangled mess. The Highland Fling was very well done by mixed classes with a variety of tartans lending color and interest to the scene.

Little Mary Lou Ahern gave a very fine exhibition of a skipping rope tap and was encored. Nancy Norris' "steps in time" were also loudly applauded. A very pretty number was by "Three Little Maids", Betty Pritchard, Joan Orde and Delores Sutton who wore red tunics over frilled ballet skirts and starched stiff white aprons.

Ballet dancing made up the entire second part of the revue and highlighted the "Belles and Beaux" who gave the presentation its name. Three little boys and six little girls from the junior class were dressed in old-fashioned ballroom style for this, the boys displaying the gallantry of olden days as tney bowed to their dancing partners.

Seen in the third part of the revue were the advanced pupils who could do the more involved steps of the acrobatic tap, Spanish tap, Dutch dance, novelty tap, military tap, waltz clog, military roll, the popular sword dance of the Scottish and the flashing stair tap, the latter by a star of many of Mrs. Laird's presentations, Lionel Brown, who also assists her as pianist. In a romantic cabaret waltz he was teamed with sophisticated dancer Judy Bell, who contrasted her blondness with Broadway style costumes in black.

Mrs. Laird composes all of the dances and designs all of the costumes and throughout the revue she may be seen at the foot of the platform beating the time and directing each dancer in the routine.

Dancers whose names appeared on the program for part three were: Beverley Teevins, Vivian Passmore, Nancy Norris, Vivian Gillespie, Judy Stock, Beverley Jones, Arlene Payne, Geraldine Roberts, Nancy Flint, Elizabeth Sanderson, Dianne Payne, Dorothy Ann Lucas, Joanne Whitton, Donna Gail Woodman, Judy Welch, Connie Price, Susan Marrs, Judy Brockley, Sheila Robinson, Terry Fairs, June Jones, Florence and Margaret Bannister, Janis Glover and Lionel Brown.

Bruce Mason was vocalist and entertained at the first intermission and sang for the Ballet Rouge which concluded the ballet scene. Tiny Georgina Murney was the star of this as the "Baby Doll". She a is coming toe dancer whose winning smile should win her much applause as she progresses.

To Have A Lazy Summer

In summer, we get lazy. Things that ordinarily we say we "Must do" have a way of becoming delightfully less imperative. It's relaxing, lazing time. Time to enjoy short cuts in everything—even your beauty care. Check these over. For only a little effort, they pay big beauty dividends.

1. Have the pleasure, economy, the speed of the latest home permanent that combines beauty rinse and neutralizer all in one quick, easy step.

2. Keep your wave longer, springier, prettier—with a new and marvelous shampoo that requires only one quick sudsing—and which is made specially to preserve your permanent—protect your tint.

3. Make your favorite hair lightener and brightener do double duty. Use it on your arms (and legs, if you wish) to make any superfluous hair well-nigh invisible because it's so light.

4. Let a delicate eye cream, so beautifully balanced in its light, rich oils that you only have to finger print it on, work its smoothing way while you wear your sun glasses.

5. Make your winter-roughened heels and soles pink and soft as a baby's with a special cleansing preparation that sloughs off the tough, coaxes forth the tender new skin.

6. Remember that a few minutes session with a creme rinse after each shampoo protects your hair and prevents the hot sun from drying it to a wispy mass that'll take you weeks in the fall to bring back to polished perfection.

7. Combine tonic and hair setter in one with a special formula for women that is light, not sticky; yet helps correct scalp flaking turns out the loveliest pin curls.

Readers' Saturday Column by Mary Moore

QUESTION: . . . I have tried out many of your recipes and they turned out well and have been complimented on my nice recipes for dainties. As I am one of a committee appointed to convene a buffet lunch for 50 people, your menus in May 22nd and May 28th editions just seem to fit in so well. I see you would send the recipe of ice cream and Raspberry Mousse to Mrs. John C. . . I have never had occasion to write you but would appreciate very much if you would send me the above recipes . . .

Anna M. G.

ANSWER: Welcome to our fold Anna.

RASPBERRY MOUSSE (for 50)

Three cups sugar, 7½ cups canned red raspberries with some juice, 6 tablespoons lemon juice, 3 cups heavy cream. Boil the 3 cups sugar with 6 cups water for 8 minutes. Press raspberry pulp and juice through fine sieve and add to syrup. Add lemon juice and mix well. Freeze, stirring every 30 minutes until it is a rather firm mush. Remove to cold bowl, whip for 30 seconds, fold in cream which has been whipped until stiff. Return to freezing trays and freeze firm. Strawberries may be used instead of raspberries, and frozen berries may be used instead of canned.

VANILLA ICE CREAM (For 12)

Three cups rich milk or top milk, 4 eggs, 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, ¼ teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups heavy cream. Scald milk in top of double boiler. Separate yolks from whites of eggs. Beat yolks and add sugar and cornstarch until very smooth, then stir this into the hot milk, until thick, over boiling water for 20 minutes stirring occasionally when it is thick. It should be covered. Beat whites until stiff. When cookked mixture is cool, fold it into the whites with the salt. Add vanilla. Pour into freezing trays and chill to a heavy mush. Remove to cold bowl and beat until fluffy. Whip cream stiffly and fold in. Return to tray to freeze firmly.

QUESTION: You came to my assistance before and I would appreciate it if you would help me out again.

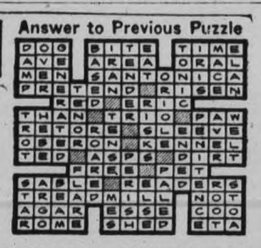
I would like to put berries down in a freezer this year and can't seem to find any of my books with that information. I plan on doing raspberries and strawberries. Can these be done in sealers or is it best to buy the cartons for this purpose? Are there any other fruits that can be done this way?

—Betty R.

ANSWER: The fruits that are listed excellent and very good for freezing are: Blueberries (E), sour cherries (E), cranberries (E), gooseberries (E), yellow and white peaches (E), pineapple (E), plums and prunes (VG), raspberries (E), rhubarb (E), strawberries (E).

FROZEN STRAWBERRIES

Wash strawberries in water chilled to 40 deg. Fahr. with ice. Wash only a few at a time, and they should remain in water not longer than 30 seconds. Best method is to prepare berries, put in colander, lower colander into ice water, gently shake. Lift from water and drain. Do not pinch off hull with finger tips, but slip sharp paring knife under it, taking care not to cut the fruit. Place fruit on several thicknesses of absorbent towelling. Chill in refrigerator 20 minutes. Put berries in cartons made for the purpose. Now using 1 part sugar to each 4 parts berries (1 cup sugar to 4 cups berries), fill carton ¼ full, sprinkle over ¼ of the sugar, continue until carton is filled. Seal and freeze at once.



FROZEN RASPBERRIES

Raspberries are frozen same as strawberries (above) but must be handled with great care for they are so fragile.

I printed the recipe for frozen strawberries in Thursday's issue, but repeated it for you and others that may have missed it.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX:

Engaged Girl Loves Babies But Can't Stand Toddlers

DEAR MISS DIX: In the near future Tom and I plan to be married. We are very happy except for one thing. I have a nervous streak and don't like children of a certain age. I love infants and youngsters past five but children of two or three make me violently angry. They seem to be in every kind of mischief. I realize I'm wrong, but can't seem to control my feelings. Tom says it's because I'm the youngest of a large family, and that I never learned to live with small children. He's convinced that as soon as our own children come along, God willing, my attitude will change. I'm 20, and Tom's 21.

D.A.

ANSWER: Your problem would be much more serious if it were infants you disliked, rather than toddlers. Surely you don't expect, after loving your babies, to begin suddenly to dislike them when they are two and three years old? The toddling age is, I think, the most endearing one of childhood. True, there's mischief involved, but it can be so easily controlled. You'll realize that the "mischief" of this age is simply the process of learning, and every moment will be precious to you. At 20 you shouldn't have a nervous streak, so I urge strongly a consultation with a good doctor.

In the time before your marriage, why don't you try working as a nurse's aid in a local hospital, making children your particular field? You can give a couple of hours one evening a week, and the contact with small children may change your attitude without waiting for your own youngsters to come along. Do try this plan and let me know how it works.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband works in a large factory where many girls are employed. They know he's a married man with three children, yet one girl, who is separated from her husband, has taken quite a shine to my man. Right now my husband makes a big joke of it, but I'm afraid he may take her seriously.

JEAN G.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The time for you to nip possible trouble in the bud is right now while your husband is disposed to shoo the girl away. You're quite right to face the possibility that he may take her seriously. The girl is a trouble-maker and, since she's made a mess of her own life, her aim is to drag somebody else into the mire. It's up to your husband to discourage her firmly. A threat to report her conduct to the personnel department may have an effect. If his efforts fail, see the girl yourself. But remember gentleness will not work with a female of this species.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a serviceman and the recipient of one of those famous "Dear John" letters. My wife divorced me while I was overseas. Now I have met a wonderful girl with two children whom I adore. However, her divorce is not yet final, and she is going with other men besides me. Do you think she loves me?

JERRY B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: After one marital failure, don't try so hard to make it two. Let this double-dealing girl fight it out between her husband and her other boy friends; you get into a neutral zone.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: We are two girls in our early twenties with the same problem. We are very much in love with attractive young men who say they love us but make us jealous by flirting with other girls. They call us up when we're not at home to check on our whereabouts.

ROBIN AND DALE.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your young men are behaving like teen-agers rather than supposedly responsible young adults. By the time one has reached twenty such childish behavior is slightly ridiculous. Better try to acquire beaux with more sense.

Honor Couple On Day Of Diamond Wedding

MOUNT PLEASANT (ENS) — Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lowes on Sunday observed their 60th wedding anniversary. The Rev. A. E. Larke of Mount Pleasant United Church delivered a special sermon in honor of the occasion and read to Mr. and Mrs. Lowes the cable of congratulations from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, and the telegram from Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent.

In the afternoon Mrs. T. C. Morden and Mrs. Thomas Graham poured tea and in the evening Mrs. Norman Fee and Mrs. Eric McLean.

Those serving were two granddaughters Misses Marjorie Lowes and Lois Jamieson. Cards, flowers and gifts were received, also a gift of a hostess chair from the community and a studio couch from the family.

Those from a distance who attended were: Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Lowes, Detroit, Mich., Mrs. (Dr.) Veale, New Jersey, U.S.A., Miss Margaret Arhenden, Cleveland, Ohio, Mrs. George Hill, Sarnia, Mr. Alf. 6—In Memoriam

CHARLEBOIS—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Leo Charlebois, who passed away June 20, 1952.
He is gone but not forgotten,
And as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near,
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.
—Sadly missed by his wife Phyllis and children.

CHARLEBOIS—In loving memory of Leo, who passed away June 20th, 1952.
Not just today but every day
In silence we remember,
—Sadly missed by his mother and sisters Mary and Madelon.

KIDD—In loving memory of Earl David Kidd, killed in action June 21-22, 1944 over Germany.
In our chest of cherished memories,
Are locked up thoughts of you,
Your smiling face, your tender heart,
And things you used to do.
This token of love and affection,
Of one we shall never forget,
Your memory to us a treasure,
Your loss a lifetime regret.
—Remembered always by Dad, Mother, sisters and brothers.

MILLER—In loving memory of Albert (Dusty) Miller who passed away June 21st, 1944.
A little tribute, true and tender,
Just to show that we remember,
—Always remembered by wife and family.

WELLS—In loving memory of Oliver C. Wells, who passed away June 19, 1952.
Gone dear father, gone to rest
Away from sorrow, care and pain,
Safe in rest in peace, dear father,
Until we meet again.
—Ever remembered by his family.

MENDING FENCES—U.S. Soldiers, who replaced RoK guards after prisoners of war effected a mass escape, inspect and repair barbed wire fences along PoW Camp Nine at Pusan, Korea. Marines who replaced RoKs as PoW compound guards are battling North Korean PoWs who are still trying to escape.

Drew Gives Conservative Manifesto

GUELPH (CP)—Text of Progressive Conservative party election manifesto, read Friday night by Hon. George Drew:

1. We will reduce federal taxes by at least $500,000,000 a year. This can be done without reducing any pensions, family allowances, other social security payments, or in any way impairing the efficiency of our armed forces.

2. We will introduce legislation exempting municipal councils and school boards from sales tax and excise tax on all purchases of machinery, equipment, instruments and other goods and which will further provide for taxation of all federal government properties in municipalities on the same basis as that of ordinary municipal taxpayers.

3. A Dominion-provincial tax conference will be called immediately for the purpose of revising our whole system of taxation so that taxes on homes and farm lands for education, health and other essential services can be substantially reduced.

REORGANIZE DEPARTMENT

4. We will greatly reduce the cost of government by ending waste and extravagance, increasing efficiency, eliminating duplication and improving accounting methods. In particular, we will reorganize the department of national defence. We will act immediately upon the findings of the Currie and McNab reports as well as the reports of the auditor general and others. These reports all offer positive and constructive suggestions for dealing with the waste, extravagance, inefficiency and chaotic accounting methods disclosed in that department.

5. We will re-establish the true principles of the confederation pact set forth in the British North America Act. We will restore the supremacy of Parliament and the rule of law. We will return control of the nation's business to the elected representatives of the people. We will put an end to government by secret orders-in-council. We will repeal the Emergency Powers Act.

6. We will set up a joint committee of the Senate and House of Commons for the purpose of reforming the Senate with particular reference to the method of appointment, tenure of office and its legislative functions within the framework of our federal system.

7. We will introduce legislation to amend the criminal code which will make it an offence punishable by due process of law to engage in Communist or other subversive activities designed to destroy our democratic system.

EXPAND MARKETS

8. We will take immediate steps to restore and expand world markets for agricultural and other primary products. Our program will include bold and constructive steps to break the dollar-pound barrier and regain our vital British and Commonwealth trade.

9. We will appoint a national agricultural board for the purpose of establishing fair floor prices related to farm production costs.

10. We will undertake an immediate review of all national labor legislation for the purpose of improving collective bargaining procedure, expediting conciliation of disputes, assuring fair employment practices, providing equal pay for equal work, and generally increasing the basis of co-operation between labor, management and government. We believe that fair working conditions at good pay provide the surest means for assuring the industrial stability upon which steady jobs, expanding production and improved standards of living all depend. We will extend the provisions of the Unemployment Insurance Act to provide benefit payments for unemployment due to disabling sickness or accident.

11. We will introduce a housing program which will make it possible for people with small incomes to buy new homes by improving the terms and conditions under which houses can be built and purchased. We will co-operate with provincial governments and municipal councils in making fully serviced land available for building.

12. We will introduce a contributory health insurance program, in co-operation with the provinces, which will assure to every Canadian proper diagnostic, medical and surgical treatment. This program will recognize existing medical insurance plans and provide the medical services which our people require without introducing state medicine.

FREIGHT RATE STRUCTURE

13. Immediate steps will be taken to deal with the freight rate structure in Canada, with recognition of the fact that the railways are commercial arteries, maintained by the people of the whole of Canada and that the facilities offered by those services should be designed to expand production, distribution and trade on the widest possible basis to the greatest advantage of every Canadian. We will respect all existing regional statutory rates and take every practical step to encourage the use of our own ports for Canadian export and import trade.

REVIEW CIVIL SERVICE

14. There will be an immediate review of all legislation affecting the civil service, so that all except casual employees may become permanent members of the civil service, with assurance of security of employment, and promotion by merit to the highest offices within the service. The importance of the civil service within the structure of government will be fully recognized and working hours, pay and advancement will be comparable with employment in industry and commerce.

15. The natural resources of Canada are a heritage which Canadians of our generation hold in trust. In co-operation with the provinces we will establish a national policy under a system of free enterprise which will:

(A) Promote and develop all our natural resources for the benefit of the people of every part of Canada;

(B) Protect and conserve our forest, mineral and other resources from undue depletion or exhaustion;

(C) Expand the use of our resources by the encouragement of industrial research;

(D) Proceed with a national development program which will include such projects as the construction of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project, the Saskatchewan river power and irrigation project, hydro-electric power projects in the Maritimes and similar projects of national importance in other parts of Canada;

(E) Promote the decentralization of industry so that opportunities for employment and advancement may be extended on the widest possible basis throughout the whole of Canada.

16. We believe that Canada has a vital role to play as a member of the Commonwealth and a friendly neighbor of the United States. That is the cornerstone of our external policy. We have faith in the peaceful power of that great alliance of free people working together within the framework of the United Nations. We believe that world peace depends primarily upon the strength of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. We pledge our full support to that and other organizations set up under the United Nations for the preservation of peace and the improvement of social and economic conditions throughout the world. We approve of the Colombo plan and believe that the principle it establishes should be extended as widely as possible.

CORONATION MEDAL—Some 10,000 Coronation medals, struck to commemorate the crowning of Queen Elizabeth, will be allotted to Canada and will be distributed to various people in civilian and military life. The Canadian government has asked many national organizations to recommend recipients. The armed forces are drawing up their own lists. Shown are the front and reverse sides of the medal.

Specialty Week On Stock Market With Individual Issues Popular

By GORDON MacKINNON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It was Specialty Week on the stock market this week. With the spotlight on individual issues, little net change in group levels occurred.

In a game of see-saw, with prices on one end and speculators on the other, markets dipped sharply in the first part of the week, but bounced up again in the last half. The cycle was almost complete by Friday as traders left the teeter board in a fine state of balance, hesitant to commit themselves on the eve of a crucial weekend for the Korean armistice negotiations.

On the Toronto stock exchange, specialties stole the show in the otherwise drab base metals, uraniums and golds group. Industrials drifted to a two-year low.

Among the small list of favorites Hudson Bay, a higher-priced base metal, drove to $45 for a gain of 4¼ over the week. Market technicians said the stock was definitely under-priced at the 1953 low of 41¾ at which it was quoted Monday.

REPORTS SHOW INFLUENCE

The flow of encouraging reports coming from the Anacon-St. Joseph base metal strike in the Bathurst, N.B., area was reflected in Anacon's market price. It jumped 25 cents to close at $4.40 in a weekly turnover of 328,000 shares.

Concerning Anacon's potential, the Financial Post commented this week: ". . . The emerging mine could easily prove the equal in ore potential to anything established in non-ferrous metal mining in Eastern Canada with the possible exception of Sudbury."

Taking the Toronto market as a whole, western oils led the mid-week rally that spread to all sections and recovered much of Monday and Tuesday's losses. Brokers attributed the advance partly to anticipation of a crude oil price boost that would keep Canadian companies in step with the 25-cent increase announced last week by two large American producers.

In Montreal, Monday and Tuesday saw industrials lead the market lower. Papers sparked Wednesday's rally, but industrials failed to respond until Thursday's general market advance. Prices turned mixed on Friday.

LOW VOLUMES

New York experienced a week of low volumes with prices on the downside until late Tuesday. Wednesday witnessed a tentative recovery but interest waned and prices were mixed for the rest of the week.

The Toronto weekly indexes showed base metals ahead 1.94 points at 151.79 for their first gain in four weeks. Industrials were down 2.33 at 299.55, golds slipped .51 at 76.75 and western oils continued their four-week decline to close 1.00 lower at 107.20.

Montreal averages had banks down 0.18 at 33.18, utilities up 0.2 at 93.7, industrials down 1.7 at 182.7, combined down 1.1 at 153.0, papers down .76 at 659.62 and golds down 1.54 at 55.73.

New York markets treaded water this week, according to the Associated Press average of 60 stocks, which showed a minor increase of 20 cents at $105.70.

Now Is The Time

SET OUT tomato and cabbage plants.

CULTIVATE shrub borders and flower beds.

PLANT WINDOW and porch boxes.

ANNUALS, such as zinnia, marigold, petunia and ageratum, should be set out now.

TUBEROUS BEGONIA plants, canna and dahlia tubers and gladiolus corms (bulbs) may be planted now.

(If you have a number of gladiolus, make plantings at 10-day intervals, to stretch the season.)

MOW THE LAWN before it gets too tall. Set mower to cut two inches high.

REPAIR bad spots in the lawn by first roughing up the area, working in a bit of peat moss and fertilizer and then seeding.

Do NOT cut off tulip and daffodil foliage until it has browned and dried.

Gardening Questions

Q—Many branches on our Pines have been defoliated by an inch-long worm. What are they and what can we do about them?

A—The pest is the larvae of the European pine sawfuly. Control is difficult at this late date, although spraying at once with four tablespoons of a 50 per cent DDT or lead arsenate, and one teaspoon Black Leaf 40 per gallon of water will help. Next year spray in late April when the tiny worms are hatching.

✧ ✧ ✧

Q—Can I plant evergreens of a low-growing variety in my wooden porch boxes? Please tell me what vareities to buy.

A—Evergreens may be used in wood porch boxes, but bear in mind that the soil is rather limited and thus will dry out quickly. The chief trouble will come in winter when freezing weather is apt to kill the roots. Be prepared to replace some plants each spring. Globe arborvitae, spreading junipers, and small spruce offer the best possibilities for box planting.

GUATEMALA CITY (Reuters)—Twenty-one persons were killed in an air crash in Costa Rica Thursday, according to reports reaching here Friday. The plane belonged to Lacsa, an airline which operates on internal routes in Costa Rica.

Former City Plumber Recalls Windstorm Of 1902

Robert G. Sturgeon of Port Elgin, formerly of Peterborough, who was in the city thisweek visiting his daughter, Pauline, Mrs. Albert Jeffries, 480 George St. south, recalled to the Examiner windstorm damage to main street property February 12, 1902.

Fire in the Crystal Block on the east side of George St; north of Hunter, had left the north and south walls dangerously unsupported. At 6.40 p. m. the gale blew the south wall on to the roof of the adjoining building. Its weight of bricks and falling debris crashed through three stories of the nextdoor store of Peter Simons, tailor. Suitings and machines were carried through to the basement causing loss estimated at $8,000. Damage to the building which was owned by George Schneider was placed at $4,000

ONE WALL LEFT

The wind was driving from south to the north. On the north side of the fire swept Crystal Block was the Harry Long confectionery store. Threat to the Long premises by the high and bare wall standing above that building brought Mr. Sturgeon into action. He was plumber and engineer for the Toronto Savings and Loan Co.

Mr. Sturgeon secured the help of two young men named Grant and Ross, and attacked the wall from the adjoining roof.

The Examiner's account of the wind's damage refers to the incident as follows: "The position of the three young men on the roof was not one to be envied. Outside of the risk of being blown off the high roof, the handling of the wall required the exercise of great caution.

A heavy ladder was procured and was used as a battering ram on the remnant wall. The great weight was not easily overbalanced, and the rebound, with the wind from the south, had to be reckoned. If the wall had fallen to the north there was no escape for those on the roof."

Mr. Sturgeon recalled the episode. Catching a sway toward the south, the young men with their ladder gave it a final push. It toppled into the ruin of the Crystal Block.

Mr. Sturgeon said he did not know of any other wind causing Peterborough $12,000 property damage. His memory was kindled by the recent tornado destruction in several areas of Western Ontario.

LEFT IN 1927

Leaving Peterborough in 1927, Mr. Sturgeon resumed at Port Elgin the plumbing business he carried on here on the north side on Charlotte St. about the premises numbered 200, opposite the new postal-customs building. He remained actively engaged until last year when he turned the business over to his son, George.

"He served his apprenticeship with me, and I'm not out of it entirely," Mr. Sturgeon said.

Another son Robert, (Bim) is recreation director in Ottawa. His oldest son, Kier, was killed in the first Great War, and the youngest boy, John, in the war against Hitler. Mrs. Sturgeon died in 1944.

Apart from his business Mr. Sturgeon is remembered by friends as one of the ardent members of the curling club, and particularly as an exponent of the running shot Not that he disdained the draw. Anyway a lot of his stones cleared house at both ends. And, he is still curling at Port Elgin.

Bim Sturgeon comes by his interest in sports and recreation from the paternal line. His father was a sprinter and general track and field performer in his youth, when those sports apparently attracted more attention in Peterborough than they do today.

Spies' Sympathizers Cry 'Shame, Murder'

TORONTO (CP)—An announcement that atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg had been executed brought cries of "shame!" and "murderers" Friday night from 400 sympathizers gathered outside the United States consulate here.

For several days, members of the Save the Rosenbergs committee had been picketing the consulate.

After the announcement, the sympathizers, who had carried banners urging clemency, switched them to placards pledging care for the Rosenbergs' young sons and marched away.

In Winnipeg, sympathizers outside the U.S. consulate dispersed quietly after they were told the spies were dead.

Some of the women in an Ottawa gathering of about 100 sympathizers wept at the news. The group soon broke up.

800 Ford Workers Accept Pay Increase

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Some 800 Ford of Canada office workers have accepted a pay increase and a change in wage structures which will amount to about $10.40 a month for each employee, it was announced Friday.

Chairman M. H. Featherstone of the bargaining committee of local 240, United Automobile Workers (CIO), said the increase brings office workers' salaries in line with those of plant employees who were awarded a six-cent an hour pay increase last week.

The new salary provides a monthly increase of $3.47.

Hope Bitterness Not In Election

GUELPH (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said Friday night he hopes the present election campaign will be free from bitterness and fought in "a spirit of friendly disagreement."

His remarks were made in a speech prepared for delivery at the opening of his campaign here.

"I trust it is not too much to hope," he said, "that . . . we will be able, during the course of this election, to conduct our political discussions in a spirit of friendly disagreement. . . .

"Where I disagree with the prime minister of Canada it is my duty to express that disagreement, but may I say with deep sincerity that he is worthy of respect as a man who has sought to serve his country according to his own political opinions."

Decide Cahill To Stand Trial

BROCKVILLE (CP)—Leo Cahill, 29, an unemployed factory hand of Smiths Falls, was committed Friday for trial by higher court on an armed robbery charge laid in connection with a daylight bank holdup May 25 at Portland, Ont.

Cahill's pretty wife Charlotte, 31, who had been charged as an accomplice in connection with the holdup, was discharged from custody when the Crown declined to present evidence.

Witnesses described the holdup in which a masked man walked into the Royal Bank of Canada at Portland just before the 3 p.m. closing time and forced bank officials at gunpoint to stuff $4,844 in bills into a paper bag he was carrying.

Police said earlier that $4,325 of the bank loot and a german Mauser pistol were found in the Cahill's Smiths Falls home.

Gold Star Father

How Fathers Can Acquire Hall Of Fame Decoration

Father's Day is June 21. If you'd like to be a real happy pop, here are the simple rules.

By VIVIAN BROWN

NEW YORK (AP) — So you'd like to be a happy dad? A husband who lives in a Utopia where wives serve breakfast in bed, children wear golden wings and everyday is Father's Day?

It's easy. All you have to do is to become a "gold star father," with the aid of a few simple rules. No self - respecting wife would dream of henpecking a husband thus decorated for the father's hall of fame.

In this paradise on earth, father may go fishing or golfing any time, enjoy nights out with the boys, eat an a la carte luncheon now and then instead of the blue-plate special, and invite his own relatives to the house.

And how do you acquire the star rating necessary to this blissful existence? This is how, according to wives polled in the interest of happier Fathers' Days for pop:

1. Be considerate. If you miss the 5:02 bus, train or plane, call home to alert the little woman, instead of calling up after you've had a few, and acting like it was all her fault.

2. Be romantic. Early some week, make a date with your wife for a Saturday night out. This gives her a chance to get her hair frizzed, hire a baby sitter and fix up a party dress. Don't wait until the last minute and say: "Well, d'y'wanna go out tonight?"

3. Be loyal. When everybody is praising a neighbor's cooking, put in a good word for the little woman's biscuits.

4. Be cheerful. Tell a funny story or two at home in the evening. Don't save all your bon mots for the office gang.

5. Be thoughtful. When your wife complains her head aches, startle her by suggestin that you rustle up the bacon and eggs. Refrain from "Oh, you're always sick" or "You're just getting neurotic.

6. Be generous. Surprise your wife occasionally by saying something like: "Darling, why don't you buy a new dress?"

7. Be praiseful. Compliment her on her pretty coiffure or new hat, don't say: "You look like a tufted titmouse" or "How much was that thing?"

8. Be kindly. When she is driving the car treat it as her project. Don't regale your guests later with tales of dented fenders.

9. Be Charitable. When she loses a few pounds encourage her by mentioning how trim she looks, instead of commenting she's got a long way to go.

10. Be helpful. Offer to take the kids to the zoo, circus or movies once in a while so mom can have a peaceful day housecleaning or shopping.

If you observe these pointers you should earn your diamond-studded halo in jiffy time.

Feed Value In Early-Cut Hay

Time of cutting is one of the most important factors in the production of high quality hay of any kind. Early-cut hay has greater feed value than late-cut. The stage of growth at which it has the greatestt feed value varies somewhat with the species and variety.

That is a quotation from The Kentucky Farmer which Frank Paterson passed on to the Examiner without comment, but probably with the implication that it supports a forage practice has been advocating for years.

Kentucky is a long way off, he commented, but hay in the Blue Grass State is the same as in Ontario for all practical purposes.

"Timothy should be cut from early bloom to nearly full bloom. If cut not later than early bloom and properly cured, timothy hay compares favourably in protein content and feed value with all other hay grasses.

Morrison says of timothy: "When early cutting is combined with nitrogenous fertilization, the hay often contains twice as much protein as late-cut hay from land deficient in nitrogen," and that such hay "can successfully be substiuted for legume hay in feeding dairy cows during the usual winter feeding periods."

TIMOTHY, CLOVER

Clover and timothy-clover mixed should be cut when the clover is in half or nearly full bloom stage. Mixture of grasses with or without timothy should be cut not later than when any of the major component grasses are in full bloom, and preferably before full bloom.

Alfalfa should be cut for hay when in one-tenth to one-fourth bloom, or when the basal shoots have made considerable growth or the foliage takes on a yellowish cast. Hay yields may be larger and stands maintained longer when cutting is delayed until the plants are in full bloom, but the increased yields are not likely to compensate for the loss in feeding value of late-cut hay.

Early fall cutting of alfalfa in cold climates, so as to permit the storage of adequate food reserves before freezing weather sets in, is necessary for winter survival and for best forage and seed production the following year.

LATE-CUTTING LOSSES

Green colour is an imporant physical characteristic of all hays. It is associated with carotene and vitamin A, and its loss through too late cutting or weather damage means loss of valuable protein and minerals. The essential characteristics of all high quality hays are soundness, freedom from foreign material, green color, pliable stems, and with legumes in particular a high percentage of leaves and clinging foliage.

In making high quality hay the most rapid removal of water by quick curing should be done so as to retain leaves, preserve green color, and produce the best-dried product in appearance, feed value and composition. Where weather conditions at haying time are usually unfavorable or uncertain for the drying of hay, artificial drying should be considered. This increases the cost of hay, but the greater value of the product usually compensates for the extra cost.

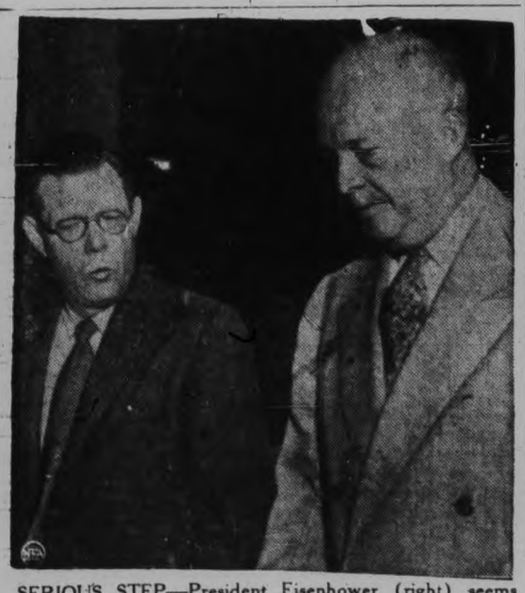
Regardless of other factors, high quality hay having the greatest feed value can be produced only on fertile soils containing those elements necessary for both plant growth and animal feed and on meadows kept clean of weeds and other trash."

Warns Colleges To Houseclean

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Universities should look at their own educational system before criticizing and "carping" at secondary school systems, Dr. G. E. Hall, University of Western Ontario president, said Friday.

The university head made the statement in his 1951-52 annual report to Western's board of governors.

He called on universities to "cleanse" their own "academic souls" and establish an educational policy.



"We have no reason to criticize the products of our secondary schools, we have no reason to carp at the secondary school system. . . until we have analyzed our university system. . . and recognize and dealt adequately with the flaws, the failures, the traditional prejudices and practices, and the vested interests within that system," Dr. Hall said.

Louis Braille Society Enjoys Dinner

The Louis Braille Society held a get together Thursday night with more than 75 present.

D. W. Way gave a full report on the 'no means test for the blind' movement which was so thoroughly debated at the recent convention of the Dominion's Jaycee members at Big Win Inn. He assured his audience that everything possible would be done to have the bill passed.

There was a full course supper served and afterwards a dance with music by Red Hewey and his orchestra. During the after-supper proceedings a cup was awarded for the highest average bowling score, to O. J. Meagher of Driscoll Terrace.

SERIOUS STEP—President Eisenhower (right) seems unusually serious as he walks out of the White House for his weekly news conference across the street at the old State Department building. With him is Press Secretary James Hagerty.

FIRST VICTIM IN EAST BERLIN RIOTS—The first victim of a police bullet in the East Berlin riot against Red rule writes in pain as he is helped from the scene of rioting by police. After protesting citizens, numbering over 100,000, could not be quieted, the Reds sent tanks, machine gunners and armored cars to enforce a martial law order. The workers' rebellion saw scores injured and at least two killed.

WEST BERLIN SHIELDS A RED—Police in West Berlin protect a Communist who was violently beaten by East Berliners during their bloody riot against Red rule. More than 100,000 civilians ran riot in the streets, burning buildings and attacking Communists with bare hands and brickbats. The Red government finally declared martial law.

Coldwell Predicts Peace To Bring Unemployment

MELFORT, Sask. (CP) — CCF leader M. J. Coldwell said Friday night peace in Korea will bring a new search for world markets and a period of unemployment.

Addressing an overflow crowd estimated at more than 300 in this northeastern Saskatchewan town, Mr. Coldwell ran the gamut of Canadian politics and stretched his two-hour address into the field of international affairs.

The CCF leader briefly mentioned the controversial Currie report, his first reference to the inquiry since starting his election campaign.

"We must make friends with the people who are in revolt," he said. "If democratic countries had had the sense, they would be leading those countries and not the Communists."

PEACE WITH CHINESE

The western world had to make peace with 400,000,000 Chinese and recognize their government. After an armistice in Korea, the governments of Southeast Asia could straighten out their own problems.

Mr. Coldwell said the Korean conflict could have been stopped and peace declared when United Nations forces pushed back Communist forces in 1950. Negotiations should have been taken from the hands of the military and given to civilians.

"We will not overcome the threat of communism, fascism or nazism by force of arms. We must banish poverty and want."

Mr. Coldwell repeated demands that lost markets in the United Kingdom be renewed. Agricultural sales to the U.K. had dropped 30 per cent from 1949 to 1952. The federal government had done everything possible to increase trade with the United States—an unreliable market—and done nothing to reopen blocked trade channels with Britain.

ADVOCATES SYSTEM

Mr. Coldwell advocated a system of forward pricing—setting minimum prices in advance—and called for federal aid to education and a national health plan.

In his brief reference to the Currie report, Mr. Coldwell said there was evidence of waste and extravagance in the defence department but they were not the only issues in the election as the Progressive Conservatives made out.

Paratrooper Undergoes Grim Ordeal

OTTAWA (CP) — The army's chief has given Pte. James Bodner something to show his grandchildren some day to prove that he not only hung dangling from an airplane in sub-zero weather for half an hour but prevented tragedy by his courage under the ordeal.

Lt.-Gen. G. G. Simonds has given the Mission City, B.C., soldier a special commendation saying that Pte. Bodner "showed the mark of a real man and a soldier of the highest standard" after he got tangled up in making a jump and dangled helplessly until cut loose.

The citation harked back to the February day when paratroopers of the 2nd battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, took part in an exercise pivoting on Norman Wells in the Northwest Territories.

ROPE CATCHES

As he jumped the rope for lowering his rifle caught on a seat near the door and he hung suspended by the rope outside the plane, heavy equipment bumping against his leg and the cold gnawing at him. The other para troopers jumped over him.

For a half hour the air crew tried to drag him back in. The weight and the wind speed were too much. Finally they signalled to Bodner that they could land or cut him loose. He signalled back to cut him loose.

He dropped without mishap.

Boat Capsizes Soldier Drowns

GRAVENHURST (CP) — Cpl. P. M. McIntosh, 21, of Toronto, was drowned Friday in nearby Gull lake. He was believed to have fallen from a rowboat.

Police said his body was located with grappling hooks after a search by three men who witnessed the accident. They said McIntosh did not appear to be able to save himself when the boat upset.

Ground Filter Centre Opens At Brockville

BROCKVILLE (CP)—The third of Canada's seven ground observer corps filter centres was officially opened Friday by Air Vice-Marshal J. G. Kerr, officer commanding training command.

Sabre jets from Ottawa Uplands airport flew over the town at less than 500 feet to mark the occasion.

The centre is the operating heart of a 16,000 square-mile area.

Big Summer For Hamilton Singer In U.K.

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—It's a big summer for Hamilton-born Ernest Rosser of Covent Garden Opera Company. He has sung twice for the newly-crowned Queen and he will leave soon for the Rhodes centenary in Southern Rhodesia.

One of nine Canadians picked to sing with the Westminster Abbey choir, Rosser played his part at the Queen's Coronation. Later, as chairman of the chorus, he sang in the Covent Garden gala performance of "Gloriana," the opera which Benjamin Britten wrote at the Queen's command and which was one of the highlights of the Coronation season.

In mid-July, the Covent Garden company fly to South Africa to present "Gloriana" and three other operas in the newly-built theatre royal at Bulawayo, erected to mark the centenary of the birth of Cecil Rhodes, founder of Southern Rhodesia. The theatre will be officially opened by the Queen Mother July 3 when she visits South Africa with Princess Margaret.

One of Rosser's outstanding memories of the Abbey ceremonial is the "presence" of the Queen Mother as she walked to her place in the royal box. "You could almost feel her regal presence," Rosser said after the ceremony. "If you hadn't known she was a queen you would have sensed it just by looking at her."

SPEAKS WITH REVERENCE

Of the gala night when "Gloriana" was sung he speaks with reverence. "It was like a living fairy tale," he said. "The Queen and her party were the stars, not us."

One time member of the Salvation Army in Canada, Rosser stayed here after wartime service with the Canadian Army. In 1946, when the government-subsidized opera company was founded, he was one of 3,000 to audition in the hope of a singing career and landed a job in the chorus. He has since climbed to chairmanship, which means he controls most of the work done by the chorus and acts as a buffer between the management, the chorus and the actors' union.

Rosser hopes the opera company will some time go to Canada. He has not been home since 1948, when he took a four-month holiday and spent part of it soloing with the RCAF band in Hamilton.

Mr. & Mrs. Duncan Brown Married 59 Years Ago

APSLEY (ENS). — Fifty-nine years ago Thursday Louise Wilson and Duncan Brown started before daylight to drive with horse and buggy from Apsley to Peterborough to be married.

After dining at "Biddy" McManus' boarding house, about one-half mile below Burleigh Falls, where the York Cabins are today, they arrived in Peterborough around 2:00 p.m. and were married by the Rev. Butcher of the Charlotte Street Methodist Church, now extinct.

The bridesmaid was Mary Staples, now Mrs. Parcells of Victoria, B.C., who at present is visiting relatives here. The groomsman was the bride's brother, Edward Wilson, now deceased.

After a brief honeymoon in Peterborough, and at the home of the bride, Eastland House in Apsley, the couple moved to their farm in Burleigh, where they remained until 1900. After a two-year sojourn in Port Arthur, they returned to Apsley and established a general store which was burned in 1920. They rebuilt immediately and are running it to this day.

Mr. Brown was elected Reeve of Burleigh and Anstruther in 1921 and held office for seven years. He was born in Burleigh Township in 1867, and his parents were Alexander Brown and Margaret Garrow, both of Scotland.

Mrs. Brown was born in Ennismore, the daughter of T. J. Wilson and Elizabeth Bedford, natives of England.

Millbrook Woman Killed Car Crashes Into Tree

A LIBERAL CABINET MINISTER and a Liberal candidate making his first bid for election met Saturday night at the annual banquet of the Central Ontario Liberal Association in the Empress Hotel. Max J. Swanston, Liberal candidate for Peterborough riding, is shown with the Hon. James J. McCann, minister of internal revenue and a member of parliament since 1935. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

McCann Derides Ability Of Drew Tax Knowledge

"George Drew hasn't as many good men of cabinet calibre as you have fingers on your hand," declared the Hon. James J. McCann, minister of internal revenue, in an address to the Central Ontario Liberal Association Saturday evening. Furthermore, said the Hon. Mr. McCann, there are points in Mr. Drew's 16-point Guelph manifesto that indicate "he doesn't know what he's talking about."

He said he would abolish the fuel tax. There is no fuel tax. And he said he would abolish the tax on building materials. There are only a few building materials now subject to tax."

Mr. Drew wanted dominion-provincial conferences, the minister remarked, in spite of the fact that as premier of Ontario, the opposition leader blocked what would otherwise have been a most successful conference of that sort.

"Whoever wrote that speech for him . . . " Mr. McCann stopped and shook his head in mock sadness.

"He's going to have a hard time making a $500,000,000 cut in taxes and providing the services that the Liberal government has provided."

LOWERED DEBT

Mr. McCann reviewed some of the accomplishments of the Liberal government since 1935, when it first came into power. It had lowered the national debt by two billion dollars since the end of the Second World War.

In more recent years it had reduced taxes, saving small businessmen $35,000,000 yearly, smokers $17,000,000 a year, abolished the stamp tax for cheques, and achieved a number of other things that no "makeshift government" could have.

There had been some argument over the choice of the election date (August 10). The Hon. Mr. McCann felt that it was not an unreasonable time of year to call an election. If people felt their responsibility keenly enough, they would be sure their votes were recorded.

Beyond that, it was a good time of year for election. It enabled enumerators to do their job at a time of year when all parts of the country could be reached and when only a few would be on holidays.

100 Prisoners Escape, Caught By UN

PUSAN (AP)—About 100 Chinese prisoners of war broke from a United Nations prison camp today but were recaptured quickly, as anti-Red Chinese PoWs clamored to join more than 27,000 freed Korean PoWs.

Special Allied investigators meanwhile surveyed the turmoil caused by release or escape of the North Korean prisoners, which now perils a Korean truce.

The UN PoW command said some 100 Chinese captives escaped from a mainland interrogation camp with virtually no disturbance but were arrested soon after by South Korean police near Tongnae, about five miles north of Pusan.

Unofficial reports, however, said some eluded the police and were seeking shelter among Chinese residents.

It was the first breakout by Chinese since the mass escape of anti-Red North Koreans began last mid-week.

The PoW command also reported only 8,254 North Korean anti-Red prisoners remain in camps which held 35,414 until last Thursday, when South Korean President Syngman Rhee ordered them freed.

American troops halted another escape attempt Sunday. They fired short bursts of automatic weapons fire into the ground in front of PoWs running from two compounds near Masan. Tear gas bombs were used to restore order. No casualties were reported.

Bermuda Talks Begin July 8

WASHINGTON (AP)—July 8 has been picked for the start of Big Three talks in Bermuda, but some mild confusion remained today over how firm it is.

A White House statement Sunday spoke of July 8 as "the present target date" for opening the conference, but added that "this plan naturally is dependent upon its acceptability to the French government."

An announcement from the London residence of Prime Minister Churchill said the start of the talks "has been fixed for July 8." An informed British source said the date was fixed "with the confident assumption that there will be a French government by that time."

Four Feet Of Snow Fall On Australia

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—All of southeastern Australia, from Sydney around to Adelaide, was cold today with icy winds blowing and snow falling in some parts.

Winds from the Antarctic lashed the southern coast, driving shipping to shelter.

Snow was four feet deep in parts of the southern Alps on both sides of the New South Wales and Victor borders. There were heavy falls during the weekend and more snow falling in this area today.

Minimum temperatures in Sydney and Melbourne Sunday and today were in the low 40's.

Nurse Loses Control Of Vehicle

Dies Almost Instantly Of Fractured Neck, No Inquest Planned

MILLBROOK —(ENS)— A young woman was killed when the car in which she was driving alone went out of control and crashed into a tree about three-quarters of a mile west of Bailieboro on a county road, about 7:45 p.m. Saturday.

Mrs. George Thorn, 35, the former Patricia Stone, was a nurse in Cobourg General hospital, who lived with Mrs. Amos Strong at RR 2, Millbrook.

Mrs. Strong said Mrs. Thorn had not been feeling well and had been lying down during the day.

She thought that Mrs. Strong may have taken a weak spell while driving.

Coroner Dr. J. W. Wright said there would be no inquest. He added that the car had apparently gone out of control in some loose gravel as it reached the bottom of the steep part of a hill. It smashed head-on into a large tree on the north side of the road.

Mrs. Thorn died almost instantly. She had a fractured neck and head injuries. The car was demolished.

She is a daughter of Dr. J. D. Stone, 283 Highland Crescent, River Heights, Winnipeg.

Ship Outruns Pirate Junk

HONG KONG (AP)—The British freighter Wing Sang docked here safely today after outrunning a pirate junk that attacked it Sunday with gunfire between Formosa and Hong Kong.

The Wing Sang suffered no casualties in the attack but six .50 calibre armor-piercing bullets struck the superstructure.

The freighter's captain, Harold C. Goddard, said the attacking junk, which lay in wait among three sailing junks and carried Red indistinguishable flag, was a pirate craft.

Navy Has Troubles

Atlantic Storms Batter Canada's Coronation Ships

ABOARD MAGNIFICENT (CP) It may have been the first day of summer in Canada, but the contrary Atlantic was acting up more like it does in March for Canada's homeward bound Coronation squadron Sunday.

It was the third straight day of storm for the six ships beating through angry seas and slashing wind and spray toward Halifax.

The squadron is scheduled to reach Halifax Thursday, but unless the weather relents, it almost certainly will put into port a day or two late. The weather chart showed one storm following another in quick succession and the ships cut their speed to seven knots.

CPO. Alex Stevenson of Victoria found a carrier pigeon on the upper deck of the destroyer Sioux two days out of Portsmouth. The bird was offered its freedom but took one look at the weather, and decided to remain aboard.

Quarters have been rigged up in Sioux's shipwright shop for the bird, which has been named "Walter Pidgeon."

Sioux sailors made much of the fact that the carrier pigeon ignored both this carrier and the Australian aircraft Sydney to land on the destroyer.

The Sydney will visit Halifax for five days before continuing home via the Panama canal.

The frigate La Hulloise had condenseritis. One condenser broke down and she was forced to drop behind. The engine room crew worked all night to make repairs and Sunday night the storm-battered frigate was still trying to overtake the other ships.

Cooks have had a nerve-straining time of it trying to keep the food off galley decks. The Sioux is riding high out of the water with a good part of her fuel gone. She must be refuelled before the squadron reaches Halifax or be taken in tow.

Protestant and Roman Catholic services were held on the Magnificent's quarterdeck Sunday.

The Rev. James Noonan of Toronto, Roman Catholic padre, said the men need not kneel during mass because the ship was pitching so badly. But everybody did, though some had to grab a mate occasionally to keep from tumbling over on the spray-soaked deck.

The thunder of water around the hull and an angry wind combing spray from the wavepeaks almost drowned out the brief sermon of the Rev. Horatio Todd of Halifax, Protestant padre, who was badly injured by heavy seas while serving with the navy in Korea in 1951.

Not Committed To Conquering All Korea

Churchill Sends Stiff Note Denouncing Rhee's Treachery to U.N.

LONDON— (CP) — Prime Minister Churchill told a cheering House of Commons today "we have not committed ourselves in any way to go forward and conquer the whole area of Korea and place it under the authority of Mr. Syngman Rhee."

At the same time, Churchill disclosed Britain has sent a stiff note to President Rhee of South Korea denouncing his "treacherous action" in ordering release of thousands of anti-Communist North Korean prisoners of war. This action, the note said, has created a situation "full of danger."

Churchill's statement that Britain had not committed itself to unifying Korea and placing it under Rhee's authority was a reference to South Korean claims that the UN command was breaking its promise in accepting a truce that would leave Korea divided.

GOVERNMENT SHOCKED

The note said the British government had been "shocked" to read the statement of President Syngman Rhee of South Korea on June 18 in which he said he ordered on his own responsibility the release of anti-Communist North Korean prisoners.

Churchill said the note warned that:

"Unless there is a government in the Republic of Korea which will co-operate loyally with the United Nations command, the security and welfare of its people, as well as all the gains which have been made by the sacrifices of so many, including the gallant Republic of Korea army, will be jeopardized."

The prime minister declared that "nothing could be further from the truth than to allege, as has been done by the Communists, that the UN command connived at these happenings."

He reported that out of about 33,000 North Korean prisoners which would have been placed in the custody of the neutral nations repatriation commission once an armistice had been signed, only 8,000 to 9,000 "remain in the camps which are now under U.S. guard."

"As a member of the United Nations whose military forces are participating in the Korean action, Her Majesty's government strongly condemn this treacherous violation of the authority of the United Nations command to which the government of Korea, had agreed in 1950," the note said.

Uranium Mines Sabotaged In East Germany Reds Admit

BERLIN (AP)—Communist East Germany admitted today sabotage has occurred in the Soviet-managed uranium mines and that violence has continued elsewhere against the Red puppet regime. The Communist party leadership hurled new face-saving charges, claiming that Western agents had parachuted into East Germany to spread havoc after the workers' revolt flared last Wednesday. U.S. officials derided the accusations as fantastic.

ADN, the Soviet-controlled German news agency, confirmed reports that the anti-Red mutiny had struck in the Saxony uranium fields which have been exploited by the Russians since 1947 in the atomic weapons race.

No estimate of damage was given. A West Berlin newspaper, Telegraf, reported Sunday that 100,000 Germans went on strike Thursday in the Saxony uranium mines after a Soviet firing squad executed 12 anti-Red demonstrators. The strikers represented more than one-third of the men in the mines.

MAKE CHARGES

Charges that American and West German money and effort supplied paratroop saboteurs to keep the flames of revolt alive were contained in a Socialist Unity (Communist) party declaration wich pleaded with East Germans to get back to work and support the Red government. The party declaration said a "great number" of the parachutists had been captured but admitted that in the sixth day of Soviet martial law "quiet is not yet entirely secured."

U. S. officials in Berlin in denying the paratroop accusation said the Russians had recorded only one violation of the East zone's air sovereignty outside the Allied corridors this month and that was 10 days ago. It involved an American jet fighter plane. Said a senior American official:

105-Year-Old Grist Mill Gutted By Fire At Keene

A fire that is believed to have smouldered about eight hours burst into a blaze that gutted a 105-year-old grist mill in Keene Saturday night. Only the two-and-a-half-foot-thick stone walls were left standing of the three-and-a-half-storey structure that had been a landmark on the Indian River since 1848. Village residents believe that the fire was started by lightning in a severe storm that swept through the district about 2 p.m. Saturday.

Lightning struck at least two other houses in the village, but the only damage done was that light fixtures were demolished when the hot electrical charge flashed through and melted them.

NOT OPERATED

Owner Hank Skill said that the burning of the mill was no great loss to the community. It had not been operated for about a year and a half and that William Plunkett had operated it sporadically before then. Mr. Plunkett lived on in the mill until his death about two months ago.

Percy Ellison, who lives nearest to the mill, about 200 feet away, said shortly before the fire was discovered his daughter, Carole, smelled smoke, but they could not find its source.

About 10 p.m. two village men, Fred Gall and Wallace Houle, came down from the hill saying that they smelled smoke. Just about then flames burst out of the windows of the two top storeys.

The two men wanted to phone the owner, but Mr. Ellison's phone had been put out of order by the storm in the afternoon.

Ont. Swelters In 90 Degrees

TORONTO (CP)—Temperatures climbed to the 90s during the weekend as most of Ontario and Quebec sweltered in the worst heat wave of the season. Today's forecast is for cooler and less humid conditions.

Hamilton's official high Saturday was a sizzling 97. The mercury hit 90 Sunday and many elderly persons collapsed from the heat during church services and while riding buses.

Toronto's 85 Saturday and 92 Sunday sent citizens scurrying to cottages to the north and drove thousands to lakefront beaches.

London had its hottest day of the year so far, with 93.2 degrees Saturday. Crowds were large at the lake above Fanshaw Dam as swimming opened there for the season. Sunday was a comparatively cool 85.

Many Windsor residents slept on lawns and in parks to escape the heat, which reached 96 degrees Saturday and 92 Sunday. Churches mustered electric fans for Sunday morning services.

The Ottawa heat, 90 degrees Saturday and 93 Sunday, led hundreds of persons to defy a federal district commission ban on swimming at Hog's Back, where the Rideau canal and Rideau river join on the city's southwestern outskirts.

Sight Wreckage Of RCAF Bomber

HALIFAX (CP)—Wreckage of a Lancaster bomber that crashed with nine men aboard in Labrador's frozen wilds more than 4½ months ago was sighted by a sharp-eyed airlines pilot.

An RCAF ground party was flown Sunday to a lake near the crash scene, some 100 miles southeast of Goose Bay, Labrador, but it was not known whether it reached the plane before nightfall.

An air force spokesman said it may take a "couple days" for the party to hack its way through the dense bush. The plane, based at Greenwood, N.S., disappeared Feb. 1 while searching for a United States civilian plane.

Swirling snows that blanketed the area next day apparently hid the plane from 35 search planes.

The Lancaster's pilot was FO. Thomas C. Waggar of Kingston. Other crew members were FO. Charles B. Scott, Fairville, N.B.; FO. Stephen J. Decker, St. John's, Nfld.; FO. Douglas D. Wood, Peterborough; FO. Francis S. Fowlow, St. John's, Nfld.; FO. Bernard D. Forbes, North Bay; FO. Thurland M. Tait, Ingalls Head, N.B.; Cpl. Joseph D. Gallant, Wellington, P.E.I.; and Cpl. Rodger D. Lalond, Kirkland Lake.

Shoot Down 6 Planes From North Korea

SEOUL (AP)—U. S. Sabre jet pilots today blasted six Communist MiGs from the North Korean skies.

Ground action was light except for continued pounding by the Reds against South Korean lines on the east-central front.

Three Russian-built MiG jets were destroyed and two others damaged, the 5th air force reported, by Sabres shielding Allied fighter-bombers hitting a communications centre northwest of Sakchu, near the Manchurian border.

Later in the day, Sabres knocked down three more MiGs while protecting planes pounding a rail bridge near Pyongyang, capital of North Korea.

The lull on the key western front has been unusual. Each day the communique has been reporting only two, three and four contacts among squad size groups—this along a front manned by at least 200,000 Chinese and South Korean troops.

Can Sign Armistice For UN Without Rhee Clark Announces In Korea

Encouraged By Talk With S. Korean Leader Says He's Still In Command of RoK Forces; No New U.S. Policy Given By Commander

SEOUL (AP)—Gen. Mark Clark, United Nations commander, said today he is authorized to sign a Korean armistice even if South Korea does not agree to it. The UN commander-in-chief did not say whether he would sign a truce; "that depends on instructions from my government." He made the statements to reporters after conferring an hour and a half with South Korean President Syngman Rhee. Clark said he was encouraged by the talk.

He indicated Rhee does not now plan to yank his 16 Korean divisions from the UN.

WOULD DISCUSS IT

Clark said it has always been his understanding that if Rhee should consider taking such a "disastrous action" the South Korean president would "discuss it with me before he came to a decision."

"That time has not come," he said.

Clark was asked whether he would sign an armistice without Rhee's advance approval.

He replied that the armistice is between the UN commander and the Red Chinese-North Korean command.

"I am authorized to sign an armistice," he said.

Asked if such a truce would be useless, Clark said: "It would depend upon the amount of co-operation" the UN gets from South Korea.

FRIENDLY TALK

Clark described his talk with Rhee as a "friendly and encouraging discussion."

He said he told Rhee he would be confronted later by reporters and that Rhee agreed both should use such a description of the meeting.

Asked whether a truce could be obtained with South Korea in opposition, Clark replied:

Youth 17, Sentenced To 60 Years In Pen

NEW CITY, N. Y. (AP)—Carlton Mason, who will be 17 years old Tuesday, was sentenced today to 60 years to life imprisonment for the recess-time slaying of two little girl schoolmates.

The youth showed no emotion when Supreme Court Justice Arthur D. Brennan pronounced sentence.

Last Monday Mason pleaded guilty to second-degree murder in the killing of Esther Nagey, 6, in the woods behind the Lakeside school at Spring Valley, N. Y., last March 8. The school is an institution for underprivileged children.

He has not been prosecuted on the charge that he also killed Marjorie Boudreau, 8.

CANBERRA (Reuters) — The Queen will preside at a Privy Council meeting during her five-day visit to Canberra next year, it was announced here today.

Australian members of the Privy Council will be summoned to the session, at which newly-appointed members will be sworn in, according to information released today on the program of the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh in the Australian capital.

The schedule showed that they would arrive here by air on Feb. 13 and fly from here to Sydney Feb. 18 to board the liner Gothic for Hobart, Tasmania.

Christie Goes On Trial For Wife's Murder

LONDON (CP)—John Christie, 55, went on trial today for the murder of his wife, Ethel, one of four women he is accused of killing in a dingy London tenement.

His lawyer pleaded that he was insane. But Attorney-General Sir Lionel Heald, who is prosecuting, contended hat there was no "reasonable probability" for an insanity verdict.

Heald told the jury the facts of Mrs. Christie's death last December left "no alternative but for you to find him guilty of the wilful murder of his wife."

Christie himself entered a plea of innocent. If he is acquitted, he can still be tried for the deaths of the other three women, whose bodies were found stuffed in a wall recess which had been papered over.

Ships Collide On Superior, One Man Killed

PORT ARTHUR—(CP)—A collision near the fabled Sleeping Giant sent a grain-laden Great Lakes freighter to the bottom of Lake Superior Saturday night and cost the life of one member of her crew. The Paterson Steamship Lines' Scotiadoc was rammed amidships by the Canada Steamship Lines' package freighter Burlington in heavy fog after both ships sought shelter along the north shore from heavy seas resulting from a storm during the day.

The Burlington's bow was stove in eight feet by the impact but she was able to make Fort William, about 20 miles from the collision scene, after rescuing 29 members of the Scotiadoc's crew of 30.

Lost was Wallace McDermid, 39, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., who was hampered by a heavy steel polio brace. He was pitched into the rough water when a lifeboat was smashed while being lowered. Mc-

Say Communism Behind Beating

BOSTON (AP)—The crew of the Venezuelan freighter Ciudad de Caracas was questioned today by police who said they believe communism was behind the brutal beating Sunday of the ship's assistant electrician.

Leopold L. Gnaidy, 37, of Detroit, who was found in a pool of blood in the ship's steering room, regained consciousness at a hospital today. He was found soon after the ship docked on arrival Sunday from Montreal.

Lieut. James J. Browley, commander of the Boston police harbor patrol, said "I'm convinced communism is behind it" (the beating).

Crowley said also that preliminary questioning of the crew "showed that on the trip from Montreal Gnaidy felt he would be removed from the ship in Boston."

OLD GILCHRIST MILL, Keene, was gutted by fire Saturday night. Built in 1848, the old two-and-a-half-foot walls still stand strongly. The fire is believed to have been the result of lightning during the afternoon.

Constable Has Busy Day On Lindsay Beat

LINDSAY— (ENS) — Lindsay police constable John Henley had a busy day Sunday, when in addition to providing escort for a father taking his baby, scalded in a cottage accident, to the hospital in town, he also investigated two accidents and one attempted theft.

Charges are reported pending following investigation of a collision on Kent Street West last night. According to police information, a car driven west on Kent Street by John H. King of Bowmanville, collided with a vehicle being driven east by Raymond McInnes of Sunderland, who was making a left turn to Cambridge north. Damage to the King car was $125 to the left front, to the McInnes vehicle $60 to the grill.

During the afternoon, Constable Henley also investigated an accident involving a parked car on Kent Street West, near Lindsay street. According to his report, a car owned by George Millar of Peterborough was parked at the curb on the north side of the street, when another vehicle, being driven west by Louis F. Johnston of Ashburn, collided with the rear end of the Millar car. Johnston told police his attention had been taken momentarily by seeing his daughters, walking on the sidewalk nearby. Damage to the Millar car was only $30 to the rear fender, while the Johnston car was damaged about $150 on the right side.

Constable Henley also reported on investigation after a complaint by witnesses that three youths had tried to break into a gum vending machine in front of a store on Kent Street yesterday afternoon. He reported that the boys apparently made too much noise while attempting the breaking of the lock and fled when a passerby came near. A good description of the boys was obtained and investigation is continuing.

15 Cattle Killed As Storm Leap Frogs Through District

At least 15 cows were instantly killed by lightning in a vicious electrical storm Saturday afternoon that left a trail of dead livestock, flattened wheat and pasture fields, and stricken trees, some of them uprooted, from west of Bailieboro to the vicinity of Marmora.

Eight cattle died in a group under a sheltering pine tree on the farm of William Shearer, RR 1, Birdsall. Three of them were owned by Max Brackenridge of Westwood, and five by Alex Patterson, RR 3, Indian River.

More than a score of the trees were victims of the violent wind in the vicinity of Hastings, many of them in the village. Heaviest loss was reported from south Asphodel, with a continuing path of damage to Healey Falls and up into Hastings county as far as Marmora.

John J. Montague, proprietor of a fur farm, near Hastings village, told the Examiner Sunday night that he had a telephone call from the Marmora area to gather up dead animals in that section.

"I don't know what the storm's toll was over there," he informed the Examiner. "But, there are some, just how many I don't know yet till I get there Monday."

MAN STUNNED

Max Brackenridge is reported to have been knocked off his feet and momentarily stunned by a bolt of lightning that flashed between him and his hired man as they stood under cover of a shed. It was the narrowest escape in his experience of electric storms.

Wind-rain and lightning were terrific, Mr. Montague said.

His tracing of the storm's erratic, zooming course, apparently striking only here and there along its way of destruction, began at the farm of Charles Gardiner, west of Bailieboro, where a brood sow was struck down in the barn yard.

The loss of cattle was listed as follows: three head on the farm of Vincent Hayes, Otonabee, the Keene Road.

Two cows at the farm of Mrs. Clayton Brackenridge, Asphodel, near Westwood, where four stout trees were uprooted by the fury of the wind.

The eight cows at the Shearer farm, five belonging to Alex Patterson, and three from the Max Brackenridge herd.

Bert Sands lost one cow, north of Campbellford, on the east side of the Trent River, near Healey Falls.

SHEEP KILLED

Three sheep were stricken in the flock of James Clysdale, Keene RR 1.

Mr. Montague estimated that 20 trees were down in the village of Hastings, and others along the Norwood Road, and elsewhere in the area. Three trees were bowled over on the Max Brackenridge farm.

This loss of livestock was generally attributed to lightning. Mr. Hayes said his three cows had fallen about 25 feet from the foot of a tree. He discovered his loss when he returned to the field to bring them after the storm had passed.

Varying accounts were heard of the crop damage. Some wheat fields appeared almost as flat as if a rototiller had worked on them. Others were tangled only in strips. Hay, ready for cutting, showed the same pattern of lodging.

Some minor barn damage was mentioned, but Fred Eason of the Farmers Union Mutual Fire Insurance Co., said Sunday he had not heard of serious loss in property.

The storm was one of the most destructive across the southern townships of the county in years.

One line of telephone poles was decimated, but some of them were still standing, apparently supporting those that were snapped off by the wind.

Need Leadership Labor Told

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Canada's labor movement is experiencing a definite lack in leadership, a top labor organizer said here Saturday.

Gordon Cushing, secretary of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, claimed his organization, many of its affiliated unions and other labor organizations are facing a situation where numerous union members are not prepared to do their share of the work.

He said there are at least 67 affiliated TLC trade councils whose "faithful few" are the only persons responsible for any type of union leadership.

Mr. Cushing addressed a banquet audience of some 30 local labor officials and delegates. The union representatives attended during the week-end "refresher courses" at the King street Labor Temple.

"The idea of parachuting underground saboteurs into the Soviet zone is ridiculous. They'd better realize as long as this Communist gang is in power there are already 18,000,000 there."

RELEASE TRAINS

The sealed-off Soviet sector released trains for West Berlin's elevated system, which carried 1,000,000 passengers daily, but none of the five operating lines was permitted to cross the border dividing East and West Berlin.

From Bonn, meanwhile, West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer telegraphed President Eisenhower, Prime Minister Churchill and Rene Mayer, head of the caretaker French government, asking them to do all they could to free East Germany by securing unification of the divided country.

Adenauer said only with a unified Germany governed by a freely-elected all-German government could enduring peace be brought to Europe.

MAY OUST GOVERNMENT

As reports flew that the Russians were about to throw out the satellite East German government of Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl, the party declaration attested to the still-continuing strikes with appeals to the 18,000,000 captive East Germans to go back to work.

The statement made clear the magnitude of the workers' rebellion—the most gigantic rebuff from a captive civilian population in the history of Moscow-directed communism.

The "enemy," the Communists said, incited "millions" of East Germans to take to the streets in wild disorder and "threatened the security and lives of workers of the (East) German democratic republic."

The "Fascist agents" also planned to incite farmers to destroy their crops, the party said.

CAUGHT ON HIGHWAY

The Communists said some Western "agents" equipped with weapons and radio sets had been captured on the superhighway, the autobahn, between Berlin and Leipzig. The statement, however, did not elaborate the number, nationality or fate of those reported captured.

The party promised something like a general amnesty to all strikers who would return to work. It ordered officials to differentiate between "honorable workers" and "Western agents who bilked them into this grave error." But it also grimly warned "tens of thousands" of party men that they should have broken the strike and thus had become suspect of playing more than passive roles.

The shaky regime continued to spread thick its promises to the workers.

REPORTED BURNED

Though 30 divisions of Russian soldiers still ringed and held the east zone, reports filtered through of hundreds of dead and enormous property damage. Such vast plants as the former I. G. Farben synthetic gasoline refinery at Halle, the Buna artificial rubber plant in the same area and a fuel briquette factory at Hachterstedt were reported burned.

Economic experts in West Berlin said obviously plants that had been working exclusively on exports for the Soviet Union had been knocked out by the dozens and that the flow of finished German goods to Russia, Poland and Czechoslovakia had been cut off or seriously diminished.

They surmised the Kremlin would have to reverse the machinery and send aid in the form of materials if the east zone is to get off its knees soon and relieve the political pressure on the Reds.

Thousands of Red secret police continued raids on homes of suspected resistance leaders and there was no way of knowing how many had fallen before Russian firing squads. At least 20 such dead had been reported.

Thousands were reported under arrest.

Family Of 5 Unhurt By Train

MYRTLE—A Beaverton family of five jumped to safety from their car a minute before it was smashed by a slow-moving passenger train here Sunday. Myrtle is 11 miles north of Whitby.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brunning and their children, Analee, 12; Billy, 10, and David, 5, were out for a Sunday afternoon drive when their car stalled on the tracks.

Brunning said stopped at the crossing and, noticing no trains approaching, started across. The motor stopped. He said the wig-wag signal was operating but thought it was for trains which were standing in the station yard.

"I was trying to get the car going," he said, "when all of a sudden I saw the train coming at us. The children were in the back of the car and I hollered for them to get out. We were very lucky."

The driver said the train was slowing down to stop at the station. The car was spun off the tracks.

Ships Collide

Dermid, a porter on the Scotiadoc, clung to the ship's long line for nearly half an hour but finally disappeared.

SECOND SEASON ON LAKES

A veteran of the Second World War and a former business man in Sault Ste. Marie, McDermid was spending his second season on the lakes. He joined the Scotiadoc to be with another Sault man, his lifelong friend Clifford Humphrey, 33.

Mr. McDermid, single, leaves three brothers and three sisters. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie McDermid, live in Sault Ste. Marie.

Humphrey said he blew the Scotiadoc's whistle just before the crash. Later he tried to get McDermid up a lifeline after the seaboat foundered.

Both ships were reported equipped with radar. Officers of each are said to have known another ship was in the vicinity.

Out of the fog off Trowbridge Island near Thunder Cape, popularly known as the Sleeping Giant, the cargoless Burlington loomed, headed at the side of the Scotiadoc, which carried 253,000 bushels of wheat destined for eastern points.

VERY FOGGY

Lookout man Leonard Lefebvre, 17, of Perkinsfield who was on duty on the Burlington, said: "It was so foggy I couldn't even see the stack of our ship." He shouted a warning and grabbed a life jacket.

Third engineer J. Patterson, 25, also of Perkinsfield, on duty in the Burlington's engine room, said the engines were going full astern at the time of the impact.

John Marchildon of Perkinsfield and R. Wilson of Owen Sound, Burlington's watchman and deckhand respectively, said the first thing they heard was "a big bang."

Scotiadoc survivors included James Cowan, Midland and Marcel Labrosse, Cornwall. Mr. Labrosse also survived the sinking of the freighter Lavaldoc near Kingston in 1948.

Survivors, many till wearing life jackets, said on their arrival at the Lakehead the vessels crashed a few minutes after 6 p. m. Saturday.

GRAIN SPILLS OUT

The Burlington ripped out a huge section of the Scotiadoc's side. The grain from the Scotiadoc's holds started to spill out into the water as the vessel took a sharp list.

Aboard the Scotiadoc, there was little panic as the order to abandon ship was given, survivors said. The starboard lifeboat was lowered first from the high side of the listing vessel but the list and the heavy seas combined to smash it as it hit the water. Five persons including McDermid and two women were thrown into the lake. They drifted astern where they managed to grab the trailing log line.

Others from the smashed lifeboat shinnied back aboard the Scotiadoc by means of the ropes used to lower the boat.

Then the second seaboat was put over the port side. This boat, which eventually carried all the Scotiadoc's crew except McDermid, was bashed against the Scotiadoc's side. Some oars were broken but the boat itself landed in the rolling seas right side up. Then it was guided to the Scotiadoc's stern where four persons were rescued from the log line.

McDermid was farthest back on the line. He still was holding on as the seaboat came near but the line broke.

SUFFERED SHOCK

Two of those who had spent more than 20 minutes in the cold water were Lillian Atkinson, 53, of Fort William, second cook, and Sophie Michasiw, 24, stewardess, also of Fort William. They later received hospital treatment for shock.

An hour after the Burlington left the scene, the Scotiadoc still was afloat. A Royal Canadian Navy Fairmile searched the area all day Sunday and found no sign of the stricken vessel or of McDermid.

A few weeks ago the United States freighter Henry Steinbrenner, her hatch covers loosened in a storm and heavy seas, foundered and sank near Isle Royale in the same general area of Lake Superior with a loss of 10 lives.

The Scotiadoc had a gross tonnage of 4,424 and was commanded by George Morriss, 55, of Fort William.

George Ward of St. Catharines is skipper of the 4,979-ton Burlington.

Pinay, who served as premier for about nine months last year, was asked Sunday by President Vincent Auriol to try to end the French governmental crisis which now is in its 33rd day, a post-liberation record.

The mild-mannered little tannery owner delayed his definite answer, however. Originally, he promised his reply for midafternoon today. As his consultations went forward, however, the answer was delayed until tonight of perhaps Tuesday.

Driver Gives Life To Save Pedestrians

PICTON (CP)—Police said Saturday Leonard Welsh of Millbridge was fatally injured Friday night but saved the lives of many persons after the brakes of his 10-ton truck failed on a hill.

The vehicle careened down a crowded street. Welsh, who police said could have jumped to safety, stayed at the wheel, guiding the vehicle and sounding his horn to warn he couldn't stop.

The truck snapped off a hydro pole and crashed against concrete steps of a machine shop in this town 15 miles southeast of Belleville. Welsh died later in hospital.

In no time flames were leaping into the air and most of the village and many from the district gathered to watch the fire, but could do nothing to fight it.

The village has no fire fighting equipment and the flames had too much of a head start for a bucket brigade to do anything. In any case the fire was at the top and worked down, making it just about impossible for anything less than a modern fire fighting equipment to reach it.

NO BREEZE

Luckily there was almost no breeze to carry sparks to other buildings and there were few buildings near the mill. The flames and sparks shot high into the air and the sparks drifted toward the north, toward the village rink. But at no time, said Mr. Ellison, did the rink seem to be in any real danger. Nor was the Ellison house threatened.

Residents of Hiawatha, 4 miles away, could see the blaze and some came to the fire.

The mill was built in 1848, it is believed, by the Burnham family. It passed through several hands, with the Wedlock family owning it at one time.

In recent years it had been deteriorating and would have needed a good deal of repair to be put into first class operating condition.

Owner Skill was away during the fire. He had been with friends at a weiner roast at Lock 24 on the Trent canal. It was not until 1.30 or 2 a.m. that he returned to the village to find his mill demolished.

He said it was difficult to estimate the value of the building, but that it was partly covered by insurance.

Young Traveller

REGINA (CP) — Eight-year-old Bruce Hinke won a 2,135-mile plane trip from Alaska to visit his grand-parents here. That was the prize his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Hinke, gave him for passing grade two after a late November start in school.

Co-Op Farms

REGINA (CP)—Total income of 25 co-operative farms in Saskatchewan was $718,485 in 1952. The provincial co-operatives department reports the farms now have total assets of $1,525,500, showing an increase in each of the last four years.

MISCHIEVOUS COON

On Friday evening a coon climbed one of the hydro poles on a farm near Omemee causing a short circuit. Repair men were called to the scene and found the coon uninjured, but very stubborn. Eventually the animal had to be shot so that access could be had to the wires and the connection restored.

Lindsay Police Escort Child To Hospital

LINDSAY, June 22.—Lindsay police were called on Sunday to provide an escort for a car bearing a scalded baby boy to the Ross Memorial Hospital. The child, Robert Virtue, two, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Virtue, 30th St., New Toronto, received a scalding from the waist down when a tea kettle upset while they were visiting north of town on Sunday.

The parents of the child did not know the location of the hospital and town police were asked to provide a guide and escort on the trip from the town limits at highway 36 and Queen St. The child was treated in outpatients' department of the hospital and released later yesterday afternoon.

McCann Derides

A September date would have meant enumeration in July, a difficult task. The same applied for October, and in the northern parts of the country, winter set in early.

ISSUE CLEAR

The issue, said the Hon. Mr. McCann, was clear. It was this:

"Are we to continue to have a government which has popular support across the nation, or are we to be saddled with a makeshift group drafted from all parties in Canada?"

The only real national party was the Liberal party. Mr. St. Laurent's personality and "masterly statesmanship" had been in a large part responsible for the Liberal victory of 1949.

"I submit Mr. Drew does not compare, by any yardstick, with the qualities of Mr. St. Laurent. Judge for yourselves."

"We appeal to the country on our record, and on the basis of superiority of leadership."

Concluding, Mr. McCann predicted the Liberals would win 150 seats in the forthcoming election. He was given a standing ovation at the end of his address.

Liberal candidate for Peterborough riding, Max Swanston, introduced Mr. McCann, and Senator W. A. Fraser of Trenton thanked the speaker.

U.S. Dollar At Discount

MONTREAL (CP)—The U. S. dollar was at a discount of ⅜ per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon tody. Friday's noon rate was 99 19-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.80⅝, unchanged.

MADE ELECTRIC CLOCK

The electric clock was invented by Alexander Bain in Britain in 1843.

Girl, 13, Saved From Drowning

ROSENEATH (ENS)—A 13-year-old girl was saved from drowning by her 12-year-old brother and another boy of the same age Sunday afternoon at Sandiecott's point on Rice Lake three miles west of Roseneath.

The girl is Virginia Smoke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irven Smoke, of Alderville, a Grade 8 pupil of Alderville school.

Virginia, a poor swimmer, got out beyond her depth. She called for help and went down once. Her brother, Bill and Jerry Oatman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Oatman of Toronto, reached her just as she was going down for a second time.

The Oatmans have a cottage at nearby Dunnett's landing.

The youngster was none the worse for her experience and went to school today.

Report Prices Firmer On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO (CP)—Prices firmer in light early afternoon stock market trading.

Base metals spear-headed a moderate noon rally that netted them a point and a quarter on the exchange's 1 p.m. index and reversed the weaker trend in western oils and industrials. Golds failed to participate in the advance.

Uraniums and Bathurst N.B., base metals continued to fade slowly in smaller turnovers. On the weaker side were Rix, Nesbitt Labine, Baska and Brunston. Nudulama slipped to a new low of 55 cents after dropping around 5 cents.

East sullivan, Normetal and United Asbestos led the drive in lower-priced base metals with gains ranging to 35 cents. Among higher-priced stocks, Smelters, Noranda, Hudson Bay and Falconbridge were strong.

Western oils struggled back to firmer prices after a weak open.

Industrials bounced back for a half-point index gain despite a slow start. Liquors, manufacturing companies and miscellaneous industrials tended higher but papers and utilities were still weak. Aluminum New picked up ¾ while Hiram Wlkers added ½. Dominion Bridge stepped back $1.

Interest lagged in the olds group.

"Of course," Clark said, there was no doubt in his mind that he was still commander of South Korean military forces.

He said he understood there was an order issued which passes to the South Korean provost marshal authority over "some security troops in the rear."

However, he added, there was no question that the Republic of Korea Army is "under my command."

TROOPS LOYAL

Asked whether he thinks the RoK troops are loyal, Clark replied, emphatically, "yes."

Clark said he and Rhee agreed no individual should be allowed to make moves between RoK and Allied troops that would "bring them into violent conflict."

On the surface, it would appear that Clark got from Rhee a further commitment not to withdraw RoK troops from the UN command without prior consultation nor to make any move that would stir up open clashes between Allied troops and South Korean troops.

When reporters sought to pin down Clark on why he was more encouraged after his talk with Rhee, the general said he could not reveal that.

Clark said he would stay in Korea until Tuesday at least.

NO NEW POLICY

The general said he did not outline to Rhee any new American policy and that President Eisenhower's offer to negotiate a mutual security pact with South Korea after a truce had not been withdrawn.

Asked about UN command efforts to recapture anti-Communist North Korean prisoners released by the RoKs from their prison camps, Clark answered that his command was taking "such measures as practicable" to recover them.

Clark said he had no comment concerning the estimated 9,000 North Korean anti-Reds still in the prison camps, and that Rhee did not ask that they be released.

Some 27,000 other anti-Reds were freed on Rhee's orders or escaped since Thursday.

Let's Forget Previous Charge Says Accused

Despite the accused's suggestion "we all forget about it," Percy Crummey of Hastings was remanded in custody this morning by Magistrate W. R. Philp until Tuesday when the crown plans to prove Crummey was convicted on a drunk charge in October, 1951.

Crummey, today, faced two second offence drunk charges, both involving the 1951 date as the first charge. The two charges were laid February 16, 1952, and August 5, 1952.

Additionally he was charged and convicted on two further drunk offences taking place June 12 and June 20 of this year. Sentences totalled 20 days.

NO PLEA TAKEN

On the previous charge, Crummey asked "weren't those fines paid?" He was informed by the magistrate he had never even pleaded on them, while Crown Attorney Bradshaw said there had been a warrant for Crummey's arrest for six months.

The inability of Crummey to remember the charges prompted him to suggest "the best thing to do would be to forget them and let me go home."

This feeling was not shared by the court, however. Crummey was remanded for one day while the crown looks over the court records.

Missing Child Found In B.C.

WINNIPEG (CP) — The search for five-year old Linda Verfaillie of Winnipeg ended Saturday when police discovered her in a downtown Vancouver hotel room with George Prevost, the man reported to have taken her from her home 27 days ago, Winnipeg police said today.

Prevost and the little girl had been sought from coast to coast.

Police reported the little girl is in good health. Prevost is being held in Vancouver pending instructions from Winnipeg police.

Linda and Prevost were found in the hotel where they were registered as George Brown and daughter.

Police said they traced Prevost after he sent a telegram to a friend in Port Churchill, June 15, asking him to send funds.

Prevost disappeared with Linda last May 21. Prevost, who was staying at the Verfaillie home, had Linda's parents' permission to take her for a week's holiday to a farm, supposedly near Winnipeg. The search began when police could find neither Prevost nor the farm.

Churchill Won't Visit Ontario After Parley

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Sir Winston Churchill does not plan to visit Ontario after the three-power talks at Bermuda, the St. Catharines Chamber of Commerce has been advised.

The Bermuda conference probably will be held next month.

The chamber wrote the prime minister in May, inviting him to speak here. The reply was made through the United Kingdom high commissioner at Ottawa.

Chamber officials said they believed from the reply that it is also unlikely Sir Winston will visit Canada after the Bermuda talks.

Cornerstone Laid For New Church

LINDSAY—(ENS) — The Rev. W. B. Greenwood, Belleville, district supervisor of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada, officiated Sunday at the laying of the cornerstone of the new building of the Lindsay assembly, to be located on Glenelg St.

Mr. Greenwood chose as his theme for a brief sermon at the afternoon ceremony, "Christ the cornerstone of the Church," and then laid a trowel to the stone, declaring it officially laid.

A group of local members, with visitors from Bobcaygeon and Coboconk congregations, attended the ceremonies. Pastor M. W. Holmes of the local assembly was in charge, assisted by the Rev. Arthur Hodgins of Bobcaygeon and the Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Wilkins, of Coboconk. Deputy Reeve A. E. Hick, representing Mayor Charles Lamb, brought the congratulations of town council to the congregation on their new building.

The new church is valued, according to building permits, at $20,000. Most of the labor, including skilled carpentry is being done voluntarily by members of the congregation. The building will measure 40 feet by 72 feet outside, and will be of brick.

The main auditorium with pastor's study, baptismal tank, and nursery, will take up the main floor, and the basement will hold eight church school classrooms, another smaller auditorium, kitchen and rest rooms.

The congregation have met for some years in a redecorated house on Cambridge street south. Work on the church began in April and it will be finished in November.

250-Acre Bush Fire Started By Lightning

COCHRANE (CP)—A 250-acre bush fire, believed to have been started by lightning Sunday, is burning in Hepburn county along the Ontario-Quebec border, 75 miles east of here.

Aircraft from the Ontario department of lands and forests and a helicopter from nearby Remi lake have been called in to help in the fight.

The fire is in a timber stand belonging to the Abitibi Pulp and Paper Company.

KINGSTON (CP)—Workers at Aluminum Company of Canada, members of Local 343, United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), rejected the company's contract offer Sunday and asked the department of labor to formally set up a conciliation board.

Two other main points not agreed upon by the two parties are vacations and medical-surgical coverage. The union is asking three weeks of paid holidays after 15 years service and a medical-surgical plan whereby the company pays part of the cost.

The union spokesman said the company has made no offers on these two points. The company's wage increase offer was retroactive to May 24, the date the old contract expired.

West Indian Federation

Progress towards federation of the British West Indian colonies is of peculiar interest to Canada. This country went through such a period nearly ninety years ago—the first British territory overseas to secure its own federation. Apart from the interest in a modern parallel, Canada has a new geographical and economic intimacy with the West Indies. Cultual and economic commerce between this country and the Caribbean British dependencies is increasing. The main outlines of the proposed federation are therefore worthy of Canadians' consideration. They have been given in the report, published this month, of the recent London conference on West Indian federation. The West Indians agreed on the type of Federal constitution they want, and the United Kingdom's plan of financial assistance during the early years of the new federation has been accepted.

• • •

As now outlined, the Governor-General is to have reserve powers under which he may refuse assent to any Bill likely to lead to the need of financial assistance from the British Government, or to affect the credit of the Federation. The Federal Cabinet is to be a Council of State. It will be made up of the Prime Minister, three officials appointed by the Governor-General, seven nominated by the Prime Minister, and three Senators appointed by the Governor-in-Council. The Legislature will be a Senate of 19 members appointed by the Governor-General and a House of Representatives of 45 members elected by the unit territories. These federating units may be Antigua, Barbado, Dominica, Grenada, Jamaica, Montserrat, St. Kitts, Nevis and Anguilla, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, Trinidad and Tobago. These have delegates at London. British Guiana and British Honduras have only observers.

• • •

There are obviously many differences between the proposed constitution of this British federation and that of Canada of 1867. The Governor-General will have wider powers. The Cabinet will be less responsible to the Legislature, and the Federation will be more financially dependent on Britain. The region will continue to need and share in grants and subsidies from the Colonial Office. A grant of money up to £500,000 has been offered towards the cost of establishing Federal headquarters. The U.K. has also offered annual grants to help certain territories to pay their way in local government, through the new Federal Government, for a period up to 10 years. Thus it is apparent that while the new Federation is being arranged to stand on its own feet constitutionally and politically, it has not yet enough financial strength to do so economically.

• • •

An interesting recent development has been the result of a new constitution in British Guiana. Under it local influences have arisen favourable to federation. British Guiana and Honduras (both on the mainland of the American continents) were originally expected to take part in the federation, but did not do so at the London preliminaries this spring. The next stage towards federation is the acceptance of the plan by each separate colony and territory in the West Indies.

The Fat Fifth

Dr. E. Gordon Young, of the National Research Council, thinks that about 1,250,000 people in Canada are too heavy, and of this number 420,000 would be considered downright fat. He spoke of this at the convention of the Canadian Dietetic Association. Dr. Rachel Beaudoin of the University of Montreal added some interesting comments to those of Dr. Young, making the statement, surprising to laymen, that obesity may be called a form of malnutrition; we have been inclined to think of malnutrition as underfeeding, but it obviously can also mean any sort of bad feeding.

Of course, physicians have been saying this sort of thing for years, and as well as physicians a large number of cranks, quacks and diet nuts have been saying it as well. But in their psychological approach we think that at least half of them have been quite wrong. In their books, and in their talks and lectures, they make fun of fat people; they devise plans which they call "The Fat Boy's Diet," and expect that fat people will giggle delightedly and follow their advice. They appear to think that fat people regard their weight as a great joke, and that because they sometimes look funny, that they really feel funny.

This is, to put it mildly, shallow thinking. Fat people are often sensitive about their condition; they are also stubborn about it. Nobody regards a man who smokes too much as a public joke; nobody thinks that a man who drinks too much is a public comedian; why, then, is the man who eats too much expected to listen to all kinds of tasteless jokes about his condition—often from people who smoke or drink more than they should? If, when a fat man was greeted with, "Well, how's your diet?" he were to reply with, "Fine; how's your lung cancer?" he would be considered guilty of bad taste; it is questionable, however, whether the one remark is not about as offensive as the other.

If one fifth of the people in Canada over 30 are too fat, they should take steps to lose weight. But they will not be encouraged to do so by the mockery of the four-fifths whose greed manifests itself somewhere other than at the dining table.

Democrats For Eisenhower

The Democratic Party of the United States has adopted an unusual and interesting policy for the campaign which will end with the election of Senators and members of the House of Representatives in 1954. The official line, announced earlier this month, will be that Mr. Eisenhower is a great and good President, but that he is in danger of becoming the captive of the Old Guard of his own Republican Party. To avert this, the voters of the United States should elect a Democratic Congress in 1954, the implication being, of course, that such a Congress would support the Administration.

With the Democratic Party in a rather muddled state, this may be as sound a policy as could be devised. The party is in debt, unorganized, and without an elected leader. In this situation, it is being very ably guided by Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, who helped to decide upon the new policy. It is an open attempt to cash in on the great personal popularity of the President, and it might prove successful. A shift of only five seats in the House of Representatives, it may be noted, could give the Democrats control of that body.

Democratic campaigners will be able to offer considerable evidence that the so-called Old Guard of the Republicans is ready to oppose its will to that of the President. Despite pronouncements of unity and amity, contradictory statements of favoured policy have been made in the past by the President and some of his party members, notably Senators Knowland, who is now acting Senate leader, and Senators Taft and McCarthy. These legislators are influential, and if their influence became stronger they might be able to impose their will on the Administration, and the voters will be told they must make sure this cannot happen.

It may be an ingenious policy, but it leaves one question unanswered: What are the Democrats going to say about the "great and good President" when they run a Presidential candidate of their own in 1956?

This Is

The cognoscenti have currently a new pattern of discourse. It is a trick of speech, involving the insertion, at the right moment, of the summary phrase "This is". Here is how to do it.

You put in your guinea's worth of comment on, say, the prisoner of war situation in Korea, five or six sentences of it. Then you say: "This is a shambles." If you have anything left to add, you go on from that peak.

You have seen the Coronation movie. You make several wise or witty comments about it by way of preamble. You pause significantly, to let the moment gain elevation. Then you pronounce the word of literate assessment: "This is a great film."

You discuss the work of modern artist Squiggley von Scrutchly, reaching the pregnant climax: "This is supreme ratiocination in chroma."

The This of This is is importantly neuter and third person, somewhat in the manner of royalty pronouncing personal judgment: "This is a Great Artist"; "This is the Eternal Feminine Incarnate"; "This is a Man of Charming Wickedness".

If you are adept in the avant-garde style, you may even omit the preparatory foundation sentences, provided your audience is in key for you. Somebody asks what you think of the radio voice of Samuel Pepys. You pause, silence reverently creates a hiatus between question and your pronouncement, and then you say: "This is an interesting voice". Having so said, the field is won. You can continue to expatiate on the radio personality of whatever diarist you choose without fear of contradiction or dissent.

Fashions vary in words as in clothes, and if you wish to be numbered among the bright minds and right tongues of the hour, well: This is to be au fait.

The Canadian Medical Association condemns penicillin lozenges. By the way, whatever became of the malted-milk lollipop?

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

AMERICAN piano manufacturers report that sales of their instruments are reaching the highest mark since the early days of radio. Back in the early twenties the "parlor piano" was a standard article of furniture in the American Home, until radio reduced interest and the depression nearly finished what was left. During the war piano manufacturers that had survived the economic troubles switched to war production and the production of musical instruments was entirely halted. The close of the war showed a gradual build-up of production, and a peak was reached in 1950 as a result of scarce buying on account of the Korean War. Now that the American government has taken off all controls the market shows signs of expanding again.

✧ ✧ ✧

WHAT is the cause of this? The president of the manufacturers' association puts it down to the bumper crop of World War II babies, who are now reaching the right age to start music lessons. This may be a contributing factor, but even the 1950 production of pianos was well below the average figure in the early twenties, when the population of the U.S.A. was considerably lower than it is now. On the other hand it must be born in mind that the piano is a fairly long-lived instrument. Given reasonable care it may continue to be playable for thirty or forty years, or even longer. Unlike a violin it does not exactly improve with age, but so long as the action and soundboard remain in good condition it should not require much outlay to restore it to good playing order.

Thus the piano market cannot be compared with the market in cars or radios, which deteriorate much more rapidly. Moreover there have been few if any significant improvements in the manufacture of pianos during the last few years, and the workmanship of modern pianos is inferior, owing to the decline in craftsmanship. As I see it, the industry is still making up the backlog of hard times in the depression and the cessation of operations during the war.

I cannot share the optimism of the American piano manufacturers, who predict a 30 per cent increase in their sales eight years from now. In fact I would prophesy a serious set-back to them if they persist in their present policy of "eye-appeal" to the detriment of the all-important questions of tone and touch. You can buy a piano today in almost any finish from blond walnut to limed oak or plain black. One company is using coloured plastic, while another offers a "ranch model" of knotty pine with rawhide trimming and a steer's head carved on the music rack! You may safely bet that the maker is not Steinway, the only American firm with a truly international reputation for excellent workmanship.

I do not wish to infer an absence of reputable American pianos apart from Steinway—far from it; but the significant fact remains that none of them are well-known ouside of this continent. Unfortunately good solid workmanship costs money in these days of high labour costs and mass production, and it does not show on the surface; yet the old French proverb "Bonne renommee vaut mieux que ceinture doree" is as true in the piano business as it is in private life; and firms that are willing to cash in on an ephemeral interest in rawhide trimmings are asking for trouble unless they continue to pay strict attention to fundamentals.

✧ ✧ ✧

BRITISH orchestras have gained a high reputation in recent years by means of recordings, radio and visits abroad. The recent tour of the Boyd Neel orchestra, one of the most distinguished of the smaller ensembles, is a case in point. Overseas listeners might be led into thinking that they were hearing the culmination of a long tradition in orchestral playing, yet such is not the fact. Unlike the continent of Europe the English tradition has been mainly vocal, with a strong emphasis on choral singing. While the Continent, especially Central Europe, was forging aheal in the domain of orchestral music during the nineteenth century the British continued in the relative backwater of oratorio and cantata. Secure in their island fortress they lived in the glorious and comfortable afterglow of Handel and his imitators and successors. No English composer of the nineteenth century was immune from the necessity of writing an oratorio, which was usually very stodgy, in order to establish his respectability as a composer and an individual.

✧ ✧ ✧

FIFTY years ago there were only two orchestras in Britain on a permanent footing; now there are eleven. Five of these are in London, and though it can be doubted whether even such an enormous agglomeration as the metropolis can support that number it certainly argues a vitality in the musical life of London. It is perhaps a little hard for Canadians to realize the preponderating influence of London in British life. Not only is it the seat of government (there are no provincial legislatures in Britain), but also being by far the largest city it is the centre of commerce, art and fashion. To the Englishman, at any rate, the phrase "I am going to Town" almost invariably refers to London. Admittedly zealous Mancunians and Glaswegians are apt to speak of their cities as though they were the hubs of the universe, but the hard fact is that the influence of London, which has always been great, is increasing rather than diminishing. This is not altogether a healthy state of affairs, for the verdict of London is not infallible and it tends to stifle a healthy regionalism. Movements such as the over-publicized Scottish nationalists are based on a reaction against this increasing centralization.

✧ ✧ ✧

YET in spite of everything there is a vigorous musical life in many of the larger centres. There are, as we have seen, only six permanent orchestras outside London (the most famous of these is the Halle Orchestra of Manchester), but there are several amateur or semi-amateur orchestras in various parts of the country. They are still vastly outnumbered by choral societies, but without their existence the choral societies themselves would be seriously hampered for lack of efficient orchestral accompaniment. Where no orchestra exists in its own right the "scratch orchestra" hastily got together for the performance of an oratorio lives up to its name!

✧ ✧ ✧

A GOOD augury for the future was the organization in 1947 of the National Youth Orchestra of Great Britain under the leadership of Dr. Reginald Jacques and Walter Susskind, with the object of furthering the musical education of the most talented of young musicians while still at school. The boys and girls in this orchestra rehearse and perform regularly under experienced professional conductors. With an organization such as this the future of British orchestral music seems bright indeed, and serious consideration might be given to the formation of similar bodies in Toronto and other larger Canadian cities.

Letters To The Editor

VICTIM OF PROPAGANDA

Sir,—Regarding your assertion that the leaders of Scotland sold that long-suffering country to the English—Man! oh Man! You've been a victim of Sassenach propaganda.

In the early 18th century Scotsmen had achieved distinction in all walks of life, but there were still empires to build and civilizations to be carved from existing wildernesses.

The Scots knew that with a jealous and hostile England (or "lesser Scotland" as we call it) at their back door, the crusade of progress could not be undertaken until a guarantee of peace was obtained at home.

With this in mind the Treaty of Union was signed, and, if the Scots were businesslike enough to extract some recompense from the English, more power to them!

There was a saying "an Englishman's word is his bond," and the Scots forgetting Good Queen Bess's murder of Mary of Scotland, and William's mass murder at Glencoe, assumed that the phrase might have some substance in fact.

Alas! Perfidious Albion! The leopard could not change his spots and what could never have been taken by force or honest dealing was achieved by trickery.

Verily, dear misguided sir, truth is stranger than propaganda, and I close by quoting the prophecy of Columkill "York was, London is, but Edinboro' shall be, the greatest city of the three." Slainte!

McTAVISH.

THE SCOTS ARE SUPERIOR

Sir,—In reading your paper recently, I have decided that one person of that superior race, the Caledonians, has carried the white man's burden for long enough, and I, as a proud and patriotic countryman of his, am willing to share that burden. I add, that I agree with everything that he has written, (and probably what he will write) because a Scotsman is rarely wrong. So here's to "MacTavish," may his name never be forgotten, and it never shall as long as there is a

"MACBETH"

WHAT ABOUT THE OLD FEDERAL BUILDING?

Sir:—I see by the boardings that you folks are going to have a new Federal Building. Good enough!

Now might be a good time to start an agitation re disposal of the old ones which look pretty awful to me.

If you want an example of the government's policy of holding on to such properties for no good reason at all, may I suggest that you take a look at Kitchener, Ont. There, on King St. W., occupying a valuable business site, stands the old building—same type as yours. The Department of Defense occupies it for "recruiting"—upper floors are used for domestic housing—(even a great TV aerial on roof). It is dead as a dodo bird but the federal government hangs on, it is an eyesore and a degenerate influence on the community which is normally and naturally a progressive one.

Surely you, with your great influence and eloquence, will not allow this to happen to your Fair City—or are you really interested?

Yours truly,
LONE TRAVELER.

GHOSTS OF THE PAST

Sir,—May I ask the courtesy of your columns to say a few words to "Suas Alba," who seems to have a poor opinion of the Welsh—a people whom I am proud to call my own.

The Welsh were certainly beaten by the English and when they found this out they did the sensible thing, and found ways to live with the English. And they found that the English were not bad at all—when you aren't fighting with them. Now I suggest that this is "realistic" which is the word you applied to the Welsh in your article.

But the Welsh did not cease to be Welsh, and they kept their language and they have a living literature in it. The English certainly didn't take Gaelic away from Scotland, but it has gone and they have no literature in their own tongue. A lot of Scotland's misery is of her own making. And a lot of it is pumped up by people like "Suas Alba" who want a fight and always want it on the narrowest nationalist grounds. They have always got to be shouting to the world about Scotland for fear the world won't notice them. Now I know dozens of Scots who are not like this, and who can live happily with everybody. Like the Welsh they are realists. All genuine realists are internationalists, and narrow nationalism is not for the modern world.

I am afraid poor old "Suas Alba" has no sense of humour, or he would not be such a hater. As for realism I will only say that the Welsh stopped fighting the ghosts of the past long ago, and remember only those ghosts that feed the soul and the imagination—ghosts of King Arthur and the great saints of western Britain. The best of Scotland has done the same. I don't think "S.A." speaks for anybody but himself, poor fellow.

With thanks,
CEIRIOG.

WHAT ARE THE SCOTS DOING?

Sir,—As an "exile" from Cambria I wish to thank you for your support in the face of the flagrant accusations made by Suas Alba against the Welsh.

I think that Suas Alba might do well to consider the physical relief of Britain and acknowledge the fact that Wales lay in a far more susceptible position to English power than did Scotland, despite the stronghold of the Cambrian mountains and the marshes. However, my purpose is not to refute the fact that the Welsh were beaten, but rather to prove to Suas Alba that they possess stronger characteristics of independence than do the Scots. The Welsh language is still very much alive and every encouragement is being given to foster the use of the language in both the elementary and secondary schools and in the universities. We in Wales still practise ancient rituals, that existed long before the English race as such was established, in the form of the Eisteddfod Gwenedlaethol to which the people of Wales come in their eagerness to compete with each other in music, literature and the arts. Moreover, the Eisteddfod is conducted solely in the Welsh tongue. Can Suas Alba provide as majestic an example of the survival of a nation's history in Scotland?

If as our accuser states, 'the Welsh gave up their idea of a separate Celtic Kingdom,' it seems totally incongruous that they should after these many centuries, still use their native tongue and practise their age-old crafts and culture. A country that can retain its language and culture has not lost its independence!

The perseverance of the Welsh in maintaining their own national characteristics and simultaneously living in peace with their English neighbours serves to prove that the Welsh are truly realistic, for they can admit defeat and still survive with independence. What concrete efforts are being made by the Scots to obtain independence apart from verbal complaints and making surreptitious attacks on the English by such practices as removing the Stone of Scone?

Yours sincerely,
GWLADYS EVANS.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people.

But when he saw the multitudes, he was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd.

Then said he unto his disciples, The harvest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few: pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth labourers into his harvest. (Matt. 9:35-38.)

And when he had called unto him his twelve disciples, he gave them power against unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal all manner of sickness and all manner of disease . . .

These twelve Jesus sent forth, and commanded them, saying, Go not into the way of the Gentiles, and into any city of the Samaritans enter ye not: but go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. And as ye go, preach, saying, The kingdom of heaven is at hand. Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils: freely ye have received, freely give. (Matt. 10: 1, 5-8.)

Rise And Shine

(Edmonton Journal)

Present-day sleepers can feel thankful that today's alarms are so mild and gentle compared with those of other times.

A New York exhibition of antique clocks and watches feature a device which was used to rouse people in 18th Century Czechoslovakia. Combining the talents of the clockmaker and the gunsmith, it consisted of a dial attached to a flintlock device, similar to that used in firing the muskets of the period. Before retiring the owner set it and put a charge of gunpowder in the firing-pan. When the fatal hour arrived, the gunpowder exploded near the sleeper's ear. The blast was also supposed to light a candle, which showed him what time it was. To make assurance doubly sure, a large bell then started to ring.

It must have taken an iron man to oversleep in those days.

Stories Of Armada, Plague, Told In Old U.K. Papers

BIRCH HILLS, Sask. (CP)—The sailing of the Spanish Armada, the "Black Death," the fire of London and Lord Nelson's funeral are reported in British newspapers dating back to 1588 and now in the possession of Charles Serle.

Serle, a pioneer resident of this area 25 miles southwest of Prince Albert, received the papers from his stepmother in England. They had been owned by his father.

The oldest newspaper in the collection is the English Mercurie, printed in 1588, which relates the arrival of the news of the sailing of the Spanish Armada.

The report gives an elaborate description of the tenseness of the English and the news that Sir Francis Drake had set out to meet the Spaniards.

Second oldest in the collection is the Newes, printed July 6, 1665. It described the "Black Death" and told what should be done if the plague struck a home.

The London Gazette edition of Sept. 3, 1666, carried the story of the London fire.

A copy of the Jan. 10, 1806, edition of the London Times carries a story of the funeral of Lord Nelson.

Another newspaper in the collection is a copy of the Chronicle published Feb. 10, 1840, which carried the report of the wedding of Queen Victoria and Prince Albert.

Unit Of Pain Invented Called The Dol

LONDON (Reuters) — Doctors here have found evidence to back what women have always claimed —that there is no worse pain than the suffering of childbirth.

It outmatches the pain of severe burns in intensity but is far more endurable because it has purpose.

A research team at the Middlesex Hospital, one of the biggest in London, is using a new instrument called a dolorimeter to measure pain intensity. The doctors have invented a unit of pain called the dol.

Toothuche, earache and backache are low on the pain list at between one and two dols. By comparison, the pain of a heart attack and severe headaches from brain complaints register seven to nine dols.

Women in childbirth top the list at 10 dols, while men go through life seldom experiencing pain above five or six dols, unless they suffer severe skin burns which rate nine dols.

There is little pain atached to dying, doctors have foumd. Most people die in a state of unconsciousness.

The dolorimeter is a simple but effective instrument. It focuses a light - beam of known ftrength through a magnifying glass on the volunteer patient's forehead. Patients tell the doctor when the burn hurts as much as the pain of the complaint.

The doctors are not only applying burns to willing patients. They are using the instrument on themselves to study different levels of pain first-hand. One of them, Dr. John W. Markham, has endured 38 bad blisters during the last year.

Australia's Giant Missile Range Becomes Great Open Air Laboratory

By LIONEL HUDSON

WOOMERA, Australia (Reuters) —To the unitiated what is officially known as "the Woomera long range weapons establishment" here is a formidable 1,200 miles strip of arid desert in the South Australian hinterlands.

But to the expert on guided missiles, scanning the desolate red landscape, "it is a beautiful bit of dust," and ideal place for him to test the weapons of the future.

Situated 300 miles north northwest of Adelaide, it was inhabited, before the atom age, by a sprinkling of frugal-living kangaroos and nomad Aborigines.

Today, missile scientists describe it as the longest overland range available to the Western powers for the testing of guided weapons.

The struggle to equip this waste land as an open air laboratory and to make it inhabitable started early in 1947.

Salisbury munitions plant on the outskirts of Adelaide was established as the base and a point on the map was named Woomera, the native word for a spear-launching stick.

This part of Australia has only seven inches of rain a year so water was brought 108 miles to the new settlement by pipeline.

Woomera today is a pretty town with 400 trim houses and hundreds of trees that are watered twice a week.

The population has grown to 3,000 and the birthrate is higher than that of any other town in Australia.

The outlying testing ranges are forbidden territory to housewives. Only "people who need to know" get out there.

At the far end of the land range is an 1,800-mile sea range in the direction of Christmas island, in the Indian ocean, making a total of 3,000 miles over land and sea for testing missiles.

It is known that 700 rockets and 440 other missiles have been fired and 2,200 experimental bombs dropped on the range since the beginning of 1950.

Postpone Strike Plan

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A strike of some 350 employees of the Sandwich, Windsor and Amherstburg Railway Company, scheduled for early today, has been called off until the employees consider new company proposals, it was announced Sunday night.

The negotiating committee of local 616, Street Railwaymen's Union (AFL), Sunday approved the latest company offer and will present it to a mass union meeting to be held today.

Details of the company proposal were not made public.

Earlier Sunday directors of the company, which operates bus lines in Windsor and nearby areas, held an emergency session. No statement was issued following the closed meeting.

DECIDED TO STRIKE

The drivers previously had decided to strike at 4 a.m. Monday following a meeting Saturday at which they turned down several company offers.

Earlier a conciliation board was appointed to attempt to settle the issue.

However, the union refused to accept a majority report of the three-man board and the company turned down a minority report filed by one member.

The union demanded a two-year contract retroactive to Jan. 1 while the company suggested it be retroactive to March 1. The union was seeking a 12½-cent-an-hour pay increase which would bring the basic rate to $1.58. The company offered a nine-cent hourly increase.

Lawyer Decides To Become Minister

OTTAWA (CP)—Neil Price, a 37-year-old $4,600-a-year solicitor of the health department, has resigned his job to enter McMaster University divinity school, Hamilton, for training as a Baptist minister.

He has received a call to work during his three university years as a student minister in the Mount Brydges and Caradox-Zion pastorate, 20 miles west of London, Ont. His stipend will be $1,800 a year.

Mr. Price said Sunday of his decision: "I feel there is a great challenge which the ministry offers as an avenue of service to individuals and the community."

How well do you know Canada?

Very well? Fairly well? Not so well? No matter. You'll know and love your country better when you read Hugh MacLennan's salute to Canada now appearing in July Holiday Magazine. It's probably one of the most intimate and comprehensive pieces on Canada ever written.

But just in case you know all about Canada, how well do you know Mexico? Alaska? The Oregon Trail? The Atlantic's beaches? Dakota's Black Hills? Minnesota's Lake Country? They're all great vacation spots. Yes, and they're all in the valuable "Travel North America" Holiday—now on the newsstands!

Teacher Dies, Taught Negroes

HALIFAX (CP)—Mrs. P. L. Caldwell, 61, who taught Negro children for 11 years in her nearby Faroon Hill home because they were not admitted to a public school, died Friday after a long illness.

Her "kitchen school," as it became known, began in 1940 when she offered to teach a little boy to read and write. Just why Negro children were never admitted to the community's public school was never explained.

As the school grew she turned her dining room into another classroom for older students. She said at the time they were old enough to study without supervision.

For the children, school life was happy, homey and comfortable. There were plants on the window sills, curtains at the windows and a big cat named Amber. It usually slept under one of the card tables where the children did their work.

Mrs. Caldwell, who taught in Saskatchewan schools for a short time, even taught music lessons to two pupils. She leaves a son, Ronald, in London, Ont.

Canadian Freighter Remains Aground

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (CP) The Canadian freighter E. B. Barber was still aground in the Upper St. Marys river Sunday. Her cargo was being unloaded by tugs in an effort to get her back to deep water.

The freighter, owned by the Algoma Central Railway, is believed to have strayed from course during a heavy fog last night. It was her second trip on the Great Lakes.

The Great Lakes tug Idaho and the lighter Relinc went to the freighter's aid early today and started taking aboard some cargo.

Urges Laymen Be Used More

GRAVENHURST (CP)—A United States churchman Sunday urged a return to the Biblical system of laymen spreading the gospel.

Dr. Eldon Trueblood, professor of philosophy at Earlham College, Richmond, Ind., said in an address to 200 laymen at the first national conference of United Church men:

"Every Christian has as much of a sacred calling when he joins his church as has his minister when he is ordained. This revolutionary but Biblical idea is capturing the imagination of the church."

Those taking part in program and discussion groups included: magistrate R. G. Groom, Tillsonburg; Aubrey Oldham, Sarnia; and Lockwood Miller, London.

Steps On Arm Rescues Youth

OSHAWA— Don Anderson, 15, was saved from drowning Sunday by a rescuer who stepped on his arm in 15-feet-deep water in a man-made lake at Pleasure Valley Ranch here.

Two doctors who were picnicking in the park and Oshawa firemen revived the boy with inhalators after nearly half an hour. Anderson, who was blue when he was taken from the water, is confined to his bed at home.

Ian Clark, 18, of Ajax, was searching for the boy underwater when he stepped on his arm. Jack MacInally, 18, of Oshawa, who aided in the search, helped Clark bring the boy to shore. Anderson was under water for approximately four minutes.

Bill Clark, 14, said his friend was swimming to a raft when he suddenly went under water.

"I jumped off the raft," he said, "and tried to save hime. I got hold of his hands and he started to go under. I had to let go. He was dragging me with him."

Anderson said he was swimming to the raft when he felt a pain. "I remember coming up a second time," he said, "and that's all."

Decide To Support Conservative Party

TORONTO (CP)—Farley Faulkner announced Sunday that his Vigilance for Freedom movement will support the Progressive Conservative party in the Aug. 10 federal election campaign.

Mr. Faulkner, organizer of the movement and sponsor of an anti-Communist rally at Massey Hall last March 12, said in a statement he entered domestic politics reluctantly but did so because he interpreted recent speeches by External Affairs Minister Pearson as meaning Mr. Pearson favors admitting Communist China to the United Nations.

Mr. Faulkner said he and the leaders of seven ethnic groups supporting his movement "believe that a vote for George Drew is a vote against communism."

Eight Cows Killed In Pickering Storm

OSHAWA—Eight cows were killed in Pickering, a barn burned to the ground near Brooklin and the chimney of an Oshawa house was struck by lightning Saturday in a short but severe electrical storm.

The roof of another barn, in the Audley district, was blown off and trees were uprooted by the storm, which was accompanied by a high wind.

The cows were under a tree on the farm of Murray Barrett when lightning hit the tree. The barn and an implement shed, on the farm of John Hamer, was burned to the ground. Oshawa firemen were called to a home on Warren Ave., where a bolt of lightning had struck a chimney. Damage was slight.

Mistaken Death Puts Yugoslav On Spot

By ALEX SINGLETON

BELGRADE (AP) — Pity the plight of Ceda Pavlovic, who awoke the other night in a cemetery fully dressed for his own formal funeral.

Poor Pavlovic had taken a hot bath earlier in the day. Forgetting his schoolday physics lessons, he reached up a dripping arm to snap on a light. Water serves as a conductor for electricity.

His wife found him unconscious. A hurriedly summoned physician pronounced him dead. His body was carted off for burial next day under government health regulations. It was lodged in an ice-chilled vault beneath the cemetery chapel.

Pavlovic awoke to find himself in a coffin. He then nudged the lid of the coffin.

The lid moved upwards He climbed out, only to find the vault door bolted. He cried for help. Frightened, a cemetery guard above fled.

FINALLY RELEASED

A 60-year-old retired jurist, Pavlovic pleaded his predicament at the top of his lungs. "I am here by mistake," he shouted. "Let me out." The guard finally crept back and released him.

Pavlovic hurried off to the nearest phone to report to his wife he was coming home, hungry.

He was in for another shock. Under the strain of the day, she shrieked. Then he hung up. Then she fainted. Pavlovic tried next to re-establish himself with his neighbors. Answering his knocks, they looked quickly, shuddered and slammed the doors.

FINDS ACQUAINTANCE

Finally, he found an acquaintance who had not heard of his "death." This one served as a go-between. Poor Pavlovic soon was home again.

But last shock was still to come. His family had inserted a death notice in the morning papers, too late to be withdrawn. Pavlovic still is answering messages of condolence.

Gadabout And Thor Gratton Each Capture A Heat In Meet's Free-For-All Race

Peterborough Turf Club inaugurated the 1953 harness racing season Saturday evening at Morrow Park with a fine show—10 races in all—with steeds from various points in Central Ontario, to thrill a good crowd of enthusiastic spectators from start to finish. President D. A. McGillis and his committee promise a series of races during this summer that will eclipse anything heretofore seen, continuing Saturday, June 27.

Hugh Stewart, popular breeder and patron of the turf, has announced as a special feature of this coming meet, several pacers from the Thorncliffe track to show their wares in what should prove the most colorful show of its kind seen in Peterborough in years.

DOUBLE HONORS

Molly Elgin, of Hie and Gordon, Cobourg, took double honors in the opening race, the 2.25 class, by leading the field in both heats; six and one-half furlongs and one mile, in 1.30 and 2.21 respectively.

Pastime Vern notched first and second to a third and first in the second event against Bob's Margaret's third place and win, to virtually tie the mare on average speed, the former clocking 1.42 in the first heat; the latter 2.20 in the mile. It was a sparkling event. The horses are owned by L. A. Montgomery and Stead Craig of Thorncliffe and Kingston, respectively.

LED IN 2.22

Mac Volo of Stan Blewett, Indian River, led the field in the 2.22 run. His closest competitors Texas Lee (Harry Inglis, Brighton); Noisy Guy, owned by Mrs. F. Ramsay of Toronto; and Calumet Baldwin of E. Peacock of Port Perry.

Oshawa horse, Bill Sharpe's Peter Van D., led in the 2.20 first heat and Blacklock of Tom Fitz, Brighton took the second, closely rivalled by Hal Grattan Patch, Miss Highlight and Chipso.

Thor Gratton, one of the finest racers in the country, owned by Cliff Hie, Cobourg, had the run of his life in the final great free-for-all against Graydon Sheldon's Gadabout. Graydon drove his own charger. The Cobourg flier led the way in the first over his rival; but the musician's pet took the second by a nose.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

The club will celebrate Dominion Day, Wednesday, July 1, by holding the annual mixed doubles tournament for the Ovaltine Trophy. It's wide open. Play begins at 1.30 o'clock—two games during the afternoon and one after the supper hour; the fee is $4.00 per pair. We had 30 couples entered last year and the trophy was won by the local pair of Mrs. J. Arnold and W. Jones.

The games' committee is still taking entries for the provincial playdowns — in singles, doubles and rinks.

Men's club singles tonight at 7.00 o'clock sharp; if you are entered in this competition be at the greens on time. The draw will be on the notice board.

DID IT AGAIN

The Jones brothers have done it again. Playing down in Campbellford on Saturday, William Jones and his brother, Walter Jones, came away with first prize and the Canada Packers' Trophy. This is the second major event won by these boys within two weeks. Jimmy Cullen and Ross Hopkins came home with prize for high two wins. We understand that there were 10 pairs from the local club entered in this tournament.

The winning skip in the Family Hour tournament, Saturday evening were: S. Cumimngs, H. R. Martin and A. Jackson.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Oshawa is an ambitious city in a sports sense. The senior ballsters there ruined a COBL revival by stepping up to the minor pro Intercounty League, and now their senior "B" Truckers are checking into chances of going senior "A" in hockey next winter. They had delegates to a weekend senior "A" meeting of the OHA in Stratford and claim they can get the financial backing to move up. Hm, we wonder what the OHA junior "A" officials there will think of such a move. While Oshawa has a fine arena, the Truckmen of last winter — who couldn't hurdle Kingston for senior "B" group honors— will need plenty of expensive bolstering for senior "A" competition. But they no doubt realize this.

A softball fan writes us a letter but we can't publish it as he failed to sign his name. However, we can say that it is attacking one of the clubs in the men's City League for poor sportsmanship in pushing an umpire around in a recent game. Feels that loop officials shouldn't tolerate such actions from any manager or player on any team. The guy also thinks that the umpires shouldn't let things get out of hand. The letter is quite sharp and names names but the fellow don't put his name to it, and we mention this much of it simply as a reminder to the city circuit and other leagues that umps should keep control of games, officials should back up the umpires, and players should play ball and cut out the yapping.

Buzzing Those Bikes

Pacers and trotters from Toronto, Kingston, Belleville, Oshawa, Brighton, Hagersville, Cobourg as well as Peterborough and surrounding district staged 10 races in Morrow Park on Saturday eve before a goodly gallery. Some keen competition, too, with wagering permitted on the charter obtained by the Peterborough Turf Club. Molly Elgin of Cobourg and Stan Blewett's Mac Volo were double winners in their classes, while Thor Gratton from Cobourg and Graydon Sheldon's classy Gadabout each won a heat in the free-for-all to wind up a good night of harness racing. Club president, D. A. McGillis says they'll run races regularly here this season, depite the Thorncliffe meet, and the next one is slated for this coming Saturday in the southend oval.

Coach Doug Miller, Jr., of the OLA junior "A" Pats says Long Branch is probably the team to beat out for provincial honors this year. We thought maybe St. Kitts or Brampton (Minto Cup champs last year) would be tougher for the local Pats to take, but Doug figures Long Branch. That's the team which plays here tonight at 8.45, and the Pats will have to hustle all the way. They have a habit of winning their home jousts so far this semester but losing on the road, and that isn't too bad a fault from a fan point of view, but you have to win some away, too. The club will show two newcomers this e'en (weather being oke), a couple of Indian lads from Oswego, Wilf Logan and Ivan Thomas.

Soft Ones For Petes

Senior lacrossers can relax till Friday night as they sit pretty in second place in the warmish group race. Their 25-13 win Saturday in Brampton on top of their rather easy victory here last Friday o'er the highly-rated Toronto Yorks out of Orillia kept them right in the thick of the battle for top spot, held by St. Kitts. Tall Harry Wipper was high man on the scoring totem pole for Peerborough at Brampton with five markers, while hard-working Don Ashbee clicked for four and aided on three more. Nip O'Hearn had three while coach Bob Thrope tallied two and aided on four. Whole club clicked like a step-dancer's heels. Jack Bionda led the way for the losers. Play was quite clean, despite sultry weather.

Local ball-playing Liflocs went to Bowmanville on Saturday for an afternoon game but it wasn't staged. Homesters said the grounds were too wet but hinted it might be okay to play at night. Locals said ixnay, 'twas a three p.m. game or nothing. So, it was nothing. That and a few other matters remain to be cleared up at a league meeting, including Port Hope's protest against Liflocs using pitcher Rog Lee. Oshawa has decided to stay intermediate "A", though obviously of senior calibre. Bowmanville will get Cec. Hall if they decide by July 1 to go "A". But if they go "B," Hall will be Oshawa property. Meantime, Port Hope Ontarios play our Liflocs at 6.30 tonight in Riverside, a league fixture, and Jerry Frizzelle is expected to toe the local slub. Team goes to Cobourg Saturday and may work in a postponed duel with Whitby on Wednesday night here.

Bisons Sweep Twin Bill From Rochester

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo Bisons and Rochester Red Wings battled for second place in the International League during the week-end with the Bisons coming out on top.

Buffalo swept a Sunday doubleheader from the Wings, 8-7 and 7-3. Rochester, who yielded second place to the Bisons Friday night, had regained it Saturday by edging Buffalo 5-4 in 11 innings.

Previously undefeated reliefer Jack Crimian was the loser in each Sunday game. The Bisons rallied for two runs in the eighth off Crimian to win the opener. In the nightcap Eddie Kazak's bases-empty sixth-inning homer broke a 3-3 tie and cinched righthander Milt Jordan's seventh victory.

Jack Wallaesa belted a homer for the Bisons in each game.

RAINED OUT

A Sunday double bill at Springfield between the league-leading Montreal Royals and the last-place Cubs was rained out. The Cubs blanked the Royals 5-0 Saturday behind the six-hit pitching of Joe Brosnan.

The Orioles won their third straight game from Ottawa Sunday, edging the Athletics 5-4 at Baltimore. Jocko Thompson was credited with his fifth victory, although forced out of action by the 89-degree heat after hitting safely in the fifth. The Orioles edged the A's 4-3 Saturday.

SALVAGE FINALE

After losing 7-0 at Syracuse Sunday, Toronto Maple Leafs salvaged the finale of their four-game series with the Chiefs by winning the second half of a doubleheadcr 3-2.

Art Dyck blanked the Leafs on six hits in the opener, featured by Art Schult's two-run homer. Lou Sleater pitched no-hit ball until the sixth of the second game, but had to be relieved in the seventh Forrest Main came in with the bases loaded and one out and yielded two runs, but got the final out with the bases loaded again. Syracuse defeated the Leafs 4-3 Saturday.

The local "B" Cricketers lost a council match to St. Edmund's "B" team in Toronto on Saturday by the small margin of 53 to 41. Roe joined him and they took it to 53, with Richardson not out for a great defensive inning of 21, including 16 singles.

The Peterborough team made a fair start with S. Jennings 14 and W. Freeman 11 to make it 26 for one. Seven other batters failed to score and the inning closed at 41.

Petes Beat Brampton 25-13 In Clean Senior OLA Tilt To Maintain Grip On Second

BRAMPTON (Special)—Exploding with a 10 goals to one answer during a one-sided third-period attack, the Peterborough Trailermen went on to trim the Brampton Excelsiors 25-13 in a hot senior lacross tilt in Brampton Saturday night. It was a case of youth pitted against experience and lacrosse craftsmanship. The injury-riddled Excelsiors dressed four juniors, Bert Russell, Gord Laidlaw, Bert Johnston and John MacDonald.

At the quarter mark the Trailermen led 6-3 and were still pacing 9-6 at the half-way rest. Yankees Divide Doubleheader With Detroit Team

By JACK HAND, Associated Press Sports Writer

If New York Yankees keep pouring it on, they'll break the 1906 Chicago Cubs' all-time record of winning 116 games. Unless something cracks, they should be able to take a month vacation in September and bring the Kansas City club to finish out the schedule. After Sunday's split with Detroit, the Yanks were playing 46-14 ball for a .767 percentage. At the same rate they'll wind up at 118-36 for .766. High for the American League is the Yanks' 110 victories in 1927.

The Yanks took advantage of another lapse by Cleveland Sunday, dividing a doubleheader with Detroit as the Indians lost to Washington 5-1. As a result, New York picked up another half-game on the Tribe, now threatened from below by Chicago White Sox. New York won the first game 6-3, for Whitey Ford on homers by Mickey Mantle, Billy Martin and Yogi Berra but lost the second, 10-3, as Walt Dropo drove in four runs with a homer and two singles. Dropo also hit a four-bagger and drove in two runs in the opener.

TAKE SECOND GAME

The White Sox came back to cop the second game, 9-4, on homers by Fred Marsh, Ferris Fain and Minnie Minoso after Harry Byrd shut them out with seven hits, 5-0, in the first game. St. Louis Browns broke a six-game losing streak on Bobo Holloman's two-hit 2-0 winner over Boston in the second game after losing the opener 3-1.

In the National League, Milwaukee staged another of its comebacks to get a 6-6 tie with New York Giants in a second game, called by darkness after eight innings, following a 5-0 defeat in the opener.

Brooklyn bowed to Chicago 3-2 on a 10th-inning homer by Eddie Miksis and Pittsburgh dumped the Cardinals 5-2. Philadelphia split a pair with Cincinnati, winning the first 5-2 but dropping the second 5-3 on Gus Bell's 15th homer with two men on.

FORD SURVIVES 9TH

Ford survived a rugged ninth inning in 102-degree heat at Yankee Stadium to go the distance for his eighth triumph after the Yanks knocked out Hal Newhouser in the fourth inning.

Billy Hoeft, with the help of Ned Garver, copped the second game, charged against reliefer Tom Gorman.

Spec Shea held Cleveland to three hits to win his sixth, spoiling Art Houtteman's starting debut as an Indian.

Holloman, aided by Satch Paige in the ninth, did a fine job on the Red Sox in the second game. The only hits off him were doubles by Billy Goodman in the third inning and Gene Stephens in the fifth.

Gus Zernial's 18th homer and Pete Suder's third were the big blows behind Byrd in his shutout against Chicago. Carl Scheib suffered his fifth defeat in the second game.

BRILLIANT GAME

Ruben Gomez pitched a brilliant game for the Giants at Milwaukee, retiring the last 22 men in order.

Jack Dittmer's two-run single in the eighth inning topped the big Milwaukee spurt that earned a tie. The game was called on account of darkness after the eighth because league rules prohibit turnon lights in a Sunday game.

Miksis' first-pitch home run in the 10th broke up a tight battle at Chicago between Bubba Church and Dodger Bob Milliken. Roy Campanella had three hits, including his 19th homer.

Danny O'Connell's two-run double and Murry Dickson's steady ninehit pitching set up Pittsburgh's victory.

Burke Captures Top Golf Prize

TOLEDO, O. (AP)—Jack Burke of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., won the $3,400 top prize in the $18,000 Inverness golf tournament Sunday with a 72-hole score of 272, a dozen under par.

Burke, with a par 71 on the final round, staved off a late flurry by Freddie Haas to whip the New Orleans lad by two strokes. Haas won $2,400.

Burke, suffering with influenza, had eaten nothing for two days until Saturday night. He had rounds of 68, 64, 69 and 71 on the par 71 layout which measures 6,545 well-trapped yards.

St. Laurent Opens Election Fight

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent opens his fight in the national election arena tonight in a ring already heaped with opposition charges of government bungling, inefficiency and waste.

The charges were made last week by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, in their opening shots to unseat the Liberals, in office for 18 continuous years and seeking a mandate for another five.

More shots against the Liberals likely will fly when Solon Low, Social Credit leader, unveils his manifesto in a speech in Toronto Friday night.

Whether Mr. St. Laurent will make direct reference to these charges in his keynote speech at Windsor, Ont., tonight is not known. But he is certain to summarize the accomplishments of his government in the last four years in office as a basic argument for a return to power.

CHARGES EXTRAVAGANCE

Mr. Drew, presenting his party's platform in a speech at his home town of Guelph Friday night, accused the Liberal government of irresponsibility, extravagance and inefficiency and said his party offers voters the only opportunity for a change in government.

In a 16-point election manifesto, he promised to reduce sales taxes and cut general taxation by at least $500,000,000 a year. His party, if elected, would introduce a contributory health insurance program.

Mr. Coldwell, speaking at Maple Creek, Sask., charged the government with "inept and bungling" policies that had resulted in a loss of overseas markets and serious impairment for Canadian agriculture.

The CCF manifesto, announced last week, included an immediate national health insurance program and a program to construct 100,000 new homes a year.

Mr. St. Laurent, opening in Windsor, will tour 15 Ontario communities in five days, before going to the Maritimes.

LANDLORD LOVES KIDS — Percy Wright, president of Winston Park Development, Ltd., plans a $20,000,000 apartment development in Toronto's suburban North York which will accept only families with children. Under construction is the first 11-suite-apartment, one of seven to be built, and intended for the low-rental field. He is surrounded by a group of youngsters, good friends of his.

Can Provide Schools For 55,000 Children

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister Dunlop of Ontario said Saturday the province can provide accommodation and teachers for the 55,000 children expected to begin classes for the first time this fall.

He said some $57,000,000 worth of new school construction and 2,500 new teachers will do the job.

"We will have to keep up this pace for five or six years," he said. "We should get along all right if we don't become too satisfied with our progress."

De Valera Majority Cut To Two Seats

DUBLIN (AP)—Premier Eamon de Valera's parliamentary majority was cut to two seats Sunday with the loss of a by-election in County Wicklow.

The seat went to the opposition Fine Gael party. The result means de Valera now can count on only 74 votes in the Dail. His opponents can muster 72.

The vote was the second defeat for the Irish leader in two days. On Saturday the East Cork seat—also contested in a by-election—went to the opposition as well.

Pearson Gives Breakdown On Budget Plan

AURORA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson said here Saturday night that Progressive Conservative leader George Drew would have to double present Canadian taxes to fulfill all the pledges his party made during the last session of Parliament.

Mr. Pearson spoke at a York North Liberal convention which nominated Jack Smith as party candidate for the Aug. 10 general election.

Commenting on the election manifesto issued by Mr. Drew in a speech in Guelph last Friday, Mr. Pearson said the Opposition leader should disregard generalities and show where he hoped to save $500,000,000 in taxes if the Progressive Conservatives were elected.

BREAKS DOWN BUDGET

"The present federal budget is about $4,000,000,000," Mr. Pearson said. "About half of that goes for defence, roughly 47 cents in every dollar. Another 25 cents goes for social services, 10 cents for debt retirement, leaving 18 per cent for all other expenditures.

"If Mr. Drew won't cut defence expenditures or social services, then the $500,000,000 must be saved out of the 18 per cent."

The Liberal party, standing on its own record of achievement, will not enter into a competition with any other political party in promises to the electorate, Mr. Pearson said. "Canada is not going to be auctioned off."

Radar Invaluable To Ships In Ice-Infested Waters

OTTAWA (CP) — National research council experiments with radar in the waters of Hudson Strait and Hudson Bay have confirmed that radar is invaluable to ship navigation in bad visibility through ice-infested waters.

The NRC makes one stipulation on radar for this purpose: It is successful "provided it is used wisely and its limitations are known."

Tests were conducted recently by Canadian and British transport officials aboard the icebreaker N. B. McLean during a 5,000-mile voyage from Montreal to Churchill, Man.

Findings showed that in calm weather, which is usual with fog, all types of ice formation may be detected by radar 15 or 20 miles away for large icebergs, and up to a mile and a half for the smaller ice "growlers."

In rough seas and poor visibility, radar was sometimes found unreliable. But fields of tight pack-ice could be detected under all sea conditions, and openings that are at least 500 feet wide could be identified.

Cornwall Youth Killed

CORNWALL (CP) — A weekend motorcycle trip in the United States ended in death for one Cornwall youth and injury to another, it was learned here Saturday. Joseph Dionne, 20, was killed in the accident at Burlington, Vt. His chum, George Haineault, 19, was severely hurt. Their motorcycle crashed into a car.

Punjab Building Capital In Foothills Of Himalayas

Rising on a fertile plain beneath the foothills of the snow-clad Himalayas is the pride of India's Punjab State—a new capital city.

Chandigarh, named for Chandi, goddess of power, is to be a symbol of new India. Where only a tiny, mud-built village stirred drowsily three years ago, a modern metropolis of concrete, steel and brick will ultimately house half a million Indians.

Today the chatter of monkeys and screech of blue jays in Chandigarh valley is drowned out by the roar of construction machinery. A creation of Indian and foreign talent, this city of 10,000 acres will require 10,000 workmen and will cost over $30,000,000.

LAHORE WAS OLD CAPITAL

Punjab was split when India was partitioned in 1947. The ancient Punjab capital, Lahore, went to Pakistan. Punjab statesmen decided to follow the example of the United States, Australia and India herself, and erect an entirely new city for its capital.

Eastern tradition and Western innovation are being blended in Chandigarh. It is a city of superblocks, three quarters of a mile long by half a mile wide, each housing 10,000 to 20,000 people. Each neighborhood unit has its own schools, playground, park, club, movie theatre and bazaar.

Only footpaths, bicycle and bullock-cart paths cross the superblocks; all bus, truck and automobile traffic is routed around them. In these self-sustaining communities, the leisurely atmosphere traditional to Punjab village life will prevail.

On a city-wide scale, there will be a central marketplace where modern department stores will compete with the open-air stalls of private merchants. Other planned civic institutions include a hospital, museum, library, university and four colleges, open-air theatre, stadium and six swimming pools.

Grouped on a knoll at the city's northern boundary, Chandigarh's buildings of state will reflect their red limestone hue in an artificial canal, fashioned after the water gardens of the Taj Mahal. In this setting will be the High Court, the Assembly Chamber, the Secretariat, and the Governor's residence.

GOVERNMENT NOW AT SIMLA

The Punjab government, temporarily quartered at Simla, a Himalayan holiday resort and one-time summer seat of the Indian government, hopes to shift to the new capital early next year.

Affairs of state will be the chief business of Chandigarh, but city officials are hopeful that industry will be spurred by cheap electricity from the huge new Bhakra Nangal Dam nearby. Large numbers of Hindus from Moslem Pakistan, skilled in crafts and trades, are expected to settle in Chandigarh. The first section of the city will accommodate 150,000 persons when completed.

Gloria de Haven Weds

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Film actress Gloria De Haven and Martin S. Kimmel, New York realtor, were married here Sunday. It is the second marriage for each. Miss De Haven was divorced from actor John Payne in 1949.

Promote Purves To Brigadier

OTTAWA (CP)—Col. R.L. Purves 40, of Victoria, will be promoted to brigadier and will become chief of staff of central command in September, army headquarters announced Sunday.

For the last two years Col. Purves has been chief of staff and assistant military attache at Washington. He will be succeeded at Washington by Col. H. L. Meuser, 40, of Regina and Ottawa. Col. Meuser now is attending the National Defence College at Kingston. commander in the 14th Armored Regiment (the Calgary Regiment) during the invasion of Sicily in 1943 and later moved to and became commander of the 11th Armored Regiment (the Ontario Regiment).

Col. Meuser is a graduate of Royal Military College, Kingston, who was commissioned in he Royal Canadian Engineers in 1934.

Navy Launches Eighth Coastal Minesweeper

KINGSTON (CP)—The navy Saturday launched its eighth new type coastal minesweeper here as the HMCS Resolute slid down the marine railway at Kingston Shipyards Limited.

Mrs. T. R. McLagan, wife of the president and general manager of Canada Steamship Lines, christened the warship before a gathering of civic and naval officials which included Vice-Admiral E. R. Mainguy, chief of naval staff.

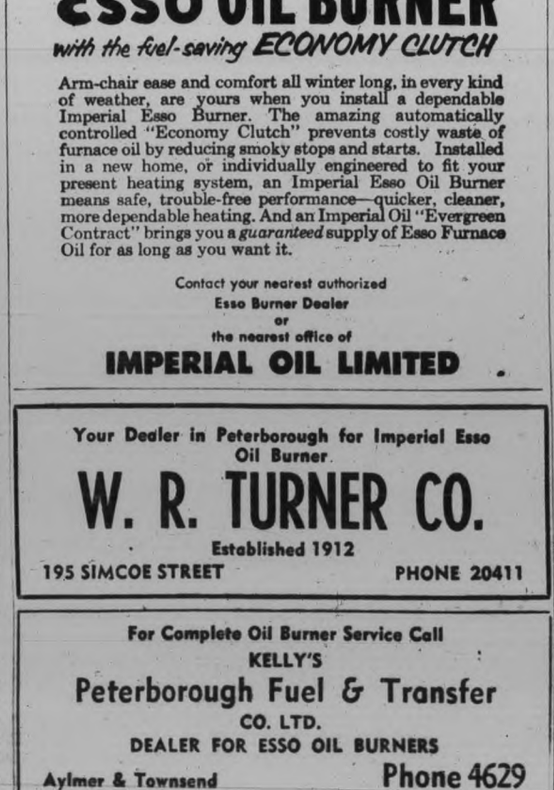
The ship was blessed by the Rt. Rev. Kenneth C. Evans, Anglican bishop of Ontario diocese.

The 152-foot vessel has a displacement of 390 tons.

Trucks Have Halted Freighting Goods

SARNIA (CP)—Trucks stopped freighting goods between Sarnia and Windsor Saturday as a result of Friday's strike of 600 truckers at Windsor. The men, members of the Teamsters' Union (AFL) struck to protest delay in filing of a report by a conciliation board named a month ago to study wage scales.

Union members here have not gone on strike, but drivers were prevented from leaving or entering Windsor with their loads.



Trucking officials here said movement of freight from Sarnia to Windsor will cease until the walkout is settled.

DATA FOR HEARING—Twelve trunks filled with information about Alberta Gas fields are brought into Calgary court by Everett G. Trostel, Dallas, Texas, oil consultant. He testified for six days before the Alberta oil and natural gas conservation board on behalf of TransCanada Pipe Lines. Mr. Trostel had to hire a special plane to fly 4,600 pounds of baggage, 16 engineers and three secretaries to Calgary. One of the secretaries, Evelyne Tookey, is at left.

105,000 Men And Women Armed Services Have Vote

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's record peacetime armed forces, now serving in six foreign lands, may bring some delayed-action changes in the pattern of election results which unfolds Aug. 10.

Every one of the 105,000 men and women in uniform—including the first 16-year-olds to vote legally since Confederation—will be entitled to vote wherever they are stationed.

But their ballots won't be added to the civilian totals in ridings of their choice until a week after election day because the counting of the ballots begins on the day after civilian polling day and will not be completed until the following Saturday.

PRODUCED UPSETS

Service votes have produced belated upsets before, notably in 1917 when 14 candidates elected by civilians were ousted by men in uniform and in 1945 when the then Prime Minister Mackenzie King was rejected in Prince Albert after seemingly being elected.

This year the numbers in uniform are 5,000 stronger than in wartime 1940, so it is quite conceivable that some close ridings will be affected by the soldier vote.

Along with the forces in this delayed poll will be roughly 8,000 war veterans still in hospital and an unknown number of reserve-force personnel taking summer training away from home.

The system under which the forces will cast their ballots in Korea, Japan, France, Britain, Germany and Belgium as well as in military bases in Canada is basically the same as that which came into use in 1940 and was later used in the 1942 conscription plebiscite and in the 1945 and 1949 general elections.

But there are a number of differences between the 1949 and 1953 elections. For one thing, probably three times as many people in uniform will be entitled to vote this time. There were 40,000 regular troops in 1949 but only those 21 years of age and older could vote—unless any of those under 21 had been in the forces in 1945, a tiny category.

ALL ARE ELIGIBLE

Now, since the regular forces were placed on active service in September, 1950, every member is entitled to vote regardless of age. This even goes for some hundreds of 16-year-old apprentices in the army and navy.

For the first time, election officials will have a list showing the accepted home address and constituency for each man and woman in uniform before June 21, 1952, a cut-off date accepted by Parliament. Those enrolled before then have three choices.

They can vote in the constituency they lived in before enlisting or in the constituency where their military base is located or in the constituency where their wife or next-of-kin lives. But the choice is put down in writing before the election and is binding.

This system was devised to avoid repetition of the 1949 situation in Annapolis-Kings when the service vote upset a civilian victory for George Nowlan, Progressive Conservative. Mr. Nowlan protested and investigation showed that a considerable number of servicemen stationed in the riding wrongly had voted in that riding instead of for their home ridings. Mr. Nowlan won on a revote.

In 1949 there were no lists such as there now are. Each man was put on his honor to say where his normal place of residence was. He had had a period of some months to change it if he wished.

The second category this time embraces the men who have enlisted since June 21, 1952. Their ballots will count in the riding they lived in at the time of enlistment.

HOW WIVES VOTE

Like any other civilians, wives of servicemen will vote in the riding where they reside. Thus it will be quite possible for a soldier to have his ballot count in one riding, his wife's in another.

Another big change is that Canada now has roughly 20,000 men abroad or at sea compared to a handful in 1949. Two special voting territories are being established to take care of them, one for Europe with headquarters in London, one for the Far East with headquarters in Kure, Japan.

The same three territories as in 1949 will exist in Canada, the west and north with headquarters in Edmonton; Ontario and Quebec with headquarters in Ottawa and the four Atlantic provinces with headquarters in Halifax.

In each of these territories there are a special civilian returning officer and a chief assistant and six civilian scrutineers named by the political parties. A military liaison officer will work with them and each unit will have its own military deputy returning officer who, for the first time, can be of rank lower than a commissioned officer.

Voting will extend during the full week preceding election day. The serviceman, unlike the civilian, will be able to peruse a list of candidates in his riding which includes their political affiliations. Elaborate precautions will be taken to see that the secrecy of the ballot is maintained.

SPECIAL PRECAUTIONS

The soldier's ballot goes into an unidentified small envelope, then is put in a large envelope bearing his name, his riding and his address. These two sealed envelopes are sent, one inside the other, to the special returning officer of the voting area in which the soldier is serving.

On Aug. 11 in London, Kure and the three territorial voting headquarters in Canada the sealed envelopes are to be separated according to ridings by the civilian scrutineers and the small unidentified envelopes then are put in the ballot boxes. Once all envelopes for a riding are put in the ballot box for that riding, the box is opened and the ballots counted.

The totals for each riding are forwarded to electoral headquarters here and from there the ridings themselves are informed of the total military result affecting them.

As for men in ships at sea and in remote northern outposts and the like, their ballots will get into these five regional headquarters too, even if they have to be flown. Some probably will be flown. The ballots for one ship were flown from the Panama Canal in 1949.

Vote On Constitution

DAMASCUS (AP)—Syrians will vote July 10 to accept or reject a new constitution providing an elected president for the Middle East Country. Gen. Adib Shishekly, who took over the government in a bloodless coup in 1951 and has ruled as a military strong man, made the proposed charter public Sunday. he said press censorship and other government controls will be lifted. The draft constitution would give voting rights to women.

Tearful Praise Of Rosenbergs At Funeral Service

NEW YORK (AP) — Funeral services for Julius and Ethel Rosenberg erupted Sunday into tearful praise of the electrocuted atom spies and angry attacks on U.S. government officials.

Defence lawyer Emanuel Bloch declared in a funeral oration that the executions were "an act of cold, deliberate murder." He said he placed "the murder of the Rosenbergs at the door of President Eisenhower, Attorney - General Brownell and FBI director J. Edgar Hoover."

Bloch praised the New York City couple who died Friday night in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison for what he called their "courage and heroism."

Semi-Orthodox Jewish services were held for the Rosenbergs at a Brooklyn funeral home chapel. About 500 mourners jammed the chapel, and a crowd estimated by police at 10,000 milled around outside in 93-degree heat.

The chapel filled with hisses and murmurs of "No" when Rabbi Abraham Cronbach said: "Let us give them, the prosecutors, credit for this: That they did what they thought was right."

Cronbach, professor emeritus of the Hebrew Union College of Cincinnati, Ohio, presided over the service. He was one of a delegation of four clergymen who urged President Eisenhower last week to commute the Rosenbergs' sentences to life imprisonment.

The rabbi told his protesting audience not to be vindictive, even though the executions "broke our hearts."

"We must demonstrate that we are among those most loyal to America. We must not permit any ground for accusations of remission in our American citizenship. We gain when America gains and we lose when America loses."

CHARGES DICTATORSHIP

In his attack on government leaders, Bloch said:

"The people should know that America is living under the heel of a military dictator garbed in civilian attire."

Bloch was lawyer for the Rosenbergs at the trial in which they were convicted of conspiring to pass U. S. atomic secrets to Soviet Russia. For more than two years he led the court fight to have their death sentence set aside.

A procession of more than 300 automobiles followed the hearses to Wellwood cemetery on Long Island, 35 miles from New York. At the graveside Rev. glendin Partridge, a Presbyterian minister from Montreal, delivered the final eulogy.

He praised the "true strength of these people who would not put anything—even life itself—above the best they believed in."

"They died in the name of humanity, truth and justice," he said.

Mrs. Sophie Rosenberg, 71-year-old mother of Julius, wailed in Yiddish:

"God help me. To lose two children—to take a mother and father away from children. Look at those two boxes holding my children.

"God, God, why did you do this?"

She tried to throw herself across the caskets as they were to be lowered into the grave side by side. Held back, she fainted.

May Pressure Europe About Army

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower probably will have to decide this week whether he wants to put heavy financial pressure on America's Allies to speed agreement on a West European Army.

The House of Representatives last week voted to withhold by law about a billion dollars in foreign aid funds until European Defence Community (EDC) treaties are ratified. Sunday, Senator Robert Taft (Rep. Ohio) suggested a compromise which would give the president discretionary authority to do the same thing.

Legislative leaders may find out at a White House conference Wednesday whether the president believes such a financial threat to West European countries would be wise.

ONE RATIFICATION

The EDC treaties, ratified so far only by Western Germany, would call up 500,000 men from six countries for service in a unified army.

Livingston T. Merchant, assistant state secretary, told the Senate foreign relations committee in testimony on the foreign aid bill that he believes "the logic of events" will bring ratification of the EDC treaties also by France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

Merchant said:

"We must not, in my judgment, become impatient and make the passage of EDC and ratification by a certain date a condition precedent for aid. . . ."

The testimony of Merchant and other officials, taken behind closed doors by the committee, was made public during the weekend.

RUSSIA EASING UP?

In it Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, was disclosed to have told senators he believes Russia is "pulling back" in the cold war. He said that the U.S. already is stockpiling equipment and supplies in West Germany for the arming of German divisions if they are ever created.

The hearing transcript included Taft's statement that it is "ridiculous" to claim the U.S. is saving money by financing the manufacture of fighter planes in Britain and France.

Taft said funds those countries receive under the offshore purchases program represent economic aid which will be used "for socialistic purposes in England and for something else in France."

Pravda Urges Co-Operation

LONDON (Reuters)—Pravda, the Russian Communist party newspaper, said today that "peaceful existence and co-operation between socialist and capitalist systems is fully possible."

An article marking the 12th anniversary of the German attack on Russia, and broadcast by Moscow radio, said Soviet foreign policy was based on the fact that co-operation between socialist and capitalist systems was fully possible provided "there is a desire for co-operation between two sides, preparedness to carry out accepted obligations, maintaining the principle of equality and not interfering in other nations' affairs."

"This," said Pravda, "is a real and possible thing, proved during the Second World War, when the coalition of the Soviet Union, the United States, Great Britain and France won victory over the aggressive Fascist bloc in spite of all differences in economic and political systems."

Rhodesia Readies For Visit Of Queen Mother,

SALISBURY (Reuters) —Southern Rhodesia is busy preparing to the last detail for the 16-day visit of Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret to the colony in the first half of July.

The tour, starting and ending with Comet jet airliner flights between London and Salisbury, crowns an historic year for Southern Rhodesia which in April voted to join Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland in a Central African Federation and now is celebrating the 100th anniversary of the birth of its founder, Cecil Rhodes.

The royal visit, designed primarily to open the Rhodes Centenary Exhibition at Bulawayo, is the climax to six months of festival throughout the Rhodesias commemorating Rhodes.

Leading centres in the colony away from Salisbury and Bulawayo such as Gwelo, Umtali and Fort Victoria are getting ready for royal visits which will include garden parties, laying a foundation stone of the new Rhodesia University and visits to missions, villages and townships.

Two days after landing at Salisbury's new airport July 1, the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret will be in Bulawayo for a ceremonial opening of the Rhodes exhibition in which Britain and 17 governments on the African continent have joined.

At the exhibition's 3,000 - seat theatre royal, the largest single span auditorium in Africa, the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret will attend gala performances by Britain's Halle Orchestra and a pageant of Rhodesia based on the life of Cecil Rhodes.

From Bulawayo, the royal train will travel overnight to Gwelo, largest mining and industrial centre in the Rhodesia midlands, later moving on to Umtali, amid beautiful scenery on Southern Rhodesia's mountainous border with Portuguese East Africa.

Some 20 miles from Umtali, the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret will have a day without engagements at the Leopard Rock hotel, built mostly by wartime Italian internee labor nearly 5,000 feet above sea level amid the mountains and valleys of Rhodesia's great Vumba range.

The hotel took its name from a family of Leopards which used to sun themselves on a rock near the site before it was built and opened in 1946.

From the hotel, the royal party will continue their journey by road to Fort Victoria, oldest European settlement in Southern Rhodesia and one of the first places identified with the pioneer column dispatched by Rhodes into this part of Africa in 1890.

Seventeen miles from Fort Victoria, the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret are to visit the Zimbabwe ruins, one of the world's riddles of history where remnants of an early settlement still stand unidentified after half a century of investigation.

The ruins, vaguely known to early Arab and Portuguese travellers, have been linked by some authorities with Ophir, source of gold for King Solomon's temple, but others put them much later, belonging to the period between 900 A.D. and 1550 A.D.

ESCAPE CAMPS—These are the locations of the prison camps in South Korea, from which nearly 26,000 anti-Communist war prisoners fled, after South Korean President Syngman Rhee ordered their release. More breaks followed the first escape, which Rhee sanctioned in a move to block the truce agreement.

Call Meeting Of Striking Freight Truckers

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A meeting of striking Windsor freight truck drivers was called in Windsor today as the effects of the strike spread like a slow creeping trucking paralysis throughout southwestern Ontario.

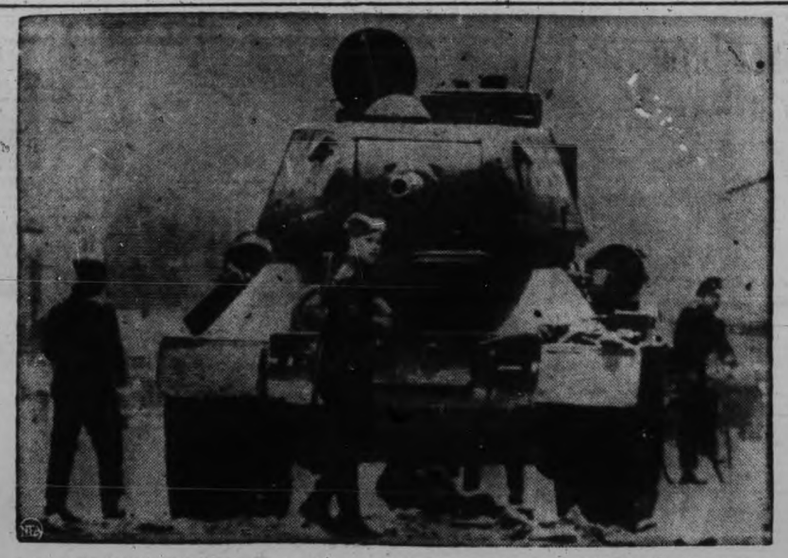
Both London and Sarnia have felt the effects of the strike although none of the drivers in the two cities have yet gone on strike. However, trucking officials in Sarnia said Saturday movement of freight from Sarnia to Windsor will cease until the walkout is settled.

London trucking company officials predicted blockage of movement of all highway freight out of London and St. Thomas, an estimated half-million pounds of freight daily.

Earlier, I. M. Dodds, president of local 880, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, the union to which the men belong, expressed fear the strike may spread to London, Chatham, Sarnia, and possibly Hamilton.

He said the strike is not sanctioned by the union.

The reason given for the walkout of the 600 Windsor truck drivers Friday was what has been called a delay in filing a report by a conciliation board which sat to study wage scales. The board ended sittings on the wage question May 10.



The Ontario Labor Relations Act stipulates the board's report and findings should be submitted to the minister of labor within three weeks.

Bitter Storm Stirred Up Over Everest

By PETER JACKSON

KATMANDU, Nepal (Reuters)—A bitter storm that may send a flood of anti-British feeling surging through Asia has been stirred up following the conquest of Mt. Everest.

The great accomplishment of scaling the world's highest mountain is being obscured by controversy over who reached the top first—Tensing Bhutia, the Sherpa "tiger of the snows," or New Zealander Sir Edmund Hillary.

It is understood that the dispute has already prevented Tensing from joining the victorious British expedition on its return to England. There were even unconfirmed press reports that Col. Sir John Hunt, leader of the expedition, had told Tensing he could not visit Britain unless he acknowledged publicly that Hillary reached the 29,002-foot summit first.

DOESN'T WANT QUARREL

Tensing appears anxious to avoid a public quarrel and other members of the expedition have tried to stress the team co-operation aspect of the ascent. But local nationalistic hotheads continue to fan the flames.

Rumors are travelling around Katmandu that the leathery-faced veteran Sherpa will turn down the George Medal offered him by Britain. There have been angry mutterings in Nepal and India that Tensing should have been rewarded with a knighthood, as were Hillary and Hunt.

This ignores, however, Tensing's disputed nationality—Indian or Nepali. Certainly if he is Indian he could not be a British "sir" in republican India, where titles have been abolished.

4 MAIN VERSIONS

Since returning here, Tensing has given four main versions of who was actually the first man to reach the world's highest point: Himself, Hillary, the two "simultaneously" and the two "almost together."

The latest statement was signed in the presence of Nepali Premier P. Koirala. It said:

"On May 29th, when Everest was conquered, sometimes I was in the lead and sometimes Hillary. We reached the summit almost together I planted the flags of Nepal, Britain, India and the United Nations. Hillary took photographs."

Earlier Tensing had gone on the radio to say that he and Hillary reached the top after their history-making climb "simultaneously."

N.Z. Draft Plan To Boost Housing

WELLINGTON (Reuters) —The New Zealand government is drafting a revitalized building program to help beat the country's No. 1 headache, the shortage of homes.

A supporter of private ownership, the government will seek the essential co-operation of the building industry at a conference which it has called for August.

At this meeting, the building industry and the professions associated with it will hear the results of a six-month government survey of the country's housing needs and will be asked to put forward suggestions to get more houses built for less money.

Before the Second World War, good quality five-room dwellings cost less than $2,800. A similar house today cost $8,400. With its new home-building policy, the government hopes to bring down the cost of that type of house to less than $7,000.

A criticism which is being freely expressed here is that today young married couples require, in addition to the land, at least $2,000 cash before they can call in a builder.

Eskimos Vote For First Time In Canadian Federal Election

OTTAWA (CP)—Eskimos will have the right to vote in a federal election for the first time this year.

The franchise also will be extended to some Indians who comply with new provisions of the Canada Elections Act.

Some 2,500 of Canada's 8,500 Eskimos, scattered through northern constituencies, will be able to mark ballots in the Aug. 10 voting under amendments to the elections statute since the 1949 contest.

Though this will be the first time Eskimos have voted for members of Parliament, exercising the franchise is not a new experience for them. The Labrador aborigines balloted in the referendum that led to Newfoundland's entry into confederation in 1949 and those in the far north were able to vote in the 1951 election for members of the Northwest Territories Council.

TO GET INSTRUCTION

Officials here say the Eskimos likely will get instruction in voting procedure from teachers and other whites in the north. Also, candidates campaigning among them will be able to arrange for getting out the vote.

In any case, the number expected to exercise the franchise is not large. Only a handful voted in the northwest council election.

The two new categories of reservation-domiciled Indians who will vote are:

1. Those who have been in the armed forces after they went on active service Sept. 9, 1950.

2. Those who waive income tax exemption on income they earn on the reservation. The waiver must have been signed before issuance of the election writ.

In the first case, wives also are enfranchised. In the second, a wife must sign the tax waiver to get the vote.

Indians not living on reservations already have the franchise, and so have all Indian war veterans and their wives.

GENERAL QUALIFICATION

Generally, the rule on eligibility of a voter is that he or she must be a Canadian citizen or other British subject, 21 years old by polling day and resident in Canada for the year immediately preceding the election date.

In addition, the age qualification is waived for members of the regular forces or those who have served with them since September, 1950.

Among those disqualified automatically are:

Chief electoral officer Nelson Castonguay, election returning officers, federally-appointed judges, prison inmates, mental patients, paid workers for an election candidate and persons found guilty of "corrupt or illegal" election practices.

Another barrier is that against persons entitled to claim military service as conscientious objectors. This applies only to members of the Doukhobor sect in British Columbia.

There are franchise restrictions for persons working on provincial or federal public works outside their home constituencies. To vote in the district where the work is located, they must have been there 30 days before issuance of the election writ. This applies also to wives and dependents of such workers.

LESS RESTRICTIVE

Even with these exceptions, the Elections Act now is much less restrictive than it was in the years after Confederation.

Provincial election laws also governed all elections to the Commons from Confederation in 1867 to 1885, when Parliament prescribed uniform land-ownership qualifications for all voters in federal elections. Provincial qualifications again were made applicable to federal voting in 1898 and continued until 1920 when a new Federal Elections Act was passed.

Manhood suffrage—the granting of the vote to all men—was adopted first by Manitoba in 1888 and by the Northwest Territories in 1895. British Columbia fell into line next, in 1904. When Alberta and Saskatchewan became provinces in 1905 they continued the existing manhood suffrage in that area.

Ontario followed suit in 1907 and New Brunswick in 1916. In Quebec, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island the vote was not extended to all men until the federal act was revised in 1920.

Women voted for the first time in a federal election in 1917. The franchise then was limited to the wives, mothers and sweethearts of men serving with the Canadian forces overseas. Provincially, Ontario and British Columbia gave women the vote in 1917 and New Brunswick in 1919. Nova Scotia granted them the vote on the same property qualifications as men in 1918.

The 1920 federal act gave the vote to all men and women as British subjects, wiping out what property qualifications were left and extending the franchise to women where provinces had not already granted it.

Up to 1940, when Quebec adopted universal suffrage, women of that province voted in federal elections but not in provincial. They voted provincially for the first time in 1944.

SWIMMING HEN?—Folks out at the Dandall Park Jockey Club, Warrensville Heights, Ohio, vow that this hen swims across a small lagoon in the track infield. They say it's part of her routine as the fussy stepmother of the nine-week-old ducklings. Photographer and friends tried to get her to swim the lagoon, but she crossed them up and flew over it. Best they could do was this wading picture, is which she's herding the ducklings away from the land-based hullabaloo.

'Watson Shrine' Summer School For Art Students

DOON, Ont. (CP) — Students working at the Doon School of Fine Arts can get inspiration from their surroundings.

The school, just opened for the summer, is in the old home of Homer Watson, well-known Canadian artist who died in 1937. His home in this Grand river valley district near Brantford has been turned into a shrine of Canadian art.

Between 300 on 400 budding artists each year take the course running from June to September. They see the same rich countryside that inspired Watson.

FREE REIN

Nobody teaches "strict Watson" principles. If the student wants to go in for modernistic art there's nothing to stop him, or her. But the atmosphere is pretty impressive, including the easel and pallette used by Watson himself.

Mrs. Ross Hamilton, who succeeded her husband as director of the art school when he died a year ago, said it is impossible to tell so far what the school will mean to Canadian art in the future. Most of those who come here to study however are bent on becoming artistic painters, rather than commercial artists and designers.

Teachers for this summer, experts in many fields, are John Martin, Yvonne Housser, Carl Schaefer, Adrian Dingel and Jack Bechtel.

CANADA'S "MANPOWER MIRACLE"

With 440,000 fewer workers than in 1939, but with modern power-farming machines on the job, Canadian farmers produced the nation's all-time-record crop in 1952!... And with a "manpower balance" of 1 farm worker to 4 non-farm workers in 1952, Canada's total national production hit the history-making peak of $22,984,000,000!

IN the days of the early pioneers, 4 out of 5 Canadians worked on the farm. The work was nearly all done by hand. There was little time for other [illegible] their own families . . . and they had very little surplus food to sell.

Then came machines to multiply the output per man. And gradually, over the years, with continuing development of new and better equipment, a "manpower miracle" has been brought about.

Today, you can see the result of this miracle in Canada's amazing record of production for 1952. Last year, less than 1 Canadian worker in 5 was employed on the farm, yet farmers harvested our country's all-time-record crop—more than 650 million bushels of wheat and 850 million bushels of other grains! And with more than 4 out of 5 workers engaged in non-farm activities, Canada enjoyed the greatest year of industrial growth and progress in history!

Tomorrow holds out an even richer promise to Canadians. Now our work-forces are "balanced" to meet the challenge and opportunities that lie ahead in the development of our great resources. With confidence and pride, all Canadians can look forward to better and more prosperous living in this fast-growing land.

Harness Volcanic Forces In Making Heavy Water

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP) — The idea of harnessing underground volcanic forces which feed New Zealand's geysers to make heavy water to run the western powers' atomic piles may sound as far-fetched as space fiction, but British experts are convinced it can be done.

The British and New Zealand governments have embarked on a joint project to bring the plan to fruition on the recommendation of Sir John Cockroft, leading British atomic scientist.

The plan is to use underground steam from the thermal area in the north island, for the dual purpose of producing electricity and making heavy water, a substance used as a moderator in atomic piles.

A NEW PROJECT

Tests have been going on for three years with the idea of using the steam to make electricity, but the heavy water project is new and has resulted in an intensified program to locate the larger quantities of steam needed for the enlarged scheme.

For centuries the underground volcanic forces have escaped through the "safety valve" of New Zealand's thermal area, a weak point in the earth's crust where a variety of weird phenomena testify to the force of the internal pressures below. There are geysers, boiling lakes, bubbling mud pools, steam blowholes, acres of quaking earth interspersed with steam vents and many colored terraces stained with chemicals thrown up.

At Rotorua, chief town of the thermal regions, the Maoris long ago built villages on the edge of hot pools, using them for natural central heating and primitive pressure cookers.

After Europeans arrived they put down a few shallow bores to get steam for water heating. But until now the chief value of the thermal activity has been as an attraction for thousands of tourists.

FOR ELECTRIC POWER

Three years ago the government decided to make a bid to end a serious electric power shortage by trying to harness these natural forces. A wide survey of the thermal areas was made with modern devices.

The steam belt runs from the volcanoes in the centre of the north island in a 25-mile wide strip through Wairakei and Rotorua right out to the east coast and from there some distance out to sea to White Island, an active volcano a few miles off the coast.

The whole of the 150-mile long area offers prospects of steam production, but the most promising site was thought to be in Geyser valley, near Wairakei. Here a series of test bores has been put down to check whether a steady supply of steam is available and what problems from chemical impurities, excessive water and the like, are likely to arise in using the steam for electric power.

Last year when Sir John Cockroft director of Britain's atomic station at Harwell, visited New Zealand, he strongly urged the making of heavy water as well as electricity. Heavy water has important advantages and also the great attraction that atomic piles using it do not need so much expensive uranium.

HUGE SCHEME

Now a $15,000,000 project has been started to establish the world's first electricity and heavy water plant.

Tests for steam so far have been highly encouraging. Most of the steam found has been "wet," not the higher quality "dry" steam used at Lardarello in Italy for electricity, but methods have been found for extracting surplus water, and indications are that infinitely more steam is available than in Italy.

The prospecting process is both spectacular and somewhat hazardous. Giant drilling rigs like oil derricks are used. The drills go down into the layers of superheated strata until they tap pockets of natural steam trapped there at enormous pressures.

Sometimes the heat becomes so great that the drilling bits burn out and the bore can be driven no farther. One big 10-inch bore went down to 2020 feet before efforts at cooling the bit failed. Another has since been driven even deeper.

When drilling ends, there comes the most dramatic moment—the blowing in of the bore. First the water used for cooling is ejected, and then the steam bursts forth. Usually the first blast contains a large quantity of stones, rubble and mud, which are hurled hundreds of feet into the air.

When a bore has been tamed control valves and silencers are fitted and measuring instruments installed to check pressure and flow of steam. Tests are made to determine whether the pressure is maintained with the passage of time and whether a new bore affects the flow from nearby ones.

Many problems still have to be solved. It is thought that the heavy water plant will produce substantial supplies for Britain and also probably for export to the United States as a dollar earner.

Planning Ahead

RED DEER, Alta. (CP)—Council of Red Deer, Alberta's fifth largest city, approved an expenditure of $68,000 for an artificial ice plant in the new arena. It is expected to be ready for hockey and curling next winter.

WHERE'S THERE'S SMOKE

Smoke from a woodstove prompted a call to the fire department Sunday. A truck was sent to the home of M. J. McLean, 68 Murray St. Neighbors had smelled and seen the smoke and thought there was a house fire.

PICK UP BANNER

In one of two minor calls Sunday, firemen picked up the banner of the Progressive-Conservative committee rooms on Hunter St. West. The ropes holding it across the street had given way and allowed the banner to fall in the street.

Poison Ivy On Prowl Again As Leading Pest

"Berries red, have no dread,
Berries white, poisonous sight,
Leaves three, quickly flee."

Those identifying lines, saluting poison ivy, have more merit for their descriptive accuracy than for their poetic value. They are quoted from the Ontario Department of Agriculture's weed of the week series.

This plant can turn a vacation into misery. It may be called a contact poison. Maybe you are walking through a patch of it. Unlace your shoes and you will become infected. Itching, rash and small water blisters are the symptoms.

A severe attack may put the victim in bed. A mild infection causes considerable discomfort. Treatment should be under the direction of a physician, if possible. Otherwise an application of potassium permanganate solution to the affected parts is recommended. This solution consists of one five-grain tablet of the permanganate in one quart of water.

MANY LOCATIONS

Poison ivy is found in a variety of locations, roadsides, parks, country lanes, woods. It frequently occurs along the edges of fairways where your golf ball rolls. The partly wooded banks of a favorite trout stream often support a grood growth of poison ivy, and it is also found in the wild blackberry patch.

But, don't avoid these summer haunts—just avoid the poison ivy. It is easily recognized.

It may be a vine or a low bushy shrub, but whatever the growth habit, it always bears three shiny drooping leaflets. Pale white flowers and small white berries complete the picture.

Poison ivy can be eradicated by proper use of such weed killers as Ammate, Atlacide, 2,4-D or 2,45-T. Applications may be made from June to September. (Remember the three leaves, the white berries.)

Edward Everett Horton Pioneered Summer Stock

Edward Everett Horton, who will open the Summer Theatre season here tonight in a performance of the comedy "Nina" at the PCVS auditorium, has played a leading role in the post-war summer theatre boom on this continent. It's an accomplishment in which Mr. Horton takes a great deal of pride and he doesn't mind admitting that he was one of the few actors who from the very first night realized that summer stock was to become an important part of the modern theatre.

The few whisps of grey in his wavy hair are evidence of the lifetime of work that Mr. Horton has devoted to the theatre and allied fields of entertainment. He drove to Peterborough on Sunday from Malton where he landed after a week's run of "Nina" near Chicago. An habitual early riser, he was up shortly after first light this morning preparing for a radio broadcast and getting set for his local opening.

URBANE AS IN SHOWS

As urbane and quietly witty off-stage as on, Mr. Horton courteously complied with requests for autographs from admiring fans as he sipped iced coffee in the hotel coffee shop during an interview with The Examiner this morning.

Michael Sadlier, producer of the Peterborough summer theatre and the man responsible for bringing Mr. Horton here, claimed that the visiting star drew the biggest audience of anyone in summer theatre in the United States.

Incidentally, Mr. Sadlier can claim some of the credit for Mr. Horton playing the role of Adolphe, Nina's husband in the triangular love affair, forming the play's theme. Marta Linden plays the title role which she took over from Gloria Swanson in New York when Miss Swanson had to give it up through illness. The role of the lover, Gerard, is played by Gordon Mills.

A little more than a year ago, Mr. Sadlier telephoned to New York and asked Mr. Horton if he would come to Bermuda and do a couple of plays with the company which Mr. Sadlier had successfuly established there. One of the plays was to be "Springtime for Henry" in which he has played more than 2,000 times and which is almost as closely associated with him as his own name.

SUGGESTED NINA

Mr. Sadlier had no suggestion to offer as to what the other play should be and so Mr. Horton mentioned "Nina" which he had recently seen performed on Broadway with Allan Webb in the role he was anxious to try out for himself.

The play was a hit in Bermuda and on his return to the United States, Mr. Horton was approached by a theatrical agency to take it on tour for the summer. It was such a success there that it ran for 23 weeks, playing coast to coast and finally closing only in November— probably a record for summer stock anywhere.

The role of Gerard, which Gordon Mills will play here, was performed on that tour by Christopher Plommer, a familiar figure to local summer theatre fans.

The play opened again this year in Ann Arbour, Mich., two weeks ago and then went on to Hinsdale, Ill., just outside Chicago, before moving here.

During the winter, Mr. Horton, makes frequent television appearances. Indeed, he has been a star TV performer for about five years, first playing the part of John Alden in "The Courtship of Miles Standish" on the Kraft Theatre. He also appeared on the Philco and Ford theatres and has done several sketches with James Melton. He had his own program "Holiday Hotel" for 13 weeks.

TV CHALLENGE

Mr. Horton makes no attempt to belittle TV but, on the contrary, regards it as a challenge.

"Trying to learn their lines actually makes people nervous on TV," he said. "But it doesn't seem to bother me at all."

"Mr. Horton is a tremendous 'study', " Mr. Sadlier said. "When he turns up for the rehearsal of a play, he has learned not only his own lines but everybody else's as well."

Although he gives every indication of being a born actor, Mr. Horton didn't know what he

Horn Blowing Stopped At Band Concert

Applause in the form of horn-blowing at the Nicholls Oval band concert Sunday night had a damper cast on it.

Complaints about the noise, telephoned to police headquarters, resulted in a request being made at the concert for people to stop their horn-blowing.

Bandmaster Wally Parnell of the Citizens' Band said he took a "dim view" of the request.

"It's the only way the people up on the hill can show us they're appreciating the music. We couldn't hear them if they applauded inside their cars."

Mr. Parpell said he had looked into the city's anti-noise bylaw and reported that it said any "unnecessary horn-blowing" should be stopped. "As far as we're concerned," he said, "that horn-blowing is really necessary to the band concert."

The constable who made the request had done it in a way that was not offensive at all, the bandmaster said, but the band was concerned that complaints should have been made at all.

LISTENING

"Very likely those same people who complain are sitting on their verandahs and listening to the music," Mr. Parnell said.

Deputy Police Chief John Naples said he had heard of no great number of complaints. He added that he'd never heard a band concert anywhere that wasn't applauded by horn-blowing.

Mr. Parnell's feeling was that concerts had been going on for "years and years" to the accompaniment of auto-horn applause, and that complaints, had they been numerous, would have made themselves felt by now.

Car Hits Pole

Swerving to avoid hitting two girls on bicycles Daniel Dean, 45, 355½ St. John's Road, Toronto, Saturday evening skidded off the Warsaw road onto the shoulder of the road, hit the embankment and a telephone pole.

He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital and had his minor back injuries patched up and was released. His passengers, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Siegle, RR 10, Peterborough, were not injured.

Dean was driving his 1951 model car west on the Warsaw road. About four and a half miles east of the city he met two girls riding abreast on their bicycles approaching.

OPP constables Gordon Gray and Harold Armstrong investigated.

Mayor Back To Duties After Trip

Two Boxes of Mail Waiting; Impressed By Giant Spectacle

Two capacious cartons of accumulated personal mail, one of them containing newspapers, caught the attention of Mayor Hugh Waddell as unfamiliar objects on his return to the mayoral office at the City Hall today from attending the coronation of Queen Elizabeth as Peterborough's representative. His Worship and Mrs. Waddell arrived home at noon Saturday.

Mayor Waddell was tremendously impressed by the innumerable accents and intimations of significance in the crowning of Her Majesty the Queen, by the manifest tradition attaching to the ceremonial, and also by the charm of person of Queen Elizabeth and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh.

"Perhaps citizens may appreciate my amazement when Mrs. Waddell and myself were escorted to seats in a front row of Westminster Abbey," His Worship remarked to the Examiner today. "Her Majesty and processional attendants passed in front of us no further away from us than the width of this office. That is how close we were. I don't know how that allotment of seats came about, but some said they were drawn by lot. If that was the method, I can gratefully say that we were exceptionally lucky.

"On my right was a member of the council of Melbourne, Australia, and sitting beside Mrs. Waddell was an alderman from Victoria, B.C., and his wife, representing the mayor of Victoria."

FINE PLANNING

Another impression His Worship stressed was the evidence of a wonderful plan of organization by the British authorities under the direction of the Duke of Norfolk.

"I noticed particularly the tributes by Americans to the perfection of arrangements in every detail indicating the scope of the planning by the Earl Marshal and his staff. Then there was the friendliness of the people in those vast crowds. They seemed like one big family, and there was no hesitation about talking to the people you met.

"I feel sure that the press reports have conveyed the depth of the respect and love of the people for Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, and the Queen Mother. It was a palpable sentiment, and particularly that night of June 2 when they responded to the calls from the crowds by appearing six times on the balcony of Buckingham Palace. And, of course it has been told that Prince Charles just about stole the show on that occasion. Affection of the British people is extended to the Queen partly because she has given them an heir to the throne."

"The personality of Her Majesty Queen Salote of Tonga reached out to the crowds everywhere. She is a striking figure in any company, and she possesses a remarkable gift of appeal to people. Like so many others of the official visiting representatives Queen Salote and her attendants were assigned to rooms in the palace.

"For all the multitude, it was a most orderly, mannerly crowd everywhere I went, and the police did a superb job in their direction of traffic and the good humor they showed."

His Worship and Mrs. Waddell spent several days in Peterborough, and "had a grand time."

Mayor George R. Chamberlain (1951) officially opened this city's new City Hall, and on that trip was accompanied by Ald. Martin.

"They are still talking about that visit, and their only regret is that they could not have stayed longer. When we arrived, there was a reception at the city hall, attended by members of the council, department heads and others. It was held in the Mayor's chambers. That night we were guests at an informal dinner.

"Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Chamberlain gave a luncheon at which we met other citizens and their wives. However, we could not stay for the civic dinner for the inauguration of the new mayor. Their municipal year does not correspond with ours.

"The itinerary that we had prepared did not permit us to stay, so with a great deal of regret we had to forego that function.

"Mr. Chamberlain told me that on his return home he was invited to speak to the Rotary Club. He had so much to tell them about our city and country that he had to cut his speech short. So, the Club pressed him into returning at its next luncheon for the second part of his story."

"Peterborough is a fine city, they have a beautiful municipal building, and their hospitality will always be a treasured memory."

Mayor Waddell met Harmar Nicholls, M.P., who was here a year ago.

"We had booked a room at a hotel, but he insisted on taking us to the home of the chairman of the county council, Sir Arthur Craig. He and Lady Craig were simple, charming people, and they made us feel at home from the minute of our arrival.

"A very pleasant incident was our visit with Mr. Nicholls to an English fete at a village near Peterborough. The people were raising money for a town hall. They brought farm produce, flowers and many other articles. The chairman was a Peterborough lawyer, Charles Greenwood. In his remarks he welcomed us in a very cordial manner and as a souvenir of our visit he bought two silver salt cellars of an old design, and presented them to Mrs. Waddell.

SPECIAL WELCOME

"If the people learned that you were from Canada, you could immediately feel a special warmth of welcome."

Then, there was a visit to Ilford. Their Rotary Club had been assigned to Peterborough, Canada, during the war years, by Rotary's arrangements for extending help to clubs in Britain and also to some on the continent Gordon Monkman was chairman of the international service committee. Contributions that were sent overseas during that time, were continued after the storms and tidal flood that damaged many coastal cities of England early this year.

"We were entertained at lunch in the Mayor's parlors at Ilford and were guests of the Rotary Club. It was another fine experience."

Mayor Waddell remarked to the Examiner that on those occasions he could not fail to remember that the receptions were directed to him as representative of Peterborough.

"It was a wonderful trip, the coronation was a fabulous spectacle, that is one way of expressing it, because really it was beyond words of description; but, after all, it is good to be home again in our own Peterborough."

WIND, RAIN AND LIGHTNING during Saturday afternoon's electrical storm, blew down trees, killed cattle in Otonabee and Asphodel townships, flattened grain crops and jarred barn roofs. The large willow (above) at Lee's Corners, Lakefield Highway, blew down on the road. The damage is being surveyed by little Billy Lee and his dog.

Six men were ordained and three inducted as members of the first Kirk Session of St. Giles' Presbyterian Church, on Sunday morning, by the minister the Rev. Gilbert Smith The six ordained were Lionel Monk, Walter Dunsford, Stewart Perry, W. Roy Juby, Lloyd Endicott and Stanley Mahood and those inducted, who have already been ordained as elders of the Presbyterian Church, Bruce Johnston, Earl Powers and G. Wilson Craw.

Since the mission was started last October the affairs of the congregation have been administered by an assessor session, of James Dutton, William Young, Mr. Powers, Mr. Johnston and Mr. Craw, named by the session of St. Paul's Church.

The induction and ordination service was the first official act of Mr. Smith, since he was received as a minister of the Presbyterian Church, at the recent General Assembly meeting in Toronto.

Elderly Woman, Driver Hurt As 3 Cars Crash

One driver and an elderly passenger were injured when three cars collided on Highway 28 Sunday afternoon on the hill west of Armstrong's lumber yard.

Mrs. Elizabeth Furtner, 75, 1 Torrance Rd., Scarboro Junction, received a fractured left shoulder and an injured hip. Driver of one car Herve LeBreton, 21, 295 Clark St., Oshawa, suffered abrasions and lacerations over his left eye.

Two brothers, one behind the other were driving east on the highway approaching the city, Cecil Furtner, RR 1 Millikens, was leading with Wentworth Furtner, RR 2 West Hill, following.

According to police, LeBreton pulled out of the line of traffic to pass. He lost control of his car on wet pavement, collided with the leading Furtner car almost headon, swung around and hit the second car on the left side. Considerable damage was done to all three cars.

LeBreton was soon released and it is expected Mrs. Furtner will be moved to a hospital nearer her home.

OPP Constable Gordon Gray investigated.

Wild Storm Rips Trees, Power Lines

City Escapes Force Of Saturday Freak Phone Lines Still Out

Considerable damage was reported due to the freak storm which hit the city and surrounding districts Saturday afternoon. The storm seemed to spilt around the city striking in full force to the north and south. High winds and lightning dropped many trees, burned wires and generally disturbed communication facilities for some hours. In fact, telephone connections to Keene were still out this morning.

Nearly two inches of rain fell in parts of the city while other section remained comparatively dry. Young trees were blown down near the filtration plant and a huge weeping willow tree narrowly missed crushing a house near Lakefield when it was struck by lightning.

Five transformers burned out; 12 line switches and 45 transformer fuses blown out, was the official report of the rural Hydro office for the Peterborough, Millbrook and Otonabee areas. Millbrook was out of power for some time when trees, felled by the high winds, cut off primary feeder lines. The 44,000-volt power line between Peterborough and Raney Falls was damaged by lightning causing Otonabee township to be without electricity for more than an hour.

CHICKENS KILLED

Several hundred chickens belonging to Bruce Warr of Westwood were killed and although they were in the coops no damage was done to the buildings.

Fifteen cows were killed in separate accidents from Bailieboro to Marmora.

Three sheep owned by Jim Clysdale were struck and killed near Villiers.

Two silos belonging to Ernie Warner and Elmo Pitt were shattered. Both farms are situated on the Westwood road. Several trees fell on house tops in that district causing considerable damage. A transformer was struck directly behind the home of Mrs. Evelyn Anderson of Keene and the ensuing current blew out fuses both in her home and that of her neighbors, Mrs. Harry Short.

A mile south of Zion, Harold Nurse, saw the north-west corner of his barn rise from the ground and then settle back with no extensive damage.

THIS ENGLISH CAR was slightly remodelled this morning in an accident at Sherbrooke and Rubidge Sts. Driven by Miss Verna Rose of Reid St., it was damaged to the extent of $200 when it struck a cab driven by Ralph Wright of Adeline St. Miss Rose's view of the intersection was blocked by a parked truck as she approached from the south. She stopped, then started forward, clipping the westbound car.

Plan Advanced To Straighten Leaning Tower

WASHINGTON— Another plan has been advanced to prevent the collapse of Pisa's famous Leaning Tower, which first began to lean shortly after Bonanno started building it of black and white marble, A.D. 1174.

This time an American engineer proposes that the tilt, increasing at the rate of .04 inches a year, be stopped, and possibly the tower coaxed back toward the perpendicular, by drilling many holes on the north, or [illegible] side of the foundation. The process, he reports, would take 10 years, but would give the tower a life expectancy of 1,000 years instead of its present 200 years.

WET CLAY CAUSED LEAN

Only about 40 0feet of the 179-foot tower, designed to serve as a campanile, or bell tower, for the Cathdral, had been built when the southern part of the circular foundation began to sink in the wet clay soil, says the National Geographic Society. Work was stopped.

Attempts were made to straighten the structure, but were unsuccessful. Still leaning, it was nevertheless finished in 1350. The architect who completed it brought the centre of gravity to a safe place by making the south side of the two top storeys higher than the north.

Pisa, which many years ago was a naval power and a wealthy free city of Italy, has never had cause to regret the circumstance which made the tower lean. Caring for the visitors who come from all over the world to see and climb the eerie building is a major industry of Pisa, now a town of 50,000 people.

Realizing the value of the tower, Pisans try to keep it as it is. When the tilt reached 16 feet, they poured tons of concrete into the soggy ground to the south. This helped, but possibly because shells and aerial bombs of World War II shook the area, the campanile is steadily increasing its list.

SWAYS IN THE WIND

Town officials twice daily check the tower for any changes. They have found it sways in the wind, and also does one strange elliptical wiggles each day. The wiggle is due to expansion and contraction of the marble under the heat of the sun.

These natural movements were considered all that a 603-year-old tower could be asked to take, so the huge bells in the roof were silenced some years ago lest their vibrations weaken the fabric beyond endurance. Attendants, however, are merely amused when solicitous tourists stay on the high side of the top balcony to prevent their weight from doing damage.

If they do not want their profitable attraction to fall, neither do Pisans want it back in plumb. During the last war, after the Germans had been driven north in heavy fighting that seriously damaged the town but only nicked the tower, a group of American soldiers showed up with ropes and heavy trucks, announcing they were going to pull the tower straight.

It was only a joke, but it threw the Pisans into an uproar while it lasted.

Elgin Regiment Reunion

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP)—Veterans of the Elgin Regiment invaded this city during the week-end. Hundreds of their ranks registered Saturday and turned out for a church parade. At business sessions, W. B. Taylor of St. Thomas was elected president succeeding William T. Stollery of St. Thomas.

CONTRIBUTION TO UN—D. M. Johnson, (right) permanent Canadian representative to the United Nations, presents a cheque for $800,000 to the UN secretary-general, Dag Hammarskjold in New York. The cheque represents Canada's contribution to the UN's expanded program of technical assistance for 1953. At the third technical assistance conference last February, Canada pledged a minimum of $750,000 provided the total contributions reached $20,000,000, plus proportionate increases up to $850,000 if the total contributions reached the $25,000,000 target.

Miniature Parliament Sits In Northwest Territories

OTTAWA (CP)—A party of administrators and their assistants took off Sunday for the fourth meeting of the Northwest Territories' own miniature Parliament.

Headed by Maj.-Gen. H. A. Young, deputy resources minister and commissioner of the Northwest Territories council, the group will attend the council meetings June 24 at Yellowknife.

The council, formerly appointed by the federal government, came under a new set-up in December, 1951, with three elected members from the Territories sitting in with five appointees. It used to meet informally and irregularly in Ottawa, but now holds semi-annual meetings alternating here and in the 3,000 population mining town on the north shore of Great Slave lake.

Next Wednesday the councillors will file into a white frame building about 30 by 50 feet, which usually serves as Yellowknife's Lions Club.

GREAT DIGNITY

There, with much of the dignity surrounding the opening of a provincial legislature, the councillors will file in to a long table. From a sort of "speaker's chair" at one end of the table, Gen. Young will first act as a lieutenant-governor, reading a speech from the throne.

Then the general will double in brass as Speaker of the little assembly as it delves into the problems, large and small, of its population of 16,000—a handful of 5,400 whites, 6,400 Eskimos and 4,200 Indians spread over 1,253,438 square miles.

There are seats in the Territories' "White House" for about 100 spectators. A detachment of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police will keep order.

A total of 56 bills are on the agenda and the main one will propose the establishment of a municipal council for Yellowknife. Previously, the town has been managed by a board of trustees appointed by the federal government. The bill would provide for a mayor and eight aldermen.

Most of the bills are amendments of a minor nature to existing regulations. They deal with the usual provincial matters such as liquor laws, adoption legislation, bills of sale, changes of names, appointments to juries, as well as some problems peculiar to the north—dogs, forest protection, and distress regulations.

MAY LAST 12 DAYS

The session may last six to 12 days.

Elected members of the council are Mervin Hardie, an airways agent at Yellowknife, James Brodie of Fort Smith, general merchant and fur trader, and Frank Carmichael of Aklavik, a fur trapper. This will be their last term of office before returning to the electorate in the districts of Mackenzie North, South and West, respectively.

Federal appointees are Commissioner L. H. Nicholson of the RCMP; Air Commodore W. I. Clements, chief of planning and intelligence, RCAF; L. C. Audette, commissioner of the Canadian maritime commission, and Col. F. J. G. Cunningham, director of the resources department's northern administration and lands branch.

The late Maj. D. M. MacKay of the Indians affairs branch has not been replaced, so the council will be one man short.

Mrs. Thomas Timlin

COLDSPRINGS (ENS). — The funeral service for the late Mrs. Thomas Timlin was held on Friday afternoon in St. Paul's United Church. The Rev. E. W. Rowland of Peterborough, assisted by the Rev. V. M. Gilbert of the Camborne charge, conducted the service.

Mrs. Timlin was the former Harriet Louisa Minor, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Minor. She had lived in Coldsprings for several years but moved to Peterborough about seven years ago. Her husband predeceased her 20 years ago.

Surviving are one daughter and three sons: Mrs. Hilton Manley, (Beatrice) of Lindsay, Frank H. and Fred E. Timlin of Peterborough, and Percy A. Timlin of Kingston, and one brother, John Minor, of Keewatin.

Pallbearers were former neighbors at Coldsprings, Percy Grieve, William J. Dines, Milford Tucker, Edwin Dines, Newton McIntosh and Albert Brown.

Burial was in Plainville cemetery.

12-Mile Highway Main Street Uranium City

URANIUM CITY, Sask. (CP)—Uranium gave birth to this town 450 airmiles northwest of Prince Albert and the much-sought-after mineral is developing it into one of the largest mining towns in Western Canada.

Goldfields, supply and distribution hub for the gold rushes of the 1930s, has given way to this new centre a few miles to the north. The old town has been moved lock, stock and barrel to the new uranium centre about 10 miles away.

A 13-mile highway, kept open all year round, is in a sense the main street of the northwestern Saskatchewan uranium field and Uranium City is the centre of activity.

NEW LAKE PORT

Bushell is the southern terminus for the road built by the federal and provincial governments and mining companies. Bushell is the port for the area: The landing spot for barges that come across Lake Athabaska with supplies from the end of the railway at Waterways, Alta.

For six miles the road swings through semi-mountainous country to Uranium City, then it skirts Martin lake and finally the wide Beaverlodge lake to the northeast corner of the site of the Eldorado operations, the Crown-owned corporation and the most advanced property in the field. An airstrip has been built at the Eldorado operations.

Three hundred people live in Uranium City—called "Uranium" by the post office. Buildings, most of them brought from Goldfields, are laid out on a gentle slope between rocky hills.

The buildings are poor by contrast with the ultra-modern housing development at the Eldorado property. There are few modern homes and by the end of the summer the population is expected to reach 1,000.

"INTERESTING" ROCKS

Gus Nyman, a Finnish trapper, was responsible for the gold rush to northwestern Saskatchewan in the 1930s. "Interesting" rocks found near his home in what became Goldfields were given to a prospector friend for examination.

The trapper heard no more until he found the area of his find being staked. Goldfields boomed and mines opened up, but by the end of 1942 all had stopped operating because of financing difficulties, concentrated activity elsewhere and the high cost of working the low-grade ore in the area.

But before the Nicholson Mine folded in 1940 radioactive minerals had been found. Prospectors returned years later and found the uranium that has made the Beaverlodge area a mecca for mining men.

Gus Nyman, 70 and partly paralyzed, is a watchman at the old Nicholson Mine. He has not profited by the find that led to exploitation of the region, but the bay in front of his Goldfields home is named after him.

Windsor Water To Have Fluoridation

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Fluoridation of city water supplies appeared certain following a week-end meeting at which the city board of health agreed to pay for equipment needed to carry out the operation.

City council approved the plan some time ago. However, the utilities commission declined to pay for putting the fluoridation system into operation. They said fluoridation of the water was actually "mass medication" and suggested the board of health pay the bill.

The board agreed during the meeting and voted to provide $5,000 from its current budget to pay for equipment.

Europe Greatly Fears Return Of U.S. To High-Tariff Policy

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Thoughts from Vienna and London:

European countries fear, as Canada fears to some extent, that the United States will return to a policy of higher tariffs which will make it almost impossible for other countries to trade with her.

They feel, indeed, as Canada feels, that the United States, despite concessions of recent years, still maintains, in one way or another, barriers which make it impossible for other countries to trade with her to the extent needed for healthy world trade.

Their hope has been that the United States will recognize that she must give other countries a chance to sell in her markets, so that they may pay for what they want to buy from her, rather than receive handouts.

These feelings are summed up in the phrase, "trade, not aid."

In this situation, current strong expressions of protectionist sentiment in the U. S. are alarming in Europe. They are alarming, too, to those Americans who have a clear view of the position of the U. S. in the world of today.

Unfortunately, for one reason or another, an unflattering picture of the United States exists in the minds of many Europeans, even when they pay tribute (often grudgingly) to the help she has given to them. In this situation, they find it easy to believe the worst of her.

Things which may appear deplorable to Canadians, although merely passing phases in the American scene, tend, in Europe, to appear as expressions of the real American thinking.

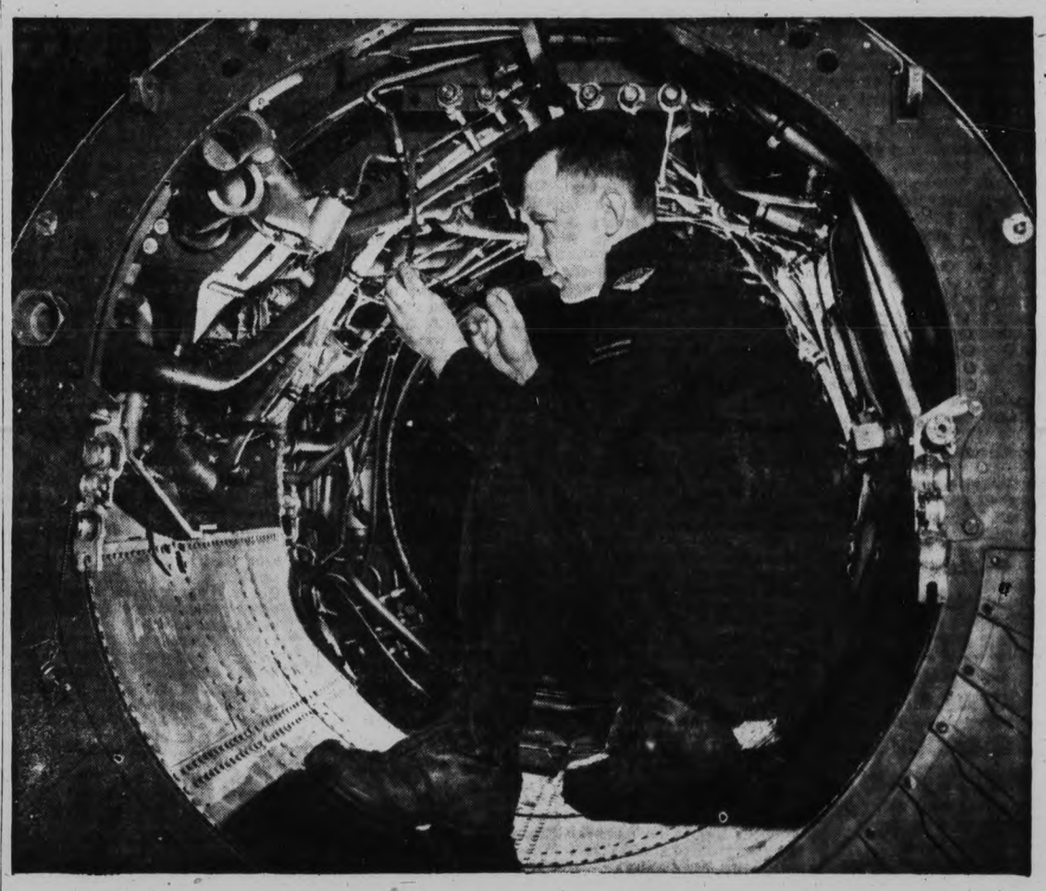
Communist propaganda has its part in this, but American facility for ruffling national pride also is a factor. Additionally perhaps, a "rich man," and that is the category into which the United States and Canada fall in European eyes, cannot expect to be overly beloved.

The United States has at last, with some regrets, given up any thought that she can again withdraw from the world in a political sense. It seems inevitable that the hard facts of life in today's world will teach her that neither can she maintain herself in economic isolationism.

So far, in the post-war world, she has made her major economic contributions to needy countries by outright gifts and, to some degree, with technical advice.

The gift phase may have to continue for a while, but, at best, it is an expedient, and is galling to the national pride of the recipients.

However, in the origins of the gift phase, one may find support for a belief that the United States will yet show real leadership in the freeing of world trade.



In June, 1947, the then secretary of state, Gen. George Marshall, made the speech which led to the Marshall plan or European recovery program.

This program has been recognized as an act of statesmanship, generosity and enlightened self-interest which would have seemed an impossible product of the United States of pre-war years.

Congress and the American people accepted the vast expenditures of the program because the condition of the world demanded it—and because the alternative was probable collapse of Western Europe and probable entrenchment of communism.

When the United States sees the need for the freeing of trade as clearly as she saw the need for the Marshall plan, experience of recent years gives hope that she will rise to the occasion.

Some of the few recent reassurances given to Europe in this regard were those given by American delegates to the recent congress in Vienna of the International Chamber of Commerce, when they came out whole-heartedly in favor of lower American trade barriers.

Favors U.N. Police Action If S. Korea Breaks Truce

CARROT RIVER, Sask. (CP)—CCF leader M. J. Coldwell said Saturday night he would favor United Nations police action in Korea if the South Korean republic should become the aggressor after a truce.

Mr. Coldwell, stumping through rural Saskatchewan on a federal election campaign tour, was replying to a question from the floor at a public meeting attended by 170 persons in this farming town 250 miles north of Regina.

"I would be in favor of preventing Syngman Rhee from committing any act of agression," he said. "What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander."

The statement came after Mr. Coldwell pledged his party to make a "genuine" move for peace in the world.

WAR SHOULD CEASE

He repeated assertions that the Korean war should have ceased and an armistice been signed when United Nations forces had pushed Communist invaders back to their original lines. He accused Gen. Douglas MacArthur, fired by former President Truman as Far East commander, of "taking the bit in his teeth" by not waiting for UN authority before pushing past original boundaries.

Mr. Coldwell said a CCF government in Ottawa would try to negotiate with Russia but at the same time keep Canada strong. One of the first moves would be recognition of the Chinese Communist government.

In an obvious reference to the United States, he said: "The leading government of the world declares it will not recognize the Chinese government. I don't like a dictatorship, whether it be Communist, Fascist or Nazi or dictatorship like (Senator) Joe McCarthy has in the United States."

OTHER CHARGES

On the domestic front, Mr Coldwell charged the board of transport commissioners with permitting railways to impose higher freight rates in the West to balance rates in the East where competition from water transport was keen.

The railways earned twice as much in the West as they did in the East although the volume of trade in the East was far greater. The federal government should use the Railway Act to stop a seven-per-cent increase granted by the transport board from becoming effective.

ADMIT NIAGARA FALLS

STRATFORD (CP)—An application for entry into the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series from Niagara Falls was accepted by a group of representatives and an application for Oshawa was rejected at a series meeting Sunday. The entry is subject to OHA approval.

Admission of Niagara Falls increases the series membership from seven to eight. The other teams are from Kitchener, Sarnia, Chatham, Brantford, Hamilton, Owen Sound and Stratford.

Niagara Falls must post a $1,000 bond as evidence of good faith and proof must be produced to show ample financial backing and sufficient playing material to produce a contending team.

Wren Blair, applying for Oshawa said he would appeal to the OHA and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. The application was rejected because of excessive travelling expenses.

William Hanley, OHA office manager, was authorized to inform the CAHA that unless the All-Ontario Senior A champions are granted the right to advance directly into Eastern Canada Allan Cup playdowns the OHA group would not be interested.

The OHA president will also be requested to approach the CAHA for a revision and increase of expenses allowed OHA winners advancing into Allan Cup playdowns, 33 1-3 per cent of the gate receipts being mentioned as the club's share.

"Best thing we ever did was teach our Tim to save."

"Look at him on his new bike. He's so proud because he saved up for it himself.

"Sure, Mom and I could have given it to him for passing his exam. But we had a better idea.

"Children who are taught the value of money have a great advantage all through life. We decided to give Tim an objective to save for. He wanted a bike, so we started a savings account for him at The Dominion Bank. The first dollar he put in looked mighty big to Tim in his new bank book.

"Each time he saved up a dollar, he made a beeline to The Dominion Bank. All the nice folks who work there, including Mr. Roberts, the manager, knew about Tim's bike and gave him lots of encouragement.

"Best of all, his bank account is making a business man out of Tim. He's always looking for odd jobs, like running messages or cutting grass. That lad now knows how to earn a dollar or two—and how to keep it.

"And now that Tim has his bike, he is saving for a new objective. He wants to be a Doctor some day. He'll get there."

Training your child to save now is a lesson he'll be grateful for, the rest of his life. Open an account for him at your nearby Dominion Bank. We'd like to meet him and do our share of encouraging. Remember, every account at The Dominion Bank is an important account.

Come in and talk to the manager. He will be happy to tell you about the Bank's many services.

Wright, minister of the United Church, in the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church which was decorated with large baskets of pink wild orchids, pink and white carnations and ferns.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. J. H. Caskey and Miss Beryl Larmer was soloist. Before the ceremony she sang "Because" and during the signing of the register "I'll Walk Beside You."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Barrie of Norwood and was given in marriage by her father. She wore an originally designed gown of white taffeta with gathered bodice and a full, net-covered skirt that fell into a slight train. Over the gown she wore a redingote of imported lace that dipped away from the waist in scallops. It had a stiff stand-up collar and was trimmed with tiny taffeta-covered buttons. Her circular shoulder veil was of nylon tulle illusion and was caught to a beaded tiara. She carried a cascade of American Beauty roses with white sweet peas.

Mrs. John Barrie, sister-in-law of the bride, was the matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Ted Youngs, sister of the groom, and Miss Frances Hogg. They wore similar waltz-length gowns of apple green taffeta with cut-away overskirts and short jackets of apple green for the bridesmaids and forest green for the matron of honor. Matching lace mittens and bandeaux of taffeta covered with lace completed their outfits and they carried flower-gathering baskets filled with mauve and yellow pansies and mauve sweet peas.

Master Paul Barrie of Peterborough, little cousin of the bride, was ring bearer, outfitted in a white gabardine suit, and he carried the two rings for a double ring marriage on a white satin cushion.

Barbara Browne Weds Alex Mackenzie

With many friends from widely distant points present in the Murray St. Baptist Church on Saturday afternoon at four o'clock, Miss Mary Barbara Browne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Standford Browne of Peterborough, became the bride of Mr. Alexander William Mackenzie of Montreal, son of the late Mr. William Kirkland Mackenzie of Toronto and of Mrs. Norman Scott of Montreal.

Tall white standards of pink and white peonies and white gladioli, banked with palms, formed the setting for the ceremony. The Rev. Ivan C. Morgan, minister of the church, officiated, and the wedding music was played by Mr. Charles Allen, Peterborough organist.

The bride chose an imported gown of coronation white nylon tulle over taffeta, fashioned with a moulded basque and long sheath sleeves. The cameo neckline featured a wide border of Swiss organdy appliques and the same appliques circled the waistline. The skirt fell in shirred folds, fanning out to an aisle-wide chapel train. Her long veil of tulle illusion was caught to a matching cap embroidered in seed pearls. Her crescent cascade bouquet was formed with a white orchid and trailing spray orchids and stephanotis.

Mr. Browne gave his daughter in marriage and she was attended by Miss Catherine Graham of Peterborough as maid of honor, Miss Margaret Strickland of Peterborough, Miss Brenda Bowen of Toronto and Miss Sally Scott of Montreal as bridesmaids, and flower girl was Miss Sheila Northey of Montreal, god-daughter of the groom.

Mr. David Struthers of Montreal attended the groom. Ushers were the bride's brother, Mr. William Browne of Toronto, Mr. Leslie Gault of Edmonton and Messrs. Tom Hodgson, William Baskerville, Chris Bovey, Malcolm McDougall and Noel Noseworthy, all of Montreal.

DOROTHY DIX:

Charming And Intelligent She Sees Beaux Fade Away

DEAR MISS DIX: My single daughter, who is 28, is working at a fine position in a distant city. She is a charming, intelligent, well-dressed girl. Yet, when she meets a young man, he'll date her several times—sometimes for months—then when she begins to consider him seriously, he fades out of the picture. Could it be that she's too sincere, or too proper?

W. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Sincerity and propriety are not qualities that would drive away a man of serious intent. The fault must be sought elsewhere. Perhaps your daughter has a subconscious desire to retain her independence, and actually discourages her beaux when they approach the proposal state. Or, she may be overeager, and, again, perhaps subconsciously, tries too hard to make an impression. Since she has no difficulty whatever in attracting young men, the snag comes with the fact that she can't keep them. The trouble, therefore, is within herself, and calls for a little analysis from both herself and you; the assistance of a third person in unraveling her problem would be helpful, but the third party obviously must be someone who knows her quite well. To make the proper impression on altarbound young men, it's a good thing to have domestic abilities, too.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm going with a boy for two years; we are both 30 and very much in love. There is only one thing I don't like about him; he's too flirty. Whenever we go out he likes to look at all the girls and comment on them. Does this mean that I couldn't trust him?

S. T.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You unconsciously summed up your own problem when you referred to your friend as a "boy"—and he's 30 years of age! The trouble is, of course, that he hasn't grown up to the status of his years, and still indulges in adolescent ogling and wisecracking. You can trust him—as far as you can see him! In any case, he appears very undependable and certainly not ready for the rigors of married life.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My problem concerns my four-year-old stepdaughter. Her mother has custody of her, with visiting privileges for her father two days a month. The mother is teaching the child to call her father by his first name, is telling her all sorts of untruths about us, and certainly isn't taking proper care of the youngster. The child is never neatly dressed. When we send gifts at Christmas or for birthdays, they are returned to us. The girl never wants to go home after visiting us. My husband and I would love to have her with us permanently. What can be done about it?

J. L.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your husband should take action to have the custody order changed. A lawyer will arrange the details. If the facts are actually as presented by you, it's quite likely that consideration will be given his petition. You have the makings of a conscientious, loving stepmother, and I hope your cause succeeds.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm engaged to a very nice young man I've known for nearly a year. He assures me he loves me, but his actions make me doubtful. He has an awful habit of lying, and is not dependable as far as dates are concerned. He'll make a date, then fail to keep it, and doesn't even offer an explanation. My mother has invited him for Sunday dinner a few times and, after accepting, he just didn't come.

F. L.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It's barely possible that the boy is afraid of people and deliberately shuns gatherings, yet hasn't the gumption to come out and tell you so. Then again, he may dislike the restrictions of a social group, or the fact that he feels inferior in one. One thing is sure, if he doesn't overcome his shortcoming in this respect now, he won't after you're married. He will be as loath to settle down to the restrictions of domesticity as he is to carry out his social obligations.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Sugarless Strawberry Jam For Diabetic Sufferers

My patient friends-the sufferers from diabetes-are watching for a recipe for a sugarless strawberry jam.

Last week the busy jam makers had their innings. Now it's the diabetics' turn. To you who are so grateful for this kind of help I want to assure you you are welcome. IIn fact when I make this jam I chuckle for on my reducing diet I can have some of it, and I give it away to my reducing friends for good measure, so it serves a triple purpose.

SUGARLES STRAWBERRY JAM

Five well-packed cups strawberries, which are perfectly fresh and ripe, 4 tablespoons glycerin, 1 teaspoons certo crystals, 12 sucaryl tablets. Wash strawberries in sieve under running water. Hull them, place on paper towel to dry. Cut in quarters and measure 5 cups pressed down a little. Mash these with potato masher and boil gently 15 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and stir with sterile spoon over medium heat for 5 minutes. Pour into sterile jars and seal at once. SUGARLESS PRODUCTS DEPEND ON STERILITY TO PRESERVE THEM, so take no chances, by using utensils or spoons that have been boiled in boiling water at least 20 minutes.

If in doubt store sugarless products in refrigerator.

SUGARLESS STRAWBERRY AND RHUBARB JAM

Two and one-half cups each quartered choice berries (see above for preparation) and young tender red rhubarb cut in ½ inch pieces. Mash berries in kettle and add cut rhubarb and cook over low heat until rhubarb softens. Mash it with potato masher and let cook gently 10 minutes longer. Add 15 sucaryl tablets, 4 tablespoons glycerin and simmer, stiring for 5 minutes longer. Pour into sterile jars and seal with sterile rings and tops.

CHOCOLATE CUPS

Contributed by Mrs. R. B.

I am ashamed to say that I have forgotten the name of the girl who wanted the recipe for Chocolate Cups. I gave her one version and asked for ideas from readers and Mrs. R. B. has been kind enough to send this.

Barely warm semi-sweet chocolate over (not touching) hot water, heat off. When softened beat to melt. Spread chocolate inside pleated muffin-cups-sides only (chocolate runs into base) Set upright. Refrigerate. Gently peel off paper by pulling very, very gently on the pleats. Heap with ice cream, top with cherry. Be sure to use full oz. of chocolate per cup.

Mrs. R. B. goes on to ask "Do you have a recipe for "Beef a la Mode"

BEEF A LA MODE

The orthodox recipe calls for a 4-lb. piece of beef from the rump larded with strips of salt pork. The butcher would have to do this for you unless you have a larding needle. (A fancy method is to be add stuffed olives to the larded beef Cut slits with sharp knife and push olive in.

Use 15 olives to a 4-lb. piece.) Simmer larded beef in a mix to half cover of boiling water and tomoto juice or tomato pulp. Add ½ cup minced green pepper, 2 teaspoons salt, dash of pepper. Meat should first be sprinkled with 2 teaspoons flour and browned inch cup fat. Bits of garlic are inserted in tiny slits in the meat by some European cooks and I like this version

Mrs .R. B. you say "cubed beef" If you want to cut the meat in 2-inch cubes, you could do the larding yourself by forcing the ice pick right through centre and pushing a ¼ inch square strip of salt pork into this hole, before proceeding with the browning and braising. This method of browning, then simmering in small amount of water, is called braising.

REMEMBER... No one permanent is ideal for all types of hair only NEW TONI TRIO brings you 3 different home permanents

"my hard-to-wave hair needs urging"

"Ordinary permanents never seemed to take on my stubborn hair. Now, with Super Toni, I get a lovely, natural-looking wave that holds the set for ages."

For hard-to-wave hair that resists ordinary permanents, or for women who want a curlier permanent, the perfect answer is Toni Super

"my hair needs to avoid extremes"

"Other permanents curled too much or too little, but Regular Toni waves my normal hair just right".

For normal hair, Regular Toni is now custom-made to give a better-than-ever wave. If you are among the millions of women who have always been pleased with their Toni wave, you'll choose Toni Regular

"my tinted hair needs pampering"

"Very Gentle Toni is exactly what my hair needs. There's never a trace of frizz, yet the wave is in to stay."

For easy-to-wave hair, Very Gentle Toni has extra mildness. If your hair is bleached or tinted, or if you have some natural wave, your custom permanent is Toni Very Gentle

ONE JUST RIGHT FOR YOU

You're sure of a smoother, deeper, more natural-looking wave when you choose from New Toni Trio the only permanent that's custom-made for you.

And Toni's exclusive Permafix neutralizer assures you a more enduring curl by locking in your wave so it can't come out. No other neutralizer is surer, or faster.

Today, choose your personal Toni from New Toni Trio. If you don't say your Toni looks as lovely and lasts as long as the most expensive permanent money can buy, The Toni Company will cheerfully refund your money. You be the judge.

Cambodia Ready To Stage War

BANGKOK (AP)—A Cambodian government spokesman said today "Cambodians are ready to die for independence. This means an independence war but the king is first watching French movements and awaiting French initiative."

The spokesman, Krengnill, said young King Norodom Sihanouk authorized the statement.

The king returned to Cambodia Saturday from self-imposed exile in Siam and became commander-in-chief of the independent Cambodian Army in response to the people's request, Krengnill said. The spokesman returned to Bangkok today.

Krengnill said the 31-year-old Norodom has received reports France has prepared three battalions of Africans at the capital city of Pnom Penh, and has distributed arms to French residents.

Wild Storm

A 20-minute lightning spree in Bridgenorth caused a great deal of alarm to the residents and some damage. A bolt of electricity shot through a partition of Carl Mann's house, knocked off some of the roof ridging and then jumped to a neighboring elm tree. In the process the oars of his boat, lying beside the house, were snapped. The aerial to Wallace Nichols' barber shop was struck and the insulation was completely burned off.

In Cobourg, the storm was reported to be one of the sharpest to have hit that district in some time. Bob Morris, a clerk in the A & P store, was thrown to the floor and remained dazed for several minutes when a bolt of lightning passed from the television aerial at the armouries to the telephone line and down to the phone which he was using. The same bolt struck the transformer behind the Park Theatre throwing the place into darkness. The battery lights were turned on and there was no undue confusion in the audience of children at the matinee.

Edward E. Horton

wanted to do for a living when he crossed the East River from his home town of Brooklyn, N.Y., to attend Columbia University. There, however, he "got mixed up in theatricals" and has been at it ever since.

Later, he went to Hollywood, where he gained international fame in the movies. But these apparently didn't give him enough to do and so he and his brother W. D. Horton started a legitimate theatre there. In 1933 he made a smash hit in "Springtime for Henry" and so he took it on the road where it beam a perennial favorite with audiences all over the continent, including Montreal, Toronto, and London, Ont.

From then on, Mr. Horton did regular tours between movies and played in Toronto four years ago in Noel Coward's "Present Laughter" opposite Marta Linden, who is in the present cast of "Nina."

"But we couldn't compete with Barbara Anne Scott who was performing at the Maple Leaf Gardens," Mr. Horton said. "I thought of donning a pair of skates myself, but I didn't want to show the youngsters up."

Other visits to Canada include a fishing trip in the Euclataws on the west coast. Although he is no fisherman, Mr. Horton was the only member of the party to land a fish—a 36-pound salmon.

"I dont know anything about fishing but apparently I did all the right things," he said.

Another paradox in the actor's career is that, although he does not sing, he has played in several musical comedies. Many of his earliest parts were non-singing roles in musicals. Just a few weeks ago he took the part of Popoff in a New Orleans performance of "The Merry Widow" starring Dorothy Kirsten. He played the same part in the movie version of the operetta starring Jeanette MacDonald and Maurice Chevalier.

He made his last movie three years ago, starring opposite Lucille Ball in "Her Husband's Affair." But most of his recent work has been on TV and in summer theatre, with which he has been associated since 1948 when he was asked to open the famous playhouse in Bucks county, Mass.

Since that time, summer stock has become one of the mainstays of the legitimate stage, making year-round work possible for those who would otherwise be thrown out of employment once the traditional "season" finishes in the spring.

Not least of all, summer theatre has blossomed in Canada, with many companies dotted about Ontario. Last summer Mr. Horton was in the company of "Nina" when it played at the Niagara Falls summer theatre operated by Maude Franchot, aunt of Franchot Tone.

NOW LECTURING

Last February, Mr. Horton added lecturing to his list of accomplishments, when he delivered a series of 10 lectures in three weeks in various United States cities, telling of the many incidents of his theatrical experience.

Although these many activities keep him on tour most of the time, Mr. Horton, a bachelor, shares a house with his 95-year-old mother in Encino, Calif.

"Encino is Spanish for oak tree", he explained. "The place is surrounded by huge oak trees, three and four hundred years old. Everyone has one but myself so I had to plant one on my property to feel at home."

Bail Set At $7,000 On Abduction Charge

Frederick Blaby, 24, of 554 Romaine St., was remanded until Thursday in Magistrate's Court on charges of abduction and indecent assault on a nine-year-old girl. Bail was set at $7,000.

The offences were alleged to have taken place on June 14 when the child was reported missing for 15 hours over Saturday night. Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw, QC, asked bail be set at $10,000 but after requests for $5,000 bail by defence counsel, W. J. A. Fair, QC, Magistrate W. R. Philp, remanded the accused at a compromise $7,000.

Post-Election House To Have 84 More

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's post-election House of Commons will have three members more than the last and 84 more than the first House after Confederation.

A 1952 redistribution, based on the 1951 population census, boosted membership to 265 from 262. The first House in 1867 had 181 members.

As a result of the redistribution, this is how membership will be divided in the new Commons, with the division at dissolution in brackets:

Newfoundland 7 (7); Prince Edward Island 4 (4); Nova Scotia 12 (13); New Brunswick 10 (10); Quebec 75 (73); Ontario 85 (83); Manitoba 14 (16); Saskatchewan 17 (20); Alberta 17 (17); British Columbia 22 (18); ridings of Yukon and Mackenzie River 2 (1).

SENATE UNCHANGED

In the senate, where appointments are made for life, the number of seats will remain at 102, divided as follows:

Newfoundland 6; Prince Edward Island 4; Nova Scotia 10; New Brunswick 10; Quebec 24; Ontario 24; Manitoba 6; Saskatchewan 6; Alberta 6 and British Columbia 6.

Representation in the Commons is based on population. The representation of each province is determined on the basis of the relation of its population to that of the whole of Canada. There are some exceptions to that general rule.

The British North America Act—the basis of the Canadian constitution—states that no province may have fewer members in the Commons than it has in the Senate.

Prince Edward Island, on the basis of population, would be entitled to two members in the Commons. However, since the island has four Senate seats, it retains four seats in the Commons as well.

SPECIAL TREATMENT

The Yukon and Northwest Territories are given special treatment. Up to now, the vast northern area has been represented by one member. In the new Commons, the Yukon will have one member and the Territories a member.

Saskatchewan joined the list of exceptions in the last redistribution. On the basis of population, the province's representation in the Commons would have dropped to 15 from 20.

A special provision was enacted to prevent the membership of any province from dropping more than 15 per cent in any redistribution. This meant that Saskatchewan lost three seats instead of five and will have 17 members in the new Commons.

Until 1947, Quebec was used as the yardstick for fixing the representation of the country as a whole. Under the BNA Act, Quebec was given a fixed 65 seats, and the representations of other provinces varied in accordance with the ratio of their populations to that of Quebec.

Under this system, membership of the Commons changed frequently up to 1925.

GROWTH SINCE 1867

Here are the Commons membership totals at the start of each Parliament:

1867 (Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick), 181; 1872 (Manitoba and British Columbia added), 200; 1874 (P.E.I.), 206; 1878, 206; 1882, 211; 1887 (Saskatchewan), 215; 1891, 215; 1896, 213; 1904 (Yukon), 214; 1908 (Alberta), 221; 1911, 221; 1917, 235; 1921, 235; 925 to 1949, 245; 1949, 262; 1953, 265.

Provincial representation has fluctuated considerably through the years.

Ontario started with 82, went as high as 92 and now will have 85. Nova Scotia had 19 originally and went as high as 21. It will have 12 in the new Parliament.

New Brunswick had a high of 16 late in the last century and now will have 10. Manitoba started with four, rose to 17 and now drops to 14. British Columbia began with six, rose to 16 in 1933 and now gets 22. Prince Edward Island had six originally and then fell to four in 1904.

Saskatchewan, starting with four, rose to 21 in the 1920s but now falls back to 17. Alberta had an initial seven which rose to 17

Socialized Medicine Brings Additional Damage Actions

By IAN McEWEN

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's welfare state doctors have become alarmed at a new and unforeseen development in socialized medicine, a much greater risk of being sued by their patients.

Since nationalization of medical services, in July 1948, legal actions for negligence against doctors have increased by more than four times. Last year the government had to pay out £100,000 in settling claims against hospitals, compared with about £23,000 in the first year of the program. The figures do not include huge sums paid out by individual doctors.

Chief cause is not the health service itself but another feature of the welfare state, the Legal Aid and Advice Act of 1949, which in this case enables the citizen to sue the government at the government's expense.

Another factor given is that patients are apparently more ready to sue an impersonal government institution than they once were to sue a private hospital or practitioner.

The British Medical Journal discusses the subject in its current issue.

"The citizen of the welfare state is very conscious of his rights. The doctor and the nurse may save a patient's life and in the process the patient may accidentally sustain a burn from a hot-water bottle, and subsequently wins an action for damages.

"This is justice, but to some it may seem tinged with ingratitude," the Journal said.

The journal maintains that the situation is ruining the morale of doctors as well as the reputation of the medical profession.

As a consequence of the growing fear of court suits, doctors tend to avoid experimenting with new drugs and to keep patients in hospital longer than necessary.

Two Cars Hit Damage $400

Damage totalled close to $400 in a two car crash Saturday night at Monaghan Rd. and Patterson. Neither of the drivers, D. J. Humphreys of Lundy's Lane and David Desmond of Reid St., were injured.

Humphreys was driving north on Monaghan when Desmond entered the intersection, driving west on Patterson.

They collided at the corner. Humphrey's car damaged its right front corner to the extent of $350. The Desmond car escaped with less than $50 damage.

Combine Crews Start Northward Trek

By JOHN KAY ADAMS

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Combine operator J. D. Russell says he is harvesting so much wheat for farmers this spring they don't know what to do with all their cash.

"I had to keep one of them from stopping cars on the highway and trying to loan the drivers money," Russell said with a twinkling smile.

The 43-year-old Texas farmer is cutting his neighbors' wheat before pushing north with the harvest. He says the wheat is the best he has ever seen. Some of it is yielding 50 bushels to the acre compared to a normal 10 or 20 bushels.

There is so much work to do getting in the tremendous crop that some harvesting crews are spending extra days here along the southern edge of the great continental wheat belt. Others now are working in Oklahoma and in the drought - damaged fields of the Texas panhandle, one of the few sections of the United States where the crop is poor this year.

1,800-MILE TREK

All summer, combine crews like Russell's will toil in the golden fields from Texas through Kansas, Nebraska and the Dakotas. September frost will catch them on the Canadian Prairies at the end of their 1,800-mile trek.

They will harvest an estimated 1,132,500,000 bushels in the United States. There is a carry-over of some 570,000,000 bushels from last season. The total would give the United States an export and carry-over exeess of 1,000,000,000 bushels, the greatest grain surplus in the history of any country.

Bountiful billion - bushel wheat crops have come about in the United States in the last 10 years largely through the efforts of enterprising men like Russell. They have used their own capital to mechanize the mightiest harvests in history.

The young Texas farmer brought his first self-propelled combine to the Dallas county town of Lancaster in 1943. It sat on the town square where the curious could get a close look at it. Russell runs three of them now with supporting trucks.

SON DRIVES COMBINE

One of his combine drivers is his 14-year-old son Donald. The boy started handling the $6,000 machines in the Texas panhandle when he was 13. Four harvest hands with trucks and a combine do the work that required a full crew of 24 men using a stationary threshing machine.

The work starts at mid-morning after the sun has steamed out the dew. The crew labors through the heat of the day until long after dark. There are no holidays while the sun shines.

Day after day the harvesters chug through the dusty fields while the searing wind whips chaff and the sun burns down on the ripening grain.

"It was supposed to be 106 the other day," Russel said. "But I think it was 125 up on the machine."

VOLUMES OF BEAUTY

Henry Brooke, Irish writer who died in 1783, produced a poem in six volumes called "Universal Beauty."

BUG HUNTERS—Chief pilots, bush pilots, maintainance crews and the men that feed them line up at Nictau, the largest of six air strips cut out of the New Brunswick spruce forest. The men are all part of "operation budworm" a forest spraying project of New Brunswick's forests in an effort to curb the destructive insects. Two governments and several pulp and paper companies have joined forces to eliminate the budworm, usually a harmless bug, who in recent years has appeared in epidemic numbers and threatens to turn the valuable forest into a useless wasteland. Every day, weather permitting, 0 planes employed in the project take to the air and cover the vast area, just skimming the tree tops, and spray the forest wit han insecticide. The operation s believed to be one of the largest spraying operations in the world.

Suggests Public School Education Be Continued To Grade 10

BIGWIN INN (CP)—Lloyd Spalding, secretary of the Ontario Urban and Rural School Trustees' Association, suggested today that public school education be continued to Grade 10--now second form high school.

The Hamilton board of education administrator told the association's 34th annual convention in the Muskoka resort area that the plan would encourage students to get their Grade 10 graduation certificates and prevent many students from leaving high schools in their first and second years of study.

He suggested Grades 7 to 10 be termed senior public school, or an intermediate school between public and high schools. The plan, he said, would cut education costs by reducing the need for expensive secondary school buildings and equipment, and by reducing the need for specializing teachers.

He said a few communities now operate such plans.

A somewhat similar proposal of the royal commission on education in Ontario was "doomed to failure," he said, because it involved religious and political opinions. This was the idea that Grades 1 to 6 be elementary, 7 to 10 be secondary, and 11 to 13 be secondary on the junior college level.

Mr. Spalding said that under his plan some revision in the elementary curriculum would have to be made. It might be necessary to increase shop instruction and re-examine the emphasis on vocational training.

Mr. Spalding is resigning from his post as secretary-treasurer of the trustees association at the end of the convention because of the pressure of business with his own board.

Chapter News

MARMORA CHAPTER

MARMORA— (ENS) — Marmora Chapter IODE held its monthly meeting in the Masonic Hall, Thursday evening.

The Regent, Miss G. H. Rennie presided over a good attendance of members.

A letter from the Provincial Chapter mentioned that it had been learned that the Communist party were running eighty candidates in the forthcoming election and members should be alerted and urged to exercise their franchise to support only such candidates as would uphold their democratic principles. Another letter from the local Recreational Committee asked the Chapter to sponsor a minor hockey team next season.

The regent thanked conveners for their co-operation during the past month— one of the busiest in the history of the Chapter.

Mrs. C. Nickle gave the report of the flower and gift committee. The regent read the report of Mrs. A. M. Jones, treasurer of the Marmora Girl Guides Association, acknowledging total receipts from various local organizations to total $42.50 of which $12.50 was donated by the Chapter.

Mrs. M. Borland came next with the report of the Sewing Committee.

She told of having on hand, material for personal comfort and nursery bags and asked that these be made up, and during the summer and that a quilt of small pieces be made.

Mrs. J. H. McCrodan reported that she had a quantity of wool.

At a previous meeting, the Chapter decided to recess for the summer.

The motion was carried that in lieu of the usual bake sale, penny boxes be given out and the equivalent of $1.50 be collected from each member.

The Chapter then made the following donations:

Ten dollars to the National Shipped Fund, $5.00 to Marmora Agricultural Society, $25 to Marmora Public Library for purchase of children's books, $50 towards defraying cost of drapes, $100 to the Artificial Ice Fund and $5 to the prospective Minor Hockey League.

It was decided to again operate a booth at Marmora Fair.

The next meeting will be held on September 10.

Two new members were admitted into the Chapter.

Mrs. C. Brady, hospitality convener reported the receipt of hospitality cards for two members who are shortly going overseas.

Refreshments were then served.

Canadians Steal Chinese Sign Suggesting Soldiers Go Home

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—The Chinese taunted Canadian troops recently with a large banner suggesting that they go home.

Large red-painted letters on the white cotton streamer read:

"Mom and Dad waiting
"God knows when you die."

A smaller one nearby read "Get wise and save your lives."

L.Cpl. Victor Genest of Grandbapeau, Que., and Pte. Marcel Lamontagne of Sherbrooke, both from the 3rd battalion, the Royal 22nd Regiment, patrolled that night right up to the large banner to see if it was booby-trapped. It wasn't.

So the next night they returned with some wire.

Inching their way up to the two poles, right in front of the enemy positions, they looped ends of the wire around them. Then they returned a safe distance before toppling the banner over.

Hoping the Chinese would follow them back into a Canadian ambush the two trailed the white banner slowly behind them in the moonlight. But the Chinese were cagey.

Find Mutilated Body Of Unidentified Girl

DENVER (AP)—The mutilated body of an unidentified young woman lay unclaimed in the morgue today as officers sought the slayer who stuffed her blanket-wrapped body into an old trunk and dumped it in the river.

The body, a six-inch statue of Christ on top under the tattered quilt, was found Saturday in shallow water of the Platte river.

Police said the victim, 15 to 20 years old, was slashed across the stomach with the jagged edge of a broken bottle. William Thornburg, medical examiner, said there also were signs of strangulation and a bruise on the head. He estimated the woman had been dead three days.

Investigators speculated that the metal figure of Christ, with arms outstretched, had been ripped off a cross by the killer in a strange desire to give the victim burial rites.

Baby Killed By Truck

OSHAWA (CP)—Rod Hastie, 19-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Hastie, was killed today when struck by a dairy truck near his home. Driver Cameron Hoagg said the boy walked into the truck's path from behind a tree.

Canadian Soldiers In Korea To Celebrate Canada Day

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—A gala "Canada Day" is planned for Canadians and their friends here July 1.

The new name for the national holiday, 86th anniversary of Canada's Confederation, was chosen to emphasize here that Canada is a full and independent partner in the Commonwealth, no longer a Dominion.

There will be a memorial and dedication service, a full sports program with the band of Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry playing, and smokers and parties for all units.

CANADIAN HERITAGE

In ordering the celebrations, Brig. Jean Allard wrote:

"The 'First of July' is a milestone in Canadian history as part of the British Commonwealth. I ask one and all to observe 1 July 1953 as an occasion marking our Canadian heritage, and ask your wholehearted support in making this coming 'Canada Day' in Korea one that will be remembered."

More than $1,500 have been spent on prizes and trophies for winners in the 18-event program, which includes the brigade softball finals.

The soldier amassing the greatest number of points will get a championship trophy plus $50 in cash while another trophy will go to the unit aggregating the greatest number of points.

NEW SPORTS CENTRE

The Canada Day program will inaugurate the brigade's new sports centre. It comprises a softball diamond, two volleyball courts, two horse-shoe pitches, a 440-yard track suitable areas for field events, a boxing ring and an outdoor theatre. Construction has been supervised by Lieut. Doug Scott of Toronto, brigade sports officer.

Smokers will be held throughout the brigade that evening for the soldiers, while representative officers will be guests at a buffet dinner at Allard's headquarters.

Committee chairman and overall supervisor is Maj. J. R. Stafford of Ottawa, officer in charge of the operational research team.

Units already are conducting eliminations events to ensure best representation at the games.

Sport Shirts Universal Necktie Slipping Out

MIAMI (AP) — Is the necktie slipping out of the male fashion picture?

Rev. Wilfred P. Harman thinks so. Maybe it's just the summer influence in this sports shirt capital. But at this time of year, sports shirts are universal, so the minister's views are interesting.

He's been a collector of cravats for years. And he thinks ties may be going the way of button shoes and detachable cuffs. The day may be coming, he believes, when ties will be worn only on dress occasions.

Harman, executive secretary of the Greater Miami Council of Churches, began collecting neckwear in 1936 when he was studying for his doctorate at the University of Chicago.

He didn't just drift into his hobby. With Mrs. Harman, he pored over hobby magazines and lists of hobbies before he deliberately chose tie collecting.

One of his prize acquisitions is a necktie of former president Harry S. Truman, which he received in 1952.

In the music section division of the collection are ties formerly owned by Dr. Thomas Beecham, noted British conductor and David Rubinoff, renowned violinist.

The entertainment division includes Ralph Bellamy and the late Tom Mix, plus eye-dazzlers given him by his boyhood friends, Chester Lauke and Morris Goff, the Lum and Abner radio team.

Harman says he has found, in his research, that ties undergo a definite change every 50 years.

"We may either expect a new necktie soon, or the disappearance of the necktie altogether, except, possibly for dress wear," he said. "Sports shirts have done more to cause them to be discarded than anything else."

Raccoons Arrive First

ST. THOMAS (CP)—First to arrive at Sunday school at the 130-year-old St. Thomas Anglican Church Sunday were three raccoons. Children and teachers found a mother raccoon and three or four lively young ones making use of a roof off the choir loft. The raccoons were not disturbed.

BIG SHOT—AND LITTLE—Two sizes of M-1 rifles are held by two sizes of U.S. Marines at El Toro Air Station, Santa Ana, Calif. The Leathernecks are Pfc. Jack E. The M-1 he holds is just an oversized working model used for demonstration purposes.

THE ROAR OF MARTIAL LAW—Russian tanks rumble down a street in East Berlin to scatter the 100,000 rioters who were rebelling against Red rule. The revolt, spreading into the Russian zone beyond Berlin, brought out Red tanks and machine gunners to enforce martial law.

Russia's Cities Be Hooked Up In Big TV Chain

By ANDREW STEIGER

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet radio engineers are working on a far-reaching plan to link Russia's cities with radio-relay stations to make television broadcasts as common as ordinary radio ones, according to Nikolai Psurtsev, Soviet minister of communications.

At the same time, the vice-minister of communications, K. Sergeichuk, announced that the radio-relay set up is being installed to operate on ultra-shortwaves (10 to 30 centimetres) with high frequencies of 1,000,000,000 to 3,000,000,000 cycles a second.

Use of the ultra-shortwaves opens the way for a wide band of frequencies over which hundreds of similtaneous programs can be transmitted.

The relay system between cities consists of a chain of low-power automatic receiver - transmitter stations spaced 30 to 45 miles apart.

RELAY SYSTEM

(Micro-wave relay0 systems have been used extensively in North America and Western Europe for some time.)

Psurtsev said that radio-relay transmission is a Russian invention for which the soviet scientist, V. I. Kovalenkov, of the Soviet academy of sciences receive a patent in 1921.

According to Dr. Aleksei Puzin, director of the new ministry of culture's chief administration on radio information, who directs the radio and television broadcast programs, ultra-short wave radio broadcasting initiated at television broadcast centres is being promoted because of the high fidelity of sound transmission.

Co-axial cables are being laid which will, in the near future, make possible systematic exchange of television programs broadcast from Moscow, Leningrad and Kiev.

New Soybean Variety

HARROW, Ont. (CP)—A new variety of soybean, harosoy, has been released by the experimental station here. Agricultural department officials say it has several desirable characteristics, including medium-late maturity, good yielding ability, desirable plant and seed type and some disease resistance.

Pravda Charges U.S. Trains Refugees For Espionage

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda accused the United States Sunday of training Soviet refugees and former war prisoners of the Nazi invaders in the arts of spying, diversion, terror and murder and then sending them back into Russian territory.

The official Soviet Communist party organ dedicated its lead editorial to a repetition of these charges—which have been made often previously—to emphasize a fresh and pointed call for vigilance against "foreign and internal enemies of the U.S.S.R."

The subject of vigilance is something which has been mentioned often in recent weeks, but observers here considered it most interesting that it was given the leading place in Pravda's editorial page—a position it doesn't usually command.

PARTICULAR EMPHASIS

The paper protested with particular emphasis that Soviet citizens now in displaced persons camps in the American occupation zone of Germany and in Western Europe are being used as intelligence agents against this country.

Charging there were special schools for teaching subversives, Pravda added:

"Then the subversives and murderers are supplied with weapons, poisons, radio transmitters and false documents, and are dropped from American planes onto the territory of our country."

Say Painters' Strike Ended In Windsor

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Following a hectic meeting Thursday of the Painters' Union when some older union members were reportedly manhandled, the 19-day strike of some 200 Windsor painters appears to have been broken.

Although the union has not called an official halt to the strike, many painters are returning to work on their own accord.

One local contractor reported that most of his men "drifted" in on Friday and said that as far as they were concerned the strike is over.

The men were seeking $1.85 an hour instead of the present $1.65.

Raid Cock Fight

BRANTFORD (CP)—Thirty police officers Sunday raided what they said was a cock fight near Oondaga, 15 miles east of here, and arrested 52 persons. Police said they seized 41 live birds and 24 dead ones.

The raiding force included provincial and city police from Brantford and members of the provincial police anti-gambling squad from Toronto.

BERLIN TROUBLE SPOT—This newsmap spots the trouble area in East Berlin where Russian tanks and soldiers battled to quell rioting citizens in revolt against the Red government. After six hours of destruction, the East Berliners were ordered to stop under martial law. Troops, machine gunners and shell-throwing tanks were sent out to enforce the order.

Used Car Stock Threatens Automotive Industry

By DAVID J. WILKIE

DETROIT (AP)—Nearly everybody interested in the destiny of the automotive industry is jabbing at the used car situation these days.

Used car stocks in the United States are greater now than they have been at any time. The bankers and finance companies are urging sharply restricted credit in the handling of used cars. The auto makers are turning their advertising agencies loose on the promotion of used car sales and many dealers are concentrating upon used car sales.

There probably is nothing the franchised new car dealer needs less right now than more used cars. Yet you can read or hear occasionally that this or that dealer "needs used cars."

One of the things that suggests used car sales have been neglected to some extent in the post-war period is that their ratio to new car sales has declined sharply. Before the Second World War used car sales averaged three for every one new car transaction. Currently they are said to average less than 1.5 to one.

2,250,000 NEW CARS

The tremendous accumulation of used autos, of course, grows out of the great volume of new car sales so far this year. Official figures for the first four months plus authoritative estimates for May show that close to 2,250,000 new cars were sold from Jan. 1 through May 31.

Some bankers and finance companies say this pace cannot be maintained throughout the year; some say that without drastic corrective measures the used car pile up means trouble for manufacturers and retailers alike.

The used car situation obviously could seriously affect new car sales in the months ahead.

One industry expert said this week that whatever measures finally are adopted to ease the used car situation the program will have to be subsidized by the car buyer. He would do this, it was explained, chiefly by accepting considerably less for his used car than he expected to get or than has been allowed in the earlier months of the year.

Pearson Asks Rhee Halt UN Violations

'Shocking' Actions Sharply Criticized By Assembly Head

OTTAWA—(CP)— External Affairs Minister Pearson, as president of the United Nations assembly, today appealed directly to Syngman Rhee to halt his "shocking" violations of UN solidarity and to co-operate in getting an armistice and in keeping it.

He criticized harshly the South Korean president's release of 25,000 anti-Red prisoners of war and regretted that "it occurs at a time when hostilities are about to cease.".

The letter was sent through UN channels to Seoul during the night.

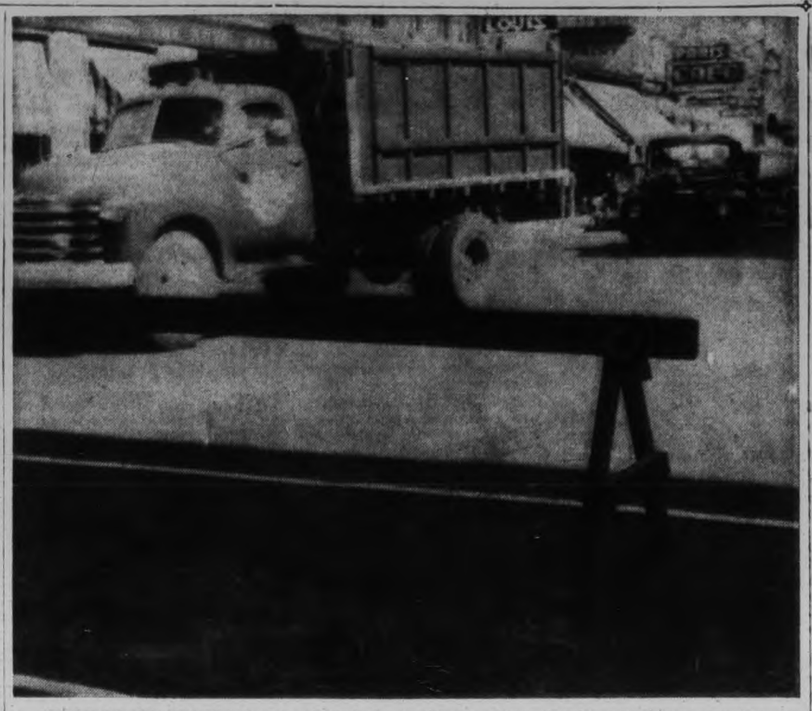
Mr. Pearson accused Rhee of violating the agreement of July, 1950, under which South Korean forces were placed under UN command, adding:

"As president of the general assembly of the UN, I feel it is my duty to bring to your attention the gravity of this situation. I hope and trust that you will co-operate with the UN command in its continuing and determined efforts to obtain an early and honorable armistice.

EXPRESS SYMPATHY

"I should like to take this occasion to express, as president of the United Nations general assembly, my profound sympathy for the sufferings of the people of Korea during the past three years, and my admiration for the valiant efforts of the RoK Army in its co-operation with the forces of the UN.

"It is my earnest hope that this co-operation will continue, not only in the immediate task of obtaining the armistice but in assuring that the armistice is thereafter faithfully observed, in order that we may jointly proceed toward our common objective of the unification of Korea by peaceful means. If this co-operation were ended, it would be the Korean people who would suffer first and suffer most."



SHOCKED BY RELEASE

Mr. Pearson said he was shocked by Rhee's prisoner release.

This action violated the agreement reached by the truce teams at Panmunjom this month on prisoner exchanges. "And it occurs at a time when hostilities are about to cease and when the questions of

Liberals To Stand On Record Prime Minister Declares

WINDSOR——(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent asks Canadians to re-elect his Liberal government on its record. In the keynote speech starting off his campaign for a new fourth-year term starting Aug. 10, he called Monday night for electoral support on the promise of continued Liberal policies, without holding out specific new platform planks. It was a "don't change horses" speech that the 71-year -old prime minister delivered — almost exactly four years from the successful 1949 end of the campaign that he started in Windsor — and he used it largely to counter the "time for a change" slogan of the Progressive Conservatives.

He counselled the country not to "risk losing what has been gained" by turning over the government, saying that Canada has been prospering steadily under the Liberals. Productive capacity had increased, and job opportunities were greater.

STRONG GOVERNMENT

"I do not claim that the government is responsible for all this," he said, "but I do think most reasonable people will agree that such spectacular developments do not occur under a weak government or a bad government."

He ended with this advice: "When we vote, I am sure most of us will want to be careful we do not risk losing what has been gained."

Mr. St. Laurent's opening 4,000-word address to the country, recorded earlier, was broadcast from Ottawa over a CBC network as he delivered basically the same speech before an audience of about 3,500 in this automobile city.

On this initial invasion, the prime minister moved into southwestern Ontario three days behind George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, who sounded his party's keynote Friday at Guelph, with promises of sweeping changes including a $500,000,000-a-year cut in taxes.

Fear Hunger May Rekindle Revolt In East Germany

BERLIN—(AP)—Hunger in Germany's Communist eastern zone threatened today to re-fire the powder keg that exploded last week in a workers' rebellion against Russian depression. Refugees to West Berlin reported that East Germans, undaunted by Soviet tanks and firing squads, have defield martial law with protest marches demanding bread through the streets of Leipzig, Dresden, Demnitz and Eisenach.

The tottering puppet government of Premier Otto Grotewohl admitted it faced "grave problems" in feeding the 18,000,000 restive East Germans. Its news agency and broadcasts announced state food handling agencies had pledged to make up the losses "caused by the fascist Western agents" in the strike and riot wave launched June 17.

SHORT OF STAPLES

Farmers were urged to co-operate.

East Berlin was better off than most areas, but with two policing Russian armored divisions living off what was available, the city was short of bread and potatoes. Refugees described conditions in many Soviet zones cities as catastrophic.

Communist police patrols, they said, toured the streets with sound trucks blaring that things would get better.

Farmers, browbeaten for years by arbitrary Communist quotas, were reported withholding their produce from central state collection points, bringing extention of the Red Army's martial law to the agricultural belt.

Cool RCAF Pilot Averts Tragedy

EDMONTON (CP)—A cool RCAF pilot averted a possible major tragedy Monday when he crash-landed a Beachcraft Expediter plane in a 100-foot-wide space between a house and a railway track at Calder on Edmonton's northern outskirts.

The pilot, Sqdn. Ldr. A. B. C. Weatherwax of Orillia, Ont., escaped with minor injuries. He was alone in the aircraft, which has a wing span of approximately 65 feet.

The plane had just taken off from the municipal airport when one of its two engines failed.

Witnesses said the pilot, apparently spotting the small clearing, sent the plane into sharp left turn to make the forced landing. They said that if he had continued in a straight course he might have come down on houses.

The plane came to rest in the north end of the CNR Calder marshalling yards, just northwest of the airport.

The engines and under side of the aircraft were badly damaged.

U.S. Troops Replace Guards

PUSAN, Korea (AP) — U. S. troops have replaced all South Korean guards at mainland prisoner-of-war camps holding anti-Communist Korean prisoners, the UN PoW command announced tonight.

Anti-Red Korean prisoners are held at seven Allied camps and at the Pusan camp hospital No. 2 and the Pusan processing centre.

South Koreans still guard prisoners in the camp on Cheju Island where anti-Communist Chinese prisoners are held. RoK troops also guard Communist Chinese prisoners on Cheju and Communist North Koreans on Koje Island.

Since last Thursday more than 27,000 anti-Communist Korean prisoners have fled from Allied stockades. President Syngman Rhee ordered Korean guards to help the prisoners and Korean civilians to hide and feed them.

About 1,000 prisoners were recaptured but most were quickly absorbed into the civilian population.

Denmark Kills Plans For U.S. Plane Bases

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Denmark's most powerful political party, the Social Democrats, in a surprise policy change today killed plans for U. S. airmen and fighter planes to operate from Danish bases.

Former premier Hans Hedtoft, the faction's chairman, told a party congress here that "as conditions are, we cannot accept this offer."

"We feel that it would not improve the broad rallying around the Atlantic pact to which it must be our task to contribute," Hedtoft added.

The U. S. offered last year to send two wings of fighter planes—an estimated 150 aircraft—and 4,000 men to help man Danish bases. The "base question" since then has been the subject of constant and heated political debate.

Glittering Round Of Ceremonies

Queen Elizabeth Pays Visit To Her Scottish Capital

EDINBURGH (AP)—The Queen came to her Scottish capital today for a glittering round of state ceremonies to mark her Coronation.

Radiant in a light blue coat and tiny, white close-fitting hat, the Queen stepped from the royal train to receive the keys of the city from Lord Provost Sir James Miller.

Then she drove with her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, in an open carriage through two miles of grey stone streets, lined by crowds packed 12-deep.

Squadrons of clattering cavalry escorted her on the drive to her Holyrood House palace. Their scarlet and gold uniforms brought a brilliant splash of color to the grey misty morning.

High spot of the week's visit will be a national service tomorrow in St. Giles Cathedral, the high Kirk of the Scottish church.

As the open royal carriage drove through the mist enshrouded gateway of the palace, a salute of 21 guns was fired from Edinburgh Castle.

After reviewing an honor guard, the Queen paused a moment—to pat the Argylls' regimental mascot, a Shetland pony—before stepping into historic Holyrood House.

Fighter aircraft which planned to fly-past in "E" formation as a welcome to the Queen remained grounded because of fog.

There was no sign of any demonstration against the Queen from fanatic Scottish nationalists who object to her use of the designation Elizabeth "II." These factions contend that because England and Scotland were separate kingdoms under the Tudors, Elizabeth I never reigned over Scotland. Thus the current Elizabeth should be the first—for the Scots, anyway.

FBI Investigates Warehouse Fire

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Agents of the federal bureau of investigation and city fire officials today probed ruins of a five-storey warehouse which collapsed and burst into flames Monday, destroying tons of baled rubber and tanned leather from government stockpiles.

Hundreds of firemen fought the stubborn blaze for hours as volumes of black smoke befogged north Philadelphia and temporarily halted service on a Reading railroad line over-pass alongside the warehouse site.

Intense heat foiled attempts to probe the rubble of bricks, wood and blazing rubber bales for possible victims.

Some reports said 12 persons were trapped when the structure suddenly collapsed. But an employee of the warehouse said he was the only one in the building when he felt a shaking like an earthquake, saw flames, and fled to safety before the cave-in.

The FBI, denying reports that sabotage was considered a probability, said it was investigating to ascertain whether "any violation of states" effecting destruction of government property was involved.

Companion Injured In Crash

Machine Enters Ditch Throwing Pair More Than 50 Feet

Nineteen-year-old John Bambrick, 2 Aberdeen Ave., was instantly killed Monday night when the motorcycle he was riding left Highway 7 east of the city and crashed into a ditch.

Second person on the motorcycle, Ian Finlay, 23, of George St., suffered a fractured right ankle, dislocated neck, and concussion. His condition is fair, St. Joseph's Hospital officials said today.

Both Finlay and Bambrick were thrown 50 feet or more when the motorcycle left the highway and plunged into the eight-foot deep ditch.

Bambrick's body was found about 50 ft. from the machine, by the shoulder of the road. Finlay was found in ditch more than 60 feet from the point where the motorcycle left the road.

The accident happened about 8.30 p.m.

DON'T KNOW DRIVER

Bambrick and Finlay were riding east on Highway 7, a short distance out of the city. Police said today they have not definitely established who was driving.

The motorcycle pulled out to pass a light truck driven by Joseph Hartwick, 17, RR 8, Peterborough. Hartwick told police he heard the motorcycle hit his truck, and he knew nothing else of the accident.

A dent was found on the truck's left rear fender.

The motorcycle, after hitting the truck, angled off the road onto the shoulder and finally down the fairly steep drop into the north ditch. Both youths were thrown east from the point where the machine left the road.

Bits of the motorcycle were scattered from the north edge of the pavement along the trail the machine left when it plunged into the ditch. Some of the pieces of metal were still hot more than an hour after the accident.

OPP Constable Jack Gray investigated.

Surviving Bambrick are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bambrick, two brothers, Richard and James, one sister, Joyce and grandparents, Mrs. Daisy Duncan of Guelph and Charles H. Bambrick of Hamilton.

Sees Population Taking Jump

KITCHENER (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent today suggested Canada will have a population of between 35,000,000 and 40,000,000 by the end of the century.

This would happen if the country kept up its current rate of population expansion, he said, in a talk from the city hall steps here on his campaign tour. He added there are enough resources in Canada to support a population of this size.

Mr. St. Laurent paused in this western Ontario town after an overnight train ride from Windsor, where he started his campaign Monday night.

Later today, he motors to Waterloo, Elmira and Elora and later to Guelph, where he is to make a major speech tonight. The prime minister received a civic welcome here from Mayor Bruce Weber. About 250 persons looked on, gathered about the foot of the city's war memorial.

Reds Call Rosenbergs 2 Immortal Patriots

NEW YORK (AP)—The Communist party had its official say about the Rosenberg spy executions today and called the couple "two immortal American patriots."

The statement was published in The Daily Worker, party journal, over the signatures of William Z. Foster, party chairman, Pettis Perry and Elizabeth Gurley Flynn.

The statement said "the claim the Rosenbergs had their day in court' is a mockery of truth and justice."

It said it was a "tragic fact" that organized labor was "deceived by the colossal frame-up" and that the government had carried out the executions with "obscence speed."

Two of the signers of the statement, 62-year-old Miss Flynn and 58-year-old Pettis Perry, were convicted Jan. 21 of participating in a revolutionary conspiracy and sentenced to three years in prison.

Ask Two Deliveries

QUEBEC (CP)—Canada's letter carriers want to resume the system of two mail deliveries a day, the national convention of the Civil Service Federation of Canada was told today. Studying resolutions of the federation's welfare committee, the 300 delegates moved, without debate, to support the Federated Association of Letter Carriers.

Polish Captain Seeking Asylum In U.K.

LONDON (Reuters)—The master of Communist Poland's crack liner, the Batory, has asked for permission to remain in Britain, a home office spokesman said here tonight.

Capt. Jan Cwiklinski is understood to be seeking political asylum.

The 14,287-ton Batory—the same ship on which Communist propagandist Gerhardt Eisler escaped from the United States—sailed from Britain without the captain last Saturday.

The home office spokesman said that after the Batory sailed, Capt. Cwiklinski was traced and detained. He had then asked for permission to remain in Britain.

The spokesman had previously said that the ship's medical officer had also failed to sail with the Batory and had been traced and detained. The spokesman said he could make no further statement about the medical officer for the moment.

West Berlin Mourns Dead

BERLIN (AP)—Under black banners of mourning for the dead in East Germany's rebellion, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said today that "the period totalitarian rule over Germans is past."

The leader of West Germany spoke at a vast memorial service in front of the West Berlin city hall hailing the "martyrs of freedom" who arose against communism in the Soviet zone, where hunger was reported adding to the misery there.

His voice filled with emotion, the 77-year-old chancellor who stands for a Germany united in alliance with the free world, declared:

"With weapons, an unarmed, defenceless people can be beaten to the ground, but their will, their determination, will never bow." He added:

"The whole world has been shown that Germans will not be slaves. The whole world has been shown that they will no longer bear tyranny, that the period of totalitarian rule over the Germans is past."

Band Of Van Doos Playing In Scotland

EDINBURGH (CP)—The band of Canada's Royal 22nd Regiment is to play a part in the Queen's visit to Scotland.

The 31-man band, under Capt. J. A. E. Belanger of Quebec City, will play seven concerts during a week-long stay in Scotland. The Canadians arrived in Edinburgh Monday and were given a civic reception by the lord provost, Sir James Miller.

The band of the Van Doos recently completed a six-month tour of duty with the 27th infantry brigade in Germany and will return to Canada July 3 from Southampton.

Rhee Raises Price Of Co-operation May Recall Troops

SEOUL—(AP)—South Korea's defiant president today raised his price for a truce in Korea and hotly rebuffed his critics even as special envoys were flying here from Washington bent on getting him back in line. After Gen. Mark Clark had spent two days trying to get him in tow, tough, old Syngman Rhee emerged and demanded terms which a U.S. embassy source here promptly labelled "totally unacceptable to the UN command."

Rhee, in an interview with the Columbia Broadcasting System after the Clark conferences, said his price had to be paid or he would pull out the South Korean Army from Clark's UN command and go it alone.

His terms: A mutual security pact with the United States; simultaneous withdrawal of both UN and Chinese forces from Korea; resumption of the war if three months of post-armistice talks get nowhere.

FIRM STAND

Rhee's firm stand was voiced shortly before he was scheduled to go into conference with the assistant U. S. secretary of state, Walter S. Robertson, and Gen. J. Lawton Collins, U. S. Army chief of staff, who are hurrying here from Washington.

Rhee's release of more than 27,000 anti-Red Korean prisoners upset a truce just as it was about to be signed and drew down upon him criticism from abroad.

Today, Lester B. Pearson, president of the UN assembly, cabled he was shocked to hear of the unilateral action. Britain's Prime Minister Churchill bitterly denounced him Monday.

"The UN authorities should thank me for it instead of calling me a violator," Rhee shot back in his interview.

"Did anyone representing the UN or the U. S. ever raise the question as to what the Communists did with our prisoners of war? No one did question the violation of all international law by the Communists but everyone is brave to condemn me as a violator. I do not understand such inconsistency."

It remained in doubt whether Clark succeeded in his two-day mission to quiet Rhee's heated objections to a truce that leaves Korea divided.

Returning to Tokyo, Clark told reporters:

"I have nothing more to say than I said yesterday."

Walter S. Robertson, assistant U.S. secretary of state—fresh from a secret meeting with President Eisenhower—left Washington for Tokyo and Seoul. He was accompanied by Gen. J. Lawson Collins, United States Army chief of staff.

Red Troops Jab Lightly At UN Line

SEOUL (AP)—Communist troops jabbed lightly at Allied lines across Korea and patrols prowled through no-man's-land today. Both Allied and Communist armies appeared to be awaiting the outcome of tangled armistice negotiations.

Communist loudspeakers on the central front again blared their prediction that an armistice will be signed Thursday—third anniversary of the war. The Reds had predicted a truce June 25 for days before the armistice was threatened by South Korea's release of more than 27,000 anti-Communist war prisoners.

Overcast skies and rain grounded most allied planes.

The 8th army said more than 10,000 Communists were killed last week, most of them in the bloody fighting on the central front.

Nehru Opponent Dies In Jail, Rioting Starts

NEW DELHI (AP)—Club-swinging police and Hindu extremists battled in the streets of India's capital today in the wake of the death in political captivity of Syama Prasad Mookerjee, a major opponent of Premier Jawaharlal Nehru.

Mookerjee, 52-year-old leader of the extremist Jan Sangh party, died early today in Srinagar, capital of the Kashmir, where he was jailed five weeks ago for defying a ban on his entering the state. Seizure of Hindu-owned lands by the predominantly Moslem Kashmir state government had caused Jan Sangh agitation and violence in the neighboring Punjab.

The government attributed Mookerjee's death to a heart attack following pleurisy and said he had been moved to a nursing home when he became ill.

News of his death brought 1,000 demonstrators into streets of the old sections of the city. Police officials said constables charged the mob with clubs and arrested 20 demonstrators after four policemen were seriously wounded.

Police took special security measures through the capital.

A spokesman for Mookerjee's Jan Sangh faction said until details were forthcoming, his group could say nothing, but "when we know more, rest assured we will have a great deal to say." Mookerjee's supporters were expected to charge the Nehru government had killed their leader.

Krishna Kriplani, secretary to Education Minister Maulana Abul Azad, who heads the cabinet in Prime Minister Nehru's absence, said the government was "somewhat concerned because people are naturally bound to get excited over an event of this sort."

Despite the immediate violence, however, Nehru was seen here as the ultimate gainer from Mookerjee's death. He was the only opposition leader able to match Nehru's strong personality. Nehru's leadership of India now appears stronger than ever.

Reports from Srinagar said Mookerjee's body was being flown to Calcutta, his birthplace, for funeral rites.

Pinay Unlikely To Be Premier

PARIS (AP)—The chances of Antoine Pinay becoming France's next premier slumped today with a report the Mouvement Republicain Populaire had asked him not to seek the office.

The MRP is one of the major parties in the National Assembly—the lower house of Parliament which must approve the premier. Without MRP support Pinay could not hope to be successful in ending France's 34-day political crisis.

Pinay belongs to the Independent Republican party—a small right-wing group.

Moscow Eases Travel Ban In Russia

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government has opened wide areas of European and Asiatic Russia to unrestricted travel by foreigners. The first visitor to benefit from the new freedom will be Mrs. Perle Mesta, President Truman's party-giving minister to Luxembourg.

The relaxation was disclosed Monday night in an official note delivered to all foreign diplomatic missions in Moscow. It was regarded as a significant step since even foreign diplomats until now have been limited in their movements.

The order gave no indication that Russia's tight policy on admission of foreign visitors was being relaxed. In recent years few travellers have been given entry visas.

There was no immediate indication from Ottawa and Washington that the Soviet move would be followed by similar Canadian-U. S. action. Countering Moscow, the United States since March, 1952, has required all Soviet officials to get state and defence department permission before travelling more than 25 miles from Washington or New York City. Canada and other NATO countries have followed suit.

Mrs. Mesta, who arrived here June 12 for a visit, plans to leave soon for the Zaborozhe section of the Ukraine, home of the Zaborozhe steel plant and the Dnieper dam.

The new order apparently clears the way for foreign residents to visit much of European Russia and vast sections of Siberia, but it still lists many restricted areas.

It also bans automobile journeys of more than 25 miles outside Moscow, except to three places—the monastery town of Zagorsk, the Tchaikowsky museum at Klin and the Tolstoy museum at Yasnaya Polyanan, south of Tula. Even these cannot be visited by car without prior notice.

The new regulations also specify 16-mile deep forbidden zones along the Soviet Union's borders with five neighboring countries — Norway, Finland, Turkey, Iran and Afghanistan. There are no such zones, however, along borders with such Soviet allies in eastern Europe as Poland, or along the Chinese-Russian frontier in Asia.

Despite the remaining restrictions, it apparently is possible now to travel the entire length of the Volga River to its mouth on the Caspian Sea at Astrakhan, and to ride the trans-Siberian railway all the way to Vladivostok.

Areas of European Russia in which travel now is permitted include:

1. Most of the Soviet Union's Black sea coast, including the Crimean peninsula and such resort centres as Yalta—scene of a famous wartime Big Three meeting—Sochi, Adler and Gagry. Only three Crimean cities, Sevastopol, Kerch and Fedosiya, remain on the restricted list.

2. All of the Ukraine except the western regions and the Black Sea port of Nikolayevsk.

3. All of Byelo-Russia (White Russia), including its capital city of Minsk.

4. All of Soviet Armenia, in the Caucasus just north of Turkey.

To Try Again To Sell Hospital

Ald. Harold Rehill pointed out at the board of works meeting Monday night that the Queen Mary Hospital problem combined two phases.

One was the question whether Civic Hospital was interested in the building as a possible site for an institution for the care of chronic patients. The other was the continuing responsibility of trying to [illegible] the property.

His motion seconded by Ald. Syd Black, proposed that the council's property committee, of which Ald. H. S. Longhurst is chairman, should explore the possibility of selling the vacant building and its two acres of land.

A report from Civic Hospital plainly informed the council that the governors were not interested in Queen Mary Hospital. Meanwhile, advertisements failed to turn up a bid.

PREVIOUS OFFER

Ald. Norman Graham enquired whether the council would be willing to accept the $20,000 which he relayed from H. Albert six weeks ago.

"I'M not saying that he is still interested. I don't know," Ald. Graham said. "But, I'd be willing to try to find out."

Ald. Dewart said: "We should take some steps to dispose of it. It's going down hill rapidly."

Ald. Graham said he was interested in the building only because it was a city property and had been neglected since it was vacated when the isolation hospital was transferred to Civic Hospital.

"We're here to look after the people's property and I've been too long in building not to be concerned about it."

Local Council of Women wrote the council some weeks ago expressing their opinion that the building should not be sold for less than the $36,000 valuation by the assessment department.

"It is still a good building and could be used for something," Ald. T. D. Miller said.

Junior Growers In Competition

The junior section of the Peterborough and District Gaildiolus Society will be expanded into a provincial competition in the market hall August 12 and 13.

Bud Lloyd, chairman of that section, reports that city florists and merchants have donated more than $100 in prizes. Any variety of flowers may be exhibited, and without entry fee. An attractive list of special prizes and trophies is being offered to the juniors. Several are from five to ten dollars.

Agricultural Representative Ed Summers, Bowmanville, has donated valuable gladioli bulbs for the junior show. He will also be attending with Oshawa and Bowmanville members. Another feature will be a demonstration by four outstanding accomplished floral artists, showing how to arrange flowers for attractive table decorations.

Fred Storey, a member of the Canadian Gladiolus Society, has arranged for the national board of seedling judges to be here for the first day, judging the seedling class.

New entertainment features are to be presented by chairman Richard Hocking. A big stage show will be on the program this year. James Weyer is master of ceremonies. The prize list is ready, copies may be obtained from Mrs. J. H. Leslie, Peterborough RR 3.

Liberals

NO POINT-BY-POINT REPLY

Mr. St. Laurent made no point-by-point reply to Mr. Drew's 16-point manifesto, but in an apparent indirect general answer he stated: "When I asked for your confidence in 1949, I said that we Liberals were not going to compete with other political parties in making empty promises and trying to arouse exaggerated hopes.

"The Liberal party believes that promises should be made only when they can be kept, and we have a proud record of keeping our promises and carrying out our policies."

"I would be happy," he added, "to have anyone read the speeches I made in 1949 and compare what I said we would try to do with what has been done."

The prime minister referred more specifically to an announced Progressive Conservative policy of "bold and imaginative" measures to expand trade by breaking dollar-sterling barriers.

"I hope that does not mean blasting," he said in a reference to a policy of Conservative R. B. Bennett. "Trade Minister Howe has not been 'blasting' but I have greater confidence in his methods than in any I've heard of."

PROCEED WITH CAUTION

In another reference to opposition policies—on social security—Mr. St. Laurent said: "We must proceed with caution and gradually. They are things we do not make promises about but which we implement to the extent the Canadian people decide they want."

The prime minister did not refer to platform planks of the other opposition parties, and of the future policies of his own group he spoke in general terms. He renewed a 1949 declaration of policy.

"Our aim is a land of expanding prosperity and expanding opportunities. Our aim is work for those who are able to work and security for the family and the home. Our aim is a strong and united Canada which will give full scope for the development of a free and a vigorous people.

"I believe the policies we have followed and the measures we have adopted have benefitted Canadians in every walk of life and in every section of the country"

Mr. St. Laurent spoke here at a rally in the Windsor Arena in the Essex East constituency of Health Minister Martin, who was with him on the platform.

STOPS IN CHATHAM

Before reaching this city, Mr. St. Laurent got off his train Monday afternoon at Chatham in Liberal-held Kent riding, to assure Liberal supporters there of a "pretty warm" campaign.

Defence placed a substantial part in the prime minister's radio and Windsor speeches, with Mr. St. Laurent saying in them that nothing is more important for Canada than the prevention of another world war.

In this field, the government had accepted for Canada heavy international responsibilities. It had given full support to the United Nations and had backed the Korea police action. It had been "unwavering" in support of NATO.

The strength needed for safety has not yet been reached but there are already many indications that the combined efforts of the North Atlantic allies are having their effect.

"We have recognized that the greatest immediate threat to peace is in Korea and Europe, and consequently we have concentrated our efforts there.

"But the immediate defence of North America has not been neglected. The training of all three armed services for home defence has been greatly speeded up. . . ."

GETTING VALUE

In an obvious reference to opposition criticism of government spending based on the Currie report alleging maladministration in the army works service, Mr. St. Laurent held that Canada has been getting value for its defence dollar.

"Our political opponents have been doing their utmost to find evidence that our defence program is extravagant and wasteful, but the evidence they have produced has certainly not been impressive."

Dealing with trade—on which the Liberals have been under fire from opponents, Mr. St. Laurent said Canada has been "pretty successful" in meeting post-war trade problems.

In the United States, influential groups demanding trade barriers had had "minor successes" but had not done serious damage up to now.

NEED GREAT WISDOM

"But," the prime minister added, "the utmost vigilance and the greatest available wisdom and skill will be needed if Canada's interests in greater trade are to be promoted successfully in the United States and elsewhere in the world"

On federal-provincial relations Mr. St. Laurent said it always has been Liberal policy to safe[illegible] the constitutio[illegible] reach [illegible] provinces on methods of amending the constitution.

"We intend to keep on trying to reach such an agreement. I hope it will come in my day. I am sure it will come some time."

Car-Truck Crash Injures Two Women

LINDSAY (ENS)—A Lindsay business man, Austin Street, partner in a new and used car business, spent a busy day Monday when, after travelling to Toronto to pick up a used car a man had bought with a worthless cheque, he returned to find his wife had been taken to Ross Memorial Hospital following a motor accident.

According to chief of police John Hunter, Street sold a late-model used car to Charles William Parker, wwho claimed he came from Lindsay. The cheque taken in payment was later found to be worthless.

The car was traced to Toronto and police officers there arrested the man and held him. Local officers went to Toronto Monday and brought Parker back, charging him with false pretences.

Street travelled with them and brought back the car. He found it, says the chief, in excellent condition with a recent oil change, and full tank of gas.

When Street returned, he found his wife Arlene in hospital with undetermined injuries. Mrs. Street was a pasenger in a car driven by Mrs. Walter Franklin of Lindsay on their way to a women's church group social evening at a resort north of town.

Mrs. Franklin was driving north on Angeline St; crossing Kent west. The car was in collision with a three ton truck driven by Emory Windrem of Lindsay as it crossed the highway. The truck was loaded with horses, a cow and a calf.

The force of the crash knocked the calf out of the truck but it was uninjured. Mrs. Franklin suffered bruises to her legs and Mrs. Street, who was treated by Dr. J. C. Arnold, received undetermined head injuries.

The accident was investigated by PC John Henley, who reported that damage to the car was about $1200 while that to the truck was about $250. Charges are pending, according to police.

Market Sale Of Pigs Barred Due To Cholera

Sale of weanling pigs on the Peterborough farm produce market is prohibited until the province has been declared free of hog cholera, Dr. George R. Penhall, VS, told the Examiner today.

Police authority was applied on the market last Saturday. Pigs, however, may be sold from a producer's farm.

Meanwhile the veterinary service is making a round of summer resorts gathering information about the disposal of their garbage. This is largely a precaution against the spread of the disease by uncooked meat rinds and scraps, the source of which might be traced to counties in the active area of the outbreak.

City Studies Streets For Duplicated Names

Mayor Waddell, Ald. Anglesey and City Engineer Chalmers were appointed a committee by the board of works Monday night to consider duplication of street names.

Mr. Chalmers submitted a list of streets in the area annexed from Smith which nominally conflict with streets elsewhere in the city.

Ald. T. D. Miller proposed that in the changing of street names, one street should be given the name of McIntyre. Legal procedure is required in this correction of duplicates for community convenience. The special committee is asked to make a report to the board.

Hear Statements Describing How Christie Killed Victims

LONDON (CP)—Lean-jawed ex-cop Reginald John Christie committed three sex killings in his slum-area "house of murder" in addition to the four already charged against him, an Old Bailey jury was told today.

In a deathly-silent courtroom, a court clerk intoned statements attributed to the defendant. In these, Christie admitted he gassed or strangled two London playgirls in 1943 and a married woman several years later.

Christie is on trial for slaying his wife, Ethel, last Dec. 14. He had originally been charged with the murder of three other women.

Today the court heard confessions that he killed:

1. Mrs. Timothy Evans, 19, whose husband was hanged three years ago for the murder of their 14-month-old daughter, Geraldine. Christie's evidence sent Evans to the gallows.

2. Ruth Margaret Christine Fuerst, an Austrian, whose skeleton was found in the backyard of the Christie "death house" at 10 Rillington place, in Notting Hill Gate, a grimy London suburb.

3. Muriel Amelia Eady, whose bones were found in the same place.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Christie's trial is to determine his part in the death of his wife. He pleaded not guilty of murder when the hearing opened Monday before a jury of nine men and three women and a judge.

His lawyer then entered a plea of insanity.

Timothy Evans, 25, a truck driver, was hanged in 1950 for the death of his baby daughter in November, 1949. His wife, Beryl, was found dead at the same time. They lived in the same run-down tenement house where Christie had a two-room apartment.

Christie was a key Crown witness at the Evans trial and later suffered a nervous breakdown. Evans, who once confessed to slaying his wife, later withdrew the admission and tried to implicate Christie in the crime.

In the statement read to the court today Christie admitted killing Mrs. Evans, but prosecution, judge and defence lawyer stressed that he had no connection with the death of her daughter, Geraldine.

The judge intervened at one point to state: "There is no suggestion that anybody else other than Evans killed the child."

In a long, rambling statement which he made following his arrest last March, Christie admitted strangling Mrs. Evans with a stocking. He already had confessed to killing his wife the same way.

The statement claimed that Mrs. Evans was in a state of deep depression after repeated quarrels [illegible] had once [illegible] self in her apartment above the Christies.

BEGGED HELP

Christie said he frustrated that attempt, but that Mrs. Evans later begged him to help her "go through with it." He described going to her apartment and lying on a quilt beside the gas fire with her. Mrs. Christie was downstairs at the time.

"She said she would do anything if I would help her. I think she was referring to letting me be intimate with her."

Two tries at intercourse failed because Christie had a back ailment, the statement said.

"I think that is when I strangled her. I think it was a stocking I found in the room."

Christie said he eventually gave Mrs. Evans whiffs of gas from a hose fixed to the fire. When she became unconscious he strangled her and then rejoined his wife.

"She (Mrs. Christie) didn't know anything about it. Evans came home in the evening about six o'clock. It was dark when I heard him come in. I went to my kitchen door and called.

REPORTED SUICIDE

"I spoke to him in the passage and told him that his wife had committed suicide, that she had gassed herself.

"We went into the kitchen and Evans touched his wife's hand, then picked her up and carried her into the bedroom and put her on the bed. There were no lights on in the kitchen or the bedroom."

Christie said that in that darkened chamber, with the body of Mrs. Evans lying beside them, he suggested to Evans that he (Evans) would be blamed for his wife's death because he was known to have quarreled with her.

"He seemed to think the same. He said he would bring the van (truck) down that he was driving and take her away and leave her somewhere.

"On the following Friday Evans sold his furniture and after my wife had given him some dinner, he left saying he was going to Bristol.

"At that time I was under the impression that he had taken his wife away in his van. I can't recollect seeing the baby there."

Christie went on to relate how police came to the house following the arrest of Evans (he was picked up in Wales) and his confession that "he had put his wife down the drain."

After the statement had been read, a police witness said that Evans originally also was charged with the murder of his wife, but the charge was not proceeded with for "obvious reasons." The reasons were that he had already been sentenced to hang for the killing of his daughter.

RESERVE POLICEMAN

In the statement on the Fuerst woman, Christie said he struck up an acquaintance with her in a tiny slum cafeteria in 1943 while he was hunting a man accused of theft. He was then a reserve policeman. His wife was away.

The statement said "she undressed and wanted me to have intercourse with her. . . . While having intercourse I strangled her with a piece of rope. She was completely naked. . . . I took her from the bedroom into the kitchen and put her under the floorboards."

The statement said he later buried her in the garden grave.

Months later, he inadvertently dug up her skull while puttering around the garden, and tossed the skull into an ashcan which he used as an incinerator.

The Eady girl's prelude to death included several trips to the movies with Christie, the statement said. It continued: "On one occasion she came alone and I believe she was complaining about her breathing."

[illegible] confession said he mixed her an inhalant potion to cure her colds and rigged up a breathing apparatus but, instead he piped coal gas into the makeshift inhaling tent.

"She became sort of unconscious and I have a dim recollection of getting a stocking and tying it around her neck. I am not too clear about this and am a little confused. It might have been the Austrian girl I used the gas on. I believe I had intercourse with her at the time I strangled her."

BURIED IN GARDEN

The statement said Christie put the Eady body in his washhouse and buried it in his garden the next day.

Although Christie is facing a murder charge only in the death of his wife, he has already been accused of garroting three more playgirls whose decayed corpses were found walled up in the murder house.

Thirty-two persons, many of whom had waited all night outside the famed Old Bailey court, leaned forward in their seats when the dramatic statement was read.

A few minutes before they saw Christie step briskly into the oak-panelled dock, glassed in on three sides, and make a deep bow to the judge.

Drinking Session With Indians Costs Man $17

A drinking session May 8 with three treaty Indians today cost Charles Harrington of Ennismore $17.50 when he was convicted on a charge of illegal possession of liquor. He pleaded not guilty.

Harrington had previously been sentenced to seven days in jail on a charge of driving his truck while drunk on the night of May 8. He was arrested by OPP Constable Gordon Gray.

Three Curve Lake Indians were in Harrington's truck when he was arrested near Fowler's Corners. On the floorboards, beside Harrington's leg, was a partly empty bottle of wine. Four other full bottles of wine were in a bag on the floor.

Harrington defended himself and went into the witness box on his own behlf. The wine belonged to three Indians who were hitchhiking back to the Reserve from Lindsay, he said.

Oswald Taylor, one of the Indians, said he had bought the wine at 75 cents a bottle from a man in Lindsay.

NEVER SAW HIM

"I suppose you never saw the man before in your life?" said Crown Attorney Bradshaw, QC.

"I never saw him before," Taylor agreed.

Crown Attorney Bradshaw said it was a nice point of law to decide what a driver's legal obligations were when he picked up hitchhikers in good faith and then found they had liquor illegally.

Harrington's case began to crumble when he not only claimed he didn't know the Indians had the wine but also claimed he was not drunk. He had previously been convicted on a drunk charge.

Magistrate Philp said he did not believe the accused man and fined him $15 and costs with the option of a month in jail.

Three Men Put On Probation

Three young Peterborough men were today placed on probation for two years after they pleaded guilty to charges of vagrancy in Lakefield.

Chief Constable Price Morris of Lakefield said that at 12.30 a.m. Monday two of them were acting suspiciously around two garages in the village. The third member of the trio was in a truck, parked three blocks away.

Placed on suspended sentence were: James Hutchinson, 26, and his brother-in-law, John Selby, 21, both of 298 Wolfe St., also 23-year-old Ronald Little of 520 Elm St.

They will have to post $250 bonds for good behavior and for the first year of their two-year probation period they will have to report once a week to Probation Officer John Twigg.

Chief Morris said Hutchinson and Selby were seen trying the door of Foster's Garage on Bridge St. shortly after midnight and they were also seen coming from the rear of the garage. Later they were questioned near Coyle's Garage, also on Bridge St. Little was in Hutchinson's truck.

All three pleaded guilty in magistrate's court today to the vagrancy charges.

Hutchinson said there were lights on in the garage and he wanted to get a tire changed.

Prices Edge Higher On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO (CP) — Priced edged higher in early afternoon stock market trading today.

Industrials tended higher as papers halted their recent decline to post several good gains, led by Price Brothers.

Key issues steadied the ranks in western oils as Federated Petroleum, Peruvian and Royalite added up to 37 cents.

Seniors presented the weakest side of the golds picture as McIntyre, Kerr Addison and Lake Shore lost ground. Juniors were mixed and holding companies slipped.

Ten minutes later, an onlooker, Frank Godda of Combermere was knocked down by an eastbound car believed to be of English manufacture. This car also failed to stop.

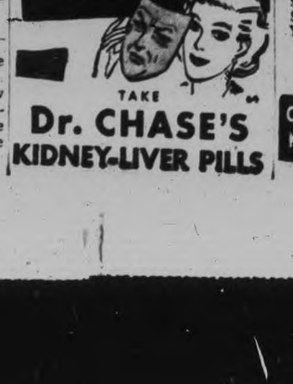
the unification of Korea and related Korean problems can be dealt with by a political conference involving the parties concerned."

Mr. Pearson recalled "the decisive action taken by the UN when aggression was initiated in June, 1950, and the satisfaction which you expressed in the UN response to the urgent appeals made by you for military and other assistance."

"That collaboration, aimed at the repelling of aggression and the restoration of your country to a condition of peace and economic well-being, has been marked by three years of effective effort on the part of members of the UN, and of your government and people, under the direction of the UN command. In view of what this collaboration has meant to your people it is most regrettable that you have taken action which threatens results already achieved and the prospect of a peaceful solution of remaining problems.

HARD TO UNDERSTAND



"This release of prisoners . . . is particularly shocking in view of the progress made by the armistice negotiators which has resulted in the acceptance of principles laid down in the UN general assembly's resolution of Dec. 3, 1952, endorsed by 54 member nations. The acceptance of the principles underlying this resolution, especially that of no forcible repatriation of prisoners, which has been the basis of your position as well as that of the UN has only been obtained after two years of patient and persistent negotiation by the UN command."

In Washington, the state department backed Pearson's statement with a comment that he had "forcefully expressed" United Nations interest in the Korean situation in his message to Rhee.

"The views contained in Mr. Pearson's message," the state department said, "accord with those expressed to President Rhee by spokesmen for the United S[illegible]s government."

Takes $91,000

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A 49-year-old bank teller who earned $265 a month has admitted taking $91,000 during a 20-year period just "for normal living expenses" for his wife and two children. The federal bureau of investigation said Kenneth B. Jackson made the admission after his arrest on a charge of making a false entry involving $800. Authorities said Jackson's home is a modest one and that he had only one suit of clothes.

Bar-Room Brawl Brings Fine, Heavy Costs

LINDSAY (ENS)—Allan Williams, 26, of Lindsay, was fined $25 and $24.50 costs when he was convicted of assault occasioning actual bodily harm to James Stone, 28, also of Lindsay.

The charges resulted from a "bar room brawl" at the Royal Hotel on June 12.

According to evidence of four crown witnesses, Williams had been sitting at one table watching television, when he moved to where Stone was sitting with a friend, Mossom McDuff. Witnesses said that Williams began talking with McDuff and apparently bothered Stone, who told him to "quiet down or move." Williams, a cripple, took exception to allusions to his disability, he said, and began the fight.

CUT BY GLASS

Witnesses were confused in their versions of what happened next. Williams either broke a glass on the table and struck Stone with it, or threw it at him. The glass caught Stone in the face, causing severe cuts about the nose, mouth and eyes.

Some witnesses said that Williams then took another glass and did the same thing while Stone held his head. The second wound was at the side of Stone's head where he received deep gashes. According to Dr. J. C. Arnold who treated him, the wounds required some 12 stitches and some glass was still in the scalp cut when he treated it.

Stone denied that he threatened Williams in any way or used offensive language to him. Williams admitted that after Stone's remark he remembered nothing about the following incidents, stating that he "had plenty that night".

Williams asked, following the trial, to be placed on the "Indian list." His counsel, Mr. D. M. Thomson, asked for suspended sentence or a fine. Magistrate Gee concurred fining him $25 and costs. Forfeit for non-payment is 60 days.

Say Reds Out To Wreck NATO

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Monday night that the Communists are out to wreck the North Atlantic alliance.

"One danger we now face," he said, "is that a few conciliatory gestures may breed false confidence in the good intentions of the Communist dictators."

Mr. St. Laurent touched on Russia's peace offensive in his keynote election speech over the CBC Trans-Canada network.

"The strength needed for safety has not yet been reached—but there are already many indications that the combined efforts of the North Atlantic allies are having their effect."

But while the Atlantic partners had to continue building their strength, "that does not mean we should rebuff peaceful gestures from behind the Iron Curtain," said Mr. St. Laurent.

Sees Progress In Brazil In 50 Years

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—Lt.-Col. Effer of the Salvation Army at the Rotary Club on Monday told of his experiences in South America, with special reference to Brazil where he spent more than 20 years.

Brazil to-day is in some respects a leader in the democratic way of life, he said. There is absolutely no class distinction and no racial distinction. The people are largely of Portugese ancestry, intermingled with black slave labor brought in by early settlers. There are all shades of white and dark, but absolute equality of privilege to all.

Educational standards, though very low until the last few decades, have risen tremendously. Brazilians have been among the chief executives on the United Nations on more than one occasion. The country is foremost in the world in respect to social legislation and the people seem to thrive under what might be termed a benevolent dictatorship.

In South America as a whole, religious leadership has not been of the highest calibre. Marriage, until the last couple of decades, was practically unknown and the greatest social problem was that of the abandoned child. The government, aided by such agencies as the Salvation Army, is tackling the problem and these children are being educated to be useful citizens.

Lt.-Col. Effer hazarded the opinion that in 50 years Brazil would be one of the most progressive and enlightened countries in the world.

Captain Mutton introduced the speaker, who was thanked by president Frank DeCarrol.

20 Priests Held In New Red Drive

HONG KONG (Reuters) — A spokesman for the Roman Catholic Church said today that Chinese Communist police have arrested 20 Catholic priests, including at least seven Americans, in a new anti-Catholic campaign.

Ten were reported arrested in Tientsin and another 10 in Shanghai. The spokesman said the arrests indicated a change in the party line. He explained that previously missionaries had been comparatively free from interference in many big Chinese cities.

According to the reports received here, the priests were accused of being "well known spies working for many years as special agents," and of being "deeply implicated with American imperialists and the puppet Chiang Kai-shek."

Two Accidents Cause Damage To Four Cars

City police investigated two motor vehicle accidents Monday night in which there was $145 property damage but no injuries.

At 6.30 p. m. a 1952-model taxi, driven by Don Delahaye, 23, of 852 George St; swung south on Water St. after coming from Pink's Battery Store. The taxi was clipped on the left rear fender by a 1940-model car being driven north on Water St. by a Hamilton man, James S. Barratt, 16, of 1346 Barton St.

Barratt who has been driving less than a month, told Constable Sherman Keliele that he had swung wide to avoid a girl on a bicycle and a parked car. The result was he crossed the centre line of the road and struck Delahaye"s car, causing $20 to his own car and $25 to Delahaye's.

At 9.15 p. m. a 1949 car, driven by Garnet H. Brown, 51, of 214 McGill St. received $100 damage as Brown was making a U-turn at Antrim and Water Sts. He was in collision with a southbound car driven by Nils Pearson, 33, of 75 Park St. S.

There was no apparent damage to Pearson's car but the front bumper, right front fender and headlight of Brown's car were damaged.

Constable William G. Scott investigated.

At 1.30 the various lodges, representing Prince Edward, Hastings South, Peterborough East and Northumberland will form a parade through town.

The streets will be decorated and at least 50 bands, including the customary fife-and-drum bands, will participate.

Among the prominent speakers are Richard Sanderson, Grand Master for Ontario East; the Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Ontario Minister of Welfare; Dr. Fred Robertson, MP; Mayor Ralph J. Locke; Ollie Taylor and the Reverend John McKibbin.

People who appreciate fine cars are turning to Monarch

"...the kind of car I've always wanted to drive"

It was Frank Wayland, a sales-manager I met last winter, who put me onto Monarch. He drives one himself and likes it so well he's always talking Monarch to his friends. He persuaded me to ask my dealer for a demonstration, and now that I'm driving my own Monarch I appreciate what a big favour he did me. This is the kind of car I've always wanted to drive. I suppose it's only natural to feel a kind of pride in owning something as luxurious-looking as a Monarch—but there's more to it than that. Must remember to drop a line to Frank Wayland and tell him how right he was about Monarch. A sales-manager sold me—but the car itself is keeping me sold. You could have this experience, too . . . ask your Monarch dealer for a demonstration today.

YM Secretary's Son Returns After Year In Korean War

Recently returned after serving 11 months in the thick of Korean fighting is Master-Sgt. Gordon J. McClenaghan, 23, oldest son of Jim McClenaghan, general-secretary of the Peterborough YMCA.

Gordon was born in Peterborough when his father was physical-director at the Y and moved to St. Catharines in 1938, when his father was transferred there; later moving to Detroit. Mr. McClenaghan Sr. returned to Peterborough with his family in February to take over the job as general secretary of the Y.

Late in October of 1950 Gordon was drafted into the infantry. At that time he was in his second year of an industrial hydraulic course at the Ford Trade School in Detroit. Being a resident alien, he wasn't eligible to enlist on his own.

After 10 months of intensive training he was shipped to the Far East and landed at Incheon in June, 1952.

On landing, he was ordered to the Charwon Valley as a replacement, but the fighting was just about over. From there his company was moved to the fighting around the Sacred Hill area and then to the Punch Bowl Valley.

In the 11 months that he was in Korea, he saw nine months of steady combat and fought steadily for seven months before he was given rest and relaxation leave in Japan. After his Japan leave he returned to the front.

The biggest thrill of all, Gordon recalls was in getting the news that they were going home. His company was just given 10 minutes notice before they left. When he arrived he found it strange to see all the cats and dogs running around. In Korea the civilian population had killed them off for food.

His biggest impression of Korea was the low standard of living conditions of the Korean people, especially in the smaller towns, and the cities weren't much better off.

The closest Gordon ever came to being wounded was in a bunker, when one of the Korean soldiers that was attached to their unit was cleaning his rifle. It accidentally went off and the bullet went through Gordon's sleeping bag, barely missing his left foot. On the whole morale was high and food was excellent.

Gordon attributes the fact that he wasn't wounded to the poor ammunition the North Koreans were using; most of their shells were duds. But all U N soldiers had a healthy respect for the North Koreans' and Chinese fighting ability.

Gordon was mostly assigned to patrols and did 80 of them altogether. He had a lot of Communist soldiers give themselves up to him and his company. Conditions were so poor in their outfits Communists fetl they would be better off as prisoners.

At present, Gordon is on a months leave and will return to the United tates to be discharged and finish his hydraulic course in Detroit.

All Book-Burning Is Alike

It is all very well for President Eisenhower to say to the students of Dartmouth University, "Don't join the book-burners", but the fact remains that people holding elected office in the United States have been burning books in Europe. Europeans cannot be expected to untangle the knot which makes it clear why one part of the U.S. government speaks against book-burning while another part of it gets on with the bonfire. Actions speak louder than words. The peoples of Europe are thoroughly familiar with book-burning, and they know that it is the mark of a tyrannous and illiberal regime. There are millions of Europeans who do not want to think that of the government of the U.S.A., but while Senator McCarthy rages unchecked, how can they help having doubts?

* * *

Burning books is a way of denying people their right to read about important matters and make up their own minds. It is an ineffective method in practice, but it is strongly symbolic; it is usually possible to get hold of a book that has been burned, and read it, but he who does so knows that he is putting himself under suspicion, and possible danger, from the book-burners.

* * *

Senator McCarthy, by his actions, puts his country perilously close to Nazi Germany, Fascist Italy, and Soviet Russia. He puts his country at odds with the whole of the Orient, into which thousands of missionaries from his country have penetrated, carrying a Bible which taught a different attitude toward life from that which already prevailed in those countries. What would we think of that Oriental country which made a bonfire of a pile of Bibles? By copying the methods of totalitarian countries we ourselves become infected with their vices.

* * *

We in Canada can ignore McCarthy, because we know the States and know how little representative he is of the opinions and desires of most Americans. But Europeans, who do not know the Americans as neighbours, and who do not understand the curious form of government which makes McCarthyism possible, are understandably alarmed. The U.S.S.R., which is quick to appreciate a paradox, laughs at the country which proclaims freedom from one side of its mouth, and blows the bonfire with the other. It insists, and with logic, that such a country must be insincere. The U.S.A., from motives which are, in the main, excellent, is getting itself into very hot water and we, because we know the U.S.A. so well, are worried.

* * *

Intellectual freedom, in the countries where it has been tried, has brought inestimable benefits, as well as some disappointments. It is a matter for deep grief and deep concern when we find the U.S.A.—however deceptive the appearance may be—apparently on the side of intellectual regimentation and the suppression of opinion and information. The apparent powerlessness of the administration in such a predicament lends colour to the criticisms of the Constitution which Mr. Attlee expressed some weeks ago in the British House of Commons—opinions which Senator McCarthy was, understandably, the first to resent.

Our First Summer Weekend

Real summer began last week-end. The signs were unmistakable. Friday night four cars and a truck were involved in a multiple collision a mile north of the city. Near Young's Point five Toronto people were injured when their car collided with a dump truck Saturday morning. A Toronto man was drowned shortly before midnight Friday at Burleigh Falls. Another man was drowned early Saturday at Crowe River. Saturday evening a young woman was killed when her car went out of control near Bailieboro. An elderly woman was hurt when three cars collided Sunday afternoon on Highway 28 just south of the city. There were other week-end accidents of less serious consequences. Thus summer came to the district.

There were other signs of the good old summer time's approach. The temperature rose to 87 on Sunday. It was hot and close Saturday, too, and early in the afternoon a violent heat storm ripped through the area, making the sky shake with thunder, searing it with lightning, and uprooting trees and forcing cars to halt until the wind and dense rain abated. The storm subsided almost as quickly as it had come. Sunday afternoon in some parts of the district another short storm, less violent, whipped the countryside and lake water. One result of Saturday afternoon's wild storm was the gutting by fire of a 105-year-old grist mill at Keene. It is believed that lightning set it off.

So June 21st and summer came to Peterborough. In certain phases, the weekend was blithe; Sunday was a sumptuous day for boating, swimming, taking one's ease at the lake or riverside cottage, or merely for sitting in the shade and absorbing the warm charm of the day. And in the evening, to close the luscious yet risky weekend, came a spectacular sunset. The sky was crimson-gold half-way to the zenith, and as darkness overcame the brilliance, the orange band of eve spread a quarter-way round the arc of the horizon. Not even Turner has done a better sunset.

Yes, We Can Find An Answer

When the Toronto Globe and Mail said that Mr. David Croll had been passed over as a possible Cabinet appointee because he was a Jew, we protested that there was no reason to believe this, and said that it was an appeal to prejudice. In a reply, the Toronto paper writes thus:

> The reason for this overlooking of Mr. Croll, as many people think, is that he is of the Jewish faith. In these columns the other day this was pointed out.
>
> Now the Peterborough Examiner accuses this newspaper of appealing to racial prejudice and using an argument "too dirty to be effective". This charge surely makes no sense at all. To point out that a man is the victim of prejudice is not to appeal to prejudice but the very opposite. If the reason for passing over Mr. Croll is not the reason suggested here, what is it? The Examiner offers no answer and is very unlikely to find one.

Unquestionably there are many people who think that anything that happens or does not happen to a Jew is the result of his faith, but such thinking does not carry much weight. The Toronto paper says that Mr. Croll is a victim of racial prejudice, but it cannot offer any evidence that this is so. It imputes racial prejudice to the Prime Minister, but it cannot support the charge with other evidence. Can it name any other case in which Mr. St. Laurent has shown prejudice of this type? Has he at any time shown animus against Jews? There are very important governmental appointments which suggest that he has no such prejudice whatever.

Why did Mr. St. Laurent not appoint Mr. Croll instead of Mr. Pickersgill, after having publicly commended Mr. Croll's ability? Our suggestion is that, at this time and under existing circumstances, Mr. St. Laurent thought Mr. Pickersgill the better man for the job. It can be as simple as that. There is no necessity to look for a discreditable motive.

Korea Today

What was Korea? What is it? What is it like? On this page today we print an intense survey of that distressful country and people, done by Patrick O'Donovan, who has been in Seoul now for many months and whose reports on aspects of Korean life and the war have appeared on this page from time to time. Mr. O'Donovan's probing sketch of this people (Korea has the eleventh largest population in the world) and their peninsular story is remarkable for its graphic sensitivity; we urge our readers interested at all in Korea to give it their attention. The war has taken many Canadian lives and millions of Canadian dollars. It is right that we should, as Canadians, try to get as just a picture of the people and their plight as possible—and plight it is; the destruction has been more complete than any in Europe. Mr. O'Donovan's inquiring eye and trained mind and pen provide, we think, a thorough and balanced report, as well as a vivid impression. The Examiner is pleased to be able to offer this special article to its readers.

Words Of Wisdom From Satchel

It is usual for newspapers to seek advice from people who have lived to ripe old ages as to what promotes longevity. Anybody over ninety is likely to be asked to give his opinion. But some of the best advice that we have seen recently on this matter comes from another sort of old man—from Satchel Paige, the Negro pitcher for the St. Louis Browns. Mr. Paige is over fifty, and for a baseball player that makes him an Ancient of Days. If you want to live to be an old ballplayer, or just plain old, Satchel offers the following rules:

"Avoid fried meats, which angry up the blood.

"If your stomach disputes you, lie down and pacify it with cool thoughts.

"Keep the juices flowing by jangling around gently as you move.

"Go very light on the vices, such as carrying on in society. The social rambling ain't restful.

"Avoid running at all times.

"Don't look back. Something might be gaining on you."

This sounds like fine advice, and we advance the idea also that it is fine prose; it has individuality and grace. Fried meats do "angry up the blood." We like "jangling around gently as you move" as a description of relaxation; a famous American specialist, Dr. Jacobson, has written a book about relaxation which is, basically, nothing more than advice to jangle around gently as you move. Any time Satchel wants to give up baseball he can have a job as a writer on this paper.

THE AMERICAN SCENE

The President, Taft and 3-D

By ALASTAIR BUCHAN

THE FACT that there has as yet been no dissenting voice in the United States Senate to the terms of the Korean armistice is a remarkable triumph for President Eisenhower. For the armistice will be a negotiated, not a victorious settlement of the kind which, in the eyes of many Republicans, smacks of the "Truman-Acheson line."

The Republican Party has forty-eight seats in the Senate, a majority of only one over the Democrats, and of these forty-eight at least thirteen believe, or have believed in the past, that nothing short of total military victory over Communist China will keep the peace in Asia., and another eleven are of the old-fashioned isolationist type who think that any negotiated agreement with foreigners is little short of treason. Yet none of them raised his voice against the armistice and the leader of the "Asia-Firsters," Senator Knowland of California, has added his to that of President Eisenhower in trying to bring President Syngman Rhee of South Korea to see the wisdom of accepting the armistice. In part, of course, the reason is that the Senators dare not risk unpopularity by going against the prevailing trend of American public opinion: the daily letter-bag tells them how popular the idea of a Korean armistice is with ordinary American voters.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT this unanimity, or rather lack of discord, is also due to the success of the liaison between the Republican leadership in the Senate and the White House, a success which is now jeopardised by the illness of Senator Robert Taft, the Republican leader in the Senate. Mr. Taft is a man about whom there are many views. He has made some remarkably silly statements on international affairs at different times; he has proved himself to be a very liberal-minded man on some aspects of domestic policy and a die-hard conservative on others. What is quite undisputed is his prestige and authority in the Republican Party and in the Senate. He has shown himself reasonably loyal to President Eisenhower, certainly very loyal in matters of domestic policy, for the reason that he is most anxious to make the first Republican Administration in twenty years a resounding success. And his primary importance has lain in the fact that when he and the President have managed to work out a compromise on policy, Mr. Taft has been able to sell it to his Republican colleagues in the Senate. Now he is incapacitated by a painful hip ailment from leading the Senate, certainly for the rest of this session, and the President has to rely upon the leadership of Senator Knowland.

Mr. Knowland is a very different man from Mr. Taft. He is much more dogmatic in his views on foreign policy, and he commands much less respect among his colleagues. Consequently, if there are unpalatable developments during the implementation of the armistice in Korea, or in other fields of foreign policy for that matter, the President can no longer rely on the same measure of agreement between himself and his Senate Leader nor on Mr. Knowland's ability to keep the Republican Senators in line. He may have to exercise a great deal more direct authority than he has shown himself willing to do so far.

✧ ✧ ✧

SENATOR TAFT'S illness has provoked a great deal of personal sympathy even from those who are violently opposed to his views. Mr. Taft is a curious mixture of stubborn prejudice and open-minded tolerance, but his personal charm is as undisputed as his political acumen. There is a certain pathos in the fact that illness should remove him from a position of power at a crucial moment in the life of the Republican Administration which he has worked for so long to bring into office. His illness—he is sixty-three— raises the question of whether he may not be forced to transfer his activities to some other field, and it has been rumoured for some time that he would take a seat on the Supreme Court when one becomes available. His wife, to whom he is deeply devoted, is an invalid and would like to see him out of the hurly-burly of politics. His father was Chief Justice of the United States, and this new turn of his fortunes may very well cause him to consider recasting his career along the same lines.

✧ ✧ ✧

AMERICA is the home par excellence of the glossy illustrated weekly magazine. Last year the combined circulation of all general and farm magazines was 159 million copies, or one per head of the population. But, nevertheless, the magazine publishers are now, almost without exception, showing declining profits or even severe losses. Colliers, a famous American landmark, is changing from a weekly to a fortnightly in August. Quick, which was a bright little picture magazine, has gone out of business this month. Park East, a rival to the New Yorker, folded up last month, and there have been other failures.

Part of the reason for this is that there are just too many magazines; part of it is that the continuing spread of television is drawing away both readers and advertisers to the new medium. Paper and printing costs have also risen enormously in the past year. Oddly enough, one of the most successful and financially sound of all the magazines is one which was created by a group of men who despised balance sheets and advertising managers— the New Yorker. Founded some twenty-five years ago around the brilliant group of young New York writers and artists which included James Thurber, Alexander Woolcott, Dorothy Parker and E. B. White, this weekly has never ceased to prosper and expand despite the fact that for many years the staff were paid only when the Editor felt they had earned it, and the business manager was never allowed to enter the editorial offices.

IF the magazines are in a sticky- position, Hollywood is in an even stickier one. For the past few years the motion picture industry has been haunted by the growing success of television which keeps citizens at home when they ought to be out queuing at the cinema box-office.

Hollywood has belatedly found a reply to television in the three-dimensional, or stereoscopic film. Warner Brothers has produced a triumphant box-office success in its 3-D film, "House of Wax," and Universal has done the same with "It Came from Outer Space." 20th Century-Fox is preparing to launch a series of movies with its own 3-D method called Cinema-Scope, which employs a wide angle screen as that the audience does not have to wear special glasses. Its first production will be an enormous extravaganza called "The Robe."

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT no one knows yet just how much of success these new techniques are going to be, nor what proportion of stereoscopic to conventional movies it will be profitable to make. The result is that about half the seventeen thousand technicians in Hollywood are at the moment unemployed, many of the studios are shut, and production is well below that of a normal year. Most Hollywood producers seem to feel that about half of their future output will be in 3-D films when they have established just what the public wants and what the economics of the new technique will be.

KOREA TODAY

The Hermit Kingdom In Agony

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN (in Seoul)

IN peace or war Korea will remain the world's problem for many years to come. Its perpetual tragedy is to be set at cross-roads where the fears and ambitions of Great Powers clash It is a peninsula 600 miles long and some 150 miles wide. It is a little larger than the United Kingdom minus Northern Ireland.

Its population of 31,000,000 comes eleventh in the world, a little larger than Spain's. Its birth-rate is one of the highest in the world and at the present rate the population will double itself in thirty years. Before 1945 few educated men could have named its capital, and it is not mentioned in Toynbee's Outline of History.

It is a place of thousands of mountains, sharp and steep, with their sides washed almost bare of soil and only a stubble of twisted trees and rank grass between the rocks. Each abrupt mountain shelters a miniature plain, and the plains have a deceptive sumptuous air.

They are filled with terraced fields, whose mud walls, each a few inches higher than the last, curve one behind the other like the whorls on a finger-print. When it is flat, the fields are close-fitted to make a chequered sheet of growing things that last until the mountains start. And all kept alive with human excrement. Grassy embankments that carry old irrigation streams are the only incident, and men and women in white cotton walk, recollected like monks, in single file and seldom speak.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE VILLAGES at the end of footpaths are relegated to the lower slopes. They are unmarked by churches or temples. They have no centres. Sometimes there is an old stone sycophantically inscribed for an honest magistrate. The huts are mud-walled, topped with heavy curling tiles or with ragged thatch. The towns are soiled and broken. Nothing has been painted. Everything has been covered with a skin of dust. Tiles have slipped from every roof and lie smashed in the gutters. In places like Seoul and Taegu the ugly modern buildings that rise over the litter of small curving roofs are all scarred or else empty shells. You have to look carefully for signs of any reconstruction. But where a house has been destroyed there are no ruins, just a burnt and empty space. In places like Pusan, which the war never quite reached, the press of refugees has swamped the streets and blurred the outlines of the city with suburbs of the sort of shacks you sometimes see from English railways, sagging at the bottom of walled gardens.

Sometimes, like Munsan, the towns have disappeared There is a railway siding. There is a ruin of concrete police cells. There is the front of a shop. It looks like a roadside memorial. The ground under the long grass is littered with broken pottery and stumps of soft wood. Another town, called Kumwha, which once had some 2,000 inhabitants, is mentioned every time the Communists attack on the central front. It stands on a strategic cross-roads on the road to the South. You can tell where it was because the crossroads is on all the maps.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE MOUNTAINS of Korea rear up with a charming modesty, but not its people. They are as proud as the devil and remote with strangers. They are humiliated by gifts. They are seldom beautiful to occidental eyes. They have a remote dignity, a strong and heavy boned people whose broad faces are topped with shocks of brown-black hair. Their clothes are graceful but complicated and betray no traces of sexual planning. They are not preoccupied with cleanliness. They tolerate fearsome smells. There is no escape here for those seeking a world of slanting, complaisant eyes. This is a hard country.

They are not religious, though they have produced their share of martyrs. Some three per cent. of them are Christians, one and a half per cent. are Confucianists and four per cent. professing Bhuddists. Very few of them in prison or on the point of death call for the consolations of religion, and the small gaudy temples that are hidden among the foothills are sad, deserted places, visited by old women and played over by children. They share with countries like Greece and Ireland and Spain a preoccupation with the fact of death. The only wastage of land in Korea is for the dead and all the "favourable" slopes are littered with their nameless grave mounds.

To be honest, Koreans are often unspeakably cruel and that is the way they themselves have been treated throughout their history. They were the harshest prisoner guards in the service of the Japanese during the last war and the behaviour of the North Koreans during the recent fighting has had none of the humorous chivalry that the Chinese have sometimes shown. Most of the war atrocities in Korea have been committed by Koreans and, given the chance, they execute one another with enthusiasm. They are not always individually decent or honest or brave. But somehow, without the least encouragement from the Koreans, one cannot withhold one's admiration for so reckless and independent a people and for one so free of cant. A grudging affection follows the admiration.

✧ ✧ ✧

THEY have suffered almost too much and many of their faults are the result of the long years of suppression and political irresponsibility. Their recorded history began about the time of Christ and by A.D. 700 they were linked as a tribute-bearing nation to China. It was a relationship that scarcely interfered with their internal affairs, that allowed them to call on China for help when invaded and which was seldom resented.

In 1392 the capital was moved to Seoul and the Yi Dynasty established. It lasted until the Japanese annexation in 1910. It had its brilliant periods. The Koreans had an alphabet and produced movable type fifty years before Gutenberg. They produced dictionaries and encyclopaedias. They even produced an iron-clad battleship to turn back a Japanese invasion.

At the end of the sixteenth century, with the aid of the Chinese, they defeated a Japanese invasion in a war that lasted seven years. And from then the Koreans carefuly closed their shores to the outside world. They became the Hermit Kingdom. They grew inwards upon themselves, which is not healthy. Government was synonymous with the Court and the Court was corrupt, sunk in the observance of a barren Confucianism. They tolerated no innovations, preserved a cruel and hierarchical society, weakened themselves with silly factional politics around the person of the King. By the end of the nineteenth century the monarchy was in dissolution and the Japanese had compelled the Koreans to grant them special privileges. The peninsula became the scene of unscrupulous imperial rivalries between Russia and Japan, in which the Koreans gained nothing. The comfortable connection with China was broken. And after the Russo-Japanese war, as a result of the treaty signed at Portsmouth in the United States, Korea was annexed by Japan.

✧ ✧ ✧

JAPANESE colonial rule did not even pretend to prepare the Koreans for self-government. The country was exploited like a well-run vegetable garden. Japanese rule coincided with the birth of a nationalist movement which was savagely cut down and forced to develop in exile. When Japan was defeated, the Americans were asked on the second day after their arrival in Korea when government would be handed to the Koreans. The country was divided on a rough military formula between the Russians and Americans, and the Koreans were again frustrated. In June, 1950, a well-prepared North invaded the South and since then war has run like a harrow four times up and down the country.

In this process the cities of the North were virtually wiped out. The destruction has been more complete than any in Europe. Before the war, the population of the North was reckoned as 9,000,000; to-day it is probably nearer 3,000,000. Four milion refugees walked over the hills into the South. Here 2,000,000 are still homeless. A million and a half civilians have died as a result of gunfire, starvation and exhaustion. For two years nearly 4,000,000 have relied for their basic grain rations on a United Nations dole. Sixty-nine million dollars have been spent to keep the South Koreans barely alive. Four hundred thousand homes have been destroyed. There are 100,000 known orphans and some 30,000 of them are in orphanages. There are 16,000 amputees from the Republic of Korea Army and facilities for about a third of them. By the latest count, their Army has suffered a total of 257,000 casualties.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN EFFECT, the United Nations are faced with the problem of constructing a new economy. A commission from the Food and Agricultural Organization recently estimated that South Korea might be self-sufficient in essential foods by 1960. A whole series of complementary industries must be restarted to restore the country even to its pre-war level. At present it is being kept alive artificially by injections of foreign moneys and goods— like a carrot top in a saucer of water.

I have a Korean friend called Paik who is a journalist. He abandoned a better-paid and more respectable profession because he thought he could better serve his country through the Press. He is too sick for the Army. He refused the chance of a scholarship in Europe because he thought it wrong to leave his country at this time. He lives with his wife and two children in a single room and does not always have quite enough to eat. He has read and remembered a surprising amount of European philosophy in abridged Japanese editions.

When I first met him I thought him at heart a Communist. He was openly cynical about the United Nations in his country, claimed that all his friends were in the North and admired their discipline and single-mindedness. He was cloudy with ideas about co-operation and peace and the good time coming under men of good will. But he has changed.

He may still deplore the home policies of his President, but Mr. Syngman Rhee has no more passionate supporter in his stand against an armistice and in his call for unification. I saw him on the verge of tears one day when I asked some children beside the road what they wanted to be and they said "Korean soldiers."

✧ ✧ ✧

I KNOW a middle-aged man called Rhee who is a member of the late Royal Family. He sits and reads all day on the floor of a small room overlooking a yard filled with potted plants. He was once a curator of the national museum which is now in crates somewhere in Pusan. He lives by selling his heirlooms one by one He is a gentle person, dressed in padded white linen and a long grey silk waistcoat. He wants to re-open his museum and start his researches again. He has a sad faith in the United Nations and a rare confidence in our good intentions.

There is a boy called Kim. He cleans my room when he is not at school. He is crop-haired, silent and smiling. At night he lies down to sleep with eight of his family in piles of newspaper. This week he spent three days— five hours a day— demonstrating to order against the armistice in the streets of Seoul.

But he cares little for politics. He will be in the Army in nine months and will be paid four shillings a month. When he comes in from school he finishes the work for which he is paid and sits down for three hours with his books because there is not enough light at home He struggles with English out of bad text books, learns the Sermon on the Mount painfully by heart, covers sheets of paper with untidy equations. A rough education is the only thing the world has offered him and his only insurance against a future that seems to offer nothing.

These are the people that now depend wholly on the United Nations. Their power to help themselves is almost exhausted. If they reject us now in their disappointment, all the lives that were lost will have been wasted. In the last instance, this part of Korea will remain open and free, not by force of arms, but by the will of such people. The West is faced with the necessity of producing a swift and spectacular example of its power and willingness to help. I cannot think of any people in this part of the world who deserve it more or who would use it better.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Trust in the Lord, and do good; so shalt thou dwell in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed. Delight thyself also in the Lord; and he shall give thee the desires of thine heart. (Ps. 37:3,4.)

✧ ✧ ✧

As for me, I will call upon God; and the Lord shall save me. Evening, and morning, and at noon, will I pray, and cry aloud: and he shall hear my voice. (Ps. 55:16,17.)

✧ ✧ ✧

But when ye pray, use not vain repetitions, as the heathen do: for they think that they shall be heard for their much speaking. Be not ye therefor like unto them: for your Father knoweth what things ye have need of, before ye ask him . . .

Behold the fowls of the air: for they sow not, neither do they reap, nor gather into barns; yet your heavenly Father feedeth them. Are ye not much better than they?

And why take ye thought for raiment? Consider the lilies of the field, how the grow; they toil not, neither do they spin: And yet I say unto you, That even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

Wherefore, if God so clothe the grass of the field, which to day is, and to morrow is cast into the oven, shall he not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?

Therefore take no thought saying, What shall we eat? or, What shall we drink? or, Wherewithal shall we be clothed? . . . But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you. (Matt. 6:7,8,26,28-31,33.)

Request Jail Building Halt

TORONTO (CP) — The select committee on reform institutions unanimously passed a motion Monday calling for a temporary halt to the jail building program in the province.

In the process of evolving ways and means of cutting down institutional expansion, which is costing Ontario millions of dollars yearly, the committee voiced strong criticism of the department for proceeding with construction work at Mimico.

Learning that a $90,000 120-person dormitory unit was under construction at Mimico and that five more are contemplated, the committee acceptted a motion from William Nickle (PC — Kingston) that:

"No changes, alterations, or additions be made at Mimico or any other institution until the committee has had time for a thorough discussion of its deliberations and objectives with the minister."

Police identified the victim as Donat Chene, 17, of nearby Tecumseh who was drowned Saturday minutes after he dived into deep water off the end of a pier at Belle River, about 12 miles east of here on Lake St. Clair.

St. Laurent Expects Warm Campaign

CHATHAM (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Monday that he looks for a "pretty warm" federal election campaign.

Pausing at this Western Ontario city on the way to deliver his keynote speech at Windsor, Mr. St. Laurent spoke extemporaneously to his first Liberal rally of the campaign that ends at the polls Aug. 10.

"This is a very important election and it looks as if it will be a pretty warm campaign," he said at a nomination meeting for Blake Huffman, Liberal member of the House of Commons for Kent.

The prime minister was welcomed at the railway station by mayor W. A. Donovan and was played into the meeting hall by a band playing "I'm sitting on top of the world."

TO AVOID WAR

Mr. St. Laurent said it still is the "principal concern" of the government to do its part to help Canada avoid the inestimable consequences of war.

This country had been doing its share to build up the strength of the North Atlantic alliance which has been playing a large role in averting war.

As the result of these measures he was growing more confident that coming generations of Canadians could be protected from war.

Discussing the coming election, the prime minister said all Canadians have a responsibility to exercise the franchise.

"We have to submit our accounts to you every few years," he commented. "I ask you to look over our accounts and draw your own conclusions."

Salary Promise Not Kept Civil Servants Complain

QUEBEC (CP)—Fred W. Whitehouse of Ottawa, president of the Civil Service Federation of Canda, said Monday at the opening of the organization's convention that the federal government has not kept its promise to raise civil servants' salaries to the level of wages paid in private industry.

Mr. Whitehouse said "the case was never stronger for salary increases and we are getting tired of Finance Minister Abbott's excuses."

He said federation statistics taken from the government's own sources showed salary levels in the civil service average about seven per cent below those in private industry.

"Recently, despite the government's promise to keep civil service salaries equal with those of industry our brief for increases was turned down."

Mr. Whitehouse said Prime Minister St. Laurent promised the increases. "We wonder what has happened to that government policy."

Liflocs Down Port Hopers By A Score Of 8 To 1 In A Lakeshore Ball Game

The local junior Liflocs trimmed the Port Hope intermediates 8-1 here last night in a Lakeshore Baseball League encounter. They got their runs in clusters, counting four in the first frame and four in the third. Johnny Holman was the losing twirler, Mike Harrison taking over for the last three stanzas to pitch no-hit ball, fanning two and walking one. Holman gave up five hits for five earned runs of the eight, as he walked one and fanned three. He also hit two batters and had a wild pitch, his mates booting two behind him.

Jerry Frizzelle kept 11 hits, many of them quite scratchy, pretty well scattered and bore down to keep well ahead all the way in a neat home slab chore. He whiffed six and walked but one, receiving perfect support in the field. Frizzelle also fielded his position well.

TWO FOR TWO

Bryon Young led at bat with two for two, Scotty MacSporran and Larry Foley each getting one in three trips. The latter and Don Bigford drove in two runs each, and Clare Ferguson and MacSporran one apiece. Len Ashby and Jim Thickson led Port Hope with two for three each, Johnny Keeler having two in four. One in three each went to Bob McDerment, Bob Trawin and Vern Lees, as Mike Harrison and Ray Mann belted one safe blow each in four attempts.

Fielding features were one-handed catches of flies by Leo Sullivan and Ferguson, while MacSporran was solid in centre all through. Murray Byrne was thumbed out in the second inning for flinging his bat to protest a called third strike. Bryon Young moved in from left to take his place at third, and Sullivan went into left field. The visitors left nine men stranded while Liflocs left just one. Young and Bigford each stole a base, and MacSporran had a sacrifice.

FOUR IN FIRST

The Dalton-Mein hustlers garnered four runs in the first frame on singles by Byrne, MacSporran and Young, plus two errors, a wild pitch and an out. They added four in the third on two hit batsmen, a sacrifice, an out, a steal and singles by Young and Foley. Port Hope got their lone one in the fifth on singles by Thickson, Lees and Ashby, the latter driving in the run. They threatened in two other innings, but Frizzelle bore down to keep them from tallying.

Port Hope: Ashby, rf; Harrison, ss, p; Keeler, lf, ss; Mann, c; McDerment, 2b; Trawin, cf; Thickson, 3b; Lees, 1b; Holman, p, lf.

Moore Intends Keep Crown

OGDEN, Utah (AP)—It took 16 years for Archie Moore to achieve the goal of a world champion in boxing and the 36-year-old craftsman from California doesn't intend to surrender the title he holds as king of the light heavyweights in his 15-round fight with Joey Maxim Wednesday night.

Moore has seen enough of the fight game from the lower ranks. It was a long, bitter and often frustrating path he trod coming up.

When he got his chance he made the most of it. This was in St. Louis last December when he handed the champion, Maxim, an artistic lacing in 15 rounds.

The bout is to be televised nationally (CBS network). It will not be broadcast.

Larry Barclay Proves Strong Cup Contender

TORONTO (CP)—A strong contender for Canada's Davis Cup team, Larry Barclay of Vancouver, advanced into the fourth round of the men's singles in the Toronto Cricket Club's 13th annual invitation tennis tournament Monday night.

Lorne Main, formerly of Vancouver and now of Toronto, defeated George Czuczka, Toronto, 6-1, 6-2, in another third-round match. In a second-rounder, Fred Kovaleski of Washington, D.C., vanquished Bob Middleton of Toronto 6-4, 6-3.

Croll Gives UE Win

Peterborough UEW pulled out a 3-1 Eastern Ontario Soccer League fixture from Batawa on the latter's grounds Saturday. The UE team couldn't seem to settle down in the heat and played a poor brand of football most of the way, while Batawa was sharp this game.

Batawa led 1-0 till late in the match when Bob Croll was moved up from fullback into the forward line. He turned in a brilliant effort up there to come through with the hat-trick for three goals to give UEW the victory by two markers.

UE and Merchants have a city league tussle Wednesday night at seven in King Edward Park.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Lionel Conacher was one of the founders of the seven-man game of box lacrosse, after starring in the field game. He was telling Milt Dunnell the other day: "On a big floor like Maple Leaf Gardens I still think the seven-man game is the best fit. But when the game is played on a small floor or in a small box, I would say the number should drop back to six a side. I watched a game in Brampton one night and thought 14 men slowed up the show because it was too crowded." He realizes that an afternoon game today wouldn't draw flies, and Conny notes that the field game began to disappear when kids stopped running and started riding. Milt adds: "Behind all the reasons for cutting back to six men, instead of seven, there is probably one important one—lack of capable players."

It has been many years since legalized wagering has taken place in horse races here. And the sport of kings is a betting sport. The government charter permits betting on the harness races under proper supervision, this charter used here being owned by Fred Orpen, who purchased it back in the 30s from a number of Peterborough men. But the races have to be twilight ones as a law forbids betting on the horses in floodlight racing. The late Rollie Denne and Art Johnston were among the former local owners of this charter. So, it is planned to stage a number of race meets at Morrow Park this season, the next one being this coming Saturday eve.

Always Call 'Em Out

An item on umpires in Collier's caught our fancy. Seems two big league arbiters, Bill McGowan and Roy VanGrifian, decided as young umps to be colorful characters on the field. So they practised together in their hotel room night after night with various gestures before a mirror. "Out!" one would howl with a magnifient wave of his arm, then freezing to see how it looked in the mirror. "Ow-i-i-t-t!" the other would bellow with motions, and wait for criticism from his partner. This went on for hours for several nights till the phone rang one evening. An anguished voice said: "Excuse me, I'm the fellow in the next room. Honest, I don't mind the noise, but don't you ever call anybody safe?"

Only Bowmanville hasn't decided yet on its category in the Lakeshore Baseball League, and must do so by July 1. Oshawa, Whitby and Lindsay are intermediate "A" teams, while Colborne, Port Hope and Cobourg are intermediate "B", the local Liflocs being junior "A" in this setup. Various winners will go into these classes in OBA playdowns in late August. League champion is the team ending atop the regular standing. Playoffs call for first team vs. the fourth and the second vs. third in intermediate "A" and "B" semi-final series. Depending on whether Bowmanville goes "A" or "B", of course. Locals trek off into junior provincial playdowns and should do well there.

Those Hustling Liflocs

Local ball-playing Liflocs had lots of hustle last night here to earn an 8-1 win o'er Port Hope. They had but five hits but cashed in on everything—miscues, steals, hit batsmen, sacrifices, etc. That hustle wins games and that is what Howie Dalton and Shockey Mein have in this junior bunch. Like picking a guy off first. Jerry Frizzele hurled steady ball for the winners, scattering the hits, whiffing half a dozen and bearing down in the clutches. His support was perfect, too, and there were several really smart fielding plays. Liflocs hit in timely fashion to get their runs in bunches before Mike Harrison arrived to put out the fire. Bryon Young led the locals at bat. Some talk of a game with Whitby here on Wednesday, catching up a postponement, but nothing definite at the moment.

Peterborough Pats were rolling along with a neat junior OLA lead over Long Branch here last night when the visitors erupted in the fourth quarter to sashay through them and yank out a 15-14 win. A real toughie to lose after an 11-6 lead at the three-quarter pole. It was the fifth straight verdict for the undefeated Long Branchers and it seems Doug Miller Jr. had 'em tagged right when he said they were the team to beat for group laurels this season. A hot fray in the third-chucker as a free-for-all threatened and penalties came thick and fast. Curtis got five goals for the Pats, Smith three, Hobart and Allen two apiece, and O'Reilly and Brioux one each. The Pats are off to St. Kitts tomorrow for a four-pointer, while Dundas comes here Saturday e'en.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

The men's club singles got away to a good start Monday evening, and although the entry was not as large as usual the bowling was well above the average. This was particularly true of the new bowlers.

One noticeable feature of the competition was the lack of skips entered. Maybe the "old boys" saw the handwriting, and decided to rest on past reputations. Some of the boys played two games. It is a straight elimination contest. The next round is called for Monday, July 13.

Ray Brown and Walter Jones did a nice job with this competition. They were still busy at it when we left the greens.

The entry list for the Lift Lock open doubles, Wednesday, July 8, is rapidly filling up. The second draw is complete and from here in anyone wishing to play will have to be content with the first draw.

St. Catharines Crushes Tigers 14-6

HAMILTON (CP)—The leading St. Catharines Athletics of the Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association Monday night added another game to its lead with a 14-6 victory over Hamilton Tigers.

The game was a rough-and-tumble affair with 10-minute penalties going to Bill Nelson of the Athletics and Dutch Gurhro of Hamilton. Max Woolley and Bill Henderson of St. Catharines were each given five-minute penalties for fighting.

Woolley led the Athletics with three goals. Al Frick and Jim McCann had two each. Singles were scored by Bill Bradshaw, Bill Nelson, Don Moore, Derry Davis, Eric Uhrynuk, Ted Howe and Norm Corcoran.

Hamilton's leading sniper was Doug Davidson with two. Singletons went to Butch Guthro, Al Doyle, Chub Brown and Barney Welsh.

Blackstock In Draw With Bethany Team

BETHANY (ENS)—Blackstock and Bethany battled to a 10-all tie in the North Durham Ball League here. Edmunds had shaky support at first as Blackstock scored two in the first inning, six next time up, and later added two in the seventh. The homesters got one each in the second, fourth and sixth, two in the third and fifth, with three in the seventh inning. Challice played well at bat and afield.

In a previous game, these teams drew 4-4, though Edmunds pitched a six-hitter, Daly Gunter also hurling well for Blackstock. Catcher Neil Bailey smashed a finger on a low pitch. Bailey hurt the finger in the next game again, when playing in left field.

Long Branch Wins Rough Go Over Junior OLA Pats To Keep Unbeaten In Group

Long Branch edged Peterborough Pats 15-14, Monday night at Miller Bowl, in a lightning fast, rugged and as it turned out, rather bitter struggle at its climax in the final frame when the undefeated visitors snatched victory from defeat with a tremendous late rally that Doug Miller's boys stemmend too late; the victory was Long Branch's fifth straight to lead the junior "A" lacrosse parade. The game was keenly fought and essentially clean for two-quarters of play with but five penalties; and Pats led 8-3 following a sparkling 4-0 first and a 4-3 second frame. Tempers flared however, in the third as the pace grew hot and the visitors' play became noticeably rougher; but the locals didn't back up.

A ROUGH FRAME

Finally, after John Coleman and Norm Neave for the visitors and Bob Curtis; Bob Allen and Gary Smith for the locals had registered sparkling tallies — a fierce melee broke out involving Bob McLintock and Logan; then each received a misconduct. Carl Brioux was attacked by Coleman with a vicious smash of the stick, retaliated for protection; and each drew majors. Smith and Ross Eland fought and the refs banished the pair with match misconducts as lacrosse was forgotten temporarily, as the Branchers endevored to whittle Pats' lead. Passmore tallied late from Pete Ruse to put the score 11-6 for the locals at three-quarter time.

Long Branch stole Pat's first-period thunder with interest to open a concerted attack on Hill's citadel in the final frame; and by mid-frame had rifled home seven goals to take a 13-11 lead as the dazed Pats' defence weakened and their offensive bogged down unable to cope with the visitors' thrusts. Snapping out of it, the gallant locals tallied as Thomas clicked at 12.42 on a great play with Jerry O'Reilly; but each tallied twice more to leave Pats one goal in arrears in a grand finish. The Long Branch-Mimico boys, led by Walton and Coleman with three goals apiece; and Passmore and Kapasky a pair, spread their scoring among nine men. Peterborough, led by Curtis with five goals, Smith with three and Hobart and Allen a pair apiece, had six marksmen who paid off—with Brioux and O'Reilly also scoring.

Long Branch: Goal, Russell; def. McLintock, Rawson; centre, Kapasky; wings, Passmore, Walton; rover, Eland; alts., L. Ruse, P. Ruse, Giroux, Neave, Tomchisien, Coleman, Smith, Anderson.

Peterborough Pats: Goal, Hill; def., Brioux, Allen; centre, O'Reilly; wings, Hobart, Daniels, rover, Curtis; alts., Bloom, Logan, Smith, Farley, Ward, Chapman, Thomas, McDougall.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson
It was seventeen years ago this week—the exact date was June 22, 1936—that Joe Louis became champion heavyweight boxer of the world, by knocking out James J. Braddock in eight rounds at Chicago. The loser thus became the fourth former world's title-holder who fell before the dynamite exploding in the fists of the Brown Bomber. Before that, Primo Carnera, Max Baer and Jack Sharkey all had been toppled by the dead-pan Negro.

It's silly, in the writing game, to deal in superlatives. Joe Louis may not have been the greatest heavyweight champion that the ring ever has known. Anybody that says he was runs himself right into a lot of argument from the supporters of Tunney, Dempsey, Johnson, Jeffries, Fitzsimmons and Corbett. Or all the way back to those who think the ring never has seen the equal of John L. Sullivan.

But there was this much about Joe Louis. The ring never knew a champion who had more enthusiasm for his job. Maybe it wasn't in his face, because he was strictly a dead-pan fighter. But it was in his work, in his quick knockout victories. He had the Dempsey flair, and the Dempsey controlled savagery for that.

Louis took a round to dispose of opponents like Max Schmeling and John Henry Lewis, and after that anybody might think that Joe would ease up a little when he came up with a soft touch. But there were no soft touches in Joe's book. They were all fighters trying to knock his brains out if they could. So he walked into them and knocked them all out.

This observer saw Louis when he was, possibly, at his peak, a night in 1935 when he made Max Baer quit in four rounds. Louis was that night a fighter to strike fear to the heart of any opponent, even before he raised a glove. Because he was so coldly, so utterly indifferent to his opponent. Louis was first in the ring that night. He dropped into his chair, and looked up at a plane that was circling above the stadium. Baer entered the ring, glanced toward his opponent. But Louis didn't take his eyes from the plane. Without expression, he watched the circling lights above. Baer, a former world's champion, wasn't accustomed to being treated like this. He was plainly disturbed and nervous. For he was confronting a sphinx, an unknown quantity that seemed to exude a cold, lethal threat. He was being ignored. And from that moment, before a blow was struck, before the impassive and sombre Louis had moved from his corner, Baer was a beaten man. The fight itself was merely a matter of efficiently conducted routine.

I saw Louis again. Louis at the end of the trail, Louis in his thirties, fighting a young, clever Ezzard Charles, a Louis whose reflexes had faded, whose fists no longer carried lightning. In his prime, Louis would have knocked out Charles in a few rounds. But this was a Louis stumbling against the barrier of athletic age, whose fists weren't fast enough to do what his brain commanded, a Louis at trail's end.

Brooklyn Continues Losing Streak, Bows To Cubs 9-4

By BEN PHLEGAR, Associated Press Sports Writer

Leo Durocher's Giants, finally exhibiting signs or arousing from their spring doldrums, move in on St. Louis Cardinals tonight for their second straight showdown series with a first-division club. Flushed with success after gaining two victories and a tie out of a four-game series with the league-leading Milwaukee Braves, New York has a chance to prove to its followers that it may yet fulfil pre-season predictions. Leo's lads generally were picked to finish no worse than third. But most of their battling so far has been to keep up to the .500 mark and somewhere within striking distance of the first division.

Durocher is going back to one of his old reliables in an attempt to whip the third-place Cards. He's sending lefty Dave Koslo to the mound.

For several years Koslo has been no mystery to the other clubs but he has baffled the Red Birds regularly. This season his magic has been missing. He's tried twice and failed against St. Louis but he won a game in Cincinnati last week.

MAY BE HOPE

If Leo can get by with him tonight, he will know there's hope for his club yet.

The Giants will be meeting St. Louis during one of the Cardinals' better periods. In the current home stand the Cards have won six out of seven including a 6-3 verdict over Pittsburgh Monday night.

Brooklyn continued its miserable western trip with a 9-4 loss to Chicago Cubs while in the American League Cleveland Indians won a pair of 5-2 contests from Washington Senators. The rest of the clubs in both leagues had the day off.

The Dodgers' loss shoved them three full games behind the Braves. Cleveland trails New York Yankees by 10½ games.

Gerry Staley joined the so-far select group of 10-game winners as he checked the Pirates on eight hits. Enos Slaughter drove in three runs with a double and another one with a single.

HOPES MATERIALIZE

The tremendous home run threat the Cubs were hoping for when they bought Ralph Kiner to team with Hank Sauer worked against the Dodgers.

Frank Baumholtz and Dee Fondy singled in the fourth and Kiner delivered them with his 15th homer. The crowd was still cheering when Sauer promptly parked his 10th circuit blast into the same section.

The Indians combined timely hitting with competent pitching to win two games in a row. Bobby Feller and Bob Lemon both went the distance. His teammates backed Feller with a 14-hit attack in the first game and Lemon started a home run barrage against Walt Masterson that won the second.

Nelson Clouts Three Homers To Down Chiefs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rocky Nelson is the talk of the International Baseball League today, and why shouldn't he be?

The echo of the 28-year-old Montreal first-baseman's bat exploding for three homers Monday night was heard all over Montreal stadium. He also got two singles for a clean sweep at the plate in pacing the top-spot Royals to a 21-5 victory over Syracuse Chiefs.

Nelson, who bats and throws lefthanded, tied the Montreal record for the most round-trippers in a single game by a player. He fell one homer short of tying the loop record.

The first baseman, who played part of last season with the parent Brooklyn Dodgers of the National League, batted in 10 runs—a record so far this year for a single game.

Every Royal, except one, got part of the 23 hits off five Syracuse pitchers. Roy Hartsfield hit four times in the same number of trips to the plate and Ken Wood hit four for six. Each got a triple and a double.

HAD GRAND SLAM

Nelson's big blasts included a grand slam and one good for two runs. They brought his home-run total this season to nine.

Pitcher Earl Mossor, who took over from Bob Ludwick in the third, got his second victory against one defeat. He also belted his first round-tripper of the season.

Dennis Reeder hurled a three-hitter as Rochester Red Wings jumped Ottawa Athletics for 12 hits—including three homers—to down the A's 8-1. Reeder fanned five and walked three. Charlie Kress, Lou Ortiz and Tom Burgess hit for the circuit.

SPLIT DOUBLEHEADER

The hustling Springfield Cubs and Toronto Maple Leafs split a twi-night twin bill, the Cubs taking the abbreviated opener 4-2 and the Leafs the closely-fought nightcap 4-3.

John Pyecha went the distance for Springfield in the first game, striking out nine for his third win since joining the Cubs. He held Toronto to seven safeties, including Mike Goliat's homer.

Bobby Hogue took his fifth win in nine decisions in the second contest, but needed help from Ray Shore in the seventh.

The rampaging Buffalo Bisons, confidently in second place, crushed Baltimore Orioles 8-4 under a barrage of 17 hits. It was Buffalo's 13th triumph in 17 games.

Yesterday's Stars

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Batting: Enos Slaughter, St. Louis Cardinals, singled, doubled and drove in four runs in the Cardinals' 6-3 triumph over Pittsburgh.

Pitching: Bob Lemon, Cleveland Indians, gave up eight hits and hit a home run in winning his ninth game, over Washington, 5-2.

Catcher Injures Elbow

EAU CLAIRE, Wis. (AP)—Paul Burris, reserve catcher for Milwaukee Braves, suffered a fractured dislocated elbow Monday night in a collision at home plate during an exhibition between the Braves and their Eau Claire farm club in the Northern League. A physician said that probably ended the season for Burris. The Braves won the game 13-11.

5 Canadian Women Golfers Make 23rd Tourney Round

PORTHCAWL, Wales (Reuters) Five women golfers of Canada's seven-man team got through to the third round of the British women's nament, which began on the Royal Porthcawl links here Monday.

The five who now are among the last 32 in the running include Canadian champion Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., who played some of the day's best golf to win two matcehs easily—and by margins so great that even approximate scores were difficult to assess.

Miss Stewart did not, however, match the outward 36 of the young Belgian challenger Arlette Jacquet, who also survived the first two rounds.

Miss Stewart is still a top favorite. She beat a fellow-Canadian, Mrs. J. H. Todd of Victoria, 6 and 5, in the first round.

Mary Gay of Waterloo, Ont., downed Mrs. Brenda Popplestone of England 3 and 2 in the first round. Team Capt. Ada Mackenzie of Toronto defeated C. MacGeagh of Ireland 3 and 1 and Daintry Chisholm of Montreal defeated Ena Brooks of Ireland 3 and 1 in other first-round matches.

In the second round, Miss Stewart trimmed Mrs. Alexander Keiller of England 6 and 4, and Miss Gay defeated Nancy Jupp of Scotland 3 and 1.

The second Canadian to be defeated was Mrs. Graeme Pyke of Montreal who lost a second-round match to Mrs. Brock Park of Bermuda, 2 and 1.

Strike Losses Higher During May

OTTAWA (CP) — Time lost through strikes and lockouts during May was slightly higher than the preceding month but much less than in May a year ago, the labor department reports.

Preliminary figures showed 30 strikes and lockouts in existence during the month, involving 4,748 workers with a time loss of 36,127 days, compared with 21 work stoppages during April with 3,562 workers involved and a time loss of 29,120 days. In May, 1952, there were 44 strikes and lockouts involving 23,360 workers and a time loss of 248,575 days.

5 WORK STOPPAGES

More than 54 per cent of the total time lost during May was caused by five work stoppages. These were flour, cereal and feed mill workers at Peterborough, and Saskatoon; clothing and hosiery factory workers at Montreal; garage workers at Fort William and Port Arthur; Aluminum ware factory workers at Wallaceburg and household appliance factory workers at Guelph. They involved a total of 1,359 workers responsible for a combined time loss of 19,630 days.

550 Drivers Plan Strike

TORONTO (CP)—About 550 drivers and warehousemen handling building materials decided Monday night to go on strike at 6 a.m. today.

The strike is expected to bring a shutdown of commercial construction and a layoff of other building trades workers within a short time.

In rejecting settlement proposals, the drivers overrode an agreement reached at Queen's Park Mondy between officials of the AFL Teamsters' Union and four firms. The main issue in dispute at a meeting of the drivers Monday night was the question of back pay.

The drivers accepted a 15-cent-an-hour increase but turned down a suggestion that they accept a flat $60 as back pay to Dec. 9, 1952, when the old agreement expired.

Firms concerned are Canada Building Materials, Dual Mixed Concrete, S. McCord and Company and McKay Muldoon Limited.

Started Fire In Jail Lose Smoking Rights

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Police chief Carl W. Farrow said Monday after an unidentified prisoner started a fire in city jail that smoking privileges have been withdrawn from all prisoners.

The chief said the prisoner kicked in a plywood panel leading to an overhead ventilation shaft and set fire to it.

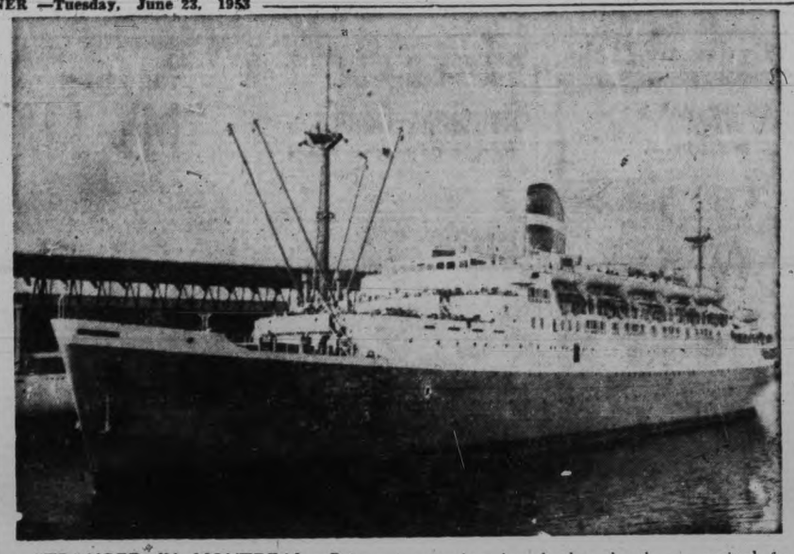
"Had the flames reached the shaft the whole building would have been in danger," he said.

The man who started the fire in one cell could not be identified because all cells in the jail block are left unlocked during the day so prisoners can go from one cell to another.

Television Blamed For Symphony Deficit

TORONTO (CP)—Television was blamed Monday for the $8,935 deficit of the Toronto Symphony Orchestra Association during the 1952-53 season.

At the directors' annual meeting, retiring president W. G. Watson and conductor Sir Ernest MacMillan said United States symphonies have found their audiences returning after the initial impact of television.



Mr. Watson said revenue was down $4,665 or about three per cent.

Among concerts arranged for this year are ones at Ann Arbor and East Lansing, both in Michigan. The orchestra will also play at Trenton, Ont., and Kingston.

BAND NOT GOING

Peterborough Citizens Band will not be in Windsor's centennial celebration parade July 1, 1954. Board of works Monday night merely received the invitation, signifying no action. Windsor promised to provide for the band's entertainment if they made the trip and joined in the festive salute.

ATTENDS CONFERENCE

Jim Fraser, secretary-manager of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce, is attending the two-day annual conference of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce executives at McMaster University in Hamilton today and Wednesday.

TRELLISED CLIMBERS

Climbing up and over an arched trellis at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Beeler, 987 Monaghan Road, at Lundy's Lane, are two roses, a red and yellow, that are in attractive bloom. Mr. Beeler had forgotten the name of the yellow, today, and his wife, who has been trying to get a vigorous yellow climber for four or five years, is away at present. The red is probably a Paul's Scarlet. The yellow is worth the effort that produced it.

LEGIBLE RECORDS

As a helpful suggestion in the preparation of the voters list for the federal elections, Fred Tuggey said today care should be taken by enumerators in the writing of names and addresses on the records of enumeration received by citizens. In the papers he received, he said, the two "g's" looked more like "s's", and the number of his street address could be read as a "5" or a "1", more like the latter. "This is an important matter," Mr. Tuggey remarked to the Examiner, "and should be carefully done."

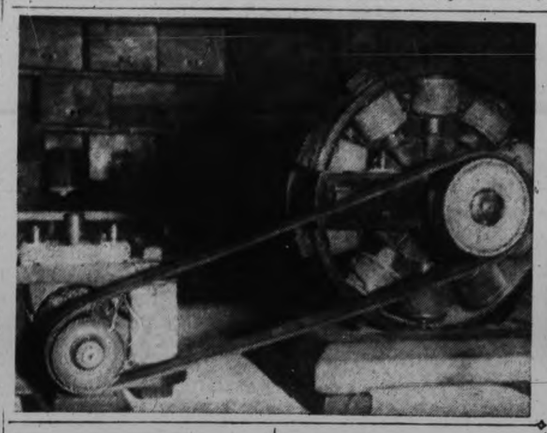
Let Commission Spend $200 For Night Lights

Recreation Commission was authorized by the board of works Monday night to spend up to $200 of their Riverside lights account for junior baseball games played at night. It is expected that there will be at least six games.

Present surplus is $400 in that account. Wilf Langan and R. E. Macdonald, treasurer, explained the circumstances to the board.

Position of the Utilities Commission was to the effect that they could not provide electricity without charge for the Riverside floodlights.

The lighting of the park was authorized by the city council as a means of assisting the local senior club, now defunct.



HOPE FOR FUTURE

Mr. Langan said that the hope of the future of senior ball in Peterborough was in developing players from the minor league and junior club. "The juniors are playing as many games as possible Saturday afternoons, but they have been running into bad weather. Some of the other teams in their league cannot come here for Saturdays, and then for night games we have to pay a light bill."

The Recreation Commission's light account shows a credit of $400.

"That money should go to the city council," Mr. Macdonald said. "We are asking your permission to spend up to $200, that is the estimate of the cost of lights for six games."

Ald. Graham's approving motion was seconded by Ald. Dewart.

CAMPBELLFORD FACES a power shortage in the near future unless its Public Utilities Commission can find a way to produce more power from present equipment. At the right is the dam on the Trent River, shown from the air. At the left is the first generator to supply power—enough for five electric bulbs—to the town. It was built by J. F. McGregor, now municipal clerk of the town.

Canada Better, Says Woman Of Argentine Trip

Canada is a wonderful country to live in according to Mrs. George Armstrong of Yorkton, Sask., who has just returned to this country after spending nine months in Argentina.

Mrs. Armstrong, who is 79, is spending a few days with her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Armstrong, 517 Stewart St., on her return trip home to Saskatchewan. She is accompanied by a daughter, Miss G. F. Armstrong.

Mother and daughter left Yorkton in July 1952, travelled by train to New York and then boarded the SS Brazil for Buenos Aires, Argentina, where they visited Mrs. W. C. Anderson, Mrs. Armstrong's daughter.

The two ladies said today that Canadians don't realize how well off they are. They explained that the standard of living in this country is much higher than in Argentina. Commodities that Canadians take for granted are very scare in the South American country because of relatively little manufacturing there and also because of importing difficulties.

WOOD SCARCE

"Wood is very scare down there," Miss Armstrong said. "As a result most of the houses are brick and furniture is very expensive."

She went on to explain that thieving is a major problem. To combat it homes are surrounded by fences and the entrance gates are locked as soon as it becomes dark. A visitor has to stand at the gate and clap for admittance. The homes are equipped with shutters which are also locked at nightfall.

Another peculiar feature about Argentine homes to Canadian eyes are the sidewalks. The householder is responsible for the laying and upkeep of the sidewalk in front of his home. These sidewalks are of tile and here the theft problem is always prevalent.

Both ladies commented on the beauty of Buenos Aires proper, but explained that it was necessary to leave the city to find out how the people of this country really lived. Cars are very expensive and extremely hard to get and as the result are comparatively scarce. Travelling is done by bus and underground railway. Food is expensive and plastic and nylon products are scarce.

These and many other reasons were recounted by mother and daughter to show that Canada was a much better country to live in.

The two travellers left Buenos Aires by plane May 10 for Miami, Florida. En route they landed in Chile, Peru, Ecuador and Panama. They were met in Miami by Mrs. J. B. Symington, of Edmonton, another daughter of Mrs. Armstrong's and motored back to Canada with her.

When asked how she liked flying, Mrs. Armstrong said, "it was grand. Just like sitting in a rocking chair."

Mrs. and Miss Armstrong expect to leave for their home in Saskatchewan in about two weeks. At present, they have no more travelling plans.

City Sea Cadets Visit Kingston For Races

A group of Peterborough sea cadets and officers were among those attending the annual regatta which was held this year in Kingston. Forty-six cadets and five officers were transported in seven vehicles belonging to the 50th Heavy Anti-Aircraft unit, through the generosity of Colonel Clark.

The group left here at 8:00 a.m. Saturday morning and arrived about 1:30, just in time to participate in the cutter, sailing and swimming races which were held.

About half of the group were billeted out for the night to homes of the Kingston cadets while the remainder stayed at HMCS Cataraqui, the naval centre there.

Some of the cadets visited the famous Fort Henry, while others attended the launching of a new ship which was christened by Admiral Mainguy.

Cadet groups from Cornwall, Trenton, Belleville, Toronto, Kingston and Peterborough made up the participants of the regatta.

The group left Kingston at 4:00 p.m. and arrived home about 10:00 Sunday night.

DISCUSS RADIO CONTRACT

Employees and management of CHEX are meeting today in the Empress Hotel with a conciliation officer from the Canada Labor Relations Board. Fourteen employees of the radio station were certified as a bargaining unit in the National Association of Broadcast Engineers and Technicians (CIO-CCL). They are trying to work out a contract on wages, hours and working conditions.

Foresee Shortage Of Hydro As Campbellford Plant Barely Carrying Peak Loads

By BILL REID

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—The development of electric power in Campbellford has long been one of the problems confronting town officials, and the Public Utilities Commission. With the demand for power increasing steadily, officials of the PUC fear that before too long, the local powerhouse will no longer be able to keep up with the demand.

They are at present barely able to carry their peak loads, and manage to do this only through an arrangement of the H.E.P.C., who hold back water at the dams above the power house during off-peak hours, and release it during the peak periods. This of course, helps not only the H.E.P.C., but also the local power house.

Campbellford's first power was developed from a power unit located at what is now the Fire Hall, and pumping station for the town. This unit soon became inadequate, and the town built a larger plant at Crow Bay in the early 1900's.

This second power plant was a frame building, and the generator installed there was sufficient to supply the demand at the turn of the country. The equipment in this plant would be antique by today's standards.

THIRD PLANT BUILT

With the growth of the town, and the building of the Trent Canal, a third power plant was started in 1909. The project suffered many setbacks, but was finally completed in 1911, and put in operation. It is this plant that supplies power to the town at the present time. It is located about three miles northeast of the town.

The town purchased the land for the site of the present power plant from the Gilmore Lumber Company, who owned the land and controlled the water rights at that time. With the building of the canal, the government claimed that only a lumber company could hold water rights and told the town they would have to relinquish their rights at the site.

The town held out. The Department of Transport needed some land near the site on which to build a lock house for one of the dams on the canal. Finally the town and the government got together and in exchange for a piece of land on which the government erected a lock house, the town was given a perpetual lease of the water rights. This is still the arrangement, and the lease is renewed automatically every 25 years.

NO SETTLEMENT

The town of Campbellford has never received a settlement from the Dominion government for the water rights they lost through the building of the canal where it passed the first power plant located where the fire hall and the pumping station is now locatel. Water to this site was cut off with the building of the canal.

Some members of the commission have intimated that they intend to take some action relative to receiving a settlement from the government for the loss of these rights.

Settlement has since been made with two or three private individuals in the town, who owned and lost water rights with the building of the new waterway.

A working model of the first generator installed at the Crow Bay plant was built by the McGregor Electric Cycle and Machine Shop. This building still stands in the town, and is owned by town clerk J. F. McGregor.

The tiny model generator, built by hand and no more than a foot high, was placed in the pumping station and hooked up to the line shaft there. It developed sufficient power to light five electric light bulbs. The man who built the model was J. F. McGregor, who is at present the municipal clerk of the town, and who still operates his machine shop as a hobby but not commercially.

Mr. McGregor has a great deal of equipment in his shop, and during the war the government was able to secure a lathe from him for use in defence work.

Prior to the building of the Trent Canal, a flume was built on the west side of the river in the central section of the town. This flume carried water to generate power for the Campbellford Cloth Company plant. This plant was later granted free power up to a certain fixed load, in lieu of water rights. All other claims to water rights have since been absorbed by the HEPC. The flume is still in existence, and is now part of the canal retaining wall on the west side of the Trent River, passing under the bridge in the downtown section.

PROBLEMS MANY

The PUC of the town has a great many problems to work out, relative to the present power situation in the town. A number of suggestions have been made, but which of these will prove to be the most practical remains to be seen.

With the last election, a number of changes were made in the PUC and each member has his own views on the matter, and how they can best be remedied.

Commissioner R. J. A. McGregor, who was elected to the board for the first time last December, comes from a family long associated with electrical problems. He feels that a vertical type water wheel and a modern generator could increase the output at the present plant, using less water than the present horizontal type generator, which is driven by a double water wheel, with bucket style blades, and set up in a paddle wheel arrangement. This extra generator would not only provide increased generation, but would enable the present generators to be used as a stand-by source of power in case of emergency. Also, more power could be developed during the full water-flow period.

SEEKS INFORMATION

Mr. McGregor is at present endeavoring to obtain information from his cousin, John McGregor, who is chief engineer in charge of the Greenwich plant, supplying power to the city of London, England. He is investigating the merits of steam turbine power generation, but believes it would not be practical in Campbellford because of the cost of operation.

Mr. McGregor has also been in touch with Charles U. Peeling, a retired engineer who supervised the construction of the present power plant. Mr. Peeling knows all about the present power house—believes it could be made to operate more efficiently. He has offered to come to Campbellford from his home in Pennsylvania for merely his out of pocket expenses, to meet with local officials to advise them on the best plan for settling the whole question.

A. J. Meyers, chairman of the P.U.C., told The Examiner that: "We have reached the position where we have to get more power, but the big question is—from what source." He said the matter is at present being investigated, but that the board has not yet made up its mind as to what course it will follow.

SHORT OF POWER

A. C. Newman, who was elected to the board last December, said in an interview that "The power demands at low water are such that we are short about 400 K.W." He went on to say that "The HEPC of Ontario have offered to supply power at $40 per K.W. under cer-

New Building Better, Board Feels

Sale Of Old Hospital Might Yield Enough For Addition

The problem in civic property resident at the vacant Queen Mary Hospital building, formerly used for the isolation of communicable diseases, presented no advance to solution in two reports received by the board of works Monday night.

Together, they emphasized the discouraging fact that nobody wants it.

A memorandum from City Clerk Gutram informed the board that advertisements for sale of the building and its two acres, placed in Toronto and Peterborough newspapers, brought no response or other enquiry.

A lengthy report from the property committee of the Board of Governors of Civic Hospital affirmed, as recently reported, that use of the Queen Mary Hospital for chronic patients was impractical.

Members of the council were given copies of this report to take home and study, preparatory to further consideration.

Ald. T. D. Miller, a representative of the council on the Board of Governors, conveyed their conclusion that the cost of restoring Queen Mary Hospital to the proposed use for chronic patients would be more economically invested in a new addition to Peterborough Civic Hospital.

WOULD COST $23,700

Capital cost of placing the building in operation is estimated, roughly, at $23,700.

Details of expenditure are: ordinary repairs, roofing, painting, wiring as submitted by T. C. Ephgrave "at say $8,000 to $10,000, say $9,000; Cost of elevator, estimate $7,000; Cost of furnishing $7,700."

"The above estimates are approximate and are not based on definite quotation."

Ald. Norman Graham suggested that other items of expenditure would probably be involved in the heating and plumbing systems.

The Board of Governors' report estimates the annual cost of staffing the building at $35,800.

That amount relates only to the nursing staff, set out as follows: three graduate nurses $7,644; four general duty nurses $9,360. Six nursing assistants $11,700; and three nursing orderlies $7,176.

In addition the following day staff would be required: one cook $2,886; two maids $3,588; one janitor $2,730, making the total cost of staff $45,084 a year.

COULD HOLD 22

The following is quoted from the preface of the report: "In examining the former Queen Mary Hospital your staff are of the opinion that the maximum accommodation that could be provided in this building would be 22 patients. Twelve beds could be placed on the first floor and ten on the second. Only one common room could be provided on the second floor. No accommodation could be provided for staff living quarters.

"This is the maximum number of patients that should be cared for in this building, and in this plan the care of chronic patients would not be ideal. No space would be provided on the lower floor for up-patient activity. Staff dining facilities would be confined to the basement.

"It is the opinion of your director of nursing and your superintendent that to operate this hospital as a chronic hospital an

Strike End Near?

An indication that the strike of production workers at the Quaker Oats Co. plant may be nearing a settlement was given today when it was rumored that the company had ordered railway box cars to be moved to the plant Wednesday morning. Meanwhile there was no official word on the progress of negotiations between union and management representatives under a Department of Labor conciliation officer in Toronto.

Horton's Ability Gives Life To Boudoir Farce

The Summer Theatre's fifth season opened with Andre Roussin's farce "Nina", which was warmly received by a capacity audience in the P.C.V.S. auditorium. The star of the production was Edward Everett Horton, whose capabilities in farce have made him one of the best-known and best-loved actors on this continent.

It must be said at once that Mr. Horton's abilities were needed to keeping "Nina" from dying of anaemia. When we found that the cast was the familiar one of the Wife, the Husband, and the Lover, and that the setting was the Lover's bachelor apartment in Paris, we cried, "Lord, can these dry bones live?" Certainly it was touch-and-go two or three times during the evening, but Mr. Horton pulled the play out of the doldrums.

Briefly, "Nina" is about a woman who bears a very faint resemblance to Shaw's Candida: men need her. Her husband needs her, because she mothers him. She needs her Lover, because her husband is, in her own phrase, a tourist rather than a native in the land of romance. When the play ends, it appears that she will be able to keep them both, for an eternity of mothering, romance, and endless comic dialogue.

BETTER IN FRENCH

It seems very probable that "Nina" was better in French It is a bubble, to be enjoyed for its lightness, delicacy of shading, and charm; in English it is a little heavy. French farce and French recipes do not always survive travel with all their original flavour.

Mr. Horton, however, is a delight. There is no technical trick which he does not have at his finger's ends, no device for getting or prolonging a laugh of which he is not a master. But it is not his technique which makes him a fascinating and inexhaustibly humorous player; it is his personality. It was said of one of the 18th century actors Doggett, that "he wore a farce in his face" the same thing could be said with perfect justice of Edward Everett Horton. It is not that he pulls faces; that is what clowns do. It is rather that his face is the perfect mirror of what is passing through his endlessly inventive and comic mind. He breathes the air of farce. He could convulse us by

Truck Door Opens, Man Injured

Condition "Serious" After Mishap North Of Maynooth

Crawford Hall, 42, of Millbrook, suffered a fractured skull Monday afternoon when he fell from a truck on Highway 62 at Combermere.

After treatment in the Bancroft Red Cross hospital, Hall was rushed to Civic Hospital here where his condition was described today as "serious."

Combermere is 110 miles northeast of here.

Hall was a passenger in a truck driven by Kenneth Sherwood of Port Hope when the accident occurred. The pair were proceeding to Killaloe.

FELL OUT ON CURVE

The truck was rounding a curve when Hall grabbed for the window handle for support. He caught the door handle instead and the door opened, throwing the man out of the vehicle onto the road.

After treatment by Dr. S. S. Lumb in Bancroft, the injured man was brought to Peterborough last night with the head injury and facial cuts. He was unconscious during the trip.

Provincial police at Killaloe are investigating the mishap.

Hall is a time keeper with the Macfarlane Construction Co. crew working on the cutoff from Highway 35 to Highway 28.

Fall From Hay Wagon Breaks Farmer's Hip

OMEMEE (ENS)—Alex Lang, 85, of RR 4, Omemee, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Peterborough Monday after he fell from a hay wagon, breaking his hip. Mr. Lang was reported in "fairly good" condition today.

The accident happened on the farm of his son, Harold. The elderly man was helping his son with a load of hay, driving a team of horses.

He slipped and fell from the load, receiving the injury. Mr. Lang was treated by Dr. William Earl and taken to Peterborough by ambulance.

WHAT DO YOU DO with a wronged husband who is also an invalid? Marta Linden and Gordon Mills, as wife and lover, give the only possible treatment to the husband, Edward Everett Horton, in the hilarious French farce "Nina", with which the Summer Theatre opened its season Monday night. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Boy 6, Given Starring Role In Big Parade

QUEBEC (CP) — Six-year-old Gaetan Ouellet appears in a starring role here Wednesday—as St. Jean Baptiste in the annual parade honoring the patron saint of French-speaking Canada.

The child's mother, Mrs. Leopold Ouellet, said today she has let the boy's light-brown hair grow freely for the last two years to make him appear more like St. Jean Baptiste (St. John the Baptist). It is now 15 inches long.

Gaetan, who will be dressed in a white robe for the parade, is the youngest of six children in the Ouellet family who live in middle-class Limoilou district. His father is a munitions worker.

Mrs. Ouellet said Gaetan's playmates do not poke fun at him although they have nicknamed him "petit Baptiste."

LAST IN PARADE

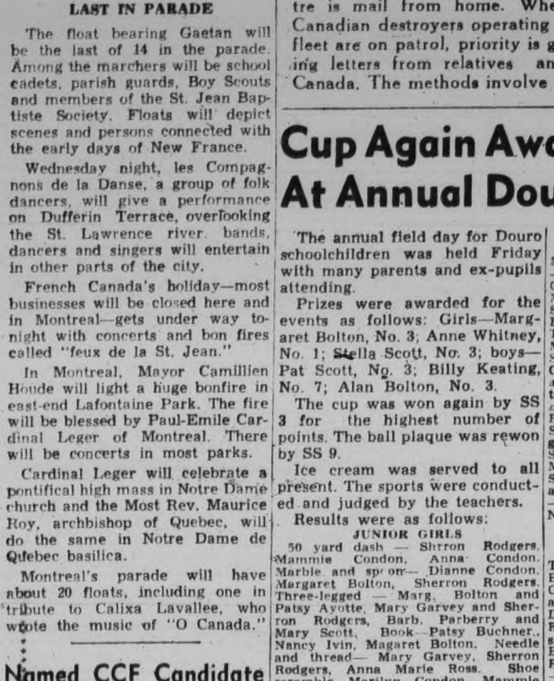
The float bearing Gaetan will be the last of 14 in the parade. Among the marchers will be school cadets, parish guards, Boy Scouts and members of the St. Jean Baptiste Society. Floats will depict scenes and persons connected with the early days of New France.

Wednesday night, les Compagnons de la Danse, a group of folk dancers, will give a performance on Dufferin Terrace, overlooking the St. Lawrence river. bands, dancers and singers will entertain in other parts of the city.

French Canada's holiday—most businesses will be closed here and in Montreal—gets under way tonight with concerts and bon fires called "feux de la St. Jean."

In Montreal, Mayor Camillien Houde will light a huge bonfire in east-end Lafontaine Park. The fire will be blessed by Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal. There will be concerts in most parks.

Cardinal Leger will celebrate a pontifical high mass in Notre Dame church and the Most Rev. Maurice Roy, archbishop of Quebec, will do the same in Notre Dame de Quebec basilica.



Montreal's parade will have about 20 floats, including one in tribute to Calixa Lavallee, who wrote the music of "O Canada."

NEWFOUNDLAND CAMPAIGN—John W. Pickersgill, recently-appointed secretary of state, wears a sou'wester and oilskins aboard the coastal steamer S. S. Glencoe during his federal election campaigning in Newfoundland. The Glencoe was Mr. Pickersgill's temporary headquarters while visiting coastal towns and villages. He is contesting the Newfoundland riding of Bonavista-Twillingate held in the last Parliament by the former state secretary, Hon. F. Gordon Bradley, recently appointed to the Senate.

LETTERS FROM HOME — The most precious commodity in the Korean war theatre is mail from home. When the three Canadian destroyers operating with the UN fleet are on patrol, priority is given to routing letters from relatives and friends in Canada. The methods involve their passage in several ships and by air when possible. At left, the mail officer on HMCS Haida has plenty of volunteers to receive a letter bag from a hovering, carrier-borne helicopter. At right, the Haida transfers more mail by jack-stay to her sister destroyer, HMCS Athabaskan.

German Town Sends Message

LUNENBURG, N.S. (CP)—People here have long felt a close kinship with the people of Lueneburg, Germany, from whence settlers came 200 years ago to found this fishing community.

The link was made stronger recently with the receipt of a letter from the mayor of Lueneburg congratulating Lunenburg on attaining its bicentennial.

The letter, addressed to Mayor F. Homer Zwicker, was accompanied by a book on the history of Lueneburg city hall, of which there are only a few copies in existence.

The letter from Germany said:

"Walking through our beautiful old city hall we find many rooms maintained as our ancestors built and furnished them, and as they could be seen by the founders of your town before they took their leave 200 years ago.

SIMILAR NAMES

"Quite a list of the surnames of your citizens are still to be found among the inhabitants of our city and the surrounding Lueneburg area. . . Even today in your town the customs and manners recall that many of your citizens originate from our city.

Have Agreement On Plans For TV Network

OTTAWA (CP)—The CBC and representatives of nine private television stations reached tentative agreement Monday on plans for developing a national TV network with both private and public stations serving as links.

A CBC spokesman said that while the meeting was mostly exploratory, tentative agreement on the principles of developing such a system was reached. Discussion on technical problems involved are to be discussed today.

At the meeting were spokesmen for private TV stations planning to open operations in Windsor, London Hamilton and Sudbury, in Ontario; Quebec City and Rimouski, Que.; Regina; Saint John, N.B.; and Sydney, N.S.

OFFICIALS ATTEND

E. L. Bushnell, CBC assistant general manager, presided at the conference. Other CBC officials attending were A. D. Dunton, chairman of the board of governors, and J. A. Ouimet, CBC general manager.

The CBC currently operates a regional TV network, linking Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa.

In a statement following Monday's meeting, the publicly-owned CBC said the Montreal-Ottawa-Toronto network will be extended later this year to some of these private stations through the use of kinescope—TV film — recordings and directly through additional microwave circuits as they become available.

Up to 15% More Power From Your Car!

Everybody is irritated by a sluggish engine. To overcome the power-wasting, fuel-wasting condition so many of us complain of, a gasoline additive called TCP has been discovered and developed by Shell Research.

Blended into Shell Premium Gasoline, TCP prevents deposits on spark plugs and in combustion chambers from causing misfiring of the spark plugs and pre-ignition of the fuel mixture.

For the average motorist this means a power boost of up to 15% . . . and increase in spark plug life up to 150% . . . plus an increase in miles per gallon. These facts have been established by over a million miles of standard model road testing.

Enjoy new car pep again . . . get Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP.

Children's Section Plans Reading Club

The children's section of the Public Library are planning a Coronation Reading Club for the summer to keep youngsters interested in reading.

The reading club opens Wednesday and will continue to September 4. Each child will be given a crown and for each book read will be presented with a star to add to their crown.

The girl or boy who reads the most books throughout the summer will be crowned king or queen and will be presented with a model crown, complete with ermine and velvet at a Coronation party to be held at the end of the summer.

LAKE BOATS COLLIDE — One man was drowned, a grain-carrying freighter sunk and the bow of the package freighter Burlington smashed when the two Great Lakes boats collided in heavy fog on Lake Superior, 20 miles from Port Arthur, Ont. The Paterson Steamship Lines' Scotiadoc was rammed amidships by the Canada Steamship Lakes' Burlington in the fog after both ships sought shelter along the north shore of Lake Superior from heavy seas resulting from a storm during the day. The Burlington rescued 29 crew members from the Scotiadoc and limped to Fort William.

City Radio Hams Hold Field Day

An amateur radio field day was held Sunday at a spot on the River Road near lock 23. Purpose of the meet was to test portable equipment and to determine the number and distance of stations that could be picked up. Some 75 stations were operated by radio telephone and 85 on international Morse code. Power was supplied by gasoline driven generators.

The meet actually began at 5 p.m. Saturday and ran through until 5 Sunday evening. Stations as far away as Halifax were contacted as well as many in upper New York, Pennsylvania, and Washington states. All in all there were about 10,000 stations participating in this annual event. In the Peterborough group the following members attended: George Wong, Bill Farrs, Stan Webber, Oliver Braley, John Hones, George Gould, Ken King, Bill Brown, Bill Davis and Joe Brown.

Amateur radio is not only an interesting hobby but one that is very beneficial during times of emergency and disaster when other means of communication such as telephone or telegraph may be out of order or completely swamped by people desiring news. In disasters such as the Waco explosion or the Flint tornado 'ham' operators worked ceaselessly for periods of three and four days contacting anxious relations and informing them as to the conditions of their loved ones.

WITH BOW AND ARROW—Paul Provencher, chief forester for a Quebec paper company, carries one of the bears he shot with a bow and arrow near Baie Comeau, Que. Provencher, author of "I Live In the Woods," and an instructor of survival in the bush for the armed services during the Second World War, has a special permit from the Quebec government to kill bears with bow and arrow if they are robbing provisions. Use of firearms in logging operations is forbidden.

Training Plane Crashes RCAF Pilot Injured

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A Harvar training plane from RCAF station, Centralia, crashed Monday east of St. Josephs, a Huron county village about 30 miles northwest of here, critically injuring the pilot.

RCAF officials said the pilot was FO. Cyril James Dunbar, 23, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Dunbar of Ohio, Antigonish county, N.S.

The flier was brought to Westminster (Veterans) Hospital here, with undetermined injuries.

"Operation Squirrel"

WE KNEW ALUMINUM was used for artificial limbs, crutches and other aids to the fractured human frame. Now word comes from England suggesting still wider horizons for this versatile modern metal. Seems an animal lover of Twickenham found a squirrel with a broken leg and fixed it up with a pair of wooden splints. These his furry patient immediately ate. So he made two more, this time of aluminum. No more trouble.

It's just one more example of the seemingly limitless uses of aluminum. And it helps explain why Alcan is increasing its aluminum-making capacity in Quebec, and building a new smelter in British Columbia. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Possibility Of Big Boom Lies In Potential World Demand

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

"The world is the only true economic unit."

This quotation is from Rolf von Heidenstam, Swedish industrialist and immediate past president of the International Chamber of Commerce, which met recently in Vienna.

It embodies, in its somewhat technical wording, a dream of a world in which all peoples, in co-operation with one another, may enjoy a better way of life.

It envisages a world which has given up throat-cutting for the more rewarding exchange of goods. It envisages, in fact, a "boom" such as the world has never known.

It might seem the stuff of dreams if limited areas of the world had not already demonstrated that it is possible.

OUTSTANDING EXAMPLE

The outstanding example of the accomplishment of an approach to the ideal is the United States which, blessed with a hunk of the earth's surface which was nearly self-supporting, and with no trade barriers within its own limits, has developed a standard of living which would be, indeed, the stuff of dreams in any other age.

What the United States accomplished within relatively few years, and what Canada now is developing, is a "laboratory" sample of what could be accomplished for the world as a whole.

The dream, in part or in whole, does not come from the imaginings of impractical theorists.

It comes from the hardest thinking of present-day business men who, more and more, see that the larger business opportunities come, not from exploitation of this or that local situation, but from broad international exchange of goods, and from putting purchasing power into the hands of the greatest possible number of people.

OPPORTUNITIES AMAZE

These business men, as demonstrated at national and international gatherings, see, in the North American laboratory, what happens when purchasing power is spread out among masses of people.

They gasp as they glimpse the opportunities which would result if the level of purchasing power in all the world could be raised, even modestly. They gasp still more when they see that the peoples of the world will not be content unless their purchasing power, which means their standard of living, is raised.

International business men are afraid that this or that restriction will throttle the advance into the world's most at hand, and, accordingly, they plead for more international co-operation.

But, essentially, the belief among the men who have to go out and do the day-to-day buying and selling, is that, somehow, they will find a way to do it; that they are living in a world which won't settle for anything else than a better way of life.

Honor Cavan Couple On 25th Anniversary

Myrna Seymour of Springville and Everett-Poast of Peterborough on behalf of the gathering, made the presentation of a trilight lamp and electric kettle, while tiny accompanying autographed card and Duncan Seymour of Cobourg expressed the good wishes of the gathering. Accordion and violin music was provided by Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Seymour of Cobourg. Joy Seymour and Hazel McIntosh gave a humorous reading. George Bedford conducted a stunt.

Delicious refreshments were served from a decorated table, complete with lace cloth and streamers and centred with a lovely three-storey cake, the gift of their daughters, Misses Wilma and Myrtle Seymour of Peterborough. Mrs. Austin Poast poured tea.

Message For Malenkov

DURHAM, England (AP)—Leaders of 100,000 Durham coal miners cabled Russia's Prime Minister Malenkov Monday night that Russian tanks and guns "will not quench the flame of freedom" in East Germany. A similar message was sent to Soviet Ambassador Jakob Malik in London. Both notes protested against Soviet measures to suppress the East German revolt which flared June 17.

Remanded One Week

CORNWALL (CP)—Eleven men, allegedly involved in thefts of more than $1,000,000 worth of goods from textile mills here, Monday were remanded to June 29 when they appeared in court before magistrate P. C. Bergeron. Ten are charged with theft and with receiving stolen goods. The other is charged with receiving. The men were remanded without plea.

Professor 23 Years

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. William L. Holman, 74, professor of bacteriology who taught a generation of University of Toronto medical students during 23 years, died in hospital Monday. Born in Summerside, P.E.I., he was well known in the medical profession for his contributions to bacteriological research.

Pays $5,000 For Flight

LISBON (Reuters) — Calouste Gulbenkian, 84-year-old oil king, paid more than $5,000 to charter a Comet jet airliner to take him from Lisbon to Paris Monday for a two-month rest. Gulbenkian is one of the richest men in the world with an estimated fortune of more than $1,000,000,000. Normal fare for the Lisbon-Paris flight is $84.

Daring Holdup

NEW YORK (AP)—A youthful gunman Monday staged a bold, $1,900 holdup of a bank just across the street from Macy's department store. With the streets thronging with shoppers the young robber held up a branch of the Century Federal Savings and Loan Association, and escaped. Guards stood about unaware of the holdup.

Wants Teachers To Bring God Back Into Classroom

BIGWIN INN (CP)—Joseph Connell, secretary of the Kitchener YMCA, said Monday that many school boards have become overzealous in their attempts to keep schools non-denominational.

They have created places where the name of God is mentioned with hesitation, he told the 34th annual convention of the Urban and Rural Trustees Association.

"I'm sure it was never the intention of the persons who created the framework within which our schools operate to have a situation like this," he said.

"God has been kicked out of the schools' back doors. Some boards are so anxious to be fair that they're unfair."

He urged trustees to encourage teachers to bring God back into the classroom.

WORRY OVER COSTS

Mr. Connell also criticized what he termed the uproar over education costs. He said he refuses to worry about any outcry over costs as long as the money spent on alcohol and tobacco equals that spent on education.

The convention warned that as a result of the education department's policy under Education Minister Dunlop, necessary education facilities and programs will have to be curtailed drastically or an intolerable load will be placed on local taxpayers.

Trustees criticized the reduction of provincial grants and asked the province for more aid. They also said they disapprove of the department's apparent policy of progressively shifting education costs to the municipalities.

The association passed two other resolutions. It adopted an East York proposal to protest the recent department ruling which makes it easier for a teacher to get a permanent first class certificate. A suggestion from the Toronto board that the federal government should lift the sales tax on all school supplies was adopted without discussion.

EXPENSIVE BUSINESS

A. B. Lucas, assistant superintendent of education at London, Ont., said Ontario residents must be told that the new schools and teachers which will be needed during the next 12 years will cost a great deal of money. A sincere program was necessary to . . . the story across to the taxpayers.

There will be 155,000 new students during the next three years, he said, calling for 4,400 new classrooms and new eachers. Mr Lucas added: "I won't burden you with figures. They are so formidable they could cause panic if one were easily excited."

He said it is a fallacy to think that there is no additional money for education. "It should have priority over everything else but defence."

DOROTHY DIX:

Young Lady Has Fine Job Shy Businessman Is Wary

DEAR MISS DIX: Although I'm 28, everyone assures me I look five years younger. I have a fine job—which involves my problem. For two years I have been greatly attracted to a man who works in the same building, though not for the same firm. It was love at first sight as far as I was concerned, but unfortunately, Cupid didn't hit him, too. He speaks to me, but very casually. I know he isn't married, is a few years older than I am, and has a prosperous business. Foolishly, perhaps, I have written to him—not love letters—but received no reply. I have sent him Christmas and Easter cards, but received none in return. How can I get a date with this man?

RHODA F.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You certainly don't give up easily, do you? For encouragement, I can tell you I've known happy marriages to follow even worse difficulties than you are experiencing, so there's still a chance for you. Can't you dig up some mutual friend or business acquaintance who would be sufficiently accommodating as to have a small party, to give you ample opportunity to further your cause?

At the moment, the man certainly doesn't seem too interested, and your best course really would be to stop wasting time on him and turn to greener pastures. However, if you are set on doing things the hard way, persist in your friendly, personal greetings, but do omit the cards and letters. No use being too obvious about the whole thing. Since both his firm and yours are engaged in you find an excuse to ask his the same type of business, could opinion on some knotty problem? This isn't exactly a subtle approach, but at least it's less devastating than a bombardment of mail.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My boy friend has already said he loved me, though we have been going together only a month. I love him, too, but don't know whether to believe him or not. I'm 16 and he's 19.

BOBBIE M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: A month is scarcely time enough for love to be assured; the boy is probably sincere in his own judgment, which simply isn't mature enough to warrant your full trust. Why not continue the friendship, and wait for love to be more certain?

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been going steady with my girl friend for six months. We are both 16. On her last report card, the marks were so low that her father will not let her see me for the next month. I have taken her out without her parents' permission. Don't you think we are right?

O.L.

ANSWER: Your reasoning is altogether wrong. Since the young lady had her mind on you instead of her studies, something must be done to bring her back to earth. Her father's restrictions are perfectly in order, and if she expects to be accorded dating privileges again, she'll study hard to pass her conditional test. At 16 schoolwork is more important than dating—though it certainly is difficult to make young people realize it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My wife is 18, and I'm a year older. She's giving me a lot of trouble by trying to stop me from seeing my mother and not letting me play hockey with the boys I have played with for years. If one of my family calls on the phone, she flies into a rage. I'm like a dog on a leash and getting tired of it.

M.B.

ANSWER: You have acquired a wife who is still filled with the childish conception of possession. She simply refuses to share any of her belongings, and you are her prize property. Your marriage won't last unless drastic steps are taken at once. Your best course is to get your wife to a marriage counselor, who can, through personal interviews, unravel the tangle of your life, and set you both straight. In the meantime, stop giving in to your little virago and let her rage until she's convinced there'll be no more "giving in.'

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Sit Down, Laugh In The Middle Of A Muddle

The writer of the letter which follows has given us three tested recipes and some sterling samples of her philosphy. She is an experienced cook as you can plainly see, and one of the lovable folk who give full measure heaped up and running over.

"Dear Mary: When things in general get so thick you hardly know which way to turn, do you ever sit down and laugh? Sometimes I wonder if I'm the only one who ever gets into muddles. I think I'm not.

"My youngest son, wife and adorable baby have moved into part of my house—thank goodness I can make an apartment out of it—as no one seems to want these cherubs of one year old, unless it is the grandma. I've had to put seven rooms of furniture into five rooms for the time being. I have found it quite a struggle, but it has been worth all the effort, especially when I hear that sweet little voice call "Nanna" and he comes peeking around the corner to find me. "I feel so near a kin to you that I think I adore Maryanne and Peter much as I do my own, and your column and its witticisms, as well as wonderful recipes, is just one good part of happy daily living around my home.

"Since the warm weather will soon be with us to stay we hope if the "little white cloud will stop crying" I have a recipe I would like to share. It is an especially tasty, easy dessert and can get made ahead of time. When I was at the cottage I would make enough to fill two pies, then if necessary use it all. If not, I could keep half for another day as the Graham Cracker crusts will keep too. At a cottage one never knows if there will be 6, 12 or even more to share the food and the fun. I miss our cabin and wish we had it now.

CHERRYLICIOUS CRUMB PIE

(Contributed by Florence)

Two cups grahamcracker crumbs—(16 or 20 crackers), 1-3 cup sugar, ½ cup melted butter. Mix these well and set aside ½ cup crumbs to use later for topping. Line a deep pie plate with remainder. Pat in with back of tablespoon. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 10 to 12 minutes.

Filling: Two cup sweetened cherries and juice. Drain juice from cherries bring to boiling and stir in a paste made of 4 level tablespoons cornstarch mixed with ¼ cup cold water. Stir until thick and cook until transparent. (I think Florence would do this last cooking in covered double boiler, stirring occasionally.) Add drained and pitted cherries, and ½ teaspoon almond flavoring and set aside to get very cold. Put cold filling in pie shell, cover with whipped cream, sprinkle crumbs on top.

P. S. This is good in ordinary pie crust too.

"This recipe for Peanut Loaf is tasty too.

PEANUT LOAF

(Contributed by Florence)

One - half cup salted peanuts ground (skins too), ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon sage, 2 cups (or more) cornflakes, 1 unbeaten egg, 1 large onion. Fry chopped onion in large piece of butter till golden brown. Add all the rest and then 2 cups milk. It will be a bit sloppy but turns out o.k. Good hot or cold. I bake it in a casserole ¾ hr. at 350 deg. (Florence adds "or ½ box cornflakes"—so since there is quite a difference between 2 cups and ½ box you will have to compromise and try both ways.)

TOMATO PIE

(Contributed by Florence)

Good with the above. Cook 1 med. onion chopped with 2 tablespoons green pepper. Add 1 can tomatoes, 1 teaspoon sugar and salt to taste, and cover with rich cheese biscuit topping. Put this in oven at 400 deg. Fahr. for a few minutes then turn heat to 350 deg. before putting in Peanut Loaf.

"A good dessert with these is Lemon Angel Pudding—baked at same time. "Put into Casserole 1 cup gran. sugar, ½ cup flour, stir well and add juice of 1 lemon, stir well again and add 2 egg yolks, they will mix in. Mix well, Add dash of salt and gradually stir in 1½ cups milk. Beat egg whites very stiff and fold into above. Mix well. Set casserole in pan ½ full of water and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. fo r¾ hour or a little better.

"Well, dear me, the clock says dinner time again and I smell the chops covered with mushroom sauce abaking, so must go. Keep up the good work and please stay with us forever. Love. . . Florence"

ANSWER: Nothing could wipe the mile-wide grin off my face after reading this and I'm drooling for a taste of those chops! Thanks Florence.
